Goldfinch Ailing (W. J. Delves).—It is a bad sign when a bird begins to go thin, and I doubt if there is much hope for your bird. Give him a little of the mixtures you mention, and, in addition, plenty of good hemp and sunflower seed that has been cracked (crack it fresh daily). Also give a teaspoonful of fresh thistle seed (this season's) every day, and a half a teaspoonful of niger seed every other day. Give him thistle-heads, if you can procure them, especially those with tiny maggots at the centre (break the heads open). These maggots are plentiful in thistle-heads which are decaying (rotting through damp, etc.). For medicine, get from a chemist one ounce of compound syrup of hypophosphates B.P. (Fellows syrup), and stir a half-teaspoonful into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Give this fresh daily for four days, then on alternate days over a period of a fortnight.

In An Aviary (Aviculturist).—A pair of Bullfinches would do no appreciable harm to the shrubs in such an extensive aviary as the one you describe; turn them out, by all means. Besides, many of the shrubs are evergreens, and these will not be touched. I consider the Bullfinch is one of the most charming aviary birds one can possibly desire. A pair of Siskins, too, make very nice inmates, I will admit. Neither Bullies nor Siskins would harm your small foreign birds. Both couples would be almost certain to have a try at "house-keeping." With regard to the suggested exchange, I must leave you to follow your own inclinations.

A Skylark's Cage (Salopian).—I had a friend faced with the same trouble (the scattering of the sand in the living room). He got over it by having a cage made after the style of the familiar Lark "runner" cage, but longer, and with the floor at one end (starting exactly in the middle) sunk some two inches or more lower than the other end. This gave him a kind of deep well, and in this he put the sand for the bird's sand-bath. This half of the cage was also further protected with lengths of glass along the front, after the fashion of the average drawing-room cage for a Canary. At the other end (the raised one) he placed the bird's turf. This arrangement answered splendidly, he said.

Hen Mules for Breeding (Interested, Salford).—Hen Goldfinch and Linnet Mules will incubate eggs and rear young birds in the same manner as a hen Canary, but they do not lay fertile eggs, consequently need to have the fertile eggs of other birds put under them. I have personally tried hen Mules, and when they have gone to nest have found them turn out good mothers. Of course, it is not impossible that here and there a hen Mule may live which will lay fertile eggs of her own, but such hens are sure to be very few and far between. I have in my possession at the present moment a bird said to have been bred between a cock Goldfinch and a hen Goldfinch Mule. And, in my opinion, the appearance of the bird fully bears out this statement as to its parentage—i.e., that it is three-quarters Goldfinch, and one-quarter Canary. I shall hope to give interested Mule breeders a chance of seeing this bird during the coming season.

A Thrush Problem (Perplexed, Tottenham).—There is no such bird as the "Brook" Thrush. That is only a "fancy" name (like "Pear-tree" Goldfinch), and is supposed to indicate some special virtue in the particular bird to which it is applied. Whether the said special virtue is really existent, I must leave you to decide for yourself. Personally, I am getting old and cynical. The Song Thrush (Turdus musicus) is the finest songster. It is this bird which is indicated when one speaks of "the Thrush." The only safe sex guide is the song.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 2, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

"Septic."—Your synonym is very applicable. Canary died of septic fever, and you are almost certain to lose your remaining Canaries. I should advise you to disinfect at once, and if you possess any other birds in addition to these Canaries, as I believe you do, then the safest course is to destroy the surviving Canaries, and limit further risks. You can draw your own conclusions re vendor.

Blue Pigeon.—Existing liver disease of some standing, causing mal-assimilation and consequently malnutrition. Enteritis was the exciting cause of death, consequent upon disorganisation of the liver tissue. About 3 years.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Meeting held Oct. 2. There was a good number of members present. Mr. T. Hawley presided. Messrs. J. Lakin and A. Kinson were elected members. A lot of business in connection with the open show was transacted. Decided, that the open novice classes be subject to a limit price of £5. Secretary announced that the Midland Counties Yorks. C.C. had granted them their patronage for the open section, and as we shall be able to offer a number of valuable special prizes, we quite anticipate receiving the liberal support of exhibitors.—J. Pitchford, Sec.

LEIGH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

We had a good attendance at our meeting on September 27, at the Railway Hotel, when the secretary read a paper on his experience in the breeding and management of Canaries. We had plenty of discussion on various questions. After the discussion we decided to have a washing competition on October 11th for all members. We accepted a special from Mr. Taylor for the occasion. I hope all members will rally up. We concluded our meeting by a vote of thanks to the secretary.—R. Charleson, Sec.

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Meeting held September 28, Spencer Hall. Mr. Dann took the chair in the absence of Mr. Gardner. Mr. Oldaker very kindly opened a discussion on seeds. He said he thought the members ought to take more interest in the seed question than what they did, as naturally this was one of the most important factors in successful bird keeping. He said he believed in crushed hemp when crushed by oneself, but not in bought crushed hemp. If rape seed were kept over two years it was likely to go rancid. He had often heard that rape and hemp caused fatness, but his idea was that it was the starch in Canary seed that caused the birds to get over fat. He believed that hemp seed given during colour-feeding was calculated to improve the colour. Several members gave their experiences, and asked Mr. Oldaker questions, namely, Messrs. Dann, Clark, Johnson, W. Knight, W. Shakespeare, Wakefield, P. Duke, and others. The chairman reminded members that the annual show was near at hand November 10 and 11, when Mr. Gardner would judge. He hoped those members who had not paid their subscriptions would do so. He also read out a list of specials promised, and hoped members would come forward as in the past and make this show a success. Mr. G. Trafford (Kentish Town Road) was elected. Votes of thanks to Mr. Oldaker and Mr. Dann closed the meeting. The question of joining "Cage Birds League" is coming up at next meeting.—C. W. Law.

Singing Contests.

NEWTOWN (Leeds).

Contest held Oct. 1, at Prince Albert Inn, where 10 picked birds sang for quality singing. Some very good singing was heard, and the decision satisfied all. Judges, Messrs. E. Wood and C. Lorriman. First and second divided between A. Binns and J. Chippendale; 3rd, W. Farrar.—E. Wood, Hon. Sec.

SALFORD.

Contest held Boat House Hotel, September 30, when 20 birds entered. Winners for quality: 1, R. Statham; 2, J. Hilton; for time: 1, Tom Statham. Judges, Messrs. J. W. Jones, T. Statham; timekeepers, Messrs. W. Wood, J. Woodward, and W. Cain; birdkeeper, Mr. A. Marshall. After the contest 30 members of the Globe Inn Club, Leigh, sat down to do justice to a substantial dinner, arranged by the secretary, Mr. J. McAllister. The hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Cootes, deserve great praise for the way in which they studied the wants of the fanciers. A very enjoyable evening of songs by members and others was spent, the party returning by waggonette. More of these can be arranged at the headquarters of other clubs, if the secretaries will only meet to decide them. If Wigan, Warrington, and Tyldesley Clubs will only notify the Leigh secretary their decision re his letter in Cage Birds a few weeks ago, a meeting could be held for this purpose. Club members are requested to attend next meeting at headquarters to decide future dates for coming season, Oct. 8, 7.30.—B. Wharton, Sec.

LEEDS.

Contest for quality Linnets held Old Bird House, Kings Head, Shannon Street, on October 1st, when twenty of the best birds in Leeds sang. Some very good singing was heard to the enjoyment of a crowded house of visitors from all parts of Yorkshire. 1st Wigfield, 2nd Lunn, 3rd Stead. Judges, Messrs. Walt. Naylor and A. Jennings.—T. C. Summers, Hon. Sec.

Quality Linnet singing contest, Sept. 30. We had visitors from Castleford, Pontefract, and Sheffield, when 24 of the best birds in Yorkshire competed. 1, 2, shared by Sissons and Wigfield; 3, Laycock; 4, Wigfield Judges, Messrs. Grainger and Madden. Also Oct. 1, when 32 birds sang. 1, Sissons; 2, 3, shared by Laycock and Pease; 4, Laycock. The singing of the winner was extraordinary, the owner having several offers for the bird. Judges, Messrs. Grainger, Green, and Biss. We wish Linnet fanciers to know that on last Saturday in October we are having a big contest, when our worthy host is adding copper kettle to prize money.—C. Clayton.

A Beak Which "Shells."

Sir,—A friend of mine has a Linnet with a beak which keeps on "shelling." The beak grows very quickly, and he has to keep cutting it, as it gets very pointed, and then crosses. I should like to know if any of your readers has ever had a bird with a beak like this?

A Recipe Wanted for Mahogany Stain.

Sir,—I shall be glad indeed if a fellow-fancier will give me a recipe for a cheap but durable mahogany stain for doing up my cages. I am a young fancier, and I like to do as much for my birds myself as I can.

A Threatened Revolt in Scotch Fancy Circles.

Sir,—In reply to "A Fancier," does he mean that all fanciers should exchange birds with each other, or let him have birds at his own price? I am afraid if he cannot breed birds from his own matching to reach the upper ten (or circle) he will have to pay his initiation fee. For example, see report of the Glasgow Derby in last issue of Cage Birds. I am in the lower circle. What will "A Fancier" do for me, so that I may reach the middle circle? I have a few birds which will not assist me, I am afraid, on the march upwards, but I still hope to persevere and reach the upper circle.

J. Cherry.

Have we a New Variety of the Canary?

A Suggestion to Encourage the "All Whites."

Sir,—During the past few months I have noticed in your valuable paper several letters from correspondents stating that they had been successful in breeding perfectly white Canaries. If this be so, and providing they have been brought successfully through the moult, there must be a sufficiently large number about to warrant a class being provided for them at one of the large shows. I think most of your readers will agree with me that this variety of Canary should be encouraged in every possible way, in order to induce the lucky owners of them to endeavour to perpetuate the variety. With this object in view, and in reference to Mr. J. W. Ramsden's letter in your last issue, might I suggest that a class be provided for them at the next Crystal Palace Show? I quite admit that it is hardly likely the class would pay its way, but it would undoubtedly prove a great attraction, and if a fair number of birds were brought together side by side, it would give visitors an opportunity of realising the possibilities of the variety, which I venture to think would soon establish itself as a permanent, and not the least popular, variety of Canary. Perhaps other fanciers will give their views on the subject; and any who possess white Canaries would perhaps kindly say whether, in the event of a class being provided, they would exhibit their birds. Trusting my suggestion will commend itself to your readers.

H. C. Brooks.

The Dispute About the Awards at Batheaston Show.

Final Words of the Judge.

Sir,—It is with regret that I have to again trespass on your space to reply to the disappointed exhibitor at the late Batheaston Show. This exhibitor seems to think that I was upset by his last letter. On the contrary, I was more than pleased to reply to his inexperienced remarks re his Yorkshire and Crestbred at the above show, and still more so when he referred to the 1906 incident. In the first place, no doubt readers have noted that he utterly fails to reply to Mr. Follwell's and my own letters re the Canaries at Batheaston Show, but prefers to quibble about the time exhibitors and judge arrived at the show tent. As stated before, I was there before either Mr. Follwell or he (Mr. Lanham) arrived. He seems to be an exponent of the art of making inaccurate statements, as I think the following will prove. In my last letter I stated that this exhibitor came to the meeting of the B.F.A. on the night of the closing of entries for the Young Bird Show, held September, 1906, stating that as "all" his birds were dying he had none to enter. In his last letter he admits this to be perfectly correct. Now, will readers believe that he won a gold medal, four firsts, etc., with ten dead and dying birds, under a Canary specialist judge? All birds exhibited at that show were to be bred by the exhibitor, and not bought. If all Mr. Lanham's birds were dying a week previous to the show, where did these ten living birds come from? It was circumstances connected with this show which were the reason for his being excluded from membership, and not his applying for the balance of his prize money. I have seen Mr. B. Clark (a well-known poultry breeder), and he requests me to tell the readers of Cage Birds that it is quite correct that he visited Mr. Lanham's room (as stated by Mr. L.), but that he, Mr. Clark, knows no more about Canaries than the fencing round his field, and is much displeased at Mr. Lanham dragging his name into this matter. Re my gold medal, which I gave for the best young Canary bred 1906, any variety, and competed for myself, I fail to see anything dishonourable in doing so. I should like to remind Mr. Lanham that I have given more pounds in special prizes which I have never competed for than he has given pence. He seems very much displeased at me calling his informer a "tout." Such a name, in my opinion, is too good for a person who does not hesitate to impart false information, and I should be only too pleased to see him if he has the courage to come to my address.

T. Tayler.

Proposed New Cage Bird Society for Llandudno.

Sir,—A meeting will be held in connection with the above on Tuesday next, October 10, at Timm's Cocoa House, Lloyd Street, at 7.30 p.m. Will all those who are unable to attend kindly drop me a postcard? This will be of great encouragement to those taking part in this important movement.

A Marked Linnet Captured.

Sir,—While out Linnet catching on September 17th, near Lancaster, I caught a Linnet with a ring on the right leg, marked "Aberdeen Univ., 44 m." I should like to know whether it has been put on for a test, to see how far they migrate; or has some fancier lost it?

J. T. Renshall.

[The ring is one of those supplied by the authorities of Aberdeen University with a view to throwing light upon the migration of birds. We shall be glad to be notified of any other instances of birds which bear a similar ring being caught.—Editor.]

Fixing the Dates of Singing Contests in Lancashire.

A Last Appeal.

Sir,—In reference to the Wigan Linnet Club and other clubs in and around Leigh, I think that if the members will look up back numbers of Cage Birds they will find that I have requested secretaries of Linnet clubs to do what any ordinary secretary would do, and that is to answer the letter that I have taken the trouble to write them privately (also through this paper) to meet to fix up dates, etc. I say again that I appealed to them to do this for their own benefit, and not particularly mine, but they treat it with contempt. Now they want me, as secretary, to let them know where they should meet. Well, it is against my wish to do anything unsportsmanlike, so I will ask again for them to meet on Saturday, October 14th, at the Globe Inn, Bradshawgate, Leigh, at five o'clock. Will secretaries kindly inform me whether they intend to meet, at least three days before the above date? If I get no answer to this request I, for one, will take no further action in the matter, but go on and fix up my own dates.

Where is the Gold Medal?

Alleged Non-payment of Prize-money and Specials at Wellington (Salop) Show.

Sir,—At the late Wellington (Salop) Show I won gold medal for best bird, and I have repeatedly written for same, and my prize-money, but cannot get it. Now, sir, I value the medal as much as (and even more than) the cash, seeing that it is a gold medal and takes winning. As an exhibitor, they begged me to send entries, which I did. Now, after waiting, I cannot get my medal or my money. If this kind of thing is to go on, I think the best thing exhibitors can do is to shun a show of this sort. I hope that by mentioning this through your valuable paper, it will do good, and that the president of this show will enquire into my complaint, and that I shall get my medal and my prize-money. If not, well I must take further action for the benefit of fellow-fanciers. I am a true fancier in supporting the shows, and like to see everyone get fair play, as it is not all winning and profit, taking entry fees, carriage, etc., which leave a very small profit, if any. Therefore, I hope the committee of the late Wellington Show will do justice to their fellow-fanciers and pay up, so as not to be banned from support in future.

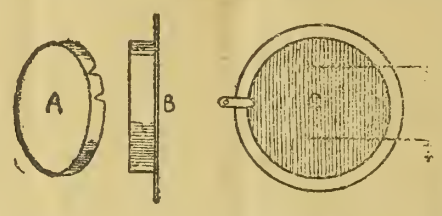
Sir,—Would you please allow me a little space in your valuable paper, Cage Birds, to ask readers whether, and where, I can buy a machine for making Linnet nets?

Bird Catcher.

A New Cage Bird Society for Hawarden and District.



Sir,—I have been requested to let you know that we have formed a cage bird society in this district. It is to be called the Hawarden and District Cage Bird Society. Subscription is 2s. 6d. per annum. Anyone who would like to become a member can do so by applying to the secretary, Useful to Cage Makers.

Sir,—A disadvantage of side doors is that they afford a harbourage for red mite. I enclose an idea which may be found very useful. "A" is an ordinary tin lid. "B" is also a tin lid of the same size, but of such as a syrup tin. "A" is notched V-shape in about four places, and when notched should be soldered in two or three places, sufficiently strong to hold the cut edges together with these notches at the top. Two wires should then be soldered on as in "C," to make a hinge. The idea is to put the notched and soldered lid inside the other; then if red mite are present they will find their way into the box thus made, and at frequent intervals the door should be taken to pieces and the red mite destroyed.

A Lively Letter Receives a Lively Answer.

The New Society for Anfield, Everton and District; and Other Topics.

Sir,—Mr. R. B. Wright's reply to my letter is just what I expected. Rather than answer me direct, he would attack a third party, and the Fancy at large, who will not associate with him. I wish to make it perfectly clear to Mr. Wright and all who are with him in his contention, that I am quite capable of conducting my own correspondence without the aid of a goldfish and "waster" merchant. Now, Mr. Wright, you skit at the three city societies which I appeal to genuine novices to join. You say, Who governs these societies? Your answer: "The clique," "the charmed circle," "the bond of union," which you say is a dozen strong. Fancy a dozen ruling such strong societies! The "Breeders" and the "Open Society" are stronger to-day both financially and in members than ever. The G.C.A. secretary informs me that the average number of members is quite up to previous years; also that all bad debts of years past have been swept away, and that they still have a balance of £10. The society was never in such a flourishing condition as now. What do you think of the city societies now? I shall leave this to the respective secretaries to confirm. Surely, Mr. Wright, you do not think it was only "the charmed circle" that would not have you in the G.C.A.; if you do think so, you are sadly mistaken. You mention the borrowing and lending of birds. Well, anyone can say of a bird: "Oh, he borrowed it," but it is entirely another matter to prove it. We do not know of any fancier who breeds all his own winners. Mr. Wright accuses the Liverpool fanciers of borrowing and lending birds. Let me ask Mr. Wright to prove this allegation; also to answer the following: He says he feels it very strongly about my remarks over the birds he exhibited at Bootle and Birkenhead nest feather shows. In the first place, all societies have this rule in their schedule: "All exhibits to be the bona-fide property of the exhibitor." Now, Mr. Wright, can you deny that Mr. Algie supplied you with these winning birds of yours? Mr. Algie has made public utterance of this fact. Now, were the birds you exhibited your bona-fide property, and are they your bona-fide property now? I am prepared to go into this matter before the Bootle and Birkenhead societies if you will arrange with your officials; or, better still, if you get your new society together, I will come and say to your face and at your will and in front of your members what the Editor thought wise to delete from my first letter. You also say you know why a G.C.A. member suddenly dropped exhibiting and resigned. If you do know, you will be conferring a favour on those more interested than yourself if you will make a truthful and full disclosure of the facts. I am sure this gentleman will not thank you for your interference. You refer to me as a "pot huntor." Well, the Fancy can judge as to that. It seems funny you mention three district societies which are in fairly decent hands, "except one or two." Which are the two? Surely, the Birkenhead, Wallasey, and Bootle fanciers are not going to let you throw out your choice insinuations? In your own words, you ask: Who is this Wright of mushroom growth? The fanciers, especially the novices, are asking the same question. After a shower up comes the mushroom, but when the sun comes out and it gets too "hot," it fades away into insignificance. Many thanks for informing me when you first showed birds, twenty-two years ago, in conjunction with your father; you might have made it fifty. Did you breed then, as now, one cock and five hens in one cage? Wasn't this your entire stock in the spring, when Mr. Tom Cutts was in your room? To conclude, Mr. Wright asks not to stab him in the back. Don't you think, Mr. Wright, we can apply this to you? When you went to the Birkenhead meeting, didn't you make serious statements about a Liverpool fancier? When he asked for a hearing at the next Birkenhead meeting, did not you write postcards to Birkenhead members saying you would resign and withdraw the pictures you had promised, if they allowed this Liverpool fancier a hearing? Also, when you were authorised to attend a meeting to prove these statements, did you turn up? Why didn't you face it like a man instead of sending a letter saying you would give them the pictures if they would not allow this Liverpool fancier in the room? I think he is the gentleman you refer to as "hiding behind" my name. Isn't this a stab in the back? Can you deny the result of the meeting, viz., that they said you could keep your pictures; and were you not wiped off the cards? As you were reporter for that society, don't you think the report of the meeting should have been published? Further, don't think that this gentleman is not capable of fighting his own battles; I am sure I should not try to fight them for him, or allow him to use my name. The "jangles" that have been going on between you and this gentleman, and you and others, I am sure I have no interest in, as they do not seem to relate to birds. I trust that this correspondence will be of interest to your proposed new society; also that the members will investigate both my remarks and your own.

W. C. Robinson.

Sir,—Kindly insert in your valuable paper: Well done, Mr. Wright; just what is wanted in Everton, a Canary Society. As a breeder and a fancier, I wish you every success.

A Mysterious Bird at Dolgelly Show.

Sir,—I would feel greatly obliged if you would allow me to ask a few questions of Mr. J. Williams, who judged at Dolgelly show. I notice there was a "British bird any variety" class, and that three Hardbills lead the way over a very rare bird. Well, my three questions to the judge are as follows:—No. 1: What variety of bird was it which took reserve prize card in Class 6? No. 2: What would be the value of a bird like this, and what food would you recommend me to give to it? No. 3: Was it a cock or hen, and must they be in grand condition, or how, on the day of the show? I hope the judge will give me a reply in your next issue, or I shall know that he has been trapped.

Hounslow Fancier Appeals for a Fresh Start.

Sir,—I feel I should like to let readers know of my misfortune with my Canaries. About June last I sent you a letter for advice, also a sample of seed. I also sent a bird to Mr. Yates for post-mortem, and received the grave news that it was septic fever. I am sorry to say that I have lost every bird—about 96 in all—stock that has taken me the last five years to get together—and I feel like a lost sheep without them. I have always thought a great deal of my birds, and have learned how to manage them by taking your valuable paper, Cage Birds, every week for years. But it is not my fault this has happened. I bought a bird from a man, which appeared quite well when I purchased it, but it died the next day. I did not know the cause, however, until it was too late, and by the middle of August I had lost every one, after separating and isolating them. I have thoroughly scrubbed and disinfected all my cages. I feel I should like to make another start, but being only a working man I have not the money. I should feel it a great favour if you would make an appeal for me through your paper. Some of our brother fanciers might give me a start (as I have done myself to others). "Many can help one, when one cannot always help many," as the old saying has it.

The Carriage of Exhibits to the Shows.

Sir,—As the show season is now upon us, a large number of our members would be glad to know if there has been any result to the petition presented to the railway companies respecting the charges for carriage on birds to the shows, which was, I believe, got up some time ago by the Federation of London C.B. societies and supported by other bodies.

An Accomplished Lady.

Linnet Mule Sings Like a Cock and Lays Four Eggs.

Sir,—I should be glad to know if any other reader of Cage Birds has ever had a similar experience of a bird. Two years ago I gave a good price for a fine Linnet Mule which was supposed to be a cock, aged seven months. It had every appearance of being a cock, was smart looking, strong, and unusually lively, and it sang like any cock bird of that age. This year, in August, to my great surprise, it laid an egg, and since then three others; so my "cock" bird has turned out to be a hen. She is still singing nicely. Bird Fancier.

The Green Canary Association and Its Rules.

Sir,—In reply to "Another Missing Dollar," I have nothing to add to my previous remarks, and decline to enter into an argument with any person who chooses to make rash statements under cover of a nom de plume. Let him come out into the open and I will convince him that the affairs of the G.C.A. are in better shape than for a long time past. I am neither officious nor a twister, but when I throw a brick I do not wrap it in cotton wool. As regards "No Dollar," let him hide his light under a bushel; life is too short to worry about men who haven't the courage of their convictions. Geo. Green.

"Wigs on the Green" at Newcastle.

Members of Societies and their Subscriptions.

Sir,—I see in this week's issue a letter by "Ipso Facto" urging members to pay their subscriptions, and I also notice that the G.C.A. are in "trouble street" with the same disease—unpaid subscriptions. Now, in every case, the non-paying member is blamed for it, but he is not to blame every time. In the Newcastle C.B.S., of which I was a member, it is an honourable thing not to pay your sub. until it is long overdue, and it receives the kindly smile of that most upright committee not to pay until long after the time the rule on that society's rule card says members must pay. The rule gives members till the meeting in June—long enough in all conscience; and yet nearly half of the members did not do so, and the fearless committee who dared the Cage Bird Union and shouted aloud "Justice at any cost," with a trumpet voice in the Taylor-Lister carver case, quailed with fear at the very mention of punishing the defaulting members. No; these members must receive the greatest consideration—nothing had to be done or said to hurt their tender feeling for fear a few left the society with their feelings hurt. The question of non-paid subs. was thrashed (?) out at a meeting of the committee some time ago, and the committee agreed to back up the members in breaking the rules. This most valiant committee who dared so much in the C.B.U. and in the carver case were too frightened and cowed even to say to the defaulting members that they had done wrong! At any cost, don't hurt their feelings, was the expression of the meeting—leave it to the secretary to send a nice begging letter. Now, if I had broken any other rule of the society, I would have received some punishment. So why were these members allowed flagrantly to defy the rules made at the annual general meeting? This is the very essence of justice as served out by those mighty champions of justice. Fifty break a rule—it's all right, we'll back you up. One breaks a rule—get out, you're a scoundrel! I still contend that for the committee to allow certain members to break a rule gives any other member the right to break any other rule. If you don't enforce one rule you can't enforce any. But with the N.C.B.S. committee it is justice to enforce just those which suit their own ends. I was accused of wishing and trying to wreck the society. The statement is absurd. The annual general meeting called to frame the rules made this particular rule as being the best, and necessary for the welfare of the society; and if it was the best in February, how could it be said that the one who asked for its enforcement a few months later wished to "wreck the society"? It was the wish of the majority at the general meeting, and if it was never intended to be enforced, then the committee of the N.C.B.S. received my subscription under false pretences, and I accuse them of doing so. I joined the society under the rules given me, and these rules say that they shall be strictly enforced. It seems the last rule is a huge printer's error, and ought to read: "These rules shall be a farce." I was also accused by the chairman of making a mountain out of a mole hill. I may answer him by saying, Justice is never a mole hill. I always understood (and it is his own teaching) that justice was a mountain towering over and overshadowing everything. But in this case, perhaps, it was not convenient for the chairman to see justice between one member and the committee. Filthy lucre crept in; nearly half the members had not paid, and their feelings must not be hurt. As to the member who dare say anything against them, the sooner he was quietened the better. He had the hand of sympathy extended to him by one who was "very sorry indeed"; but while he held out the one hand he stabbed in the back with the other. You rubbed it in well, Joe, and the insult sank deep, and has not been forgotten. The committee of the N.C.B.S., when they accepted my subscription, made a definite contract with me that no member whose sub. was not paid by the June meeting should be allowed to compete. I accepted those conditions, and I expected that they, as gentlemen, would carry out that agreement. But they have not, and have openly and without apology broken the pledge they made. I know it will be said that I am afraid of competition, but I am not. I welcome legitimate competition. The more the merrier. I can take a beating with anyone when I am beat fair, and I expect to be beaten again many a time (if I exhibit again), and I hope the best bird wins. Not a member of the committee could say I was not right in the position which I took up, but in spite of this, every member of the committee voted, except myself, for the breaking of the rules. Will they act likewise with the show? No; give them a chance to make a noise, and "justice" will be heard the worldwide. I sent in my resignation some time ago, and I have yet to hear officially that it has been accepted. This I am surprised at, as the secretary is usually most courteous. Perhaps he has had orders not to hurt my feelings as well. I have just heard, on making enquiries, that it has been accepted, and this has left me free to expose what is in my opinion rank corruption going on in this up-to-date "justice" society. J. N. F. Scott.

Wild-Bird Life.

Autumn Movements.

Genial weather at the time of writing still continues, with warm sunshine, although the nights are somewhat chilly. This latter fact is doubtless having its effect upon wild bird life generally. In our rambles we begin to miss sadly the numerous migratory species that favour us with their presence and song during the long summer days, and at present the coming of the winter birds is not pronounced enough nearly to fill the gap. Up to now the autumn flitting has only affected the dainty Warblers, Shrikes, Chats, and a few others. Some of these have already made the journey to more genial shores, while others are still lingering along our southern coast or journeying thither by easy stages. The wild bird world is full of interest and surprises to those who have the time and patience to study it. Now the summer is on the wane, there is a constant movement and restlessness among all species, and those who are fortunate enough to reside in the track of the southern movement have much to observe. Day after day there are alterations. New birds from the north put in an appearance, either staying a few hours or a few days, and then passing onwards. While noting these things, we appear to be continuing our close acquaintance with our summer birds; to be, as it were, in touch with them until the last; until our gardens, woods, and hedgerows are simply tenanted with our resident birds and the early arrivals from the north. So we watch the flitting of the Warblers, the gathering of the Swallows and Martins, and are thus seeing something of the autumn movement; but there are some most charming and graceful feathered creatures of whose going we see nothing. The reed beds by the tidal river, the sedges, and water plants on the flat marshes, are the homes of the dainty Reed birds, who are every bit as interesting to the bird lover as the Whitethroats and Blackcaps of the hedgerows. If we daily frequent their haunts, we shall occasionally get a glimpse of them, passing from cover to cover, but upon some fine morning we miss them, and the dreary marshes possess one charm the less. The birds have suddenly disappeared, and no man saw them going.

"Ree-Nu-Orl."

Our Man Takes an Hour Off.

A member of Cage Birds staff, who happens to be of a very inquisitive nature, was attracted the other day, when passing along Aldersgate Street, on his way to the office, by a queer collection of articles displayed in a shop window. His curiosity so got the upper hand that on the first opportunity he went to have a closer look.

In the window, above which appeared the word "Ree-nu-orl," he saw all manner of leather goods, such as pairs of boots in various shades of colour, portmanteaux, leather-upholstered chairs, handbags, and all in a peculiar state. In each pair of boots one looked new and glossy and its mate worn and dull; of each of the other articles one half seemed new and bright, the other badly in need of renovation.

With his curiosity now thoroughly aroused, and half convinced that here was something which, even if it had, as was evident, nothing to do with birds and their keeping, might be of genuine interest to fanciers and their wives from a household point of view, our man entered the shop, and fortunately found there the gentleman who proved to be the inventor of "Ree-nu-orl," a preparation for restoring and renovating all kinds of leather ware. This gentleman very willingly answered all the questions put to him. Said he: "'Ree-nu-orl,' British owned and British made, is a British invention, and, no matter how worn and faded a leather article may be, will give it a new and lasting waterproof facing, of any colour that is desired. All that is required is that grease and dirt be removed with the aid of a cloth dipped in methylated spirits, worn parts rubbed smooth with a linen pad, and 'Ree-nu-orl' applied speedily and sparingly and worked well in with a flat brush.

"It is not always convenient to buy new furniture or even bags or boots. Indeed, if 'Ree-nu-orl' is used, it will not be necessary.

"Many of the leading upholsterers have spoken highly of the preparation. Look at those chairs. You will see that not only is the colour of the leather renewed, but the leather itself is preserved."

Continuing, the demonstrator pointed to a beautifully tanned pair of boots. "These," said he, "were left by a customer to be treated. We accept such work at prices ranging from 6d." The boots, which had evidently been worn some time and may consequently have been discoloured, were now spick and span, so much so that the Cage Birds man asked a pointed question about the pair he himself was wearing. The reply was an offer to treat them there and then. However, time would not allow of it, and—armed with a tin of "Ree-nu-orl" with which to experiment—he left the shop, convinced that if anything is worth a trial "Ree-nu-orl" is.

Readers who are interested will find fuller particulars on the back page of this issue of Cage Birds.

OBITUARY.

Mr. WILLIAM DUNCAN (Inverness).

On September 22 the grave closed over one of the most genial fanciers in the north of Scotland, writes Mr. E. Todd, sen., of Inverness. I refer to Mr. William Duncan. The deceased gentleman was well known to all of us as a real honest and upright fancier and exhibitor. At our local shows he was always well up in the prize list, and he had been a keen breeder and exhibitor for many years. Mr. Duncan was quiet and unassuming, kind and agreeable, and ever ready to help fanciers. He will be missed by a very large circle of friends, especially by the younger members of the Fancy, in whom he took a great interest. Personally I had the pleasure of knowing him well for many years. Mr. Duncan suffered a long, lingering illness from cancer with noble fortitude. Memories of him will linger with his host of friends for many a day. Everyone who had the pleasure of his acquaintance will unite in tendering deep and heartfelt sympathy to Mrs. Duncan and her sorrowing family in their sad bereavement.

Mr. H. STEAD (Huddersfield).

Fanciers in the Huddersfield district, writes Mr. H. W. Battye (Huddersfield) will be sorry to hear of the death, after a short illness, of Mr. H. Stead, who passed away on September 30th. For many years Mr. Stead was a useful and valued member of the Huddersfield O.S.—always willing to do what he could for the society's benefit. He was a true friend and fancier, whose kindly presence will be greatly missed, and a good husband and father. I am sure the sympathies of his many friends will go out to his bereaved wife and family in their great affliction.

"REE-NU-ORL"

A BRITISH INVENTION.

BRITISH OWNED.

BRITISH MADE. ::

Obtainable at all first-class stores.

BRITISH OWNED.

BRITISH MADE. ::

Obtainable at all first-class stores.

Preserves and makes waterproof everything made of Leather.

The REE-NU-ORL CO. beg to draw the attention of the public to the marvellous preparation they are now placing on the market.

It is a secret preparation for restoring and renovating all kinds of leather ware, such as Furniture, Bags, Portmanteaux, Leggings, Boots, and for Saloons, Carriages, Harness, Motor Cars, Etc.

REE-NU-ORL is made in various colours, and not only restores all leather goods, but will give them any desired colour. It is an elastic facing stain and dye, and will put an entire new face on any worn leather providing there is no hole. REE-NU-ORL will put a lasting face on parts worn. Before using brush, rub worn parts smooth with a linen pad.

REE-NU-ORL is easily applied with a flat brush. Full directions are on each tin. The preparation has been proved to withstand all climates, and has been acknowledged by several experts in the Leather and Upholstering trades to be quite the best preparation that has ever been placed before the public, and an article which has been long required.

We wish to draw the special attention of those wearing Tan-coloured Boots or Shoes to the fact that a 6d. tin will keep in perfect colour a pair of boots for six months in regular wear, no matter how discoloured they may have been.

Sold in all colours and shades, also Gold and Silver, and all coloured bronzes.

We also wish the public to understand that we are in no way exaggerating the good merits of this marvellous preparation, as it only requires to be tried. It neither cracks nor perishes, but preserves and waterproofs.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The proprietors of REE-NU-ORL desire that the public should get the FULL BENEFIT of their MARVELLOUS preparation, and to take particular notice to follow the directions on each tin.

REE-NU-ORL is not to be used as an ordinary paint—namely, simply put on and left to dry—but it requires to be thoroughly well worked into the leather with a flat brush (similar to a varnish brush). Work in until practically dry, using the least possible as it dries quickly and requires to be used SPARINGLY and SPEEDILY, given about half an hour to get thoroughly set before second application. DON'T expect result from first application as some leathers are very absorbent. Don't use THICKLY. Work well INTO the article.

It is EASILY applied as stated—SPARINGLY and SPEEDILY. Makes old leather NEW.

WORK DONE BY OUR OWN WORKMEN IF REQUIRED.

"REE-NU-ORL"

FOR LEATHER.

Unparalleled for Portmanteaux, Fancy Bags, Motor Cars, Carriages, Furniture, Harness, Boots, &c., &c.

Sold in Cans at 6d., 1/-, 2/6 and 5/- each.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS.

PERHAPS YOU HAVEN'T

noticed my offer in this column before; I repeat it now. In order to prove to you the supremacy of my goods over all others I invite you to have anything you like on approval from me and a similar article from elsewhere, compare them and test them, and if in your honest opinion mine is not in every way exactly as represented and a better article at lower price than the other, smash or destroy mine in any way you like, and I will refund every penny of your money. You must admit that this is a straightforward offer and one that I could not afford to make unless I was certain that my goods could not be beaten. Clap nets made from genuine thread netting ¾-inch mesh, 3 yards long and 5½ feet deep, 4/- pair; ditto, 4 yards, 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair. All clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated measure, and all fitted up complete with pegs, poles, lines, and latest up-to-date fittings ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting, ¾-inch mesh, as used in above nets, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard, 9 feet deep 4d., 12 feet deep 5d. yard, all post free. Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6, 17 feet poles 6/-, 19 feet poles 6/6 complete. Special strong netting fitted on Sparrow nets, and all fitted with my latest invention, viz., bronzed elbows. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches by 18 inches, 1/- each; ditto, 18 by 14 inches, 9d. each. By far largest and most effective traps on the market, no old-fashioned board arrangements about them. The only trap used by Mr. Jeffrey, England's greatest Nightingale expert. Single trap cages 6d. each, double ditto, 1/- each, treble ditto, 1/3 each, all with separate compartment for call bird in addition to trap as stated. Round or square topped call cages, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. Genuine Japanese Bird Lime, guaranteed absolutely strongest made, stands all weathers, even wet, leaves feathers clean and hold any hawk or rook that flies, ¼-lb. tin 6d., ½-lb. tin 10d., 1-lb. tin 1/6, sample 3d., all post free. Please note, I am only retailer of this particular brand of Lime, so do not confuse it with any other brand of so-called Japanese Lime. Pure hemp pull lines, guaranted hand spun, free from snarl and strong as boat lines, 68 yards long 1/4 each post free. Lark nets and netting, Stave poles, brace swivels, store cages, drinkers, and everything required by catchers always in stock. Send stamp for full list, which also gives hints on netmaking. Notice following unsolicited testimonials:—"Eaton Road, Brynbyfryd, Sept. 26. Sir,—Netting to hand, and is better value than I expected for the money. Yours, D. Steer." "27, Hartley Road, Luton. Sept. 25. Sir,—Please send following Lime, etc. I feel I must recommend your Bird Lime to my friends as it holds anything. Yours A. Crowe." Bigrigg, Cumberland, Sept. 25th. Sir,—Bird Lime received and I am sure it is best I ever used. Whatever gets on twigs has to stay as there is no getting away. Yours, T. Lowery." "92, Frodingham Road, Scunthorpe, Sept. 24. Sir,—Clap nets arrived safe, and I am perfectly satisfied in every way. Yours, C. Chamberlain." "93, Raine Road, Braintree. Sept. 25th. Sir,—Please send 13 yards netting, last lot I had from you 4 years ago gave every satisfaction. Yours, G. Bates." "Milton, near Repton, Sept. 21. Sir,—Received trap cage, and am quite satisfied. Yours, A. Wood." "15, Derby Road, Ripley, Sept. 19. Sir,—Received clap nets safe and am highly satisfied with them. Yours, S. Kerry." "213, King Street, Brynmawr, Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send following netting. I caught a fine lot of birds with your nets last year. Yours, W. Lewis." "14, Castle Place Scarboro', Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send another pound lime, it gets better every year. I caught over 100 Linnets with last pound. Yours, W. Whitehead." "Newnham St., Ely, Cambs., Sept. 4. Sir,—Please send following. I had a pair clap nets from you last week and am well satisfied with them. Yours, W. Gilbey." Please note, I supply every professional catcher of note throughout England and the Colonies and everyone knows they are men who will have nothing but the best, as their living depends upon their appliances. Everything sent on approval on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor, and money returned in full if not satisfactory in every way. If you want the best and cheapest, patronise the man who really knows what is required for successful catching. No old fishing netting used here. See British bird column for further advt.

WHO'S THE FANCIER

who has not yet given me a trial? He is the man I particularly want to read this advt., as once I get a person's custom I know I can retain it, if sterling value, low prices, and honest dealing mean anything. My conditions of sale are these: Everything is sent on approval at my risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of "Cage Birds," on the distinct understandiug that unless every satisfaction is given birds have only to be returned and every penny of your money is promptly and cheerfully refunded. In a nutshell it means this: you either get exactly what you want or you get all your money back. I am the originator of this system, and during the whole course of my business career have never traded under any other conditions. (Imitators please copy.) I have an enormous stock of genuine Worcestershire netted cock Goldfinches in perfect health and condition at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 6/6, twelve 12/-, twelve dozen £6. Specially selected large cocks for exhibition or muling, and warranted in song 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, 12 16/-. Few extra special clean moulted cocks in full colour and superb condition, ready for immediaee exhibition, 2/6, 3/- and 4/- each. Hen Goldfinches 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-, twelve dozen 48/-. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, every bird guaranteed, with nut-brown back and rose-red breast, 3d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. Specially selected larger cocks, of correct size and beautifully pencilled, for exhibition, 1/- each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 6/-. Selected cocks for contest singing, 1/- each, warranted in song. These Linnets are exactly same as scores of dozens I supply to the North-country dealers and contest singers weekly, and are absolutely unique for time and quality singing. Handsome lot cock Bullfinches in colour, 1/6 and 2/- each; hen Bullfinches 1/- and 1/6 each. Cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; exhibition specimens, real yellows, 1/- each. Cock Chaffinches 8d. each, three 1/6. Redpolls 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-. Magnificent lot clean moulted cock Larks, in superb condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. Specially selected steady birds for singing, 1/- each, three 2/6. Hand-reared cock Blackbird, perfect specimen, finger tame and in splendid song, 5/-; ditto, Thrush, 5/-. Goldfinch, Linnet, or Lark cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Round or square topped call cages, all wire tops and wood bottoms, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. Bird lime, attractively packed in penny tins, 3doz. 2/-, or 7/- gross. (For other appliances see appliance column.) Following letters give an idea of what customers may expect:—"York, Sept. 5th. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safe and well. I tried him on calling and he did extra. I am highly satisfied in every way. Yours, G. Simpson." "21, Sleap, Wellington, Sept. 6. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safe, and am very well pleased. I also thank you for your straightforwardness to me, and for the way you packed the bird. Yours, J. Williams." "Hanworth-road, Hounslow, Sept. 6. Sir,—Birds (24 Goldfinches) received all right, and was very well satisfied, as I found sex quite right. I shall want more later. Yours, J. Bates." "26, Everard-st., Barry Dock, Sept. 6. Sir,—Finch arrived in splendid condition, and am well pleased with it. Yours, A. Williams." "21, Sebert-rd., Forest Gate, Essex. Sept. 7. Sir,—Received bird safely. I must thank you for your prompt, kind attention. I shall certainly recommend you to my friends, as I am well pleased with bird. Yours, P. Totman." "Cumbrae, Seymour-st., Bishop Auckland, Sept. 11. Sir,—Please send following birds. I saw one of your Linnets in Leeds the other day, and told the owner he would take a lot of beating. Yours, W. Crowther." "10, Queen-st., Orrel, Lancs., Sept. 10. Sir,—I received the two birds a month ago and have given them a fair trial. The Chaffinch is a beauty, and Greenfinch as tame as a Christian. I could not have got a better pair if I had paid a big price for them. Yours, J. Gibson." "Police Station, Kingscavil, West Lothian, Sept. 14. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safely and well packed. Thanks for kind attention to such a small order. Yours, E. Dann." "Soldiers' Rest, Annitsford, Northumberland, Sept. 18. Sir,—Birds (12 Linnets) arrived all healthy. I give you every credit for the way you pack your brids, with plenty of room and light. They are the finest lot of birds I ever had from any dealer, and I give you praise against all others. I have had birds from all over the country, and if I had sent to you first I should have saved pounds. Yours, Thomas Gates." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in County of Worcester by expert catchers employed solely by myself; none are sent out until thoroughly on hard seed, and a signed guarantee sent with every bird that they are not recently taken and do not come under the various Bird Acts, and an indemnity given by me in every case taking all risks against prosecution arising therefrom. I am only dealer in this country giving this guarantee and indemnity. I make no idle boasts, but am open to prove at any time that I sell more British birds and have a larger stock always on hand than any other two dealers in Midlands, and that I sell more Worcestershire birds than the whole lot put together (professional copyists note). Visitors are requested to call and see hundreds upon hundreds of Britishers all caged separately. Note name and address; no connection whatever with any other advertiser.

E. LEHNICH, Braunschweig, Kannengiessestr 5, Germany

between the Leipzig Rollers which I import and the ordinary Roller is that, whereas the song of the ordinary Roller usually consists of two or three long drawn out rolls, which soon become monotonous, the Leipzig Roller has a much more varied song, which can never jar upon the ear. I now have 500 pure Leipzig Roller cocks all guaranteed over moult, and now in full song with soft hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, bell, harp, and flute notes, and jug-jug of Nightingale, and warranted entirely free from any chopping or harsh notes whatever, price 6/6, 7/6, and 10/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 1/9 each, 3/- couple. I am the only importer of this strain in the kingdom; all birds are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," without which none are genuine. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on a full week's trial at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or if same is deposited with Editor, and money fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Following letters show that the Leipzig Rollers will continue in song for years. "52, St. Ives Grove, Stanley, Liverpool, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send me following birds. I am sending to you for these birds, knowing you are a straightforward man to strangers. The Leipzig Roller I got from you last year has proved itself a real gem, just got over moult, and started singing again. I shall want another Roller later.—Yours, A. Gerrard." "Hill House, Long Marton, Carlisle, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send following. The Leipzig Roller I got from you 11 months ago is doing first class.—Yours, Chas. Ball." Kindly note I am the only importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers in kingdom, and no other person can sell so much as one feather by this strain unless he first purchases it from me. I care not how hard a man is to please, I know I can do so if it is humanly possible. Dealers supplied. Send trade card for wholesale prices.

Exhibition Cocks or Hens, fit for keenest competition or local shows, that can soon win back their own cost, at most reasonable prices. Read following testimonial from Gore Hill, Sydney, Australia, received Oct., 1911.—"Dear Sir, I have made up my mind to have another pair of your birds as soon as I can get them out. I have done well with the others you sent me, and bred the finest yellow in the State from them, winning at the largest shows several first and specials for best Yorkshire (against all the imported cracks), and several other winners I have also bred. So you see with your strain I have got bang at the top in a single season, which is not so easy, as there are birds here imported from all the best English breeders. Again thanking you for your honourable treatment, and wishing you every success.—H. W. Terry to L. Dykes." Place your orders with the old reliable breeder and exhibitor with a life's practical experience, who breeds his own winners and can therefore give you the best satisfaction. Every bird sent on a full week's approval at my risk. Easy payments arranged with genuine fanciers. State wants. Price list post free. Note new address:—

LOOK YOU HERE.

If you want genuine reliable birds at the rock bottom prices, you must deal with the genuine reliable breeder and importer, who tests every bird as to its singing qualifications and studies in detail your requirements. My world wide reputation is made on German business lines by supplying high-class sound, healthy, reliable birds at lowest possible prices. Let me send you birds on approval that you may compare them with others that have cost more; you will then be fully convinced that it is utterly impossible to get the same quality elsewhere at anything like the price. I have now ready for immediate disposal, 1,000 grand 1911 youngsters, well moulted, and cocks in song, including my famous German songsters, the German working man's friend; cocks that will sing by day and gaslight, loud, free, continuous songsters; every bird tested before sending out. Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all infringers and imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

In the Courts.

Bird Catchers Fined.

At Esorick Petty Sessions, Selby, Sept. 28th, John Fynan, farm labourer, and Tom Hazlewood, joiner, of Selby, were summoned for having taken wild birds during the close season. Fynan pleaded guilty, and Hazlewood did not appear. P.C. Charlton stated that on Sunday, Sept. 17, he and P.C. Myers were in plain clothes in a field at Barlby, and they saw the defendants in an adjoining field placing twigs coated with birdlime on the top of a hedge. They also put two decoy birds in the hedge. A Goldfinch got entangled on one of the twigs, and Fynan put it in a cage. Defendants were fined 5s. each and the costs, and the Bench ordered the forfeiture of the twigs and a collapsible cage.

Sunday Catching at Arbroath.

Two men from the Arbroath district were brought before Sheriff Lee in the Forfar Sheriff Court on September 28 on a charge of contravening Section 4 of the Wild Birds Protection Order of the County Council. Mr. Thomas Hart, Procurator-Fiscal, said the men were snaring birds by means of bird lime. The accused pleaded that they did not know that the Order applied to Sundays, and that the bill was not posted at several places where they had looked for it. The Sheriff said it was a very poor form of sport to go about and catch these birds, thus gradually making extinct some of the finest species. He did not think there was much difference whether the offence was committed on a Sunday or any other day. He thought they could find much better ways of spending the Sunday. He imposed a fine of 1s., with the option of one day's imprisonment, upon each.—"Arbroath Guide."

A First-prize Costume.

I thank you for the coloured plates, etc., you so kindly sent me. The date of the ball was September 28, which gave me a week longer to arrange the plates, etc., on the dress, which resulted in it winning the 1st prize. I was told that the costume looked very attractive.—(Mrs.) W. Thomson (St. Austell).

Scottish Metropolitan Open Derby report, in the Belgian classes, should read Fairley and not Paisley.—John Fairley (Coatbridge).

Owing to my having won a scholarship, I am compelled to give up keeping birds, not having the time to attend to them, writes Mr. W. H Blythe (Bacup).

Mr. Jas. Jeans (Camelon) has been appointed judge of cage birds at our show on Dec. 2, writes Mr. Dow, jun., sec. of the Auchterarder P.P. and C.B.A.

We have again elected Mr. T. Harrison (Altrincham) to judge our November show, writes Mr. J. Critchley, hon. sec. of the Pendleton and Salford O.S.

Will members of the South Manchester C.B.S. kindly note, writes Mr. A. Smith, the sec., that there is a rule passed imposing a fine for non-attendance at meetings?

We hear that Mr. A. Balfour (the Master Cutler) is to perform the opening ceremony at three o'clock of the Sheffield O.S. Show in the Cutlers' Hall on November 3.

Class 15 in our schedule should read: Yorkshire clear ticked or unevenly marked yellow or buff hen 1911 unflighted, write Messrs. Towl Bros., hon. secs., Grimsby Show.

The schedules for the Oxford C.B.S. Show have been sent out to all known exhibitors, writes Mr. A. F. Fifield, hon. sec. Will any fancier wishing for one kindly send at once?

I regret that the two classes for Lizards have been omitted from our schedule, writes Mr. B. Peake, show sec. of the Hanley C.B.S. They will stand as: 20a, Lizard Gold; 21a, Lizard Silver.

Will Mr. Curtis, whose lecture on the Norwich Plainhead appeared in Cage Birds a few months back, kindly forward me his address, writes Mr. G. H. Madellan (23, Speranza Street, Plumstead).

The judges for our show on December 9 are: For Norwich, Mr. D. Buchan; for Borders, Mr. R. Reid; and for British, Mr. P. McQuiston, writes Mr. W. Clubb, sec. of the Falkirk Good Intent C.B.A.

We are compelled to extend entries till Oct. 16, writes Mr. C. Brooks, hon. sec. of the Leamington Spa show on Oct. 19. Entries are not one per class, and we are trying our utmost to get a good entry.

Schedules of the Manchester and N.C. O.S. Show (Oct. 27 and 28), writes Mr. H. Boothman, the hon. secs., have been sent out. Will anybody who has not received a schedule, and who would like a copy, kindly let me know?

As some of my correspondence is still finding its way to my late address, kindly notify my change of address to 159, Bothal Terrace, Pegswood, Morpeth, writes Mr. Robert Middleton, sec. of the Hirst Universal C.B.S.

The attention of exhibitors is drawn to the fact that our show is to be held on November 25, writes Mr. G. Reed, sec. of Brandon Colliery Show. I am sorry I omitted the date from our advertisement in Cage Birds.

Your readers will be interested to learn that Sir T. Scott Foster (the Mayor of Portsmouth, who was knighted this week) was, and probably still is, writes Mr. Geo. Crabb (London) a fancier; he used to show Crests very successfully.

Kindly ask through Cage Birds for the name and address of the exhibitor making two entries in Class 22 of the Portsmouth C.B.S., write Messrs. King and Joiner, the secs. The postmark is London; office issuing p.o., Wallington.

Through an oversight, Mr. J. Thomson (Newtongrange) will not judge the Borders at our forthcoming show; but we have secured the services of Mr. J. Young (Allanton) in his stead, writes Mr. C. Lugton, sec. of the Galashiels O.S.

Newcastle C.B.S. have received the patronage of the English and Welsh Border Fancy C.C., but not until after schedules were printed (writes Mr. J. E. Atkinson, the sec.). Each member will receive schedule with full particulars of competitions.

Owing to a mistake on the part of the library authorities our annual show date has been altered from November 10th and 11th to December 1st and 2nd, judges, Messrs. J. Robson and A. Silver, writes Mr. R. P. Harper, hon. sec. of the North London C.B.A.

A fine spray of millet, in a green (unripe) state reaches us from Mrs. Maunsell-Eyre (Congresbury, Som.), who writes: "The plant is about three feet high, and must have come from a stray bird seed. It is in our fruit garden, and shows that millet can be well grown in this country. I intend to grow some for my hybrids next summer." We think, too, it would certainly be excellent for young British and foreign birds.

We have added seven open Canary classes to our nineteenth annual show (with guaranteed prize-money), to be held November 15 and 16, writes Mr. G. Stubbs, the hon. sec. of the Worthing F.A.

Certain specials that have been promised, which could not be allotted at our last meeting, have been omitted from our schedule, writes Mr. G. Lawton, hon. sec. of the Hanley C.B.S., so that the show sec. (Mr. B. Peake) could get the schedule into the printer's hands at once.

Through a change of situation, I have been compelled to give up the secretaryship of the Sale C.B.S., writes Mr. James Irlam. All correspondence should be addressed to Mr. Alfred Royle, 99, Harley Road, Sale, who has very kindly consented to take over the duties of secretary.

Up to first post Tuesday I have only received 73 entries in our 26 classes, the first 14 of which are guaranteed, writes Mr. A. T. Bellinger, sec. of the Bromley and West Kent F.A. Fanciers, do help us! Prize-money will be paid on the second day of show. Send on, and I will enter up.

On receiving Cage Birds of Oct. 7 I was delighted to see on the cover the photograph of our excellent secretary, Mr. A. F. Fifield. I am sure any society would be proud to have such a hard-working secretary. I hope fanciers will not forget to send him some entries for our first great open show on Oct. 26.—W. Wren (Oxford C.B.S.).

We have secured a separate hall for cage birds adjoining the poultry hall, writes Mr. H. Davidson, sec. of the Lockerbie Show on Nov. 23. Lockerbie is a good centre both for English and Scottish exhibitors. We have a cup for best Border Fancy in show; also for best Norwich P.H. We have the patronage of the Border Fancy C.C.

The Windsor C. B. A. will hold their third annual show on November 29th, writes Mr. E. A. Stickland, the hon. secretary. Mr. J. Robson has been appointed judge, there being 42 classes in the open to all England section, and 20 classes in the members' division. Prize money will be paid out same day as show, or forwarded next day without fail.

The Plumstead and Woolwich C.B.S. have again decided to hold an open show on Jan. 11 and 12, 1912, write Messrs. Meades and Smith, the secs. Mr. T. Heath has been elected to judge the Cauary section, and Mr. J. Frostick the Hybrids, British and Foreign birds. It is hoped all old supporters will patronise us, so that we may be able to continue our open shows.

We are running ten open classes in connection with our show on November 29th, writes Mr. W. H. Pyke, secretary of the Reading and Dis. C.B.S. The full list now reads:—Open classes, 2 Nor., 2 Yorks, 1 C. or C.B., 1 A.O.V. Can., and 4 Brit.; and members' classes: Can., 11; Mules, 1; Brit., 6. Amateur: Can., 11; foreign, 4—42 classes for the entire show. Judge, Mr. J. H. Payne.

The Pentrebach and Dist. (Glam.) F.S. second open show will be held at the New Hall, Pentrebach, on November 30 next, writes Mr. A. E. Brown, the hon. sec. Mr. T. L. Castree (Mountain Ash) will judge, and we have also secured the patronage of the Welsh C.B.C. In addition to the usual specials, the Welsh C.B.C. have kindly given us a sum of money for cash specials. Schedules will be ready shortly.

On the eve of our closing date, write Messrs. King and Joiner, hon. secs., Portsmouth C.B.S. Show, we are puzzled with the problem how to make a show with only nine entries to fill thirty-one open classes. There is nothing left for us but to extend our entries until the last post this Saturday (October 14). We earnestly appeal to exhibitors for support. If you have no schedule, send a description of the birds you wish to enter, and we will classify them.

We hear from the secretary, Mr. T. Pope (98, Emhankment Road, Plymouth) that entries are very short indeed for Plymouth Show on Tuesday and Wednesday next, Oct. 17 and 18. Exhibitors should rally round at once and post on particulars of the birds they desire to enter (entries close this Saturday). Plymouth offers splendid prize-money (22s. 6d. for an entry fee of only 1s. 6d.), and heaps of specials, while the train service could not well be bettered, and the management is always first-class. Excursions will be run throughout Devon and Cornwall by both the G.W.R. and L. and S.W.R.

All prize-money at Burnley Show has been paid, writes Mr. R. Towler, the secretary.

The members of the Ashton-under-Lyne O.S., writes Mr. J. R. Colville, the sec., are holding the last of a series of table shows which count for valuable points specials—five classes each Nor. and Yorks, four for British, and one for Foreign. To encourage the youthful fancier, two classes are provided for boys under fourteen years of age—one Hardbill, one Softbill, and a silver medal is the prize for each class. Admission to the show is free. (No date is stated. —Editor.)

Intending exhibitors at our show on Oct. 21 and visitors to same should note, writes Mr. A. Wake, sec. of the Middlesbrough and Tees-side C.B.S., that the North-Eastern Railway Co. are running excursions on that date, with day bookings to Middleshrough, from Newcastle, etc., Middleton-on-Tees, West Auckland and Spennymoor Branch, Tow Law, Bishop Auckland and Darlington, also Stanhope and Richmond Branches, Leeds, York, etc.; and half-day bookings from West Cliff, Loftus, and Boosbeck.

Will fanciers please note that the New Cross and Dist. C.B.S. have taken up new headquarters at the People's Hall, Tanners Hill, next door to the Deptford Broadway Theatre, write Messrs. G. and J. Barton, the secs. Meetings will be held same as before. Subs., 1s. per quarter, no uomination fee for 1911. We are holding a combined members' show with the Plumstead and Woolwich C.B.S. at the above hall on Nov. 16 (all-day show). Fanciers wishing to join, please write us at 8, Warwick Street, Deptford.

Our open show is to be held on January 1 and 2, 1912, writes Mr. W. Lambie, Cage Bird Sec. of the Paisley O.A. For Scotch Fancies and Belgians (19 classes) the judges are Messrs. D. Black (Govan), D. Caldwell (Baillieston), A. M. Baird (Paisley), and G. Fulton (Partick); for Norwich (18 classes), Mr. A. Roberts (Rutherglen); for Yorkshires (four classes), Mr. R. B. Gibb (Ibrox); for Borders (eight classes), Mr. H. Bennet (Kelso); and for Mule, Hybrid, and wild bird classes (15 classes), Mr. R. V. Raine (Cathcart).

Owners of show dogs are eagerly awaiting October 25, for on that day the six valuable Coronation Caskets offered by Messrs. Spratt's Patent, Ltd., are being finally awarded at the Kennel Club's Show at the Crystal Palace. The total value of Spratt's Coronation Caskets is 205 guineas, and all are to be won outright. No such prizes have ever been offered before, and the only stipulation made by Spratt's is that the dogs must have been regularly fed on their foods. Regarding the awards at the Festival of Empire Exhibition, Messrs. Spratt's wish it to be known that they were awarded a Grand Prix for the superior excellence of their dog foods.

Norwich Plainhead Club.

The annual general meeting will be held on October 28, 1911, at four o'clock, at Manchester Show. Will members kindly attend?—Jno. Hopkins, hon. sec.

Avonbridge Show Date.

Avonbridge Show is to be held on Nov. 18, and not on Oct. 18, as given in your "Guide to the Shows," writes Mr. P. Gentleman, the sec. I trust intending exhibitors will note, and give us a good entry.

Welsh C.B.C. Judges.

The result of our ballot for six judges is as follows:—1, T. H. Melhuish (Cardiff); 2, G. L. Harber (Merthyr); 3, D. H. Tedstone (Brecon); 4, J. Pritchard (Mountain Ash); 5, S. H. George (Swausea); and 6, J. H. Jones (Merthyr). F. Carl, scrutineer.—A. E. Brown, hon. sec.

London Federation Show.

Kindly note my change of address from St. Dunstan's Alley to 183, Mitcham Road, East Ham, writes Mr. H. W. Cook, show sec. of the London Federation of C.B.S. Will members affiliated to the Federation especially note the new address, to which their entries must be sent?

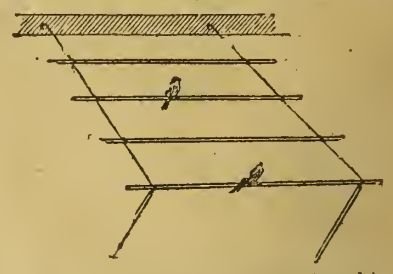
Curious Captures

Last month, writes Mr. Walter Swaysland, the well-known naturalist and dealer, of Brighton, I had brought to me a Land Rail caught on a doorstep, a Water Rail caught in a drawing-room, and a Dottrell which had flown against a telephone wire and injured its wing. They are all alive and doing well.

Changes of Addresses.

Secretaries of societies and others are asked to note the following changes of addresses:—Mr. G. E. Wilkinson (sec. of the Nottingham and Notts O.S.) from Parkside to 86, Lenton Boulevard, Nottingham; and Mr. H. W. Cook (show sec. of the Londou Federation of C.B.S. and sec. of the Poplar and Dist. C.B.S.), from St. Dunstan's Alley to 183, Mitcham Road, East Ham.

A Treat for London Bird-lovers.



The London and Provincial O.S. will be pleased to see all bird lovers at the Leysian Mission Hall, City Road (opposite Old Street Tube Station) on Saturday next, October 14, at 8 p.m., to hear Mr. Richard Kearton, who will deal largely with his brother's startling adventures whilst bioscoping big game in East Africa. This lecture will be illustrated by some of the best moving and still pictures which Mr. Cherry Kearton obtained during his travels, including many wonderful pictures of lions, hippos., jackals, etc. Included in the lecture will be Mr. R. Kearton's own work during the summer of 1911 among the birds in the wildest parts of Norway. The films are non-flammable. The admission will be one penny.

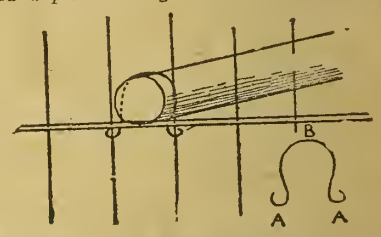
No. 546.
An Aviary Bird Ladder.

Sent by Mr. M. R. Tomlinson, Shepherd House, Inveresk, Midlothian.

The enclosed sketch of a bird ladder for an outdoor aviary may be interesting. It is quite easily made, the wire being simply twisted round the perches, which project sufficiently far at either side to prevent their coming loose. The top end of wire is finished off in a hook to catch the wire netting, and the bottom sticks



(by which the ladder is held outwards) are tapered for the same purpose. There is a nice springiness about the whole structure, and it will be found a great favourite with the birds. When occupied by a dozen or so birds, it certainly displays them to great advantage. See that a sufficient distance is left between the perches to prevent a playful individual from plucking feathers from one on a lower step!—M. R. Tomlinson.

No. 547.
A Simple Perch Holder.

Sent by Mr. J. Green, 7, Midleton Road, Woodbridge Hill, Guildford, Surrey.

The sketch shows a simple perch-holder. Bend a piece of cage wire as shown, and fix the perch in over the punch bar, and under the loop "B." The bent ends "A" hook round the cage wire, under the punch bar. Drill some holes in the perch before putting it in, and the red mite will seek shelter in them and can easily be destroyed.—J. Green.

Caterham Show report in the A.O.S. Softbill class should read: 1st, special, and 3rd, Tout, not Jont.—R. C. Tout (Portsea).

Mr. W. Booth (14, Graver Lane, Newton Heath, Manchester) writes that he will be pleased to receive schedules of shows catering for the Border Fancy.

Kindly thank all readers for their patronage and help when I appealed to them through your paper Cage Birds, writes Mr. J. Chatwin (Smethwick). I have now, as you may say, sold out, and have received over 200 letters and postcards. I really cannot answer them all, although I should like to. I have also been offered a situation in London to-day, so you see all good things come at once, and through your paper I have got over my trouble and secured the desired situation at the finish. I might mention I have over twenty testimonials for the birds I have sent away, which I shall keep in remembrance.

Our schedules will be sent out this week, writes Mr. J. H. Elwell, sec. of the Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S. Will anyone overlooked please send me a postcard, addressed to 35, Church Street, Shildon, Co. Durham, and they will receive one by return of post. The classes are good, also the prize-money, with 2s. 6d. cash special for every class, 5s. for most entries, and value 10s. 6d. for best bird in show. The hall is second to none in the North. The committee are all good fanciers, and all birds will be carefully attended to, and will be sent off so as to reach home on the Saturday night by trains the exhibitors wish.

Teaching the Young Idea.

Wombwell and Dist. B.F.A. have decided to hold their annual members' show on December 2, judge Mr. W. Brotherton, of Rotherham, writes Mr. J. Hudson, the sec. We shall have about 26 classes for Canaries and British birds. It has been proposed to hold a scholars' drawing competition in conjunction with the show, and to give eight prizes, four for boys and four for girls, in standards 4, 5, 6, and 7. Two members of the committee are appointed to judge the drawings; if they fail to come to a satisfactory decision, the services of an independent gentleman will be sought, his decision to be accepted as final. Messrs. Malpass and Dean have promised a special each to the scholar writing the best essay on what they saw at the show.

Use "Cage Birds" Live Bird Labels on your show cases and packages. They are the best: 50, 6d.; 100, 10d

The Bullfinch.

A Scottish Fancier's Hints Upon Its Treatment in Captivity.

By ROBERT COBAIN (Greenisland.)

The Bullfinch is not a migratory bird; at least, not in these parts. He is resident with us the whole year round.

Bullie's Food.

As regards the food of the Bullfinch, when in a wild state he goes in for almost everything in the nature of seeding plants, berries and fruit tree buds. I might here mention some of his favourites. Of seeds, sweet-meadow, docks, nettles, ragweed and groundsel, also the seed of the sycamore and ash tree; of berries, brambles, privets, rasp and haws; and of buds, apple, gooseberry and currant. These are his favourites.

The Bullfinch is a bird which is not fond of company; he is never to be found with other birds. And very seldom is it one sees more than a pair or two together. These birds, when once paired, are paired until death or a catcher separates them.

When the nesting time comes (which is about the beginning of May) the Bullfinch chooses for a place either a black or a white thorn bush in the most inaccessible quarter he can find. The nest is not a very neat structure, being composed of fine twigs and roots of trees lined with fibrous roots. It is very interesting to watch these birds building a nest. The hen does all the work and the cock just looks on and sings. When she is collecting the materials he will sit on the nearest bush, and sing all the time. When she flies back to the nest he flies with her, and perches on the top of the bush in which the nest is being built, flying backwards and forwards with her as the work goes on. From these remarks it is easily seen that the nest is not hard to find if one watches the birds.

As regards the song of the Bullfinch, some fanciers tell me that it is not much good, but to my ear it is a beautiful song, being sung in such a nice low key.

The operation of nest building over, the hen commences to lay her eggs, four or five in number. They are of a pale blue colour, with brown spots, resembling those of a Thrush, but, of course, much smaller. The period of incubation lasts from thirteen to fourteen days. When the young are hatched both parents attend to the feeding. Young Bullfinches, before they have feathers, are not good looking birds, being very large-headed and coarse. In the course of three weeks they are ready to leave the nest, and in another week or two can shift for themselves. They are then beautiful birds of a nice brown colour, with black wings and tail. The other colours, as above mentioned, do not appear until after the moult, when the birds are about eight or nine weeks old.

The only distinction that I know of between cock and hen Bullfinches when in their nest feather is that the cocks are usually the longer birds.

The Bullfinch as a Cage Pet.

So much for the natural history of the Bullfinch. Now we will consider him as a cage bird. In the first place I will speak of the catching. The Bullfinch is not a difficult bird to catch, either with a call bird or without. His call is easily imitated by anyone who will practise it a little. The plan which I have mostly followed is to go without a call bird, and find him in his feeding ground. Collect a bunch of ripe seeds of the same kind as he may be feeding on, such as docks or nettles. Tie these together and place them conveniently near a bush, with a few limed twigs placed on them. Then commence to imitate the call. When the Bullfinch comes he will perch on the bush; this is the time to stop the call. On seeing no other bird, he will come down to the seed you have collected, and so he is trapped. This is a simple method, but effective.

The next trouble after catching your bird is meating him off. I used to have a great number of these birds die because they absolutely refused, on being caged, to eat seed or to drink water. The plan which I hit on is as follows: Put your Bullfinch in a cage that is not too large to allow him much room to fly. Leave him for a few hours until he settles himself. Then get a piece of stick, thin enough to go between the bars of the cage, and go up to the cage when he is settled, and he will then look at you and open his bill. Then take the stick, dip it into the drinking water and put a drop in his bill; this he will swallow. Repeat this operation until you think he has got enough water. Now put the wet stick in the seed hopper. Some of the seeds will stick to it. Put one of these seeds in his bill; he will eat it, and will very soon pick them off the stick for himself. Repeat this operation until the bird follows the stick to the seed and water and learns to feed and drink for himself. The victory is then won. The above plan is one which I have never found to fail.

Having meated him off, the next thing is to get your Bullie steadied. Put him in a box cage with only the front wired; let it be about twelve inches high by eight inches wido and sixteen inches long. This is the best kind of cage in which to keep a Bullfinch. Hang the cage where the bird will be always in sight of the occupants of the house, and lift his cage down as often as possible. Talk to him as you do it, and he will soon become quite steady and tame, as the Bullfinch takes readily to cage life.

The best seeds to give a Bullfinch as a stock food I have found are: Canary, German rape, and a little hemp and teazle, with a few cracked sunflower seeds once a week. Also give him some of his favourite wild seeds which I have mentioned; some of these can be had the whole year round.

Getting Bullie Through the Moult.

The next question is how to get him through the moult in good colour. When the Bullfinch commences to moult stop the hemp seed altogether, and give just a little of the teazle and rape. Increase the quantity of wild seeds, and give as many privet and bramble berries as he will eat, also shoots of fruit trees, and your Bullfinch will moult equally as well as a field moulted bird. Keep up this diet for a few weeks after he is through the moult.

I never give colour food of any kind, for in my opinion though colour-feeding may improve the colour of the breast it spoils the other colouring of the bird.

As an exhibition bird and as a hybrid producer, the Bullfinch has come greatly into favour during recent years. In the latter capacity, the hen especially.

I may say in conclusion that my idea of a good type Bullfinch is one that is as large as possible, of good colour and well marked, carrying himself well up, not remaining in a crouched position as some of them do. A bird of this type is well worthy of a place in the best stocked bird-room.

An Enthusiast Discourses Upon the "Wee Gem."

The Border Fancy Flaw-less!

So says Mr. J. Patterson, of Chirnside, in the following paper, recently read before the Northern Border and S.F. Club.

Mr. Chairman and fellow-fanciers: I have much pleasure in writing the following paper on the Border Fancy Canary at the request of your go-ahead secretary, Mr. Scott, and trust it may interest not a few of you, especially those who may be taking up with this variety; and I trust too that each of you will derive the same amount of pleasure from the variety that I have.

In the first place, to succeed one must be consistent. You cannot afford to be swayed this way or that by every authority on Canary breeding you meet. Have a fixed ideal to breed to, and stick to it throughout. Put more trust in your own efforts than in the advice of others who may know the peculiarities of their own stock, but nothing of yours.

Says an old proverb: "What you put in the cupboard will sooner or later come out." After you have handled your stock a few years, you know what you have put in to improve it, being greatly assisted if your first purchase comes from some reliable breeder who knows his own stock and breeds his own winners. Remember always that by careful mating success can be assured. On the other hand, by buying here and there you are only meddling and experimenting, and may be allowing undesirable influences to creep in to clog your ideal and dim any advancement made by you.

The Watchword.

Some experts I have met with are emphatic in pronouncing their methods to be perfect—the only way, in fact, by which one can succeed. Although Nature obeys certain great laws of her own, it does not follow that we should rigidly adhere to certain prescribed rules and ideas laid down by our predecessors. By no means; we must advance. We cannot afford to let our ideas, our methods of procedure, and our opinions be as fixed and immovable as the stars in their courses. Advancement must be our watchword; not contentment, or we will be left behind by other fanciers who are always trying their best to improve their stock.

I notice from the rules of your society, sent me by your secretary, that you have copied the model and rules of the Border Fancy Canary Club; I am sure no writing of mine could improve on either. I have the greatest admiration for the former, and have no hesitation in saying it has placed the bird on the lofty pedestal it now so proudly occupies amongst other varieties, and is the admiration of the bird-loving world. I trust your club may be able to do as much useful work as the mother club.

Perhaps it would be as well to state that the Border Fancy has not always had a club to look after its interests. In Glasgow, in the years 1888 and 1889, it was known as the Common Canary, and in the North of England as the Cumberland Fancy. At a meeting held in Hawick on the 5th July, 1890, purposely to draw up the standard and rules, the following resolution was passed: "That this meeting disapproves of the name Common Canary and Cumberland Fancy, and that on and after this date the bird to be known as the Border Fancy." I may also mention that a heated discussion had been carried on in the Fancy Press, your countrymen holding that to them belonged the claim of first breeding the variety, while the Scotch breeders were quite as emphatic that to them belonged that honour. The name "Border Fancy" was at last decided on, this being applicable to both sides. From that date I have followed the career of the bird, and each stage in the progress made by its breeders has had my careful study.

By way of impressing on you the great strides it has made in the past 21 years, I may say that at most of the shows held in and about 1890 only one or two classes at the end of the schedule were allocated to the Border Fancy; but take the Scottish National and your own open show, not to speak of the host of others which by far give the longest classification to our brave wee favourite, and you will be convinced of the progress made. Breeders in 1890 did not exceed many scores; now, its breeders are like the descendants of Noah's family—found in every corner of the British Isles. And to my mind there is no cause for wonder here, as the subject of my remarks is a "little gentleman." The eye cannot find in an ideal specimen the slightest flaw to mar the bird's exquisite outline.

Closing an Argument.

I had a long argument with a gentleman at the Scottish National Show, who after going over all the sections with me (except the Border), stated that each variety had some point introduced by the breeders, which Nature never intended it to have, and in some instances he termed the birds "Fanciers' Monstrosities." While not agreeing with him in the latter remark, I turned to him and said, come over here, and I will let you see a variety in which the breeder has improved on Nature. Holding his hand up, he said, "Impossible." I introduced him to the Border section, however, and instantly his eye gleamed, and I knew I had at last pleased him. Pleased him! He was simply in raptures of delight over their beautiful colour, feather and symmetry; and the condition they were in proved a "tickler" to him.

You must all of you have seen such persons at a show; they are taken up more with the curious points each variety is famed for than with the beauty of the bird itself. Not so in the case of the Border Fancy. You have his beauty at the first glance. He has nothing the eye can pick out as not conforming to all other points of his body, and nothing to hamper his movements, such as the excessive head feather of the Crest, the Jack Johnson corpulency of the Norwich Plainhead, the long legs of the Yorkshire, the high hunched-back, and depressed head of the Belgian and Scotch Fancies. The last-named are like Paddy who fell from a house-top and was asked after being picked up if he was hurt. After looking himself over, he exclaimed somewhat confusedly, "No, but I seem to have got a devil of a twist." He had been a wee bit muddled in the morning, and put on his trousers hindpart foremost. So with most varieties, there is some "twist" in their make-up which to the critical eye seems out of order.

October Notes.

A bright September has added another month to a most glorious summer, but with October we expect chilly mists and damp days, with here and there a touch of frost. A look of summer still lingers on the landscape. Worn and faded are the leaves, but the trees are still green, almost untouched by autumn tints. The House Martins still wheel among the elms coaxing us to think that hoary winter is still a long way in the dim future. The life of the Martin is one of extraordinary contradiction. Carefully timing their spring journey to reach here when the genial sun brings to life the insects necessary to them; departing when the food supply runs out; moving in the early months from place to place to shun a cold district or seek a sheltered valley, they show birdy wisdom of no mean order. Yet they have no idea of the future, for although they cannot possibly linger for more than a few days, or a week or two at the most with us, some are still feeding young ones, and in one case the writer knows of a pair just building again, and another commencing to sit. Although we know wild animals and birds have a wonderful affection for their young, and have been known to brave many dangers in defence of them, yet these bright little Martins will forsake the helpless nestlings, leaving them to starve, or will leave a clutch of eggs half incubated; and depart with their free companions to the shores of Africa, or even as far as the Cape, where many will spend the winter months. When the Swallows and Martins have deserted their summer haunts, no bird is found who in any sense fills their place. Although they are essentially birds of the air, they are still birds of the homestead, and under this heading rank with the Starlings and Sparrows. Most of the former have gone to join the legions that muster on the marshes by the sea and the moorlands. Only the Sparrow is left. He and his fellows have spent the autumn in the corn fields, and will soon be returning to their old haunts, recruited in numbers by the many broods reared during an exceptional summer. By now the Nightingale, Blackcap, Whitethroat, and other warblers have departed. They have long been silent, and have vanished in the dark. The midsummer play is over, but we shall soon see a new set of actors among the winter scenery.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

Return of the Trouble.

No Song.—The bird is doubtless troubled with so-called asthma, and its previous history does not augur well for the future. Once the trouble gets well-established, as in this bird, a radical cure is practically hopeless. Remedial treatment is but palliative, as you find the trouble returns upon the least provocation. You missed a good chance of breeding from him last summer, as there was no reason why you should not have hatched the eggs he filled. You should keep him in a box cage in a room with a comfortable and equable temperature, through this coming winter. See that he is quite free from draughts and fumes of burning lights. Continue your present method of feeding except that you should give a small teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of a mixture of equal parts cod liver oil emulsion and syrup of iodide of iron mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed three times a week for a month instead of egg food. In the drinking water give 20 drops of whisky, six of glycerine, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and afterwards 20 drops of the chlorodyne and potassium mixture advised to "T. T.," every second day for three weeks. If the voice does not improve in that time, write again referring to this reply.

Greypates (Jim Smith).—You should not have marked your query "Canary Query," as it ought to have gone to Mr. Weston. See his replies next week. Meantime, as birds appear quite well, leave well alone.

What Class? (W. Bickel).—If the schedule does not contain a separate class for "Evenly Marked," an even-marked bird will certainly be eligible to compete in the class for "Ticked, Marked, and Variegated."

Accommodation (Cray Wanderer).—No, you could not keep 12 hens and four cocks in the aviary 6ft. by 4ft., and 4ft. high, for breeding with any chance of success. Indeed, you are lucky to have reared 13 from three pairs in it, if by that you mean you had three cocks and three hens flying loose. You should put in not more than four hens and one strong, lusty young cock, between one and two years old, for preference. Remove the first round of young when they are well on seed.

The Rumer-up Singer (P. D.).—Next to the Roller I consider the Border Fancy the best singing Canary, as its song is not so loud as that of most of the larger breeds generally regarded as singers. After the Border I should place others in this order: Lizard, Yorkshire, Norwich. Of the largest breeds, which are not usually regarded as singers, such as Crests or Lancashires, I personally prefer their song to that of the ordinary Norwich or Yorkshire. But it is of a different type, being more mellow, soft, or flutelike, instead of shrill and screechy.

Colour Feeding, Etc. (R.R.T.).—Do you mean to say all the birds you have which are colour fed (and are you sure that they really are fed?) become wheezy, and that none of those unfed become similarly affected? If so, then your experience is very different from my own and hundreds of others. As a matter of fact I am quite sure colour-fed birds are no more susceptible to wheeziness than un-fed ones, even if colour feeding is discontinued at any moult. I am inclined to think the trouble arises from your subjecting the birds to a different method of treatment, most likely a lower and more variable temperature. Keep the affected birds in a comfortable and equable temperature, quite free from draughts or damp, and feed for a month as advised to "W Twyford," except for the first fortnight, during which give the sponge cake as advised to "No Song." In the drinking water give every second day for a week 6 drops of dandelion juice and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, and afterwards every second day for a fortnight the chlorodyne mixture mentioned in reply to "T.T." If the birds are not then better, write again and give full particulars of your feeding hitherto, the condition under which birds are kept, and to what extent the trouble exists.

Difficult Breathing (F.S.).—I am afraid if the bird is not exposed to draughts or extreme fluctuations of temperature now, it has been so exposed in the past. The gilded wire cage, I surmise, is open wire all round, and probably more pretty than practical. A box cage, hung in a nice bright position within the room—not in or close to a window—is quite a necessity to aid its recovery. Treat for a month as advised to "T. T.," repeating the dosage with salts mixture at end of the first fortnight, and report progress at end of month. Please refer to this reply when reporting progress.

Marking Canaries (Novice).—A rubber stamp of your name, initials, or monogram, and deep violet aniline ink is the best method of marking birds for your purpose. An impression should be made across three or four of the larger flights or tail feathers, holding the feathers just nicely spread out, and on a flat surface whilst making the impression. Hold the bird in left hand, keep feathers outspread with tips of thumb and forefinger, and hold feathers just over edge of a table, or similar hard, flat surface, and lying flat on surface to make impression. Press stamp on feathers evenly and gently; do not strike a blow.

Kind of Stove (L. B. W.).—I have no experience at all of the stove you name. But practically any kind that can be depended upon to keep going without constant attention at frequent intervals, to maintain a fairly regular degree of heat, and to give off the minimum of fumes or smoke, will answer the purpose. You can, of course, get stoves guaranteed not to smoke or smell, but my advice is do not trust one without the cover and flue, as mentioned in last reply. It will be decidedly safest to close the bottom of chimney after fixing the flue from stove, as if left quite open there will be no reliable upward "draught," and consequently a considerable risk of the room getting filled with fumes at times.

Improving Rollers' Song (W. H.).—A "natural gift" of course goes a long way, and all Rollers have it more or less, but training is the great point which teaches the birds how to utilise the gift. The 1910 bird has probably got its song quite fixed by this time, and it is very doubtful if hearing a good bird will improve it much. Therefore if it possesses any decidedly faulty notes, do not put it under the good singer, as it would be far more likely to corrupt than to learn better itself. The 1911 bird will still be susceptible to tuition. Place him beside the good singer, and cover his cage over until he is beginning to sing nicely after moulting. Cover him sufficiently close to prevent him singing much, and concentrate his attention on the tutor until he has had a few weeks' tuition.

Roller Getting Loud (H. W. B.).—It is not very unusual for these birds even when well trained to become loud in song after a time, and it is no fault of the dealers. Keeping it in a cabinet cage, or a box cage well covered, for a time, will very often, but not invariably, correct the fault. You should certainly try this method for a month or so, and during the time feed on a staple of good, mild, nutty flavoured rape seed only. Twice a week give a morsel of bred and milk the size of a hazel nut, sprinkled with maw; on two other days a pinch of a mixture of one part each gold of pleasure and maw, and a half part linseed; and three times a week a spray of watercress.

Warming a Shed (Cymro).—Most decidedly you would do far better not to attempt any heating of any kind whatever than to try to warm the shed with "an ordinary house lamp." If your birds are bred under normal conditions and have not been hitherto accustomed to artificial heat, there is no reason at all why they should not thrive very well without it, provided the shed is well built, cosy and quite free from draughts and damp. If gas is available, a small portable hot water coil heated with gas would be as cheap as anything. Even if you had an oil-stove, it would be necessary to have a cover made for it, and a flue to carry off fumes into the open air. Candidly I think you will do best to try to dispense with heat. If the weather becomes very severe, you could put a large earthenware bottle, corked, of very hot water in the centre of room each night when birds were going to roost, which would be sufficient to keep out frost. See also reply to "L. B. W."

Canaries in Outdoor Aviary (G. Bailey).—The heavy panting of your birds probably indicates one of two things. Either your birds are not physically "fit" for outdoor life, or the aviary is not suited to the needs of Canary life. Examine the sleeping quarters well when the wind blows from different points of the compass to see whether it is free from cold draughts, also see if it is quite free from damp and impervious to rain; finally take notice of the birds about roost time, and see if they retire in a snug part of the covered-in section, or sleep in exposed situations in the open. All these are likely causes of the birds' condition, and must be remedied if present. Otherwise, the only remedy is to take them indoors and keep them in an unheated room until next spring. For remedial treatment to remove the effects, see reply to "T. T.," in this issue, which will fully meet your case. I am assuming the aviary has a proper covered-in section. You should have described its structure and position.

Twists his Head (H. Murphy).—Try what the following treatment will do, and report progress in, say, a month. Keep bird quiet in an equable place, free from draughts and not too cold. Give a staple diet of two parts canary to one part summer rape. Every second day give a quarter teaspoonful of maw, and on the alternate days a spray of chickweed or watercress. Once a week give a morsel of bread and milk, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and on one other day half-a-teaspoonful of equal parts inga, teazle, and millet. Use no hemp at all for the time being. In the drinking water add as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, and half as much bromide of potash every second day for a week, and in the next week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day. Repeat this in the same order in the two following weeks.

Hangs Head (W. Twyford).—This may simply be due to habit. Still, as your feeding is not correct, adopt the following method, which may cause the bird to carry its head more sensibly: Staple diet, plain canary only. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape. Twice a week, on the alternate days, give a similar quantity of egg food, or crushed sponge cake, or bread and milk, and once a week a small teaspoonful of the seed mixture advised to "Birdie." Give a morsel of sweet apple, or banana, or greenstuff three times a week. In the drinking water you may give 20 drops of whisky and six of syrup of huckthorn for two days. Nothing else necessary.

A Listless Hen (H. Tite).—I strongly suspect this bird is exposed to cold draughts or great fluctuations of temperature sometimes. Look well into this and guard against these causes. Keep the hen quite on the warm side until the feathers of the head have been moulted and appear quite fine again. Feed as advised to "Birdie," giving the prepared sponge cake as advised in reply to "No Song," and vary the apple you give with an occasional morsel of banana or spray of watercress. In the drinking water give six drops of dandelion juice, and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and in the following week give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

Laboured Breathing (Birdie).—Yes, I certainly do advise you to keep the bird in a box cage, in a nice bright position free from draughts, and in a fairly comfortable temperature until next spring. See reply to "No Song" in this issue, and adopt the same treatment. As regards feeding, give a staple of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together, and twice a week give a small teaspoonful of a mixture two parts each hemp, inga, and millet, one part each black rape, teazle and linseed, and a half part each gold of pleasure and maw. Limit the diet to this, with, of course, the sponge cake mentioned in the other reply referred to, and a little green food three or four times a week.

Canary with Cough (T. T.).—First of all take any necessary steps to remove the cause, such as cold, draughts, extremes of heat and cold, etc. Keep in a fairly comfortable and equable place. In addition to the staple seed diet, give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a pinch of hemp and a little green food or banana. Limit the dietary solely to this. In the drinking water give 20 drops of whisky, as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and half as much chlorate of potash for three consecutive days, and afterwards give 20 drops of the following mixture every second day for a week or fortnight as may seem necessary. Mixture: Two drams each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one dram each of ipecacuanha wine, and chlorodyne, and eight grains of iodide of potassium.

A Yorkshire Duet (Star).—(1) If the bird is quite through the moult, put on a diet of plain canary seed. In addition, give separately half-a-teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of the conditioner mentioned in "Our Canaries," and sprinkled with maw. Continue this for a fortnight, also add to the drinking water six drops of dandelion juice and a crystal of sulphate of soda the size of a small pea every second day for a week. (2) For the clear buff cock, get a nice long, slim, upstanding, ticked or wing marked buff hen. Have as much length as you can get consistent with slimness, but see that the bird is quite tight and smooth in feather about the breast and thighs. For the ticked yellow hen, get a good long, clear or lightly ticked or marked buff cock, with plenty of style, good carriage, and a nice round head and short beak, and smooth feathered. Of course, you must see that the birds match in other general points.

Hen Gone Bald (C. B. L. Metber).—Keep the hen in a fairly warm temperature, as equable as possible, and quite free from draughts, or the fumes of burning lights, and allow her to bathe freely in order to induce a quick and complete normal moult. Give a staple diet of plain canary. Every second day give separately half-a-teaspoonful of summer rape, and on the alternate days a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, dusted over with flowers of sulphur and sprinkled with soft sugar. Once a week give a small teaspoonful of the seed mixture advised to "Birdie," and a little green food three times a week. In the drinking water give 20 drops of whisky, a few blades of saffron, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, then miss a week, and repeat same again for another week. Carefully moisten the bare places once a week with Lanocyllin. The bird should come through the moult all right.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES, AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

Hawfinch Moulting (W. A.).—It is not unusual for a Hawfinch when moulting to look (and be) practically bare about the head and body for a time. But the new plumage puts in an appearance at last, and the bird soon looks spick and span again. If the latter has not yet come to pass in the case of your own bird, write me again, and give full particulars. Give him a few mealworms frequently; a little soft food, too, is invariably relished at the period of the moult.

Concerns a Jay (Jay-pie).—An excellent show-cage for a Jay was illustrated on our front page a few weeks ago, when a portrait of a winning Magpie appeared thereon. It can be either plain box pattern, or with the wire front bowed a little at the top. Wires 1¼ or 1½ inches apart and of stout gauge. Size about 24 inches long, 20 inches high, and 16 inches deep. Two substantial perches. Food and water vessels (preferably of zinc) inside, fitting into openings cut into the lower rail of the cage-front. The inside and wires can be enamelled either a light blue or a light green. The food is supplied by the officials of the show; fill the bird's tin before it starts, of course. Some exhibitors send a quantity of food with the cage, as a rule in a small tin. But at all shows worthy of the name the birds' wants are well looked after by the stewards, who supply food where necessary. Your method of feeding is quite good; a little flesh food (such as newly-killed mice) should be supplied now and again.

Identity of Bird (Worcester).—The birds you describe are Blue Tits (Parus Coeruleus). They are, as you say, very sharp little creatures, and no doubt in your city they will be rather more saucy than usual (no flowers, by request).

About a Thrush (E. R. C.).—You say your feeding is all right; but I don't think much of it, for the half and half mixture you mention is not very nutritious or calculated to preserve a Thrush in vigorous health. For the bird with the throat trouble, get a small quantity of glycerin of thymol from a chemist, stir a teaspoonful into a fluid ounce of warm water, and swab out the bird's mouth and throat thoroughly with it twice daily—a camel-hair brush of suitable size is about the handiest thing to do it with. A few drops of the glycerin of thymol can also be stirred into the bird's drinking water. Keep its perches scrupulously clean (scrub them).

In an Aviary (W. H. C.).—Your aviary looks a comfortable sort of place, but during very stormy weather you will, I think, find it necessary to protect the open space at the front, seeing that it faces due north. Of course, it may be erected in a well sheltered position; as to this you say nothing. It will comfortably hold 18 to 24 birds the size of a Linnet. A cock Roller Canary might breed with a hen Bullfinch, but unless the hen is a very small one, he cannot be described as a really suitable mate, for under-sized Hybrids have very little value. The cage seems quite suitable. Feed as advised in the Nutshell booklet on the Bullfinch. Let the couple remain together through the winter.

Tightness of Feather (Swan Novice).—A good moult, a free use of bath, and freedom from insect pests, are all that are needed to ensure perfection of plumage (tightness and sheen) in exhibition British birds. A bath twice a week is no good; my birds bathe every day, and some I know take the opportunity of having two or three splashes in the course of the day. Any shy at bathing get the spray turned on them. Your hen Siskin must be troubled with insects, or skin parasites, or she would not be in such bad plumage and continually picking herself all over. Try spraying her well on several occasions (different days) with a warm solution of sulphuretted potash (one dram to a pint of water). Keep her out of draughts and the cold whilst she gets dry. Her cage must be thoroughly cleansed, of course.

A Big Batch (Sarsfield).—(1) Treat this Siskin as advised "Never Before" in this issue. Add some teazle and a little summer rape to its stock mixture. (2) Hen Siskins are not "dependable" breeders, as you put it; sometimes, however, they nest quite freely in a cage. If your hens were not house-moulted, you may have better fortune with them next season. (3) I do not know of an instance, but there is no reason why a cock Mealy Redpoll should not breed with any suitable hen Finch. (4) Your aviary would easily accommodate four couples. Note another reply given this week concerning breeding in aviaries. Don't put in a hen Goldfinch if you want to put in cocks also. One of the latter would pair up with her, and all the cocks would probably fight on her account. One cock and one hen, of course, would not matter. I think it would be better if you put in one hen Bullfinch and left out one of the hen Siskins. I wish you luck.

Sex Problem (Tired of Finches).—Rather a sad nom-de-plume, surely; don't be downhearted. The male Blackcap has a jet-black crown; the female a cap of rusty brown. The safest way to sex Woodlarks and Nightingales is by means of the song. In both cases the male is holder in appearance, and not so shy and maidenish in its actions when in a cage. The hen Woodlark, however, is generally the better marked (pencilled) in plumage, and the deepest (richer brown) in colour. In the case of the Gale, you want to select a big bird, long and flat in the head, bold of eye, and with a bright ruddy patch of colour on the rump. The hen is invariably more dingy in colour throughout.

Mainly About the Song of Mules (H. C. P.).—1. The Linnet mule has a rather fuller and more mellow volume of tone; the song of the Goldie mule has something of the metallic, high-pitched tone peculiar to the music of the Goldfinch. Both can be described as fine songsters, so take your choice. 2. No; Linnet mules are not always dark. Quite clear Linnet mules are occasionally exhibited (for instance, I gave one first prize at the last Crystal Palace Show). 3. A six-year Linnet is not by any means too old for breeding purposes, providing he is in vigorous health. 4. The Siefert Roller cock would teach the mules some of his own notes, but the song of mules would spoil the song of the young Rollers (from the Roller contest point of view). 5. I know of no reason why a "so-called schoolmaster Seifert Roller cock" should not be good for breeding purposes. Rollers are generally very prolific breeders. What do you mean by "so-called"? I presume there is no doubt as to its sex.

A Greenfinch Mule Failure (Grosbeak).—After all, your failure was only partial, for some of the eggs proved fertile. It is possible that the cause of the fertile eggs failing to hatch was some weakness on the part of the hen—eight clutches in one season are surely too many, especially for a four year-old hen. I think 3 or 4 nests ample; and all nests beyond these must put a severe tax upon a hen's vitality. The latter remark applies also to the Greenfinch, especially so seeing that your bird was cage-reared, for I find cage-reared specimens are invariably not at their best from a breeding point of view until they are two years old. Try him again next season, by all means; and, if possible, with a two-year-old hen Canary (or an early-hatched 1911 hen). The nest-pan you send may not have had anything to do with the failure: at the same time, it is not a type of pan I should choose myself. I do not consider it deep enough, for one thing, and there are no holes in it for purpose of ventilation.

A Bullfinch (First and Special).—It usually happens that one feels disappointed with a bird when it begins to come through the moult—it looks more or less rough in plumage, and very lacking in colour. This applies to Linnets, Goldies, and most other species. When it begins to "fine down," however, we come to regard it with very different feelings, for, to and behold, the plumage falls into place and acquires a silken sheen, the apparently vanished colour begins to return, and the characteristic markings to become more prominent. Then we begin to think of that "first and special" at the very first show! Your treatment of your Bullfinch is very good, and you will find him continue to improve. But if he does not bathe freely, he must certainly be sprayed. Some birds are very annoying in this respect. I have a Linnet now which will not go near the "tub," although its three companions enjoy a regular Channel swim every time I offer them water, and, needless to say, the latter are in by far the best condition. Your bird may not care for soft food; if he does, then a little with some sweet pepper amongst it might help his colour. But the black and privet berries are the chief things. An exhibition Bullie should be got as rich as possible in breast colour. Heat is not good for British Finches.

Goldfinch Mules (A. H.).—As a mate for a good sized cock Goldfinch you cannot beat a yellow hen of Norwich type (that is, chubby in build). For dark mules, a green-marked yellow hen (either lightly or heavily variegated) is to be preferred. The best book on mule breeding and management is Mr. Houlton's big work published by CAGE BIRDS (see advertisements). It contains sixteen coloured plates. A very useful cheaper book is "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding," also published by CAGE BIRDS (price 1s. 2d. post free). I do not know of any book which deals solely with Goldfinch Mules, though matter concerning this cross goes a long way towards filling all books dealing with the breeding and management of hybrids.

A Wild Seed (J. Golden).—I cannot give you the precise name of the plant from which the seeds came, but it is one of the Brassicas, a group comprising the wild rapes, mustard, charlock, cabbages, etc., and the seeds of many of the members of this group are practically identical in appearance. A little occasionally will not come amiss to Greenfinches, Linnets, etc., but I don't think any Goldfinch will eat it. I prefer a wild seed mixture containing a large variety of seeds; some good ones are on the market. The seed of the turnip, cabbage, etc., kind ("wild rapes") are not easy of digestion, and in my opinion should be used with caution in the case of birds in cages. The only kind of which I use any quantity is charlock.

A Robin and One Other (Mrs. Hoffmann).—1. You can buy a ready-made good quality insectile food, suitable for a Robin, Nightingale, etc., as cheaply (or as nearly so as makes no matter), as you can mix it yourself. Price, 1/3 to 2/- per lb. (note the advertisement columns). The following is a fine recipe, used for many years by myself with every success: Powdered sweet biscuit (or half biscuit, half crumbled stale sponge cake) four parts, best ants' eggs two parts, dried flies, powdered silkworm pupae, and powdered meat-meal (the finest ground crissel) one part of each, by measure. Prepare for use in the usual way. 2. It is useless to attempt to cross a Robin (an insectivorous bird) with a Canary (a seed-eating bird). 3. There will be no young. 4. If the Green is a proved breeder, it is unnecessary to run him with the hen Canary until about the beginning of March. If he has never bred with a Canary, let him run with the hen for a time during the winter.

In a Room (G. Armitage).—I do not care for the idea of turning out several couples into the same enclosure with a view to breeding hybrids, unless, that is, the aviary or room is a very large one, and yours is hardly this. The birds quarrel and interfere with each others nesting arrangements. For instance, two hen Bullies in your room would probably fight like Kilkenny cats when the breeding season came round. If you decide to go ahead, try the following three couples: Siskin and Redpoll, Linnet and Bullfinch, and Goldfinch and Greenfinch. You could, of course, try Chaffinch and Bramble-finch, Reed Bunting and Yellowhammer, Siskin and Bullfinch (the two latter being in the nature of experimental matings), or other crosses. Keep only one bird of each species. If you want the birds to "stick to" each other, it would be better to cage them in couples until the winter is drawing to a close.

Goldfinch Ailing (Never Before).—I can only conjecture that the Goldie is finding a difficulty in withstanding the strain of the moult. In many cases it is puzzling, in view of the fact that one cannot see the birds, to decide the nature of their ailments. Give the Finch a course of strengthening medicine, and feed him well, letting him have some thistle heads daily (or new thistle seed) and cracked hemp and sunflower seeds—a little niger, too, would no doubt help to tempt him to feed. Give him thistle-heads, if you can procure them, with tiny maggots at the centre (break the heads open). These maggots are plentiful in thistle-heads which are decaying (rotting through damp, etc.), and usually work wonders in the case of a Goldie a little bit "off colour." For medicine, get from a chemist one ounce of compound syrup of hypophosphates B.P. (Fellows syrup), and stir a half teaspoonful into two tablespoonfuls of drinking water. Give this fresh daily for four days, then on alternate days over a period of a fortnight.

Show Cage For Waxwing (Waxwing).—The show cage for a Waxwing can be either the plain box pattern or with the wire-front bowed a little at the top (in the manner of the show cage of the Crested Canary). The bow top, in the opinion of many exhibitors, enables the wings and crest of the bird to be seen to better advantage. Size: Length 18, height 16, width 10 inches, or thereabouts. The water and food vessels should be inside—the type that swing in through openings cut out of the lower rail at front of the cage. The wires should be one inch apart, and the front made of fairly stout gauge wire. Outside, black; inside and wires a pronounced tone of blue (turquoise blue is a fine, rich shade). A little paler shade can be used if you prefer it. Some exhibitors like three perches, others two. If you have only two, the cage need not be made quite so high. Whichever you adopt see that the bird can reach its food and water easily whilst standing on them. I have found that Waxwings are liable to starve and "go thick" rather than venture on to the show cage floor to get at food and water. Even the strangeness of the cage makes some of them very timid, so that they sit for hours apparently afraid to move. Moral: give them a chance to get used to their show cages.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S., etc.

Aviary Queries.

Aviary.—During exceptionally severe weather the birds would be better driven into the shelter and kept shut up. Of course, you do not wish to encourage breeding during the winter, and it is good practice to drive the birds inside at night (say, about 4 p.m.), and let them out each morning, but with plenty of snug nests about under the roof they should winter all right, leaving them to look after themselves. Be careful that none lack food, but it would be good policy gradually to move all food hoppers into the shelter and feed only there during the winter. Keep the canvas in position on the north front of flight till end of March. I should cover in the front of covered flight, as marked on sketch, with wood and glass. In addition to present dietary give a little of some good insectile mixture daily. Unless the weather turns exceptionally severe the young Zebra Waxbills will be reared. Get "Nutshell" booklet No. 20, 2½d. post free from our manager. Put up both in the shelter and covered flight several flask-shaped rush nests; these are snug winter retreats. You could put in an extra score of birds next spring—not larger than Canaries though, or you must put in half the quantity. Birds in the winter must be kept under observation, and if any appear ailing such must be taken indoors and kept there till spring. Sometimes this occurs with birds that have been out several winters; so long as they keep fit they will do well—much the same as ourselves in this respect.

To Agree with Budgerigars.

A Beginner.—You can keep with the Budgerigars one pair each of Madagascar Lovebirds, Cockatoels, and Rosella Parrakeets. They would all thrive on a mixture of three parts each of canary and white millet seed and one part each hemp, paddy rice, oats, and sunflower seeds—to be well mixed. Also supply spray millet, ripe fruit, green food, cuttlebone, grit, and a piece or two of plain biscuit (dry) occasionally for a change. Your aviary being so narrow largely nullifies its height; it is a pity to make aviaries narrower than three feet (unless unavoidable); wherever possible the depth should be six feet. Unless your birds come from an outdoor aviary, you must not put them out till next spring.

Goldfinches and Sunbirds.

G. J. Green.—Yes, Himalayan Goldfinches should be worth bringing over, and a moderate number should find a ready and profitable market, as also would any other showy seed-eaters or insectivorous species which you do not see regularly advertised in the Fancy Press. Re Sunbirds, diet these as follows: A sloppy sop made with condensed milk, boiling water, crumbled sponge cake, a little Mellin's food, and sweetened with honey. Also ripe fruit, they are very fond of tangerine oranges. They are also fond of small spiders and various plant lice. They would require keeping warm and clean en route.

Bare-eyed Cockatoo.

Tilswell.—Diet: A seed mixture of Canary, white millet, paddy rice, oats, maize, hemp, and sunflower seeds, in about equal parts by measure; well mix and keep a supply in the cage. Also supply ripe fruit, nuts, green food, plain biscuit (dry), grit, cuttlebone, and water. As regards training, you can do nothing till it has settled down and become accustomed to you. Then you should keep it in your midst, where it will get plenty of company and hear conversation, also talk to it and teach it by constant repetition when it is quiet and restful, and it should soon respond. Petting it and generally making a fuss of it, so far as it will permit this, will go a long way towards developing its latent talents.

Foreign Finches.

Siskin.—(1) The wild English Siskin is something like a small green Canary, but they are handsome birds, as also are all the foreign species, one of which, the Hooded Siskin, is fiery orange-red and black. Diet: Canary, white millet, spray millet, rape, hemp, and a little wild seed mixture, with greenfood, grit, cuttlebone and water. Not impossible, but doubtful breeders in a Canary breeding cage. (2) These are handsome, sweet singing little birds, smaller than a Canary—olive-green above with dark centres to feathers, mostly rich yellow below. Diet as in reply No.1 (3) These are handsome birds, fully as large as a Canary, yellowish-olive-green above, rich yellow below; the cock has the forehead and anterior portion of crown rich saffron. Diet as above, but they would be better for a mealworm or two daily (or other insects), though they will keep vigorous and fit for a long time on seed above.

Blue-fronted Amazon.

King Amazon: (1) Supply boiled maize, which must be prepared fresh daily, as it soon turns sour. Also supply a seed mixture of canary, white millet, oats, white maize, hemp, paddy rice and sunflower seeds, in about equal parts by measure. Well mix and keep a supply in the cage. Ripe fruit, nuts, and plain biscuits should also be given, and, of course, cuttlebone, grit, and water. (2) Keep it where it will hear plenty of conversation, yet not get frequently scared. When it is quiet and restful, talk to it and teach it by constant repetition of words and short phrases. Also generally fuss about with it, and as it becomes quite fearless and confiding it will find its tongue. (3) Get some glyco-thymoline, dilute with an equal bulk of water, and spray the bird's nostrils daily, using a mist sprayer; continue this till relief is given. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever.

Grey Parrot Query.

Kensingtonian.—While it is difficult to break a Parrot of an established habit, undoubtedly quieter surroundings would gradually reduce its noisiness. A good method would be to cover it up (of course, leave a space open at top for ventilation) with a cloth; it would soon recognise this as a punishment. But this must be done gently so as not to scare it, or the remedy will be "worse than the disease." When it becomes quiet again uncover it. A little scolding when it is noisy will also go a long way to check the nuisance, and general petting and fussing with it when it is well behaved, will accomplish a great deal, for many Parrots are almost human in this respect. While I cannot make a definite pronouncement, there is so much individualism in Parrots, and it will undoubtedly take some time to check the habit. I should think it would be worth the trial, as it meets your requirements in all other respects.

Cockateels, Etc. (A. E. G.).—Cockateels should be kept in pairs. The nest barrel or box (the latter must have concave bottom) can be left up all the year round, but if they have not yet been put up defer doing so till next March. 1st, Black-headed Nuns; 2nd, Spice or Nutmeg Finches; 3rd, I think these must be Red-billed Weavers, but for this and the following cannot you give me a more detailed description? It is very vague, and when mentioning size compare it with some well-known bird—small and large are very comparative terms; 4th, it is not sufficient to tell me the face and breast is red; you must describe the other parts of the plumage before I can attempt to name the bird.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 2, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

Miss E. Kershaw.—Dysentery was responsible for death of your canary.

Wentworth.—Congestion with hæmorrhage from the lungs, as a complication following on cold caught during the moult.

E. Young.—Congestion of the liver. This organ was greatly enlarged, contained a great amount of blood, and very friable. To counteract this give twice weekly a dose of glauber salts in the drinking water, and allow freely of green food.

O. M. Stephens.—Brain pressure, owing to the presence of a large clot of blood on the surface of the brain. This apoplectic condition is often associated with degenerative changes of the arterial walls of the vessels ramifying on the coverings of the brain; rupture occurs as the result. The bony skull being inexpansible the brain is subjected to pressure with paralysis of those parts supplied by these nerve centres. At first the pressure would be slight; later, as the clot became organised, the increased pressure would result in death. I do not think you could have assisted the bird in any way; it is invariably fatal, death in the majority of cases occurring rapidly.

A. P., West Grange.—Septicæmia (not septic fever)—a blood infection due to a specific microbe, very quickly fatal. It is a malignant disease affecting the liver, spleen, and lungs, the two former being very enlarged, and surcharged with blood. It is of the nature of a blood poisoning, the organism gaining access to the circulation through the medium of the lungs. In this position they multiply very rapidly, and manufacture toxins or poisons which quickly become distributed throughout the system, and cause death. Sometimes it occurs as an epizootic, at other times it occurs spontaneously in isolated cases without contagion. It would be advisable, however, to use all due precautions, and to disinfect the cage before re-occupation.

J. W. Crow.—The disease from which your birds are dying is of the same nature as above (see reply to "A. P., West Grange"), and the cage is the source of infection. This cage may appear to you perfectly clean, but is nevertheless contaminated, and you will do well to have it thoroughly disinfected, and placed apart for some time before you attempt to use it again. In your case the lungs were the most affected part, but all the other characters were present, and I believe that if you will only follow my directions with regard to the removal and disinfection of the cage your losses will soon cease, otherwise the disease will extend and cause you a great deal of loss and trouble.

J. W. Gillett.—Acute inflammation of the bowels, following on disease of the liver, caused death. The liver, which appeared to have been diseased for some time, was very much larger than it should have been, and was covered with blood spots. Read answer to "A. E. Smith"; same remarks apply. Give careful attention to your utensils. Death from disease of the liver appears to be on the increase. I have lately encountered quite a large percentage of deaths from this cause, and can only conclude that there is something materially wrong with the food or the method of feeding.

A. E. Smith.—The weather has no connection whatever with the loss, but I am of the belief that the cause is to be sought for in the food. You had better discard the seed you are at present using, and purchase a fresh supply from another source. There are some foreign or irritant substances at work, and although you have not described the diet I feel assured it is here the trouble exists. The digestive stomach which usually contains only very little food, and that in a semi-fluid state, was in this instance literally crammed with dry masses of undigested food. The liver, from its being so enlarged, occupied most of the body cavity, and it is certain that to attain such a degree of size the cause must have been at work for some time. Should be pleased to hear results.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

At the "Swan" (F. Westmore).—Your communication was posted too late to reach us in time for publication in our last issue.

A Purchased Bird (H. W. Cook).—Thanks for your courteous letter.

Which Court (A. A.).—We are of opinion that the plaintiff is entitled to sue you in the County Court for the district in which his business premises are situated.

Several Questions (T. Williamson).—We do not remember receiving any question concerning poppy-seed. Your present questions have been sent to Mr. St. John, who will reply in his columns next week.

Hall's Distemper (W. Parfitt).—This article is very widely advertised and sold, and we should have thought you could have obtained it in any quantity without difficulty at metropolitan oil and colour shops, or painters and decorators. The makers (Messrs. Sissons, of Hull) would no doubt supply you direct if you applied to them.

The Novice Problem (A Novice).—If the selling class and the class with 3 birds in it were open classes, we think the fact that you won firsts in them would deprive you of your novice status. Selling classes are not always taken into consideration (it depends upon the rules of a society). But the other class would stand, unless the society chose to overlook such a win.

The Open Time (L. T.).—We are under the impression that there is practically no open time for catching near Barnsley (i.e., in the West Riding of Yorkshire). All of the birds usually kept by fanciers (such as the Goldfinch, Bullfinch, Linnet, and other seed-eaters, Larks, Song Thrush, etc.), are protected the year round. The only notable exceptions seem to be the Greenfinch, Blackbird, and Missel Thrush, and for these the open season is from August 12 to the last day in February.

Waiting for Two Years' Prize-money from Wellington Show.

Sir,—I was pleased to see Mr. G. Edwards' letter re Wellington (Salop) show. I might add that he is not so badly off as some of the other exhibitors. Personally, I am still waiting for my prize-money won last year, as well as that won this. Like Mr. Edwards, I cannot get any reply from the secretary. I would suggest that the exhibitors at the last two shows club together and take action in the matter. I sincerely hope now this subject has been reopened that it will not be allowed to drop without something being done.

Settling the Red-mites.

"Keep them on the Run." Says Our Correspondent.

Sir,—This season we have heard a great deal of red mite. Everyone says what a good year we have had for them. They are also putting forward a lot of things to "cure" them. Now there is only one way to cure them, or, rather, keep them under, and that is to keep them on the run. It does not matter how many fads you try; cleanliness is the best cure. By this I mean, when you clean out a cage do it properly. Then I venture to say you will not be troubled to a great extent with red mite. Don't forget, prevention is better than cure.

Interesting Records from a Scottish Bird-lover.

Sir,—This is a record year here (North Ayrshire) for Swallows and House Martins. I never remember seeing so many large flocks. I often see the birds skimming over a pond close to where I work, and dipping into the water and catching flies on the surface. The summer migrants have left this district earlier than usual this year. I have not seen or heard a Cuckoo since June 15th. They were scarcer here this year than is generally the case. The Swifts also left this locality earlier than usual. I was looking for them on August 20th, but they were all away. Although the summer of 1911 was a very fine one, a pair of Starlings I have been watching only reared one brood. They have practically built in the same place for the last twenty years, and have reared twenty-eight broods in that time. Twelve broods were reared in twelve years, one brood in each year, and sixteen broods were reared in eight years, two broods in each year. Of course, I am referring to the number of broods in the season, and cannot say that the parents were the same birds.

Is the Yorkshire Canary on the Down Grade?

The Bird Quite Long Enough says the Writer; and Mere Length Not of Paramount Importance.

Sir,—Your contributor, "Longfellow," must, I think, have been suffering from one of three complaints when he penned his article on this subject—tight boots, an attack of biliousness, or disappointed-exhibitoritis. He complains that the winning birds are too small. I hope they will keep small—that is, if they are small. The present-day Yorkshire is quite large enough for me and thousands of other breeders. It is all very well trotting out the old wheeze about our highly-respected judge of the days that are gone. Friend Bexson always did like a "good big 'un," but that does not say he was right. As a matter of fact, more than once in his career did the Yorkshire Union call his attention to the fact that according to the standard those "good big 'uns" of which he was so fond were not quite O.K., and it was in great measure because of his fondness for the "good big 'uns" that the Yorkshire Union standard was drawn up. "Longfellow" speaks of two All-England judges both of whom are to be numbered amongst the devotees of the "good big 'uns," but I would ask him if either of the two could even be called a Yorkshire specialist? As to what Cage Birds reporter had to say at the last Crystal Palace Show, one Swallow does not make a summer, and the fact that one man, at one show, thought that one particular class of Yorkshires were deficient in size does not prove that the Yorkshire variety generally is on the down grade in this respect. Mr. Mundell judged the class complained about, and I am quite sure that he is not the man to put Yorkshires in the prize list that are of the size of the Borders, about which "Longfellow" speaks more than once. Quality is a fad, says "Longfellow." I reckon that the majority of fanciers would not agree. It is a property they all strive to attain, and one which they find to be of a very elusive nature. Quality "the ruination of the Yorkshire Canary." Great Scot! Surely "Longfellow" must have been quaffing Yorkshire stingo when he wrote that sentence? "Longfellow" talks of birds of 6¾ and over. Yes, we want them 6¾, but not over. The "over" brings in its train heavy shoulders, roached backs, open chests, fluffy thighs, and other ills that are an abomination, and quite opposed to the standard prepared by the Yorkshire Union, and adopted by the Yorkshire C.C. and other clubs. If "Longfellow" will produce a 6¾ bird which excels everything else in "position, type, and quality," I feel sure that Mr. Mundell will place it first at the next Palace Show. Further, "Longfellow" will have produced something of which he may well be proud. "Longfellow" must have a very poor opinion of our judges. Does he mean to say that such men as Messrs. Heath, Mundell, Battye, and House would be influenced by the awards of any other judges? Does he think for one moment that either of that quartette would, when judging, stop to look for a mark on the bird's head or under its tail? "Longfellow" argues as though length was the chief of all points in the Yorkshire. It is nothing of the sort. Type, position, and feather are all quite as important as length, and it is the beautiful combination of the four which makes a high-class Yorkshire. He goes on to speak about the Y.C.C. taking action and amending matters. By this I presume he means altering the standard to admit the "good big 'uns." I would remind him that the standard is the Yorkshire Union standard, and that if the Y.C.C. starts playing pranks with it there will be trouble in the camp. We have had big birds in the past; we do not want them again. Let "Longfellow" ask Mr. J. Bailey which is the correct thing in Yorkshires—the birds he has done so much winning with of late years or those he used to exhibit at the time he worked the first feather shows only? Let him ask John and Matt Broadley, Joe Wilman, Tom Bennett, Harry Battye, Pa Mundell, Jerry Wilkinson, Tommy Hartley, Joe Wilcock, Albert Hirst, John Greaves, Bob Sutcliffe, Arthur Ambler, and others who know the past as well as the present, which style of bird is nearest the standard—that of fifteen and twenty years since, or that of to-day. I may be wrong, but "Longfellow," I should say, is a man who has tasted the sweets of success, but just now is sampling the bitters. It is hard to reach the top of the tree, but it is harder still to keep the position once attained. It is useless "Longfellow" thinking standards can be altered to suit the whims and fancies of any man. If "Longfellow" will only produce and stage birds answering to standard requirements, I feel certain he will catch the eye of the judges. He will not then want the Y.C.C. "to amend matters," neither will he say the judges prefer Borders, or birds which have distinguishing marks—above all, his attack of disappointed-exhibitoritis will disappear.

The London and Provincial O.S. Collection of Stuffed Birds.

Sir,—While thanking you for your kind assistance in previous years, I again, on behalf of the London and Provincial O.S., crave a little of your valuable space to thank the donors who have, since the issue of my last appeal, sent me birds for the above collection, and, at the same time, now that the birds are getting through the moult and in good feather, to appeal again to birdkeepers to send any birds in good plumage they may have the misfortune to lose to Messrs. Edward Gerrard and Sons, 61, College Place, Camden Town, London, N.W., who have my instructions as to stuffing. There are now almost 100 birds in the collection, but I still am open to receive many more, and I may mention that I have not a single Green, Cinnamon, or Border or Scotch Fancy, or Belgian. Many classes of hybrids and of British birds are unrepresented, and I still want legions of foreign birds. The only complete classes are the following:—Crested Norwich, Buff cock, varg.; ditto, Yellow cock; Yorkshire, clear Yellow; Lizard, Gold, broken cap; Chaffinch. Various other classes may be represented, but in some cases perhaps the stuffed bird has not given me satisfaction, consequent on delay in receiving specimens, or from other causes, and so I am still open to receive birds in such classes.

A Good Aviary at a Moderate Cost.

Sir,—I enclose a sketch of my aviary, which I think answers its purpose very well, while its cost (£2 to £3) is comparatively small. As will be seen from the sketch, it is composed of an inner shelter of wood and a wire flight, measuring over all 27ft. The wooden shed consists of jointed match-boarding, with windows in roof and in front, and two doors, one leading into the flight, and the other, for general use, in the front. The roof is covered with tarred felt and rendered water-tight. The wire flight consists of 2¼in. square supports and ½in. wire-netting, 3ft. broad; with a door leading into it at the end. The whole structure is built against a west wall, and is suitable for either British or foreign birds. The glass windows in the shed are covered with wire to prevent the escape of birds in case of breakage. I hope this may be of use to some of your readers.

Was "Bobbie" Spoiling for a Fight?

Sir,—I set some birdlime yesterday for Linnets. An inquisitive Robin got caught. I put him into my aviary to recover. Another Robin kept hovering about, apparently trying to get in beside him, and singing merrily. I believed them to be both male birds, and therefore thought the apparent affection and sympathy singular. I contrived to admit this "friend" into the aviary beside the other one; and what do you think happened? Within a few seconds he was doing his very best to kill the other, and would have done so within a few minutes had I not banished the would-be murderer.

A Recipe for Mahogany Stain.

Sir,—In reply to G. Eke, for a recipe for mahogany stain, I beg to send this, which costs 7d.:—1 gill methylated spirits; 3ozs. shellac; 1 dram of amber resin; 15 grains of bismarck brown—to stand 24 hours before being used.

Walter Evans.

Sir,—In answer to your correspondent, G. Eke, re mahegany stain, he should get 1oz. of bismarck brown (cost 3d. from any large oil shop or wholesale chemist's). Put two teaspoonsful into a half-pint bottle; partly fill with water, and shake till dissolved. Then fill up. In using, pour a little in a saucer, and apply with a soft sponge. If not dark enough, add more B.B. First see that woodwork is free from grease Varnish when dry.

The Beautiful and Intelligent Grey Parrot.

Practical Hints on Management.

Sir,—I send you a few remarks concerning Grey Parrots. My own bird was about nine months old when I bought him. For a year and three months he never said a word. Grey Parrots do not talk till they are two years old. What say others of your readers? Moral: Never give up hoping that a Grey Parrot will talk (for, at least, just over two years). He has been taught by constant repetition and by kindness. He is now four years old, in perfect health and plumage, and still learning, though he says, as distinctly as any human being, over three hundred different words, not reckoning any word twice. I have never attempted to teach him anything which he has proved unable to learn. He can learn any short sentence inside ten days (teaching about a quarter of an hour daily). The following I regard as typical (all of which he says): "Take Polly to Blackpool," "What time is it?" "Hello! How are you going on?" "Of course I can talk," "I'm one of the lads," "Polly's worth a lot of money," etc., etc. He is not for sale. His staple food is best canary seed, with occasionally (especially in winter) hemp and sunflower seed. He also has (in moderation) nuts, ripe fruit, dry crusts. In the season, two or three times weekly, I give him a spray of shepherd's purse, which he keenly relishes. In addition, always Parrot grit, wood (free from splinters), and clean empty cotton reels. He has his fill (not much) of water from a spoon morning, noon, and night. In summer, twice a week, I spray him with a fine bore hose-pipe; in winter, once a week, he has a spraying of lukewarm water from any ordinary bird spray. Most of the day time, except in cold weather, he is out of doors. Before purchasing a Parrot all ought to obtain your plate "Romeo and Juliet" (Grey Parrots, male and female), and the twopenny Nutshell booklet, entitled, "The Grey Parrot." Now a word regarding the "month's warranty," etc., of dealers. It is well known that the mortality amongst newly-imported Grey Parrots is high. The chief cause is the deadly "ship fever." According to Dr. Russ, after infection it takes this disease six weeks to incubate. Therefore, if the bird is infected coming over, it allows the dealer over a week to sell and also four weeks (a month) in which to "warrant" it. What is the result? A Parrot looks well and eats right though it may be infected with a deadly disease for which there is no cure. The four weeks pass, and Polly dies a few days after, in about 24 hours after first showing signs of ailing. When buying a Grey Parrot, ask for a guarantee of at least seven weeks (of course, on condition of paying more). If one survives over seven weeks you have a good chance with it; but a Grey is not really acclimatised until it has been in England at least a year, and has moulted once here. The preceding remarks apply only to Grey Parrots. Genuine Grey Parrots have red tails, a grey coloured body and wings, and no crest. Those without red tails and with crests and rose breasts are Cockatoos, and practically of no value as talkers. I have no axe to grind and no quarrel with anyone. I am writing in an attempt to help others to keep these beautiful and intelligent birds.

"Wigs on the Green" at Newcastle.

Sir,—I see in last week's issue that Mr. J. N. F. Scott makes a vigorous attack upon the committee of the Newcastle C.B.S. for an alleged lack of justice. Then he proves in his letter that they not only have been just, but very generous in allowing, as he states, about fifty members an extended time in which to pay their subscriptions. He states that the whole of the committee, except himself, voted for the extension of time. This is not correct, as less than half of the members were present at the meeting referred to. Perhaps Mr. Scott will be interested to learn that the chairman appears to have as poor an opinion of the committee as he himself has, for in previous years it has been the custom to hold committee meetings to transact show business, including the allotting of specials. But this time our chairman has very cleverly dispensed with the services of the committee and taken upon himself the task of allotting the specials, no explanation being given to the members as to how the thing had been worked—woe betide the member who dare have the audacity to ask! So, you see, Mr. Scott, you have had ample satisfaction, as the obnoxious committee appears to have been "sacked" by your friend the chairman, who, perhaps, claims a right to dispose of the specials as he chooses on the ground that he collects a good many of them. But he has no right to dispose of the specials which other members have collected or given. I have often heard of "one-man societies," but this is, as Mr. Scott says, the very essence of it. I have to-day seen a copy of the show schedule, and observe that the best and biggest number of specials are in the Crest section. Some of the sections have been practically overlooked, while these classes are, in my opinion, overburdened with specials. We have experienced quite a number of deep-laid schemes in the past, but this one takes the cake (also the specials!). Mr. Scott refers to the Taylor-Lister affair. The last I heard of it was that Mr. Hutchinson (who is now chairman) had obtained possession of the carvers and refused to deliver them up to the fancier whom the committee had decided was entitled to them. If this is so, it should now be called the Taylor-Lister-Hutchinson carver case. Mr. Scott says perhaps the secretary had orders not to notify him that his resignation had been accepted; such orders can only have come from one source, and that would be from the gentleman who extinguished the committee and took their duties upon himself. It seems almost inconceivable that a society with nearly 150 members should allow any one member to be sole dictator. Perhaps they are afraid of losing his services. If so, I think they are buying them at an extortionate price—viz., their freedom of speech when at the meetings.

The Cage Bird Fancy in New Zealand.

An Englishman's Visits to Some Fancier Friends Over the Seas.

Sir,—I have just arrived back from New Zealand, but only to stay in England for a short time. If I don't go back before December, I shall be going next autumn. I had the honour of witnessing the first show for the championship of the North and South Islands, which was held in the Foresters' Hall, Edinburgh Street, Auckland, N.Z. I may say I came across Mr. Tom Brown, late of Halifax. He was a landlord and a fancier when in England. He is now a member of the Auckland C.B.S. He is a true Yorkshireman; in fact, I thought so when he gripped me by the hand. But he is a real Norwich in type himself. I was given a hearty reception even by the Colonials. Among the fanciers were several old country breeders. The fanciers of Auckland did their very best to try and get me to settle there, but; like most Englishmen who go out to the Colonies, I was a little homesick—I had left my wife and family behind. But it won't be long before I am out in New Zealand again—this time with my family. I would like to say a few words about what I saw in the bird rooms. I first called upon Messrs. Eastway Bros., who had a beautifully arranged birdroom in the garden; this, I would imagine, would have cost them £200. All the bird men, by the way, have their bird rooms outside. In this bird room were two pairs of Yorkshires which had just come out from England. They were what I call nice. I also came across a few very decent Norwich Plainheads, but not quite up to the standard that we have at home, and a few very nice Cinnamon Norwich. When I called at Messrs. Eastway's they called it Midwinter's Day; I called it a hot summer day—the sun was shining beautifully. I next called upon Mr. W. A. Hanson, who is called, I think, the "King of the Fancy" in the Dominion. In his bird room I came across a few splendid Crests which could have held their own at home here. I also came across two capital Crest-breds, which were also noted winners. Mr. Hanson also goes in for a few Yorkies, though I may say there was room for improvement in his birds compared with ours. Mr. Hanson's bird room joined up to his house in his garden. He showed me a lot of the trophies he had won; it was a treat to see them. I think they were more valuable trophies than those we give at home. I next called on Mr. W. Cumming, who only keeps a small lot of Norwich Plainheads. These were very good. Mr. C. runs second best bird to Mr. W. H. Johns for the North and South Island Championship Trophy; I think that was very good considering he had only a small quantity. I next called upon Mr. T. G. Knight, who keeps a good number of Cinnamons. Among them he had a few real Scotch Fancies and Belgians—good birds that should do well this next breeding time if properly mated up. Mr. Knight seemed a very interesting fancier, and was willing to learn anything which was good for the Fancy. I then called upon Mr. J. E. McFarland, who only keeps a small number of Yorkies. Amongst them were some nicely feathered birds, but on the small side. Mr. McFarland is blessed with a wife who is interested in the Fancy as much as he is himself, and I thought it was a pity he had nothing larger amongst his stock of birds. Next was Mr. A. Vercoe. Though all his birds were small, he possesses the finest Yorkshire bird I came across in the Dominion. It was a beautiful buff hen which had been sent out from home, her last home, I believe, being Bradford. I ran her out in one of our home show cages, and she stood like a soldier, a beautiful type. I told Mr. Vercoe that if she had been put through the wash-tub she would have stood out by herself and won the North and South Islands Championship in the Yorkshire section. Our Colonial fanciers have not the best of ideas of pairing up. I gave them a few hints on the subject, and they were highly delighted with my remarks. They also "took a back seat" in the matter of benching their birds for exhibition. I put a few birds through the wash tub on two occasions, and with this they were delighted and astonished. I will give you one instance. I put one noted winner through the wash tub, and when one of the brothers saw the process they had to go through he was afraid, and went out. The other brother told me, when I saw him again, that his brother was afraid something would happen when he saw how the birds were lying in the cloths. But when he came back and saw them all dry in their cages he was astonished and highly delighted, and said I was just the man they were wanting in New Zealand. Mr. Alexander, who, I believe, is the oldest fancier among them all, begged me like a father to stay with them, and also behaved to me as if I had been a king. I will now speak of their show cages. Their Yorkshire show cages are of the same height as ours, but with a bow front, the same as our Crests', wooden back and sides, wire fronts; these, I told them, were poor cages in which to judge Yorkies. Their Norwich cage was similar, only a little small; this, too, I thought was a poor show cage. I strongly advised them to adopt a cage similar to ours, which I think in time they will do. I may say that their show cages are just as dear again as ours, and what with their bird rooms being so expensive, and other things, Canary breeding is a great expense to the fanciers in New Zealand. But they told me they did not mind about that so long as they could get some good blood from home. I intend to send some of the best there is to be bought. They do very little colour-feeding, but I think they are going to adopt it this moulting season. They pair their birds up on September 21st, and commence their winter exhibiting in April. CAGE BIRDS is the only fanciers' paper for them out in New Zealand, and they are as anxious for Saturday morning, so as to get their CAGE BIRDS, as a churchman is for his prayer book, and I tell you they read it through from one end to the other. Of course, Canary breeding is only in its infancy in New Zealand, though they say it is growing bigger every week. I also called on some Wellington cage bird fanciers, but I thought their birds were a poor lot in comparison with those I had seen up in Auckland. They told me they were endeavouring to build up a strong society, and also to establish a good breed of all varieties. I was also told by the fanciers that Christchurch was trying to build up a society there. I will here conclude the story of what I have witnessed in New Zealand.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE

We Lose a Good Supporter. Twenty-seven New Members arrive in one batch. A Skylark which thrived in a Cage.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

Patrons: Mrs. TINNISWOOD MILLER, London; The Hon. MARY HAWKE, Tadcaster; E. J. BROOK, Esq., Ecclefechan; the Rev. G. H. RAYNOR, Maldon; A. EZRA, Esq., London. Vice-Presidents: Mrs. M. B. PARTRIDGE, Worthing; Miss C. M. E. HILL, Exeter; H. D. ASTLEY, Esq., M.A., F.Z.S., M.B.O.U., Newbury; G. E. RATTIGAN, Esq., London; C. CUSHNY, Esq., London; J. MACE, Esq., Sheffield.

Mr. Parkes, of Southsea, a Member of the League, sends a cutting from the "Portsmouth Evening News," which reads as follows:—

Mr. W. H. Miles writes from Victoria Road North to say that an old Skylark which he had has just died in its ninetecnth year, which is believed to be a "record" age for a bird of this kind.

In his covering letter Mr. Parkes writes: "Can any of the faddists suggest that there was any cruelty in prolonging this bird's life for nineteen years in a cage? Would it have lived so long in its wild state, or would it have been murdered to help satisfy the "Little Mary" of one of these noble-minded people? I think, myself, that this is another proof that we bird-keepers study the comfort of the birds we take a pleasure in looking after."

This, strange as it may appear to our "Humanitarian" friends, is not quite a record, for Skylarks have been known to live for twenty-one years in captivity. They call this "pining in captivity, and perishing miserably."

Obituary: Sir Chas. Lawes-Wittewronge, Bart.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE has to deplore the loss by death of one of its first Vice-Presidents, Sir Chas. Lawes-Wittewronge, Bart., who died on Friday the 6th inst. at his residence, Rothamsted, near Harpenden. The deceased baronet, who had just completed his sixty-eighth year, was a sportsman of the first water. A sculptor of distinction, he excelled in everything to which he turned his attention. At Eton he won at all distances on the racing track; at Cambridge he became amateur champion at a mile, and twice successfully represented Cambridge against Oxford. As an oarsman he won the Colquhoun Sculls, Diamond Sculls, and Wingfield Sculls, and stroked the Cambridge eight in the 1865 Boat Race. When 55 years of age he took to bicycle riding on the track, and soon held most of the amateur records up to twenty-five miles. A wonderful man indeed. Sir Chas. was as enthusiastic in bird-keeping as in sport, and had an extensive collection of Cockatoos in a spacious wired-in enclosure at the back of his studio at Chelsea. His letter to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE will be fresh in the minds of all our members, and I am sure all will join with me in conveying a message of condolence to the relatives he has left mourning.

The League Over-seas.

This week we have to welcome yet another member from S. Africa: Mr. C. Krog-Scheepers, J.P., of Jansenville. CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE is indeed spreading.

Sheffield O.S. Joins in Numbers.

Mr. T. Bishop, Hon. Sec. of above, writes: "Enclosed please find list of names of some of our members I have got to join CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE. I shall get some more at our next meeting." (Here follow the names of twenty-seven members.—H.J.F.).

OUR NEW SEALS.

These pretty seals are printed in gold and colours in exact fascimile of our Badges, and are an ornament to envelopes, notepaper, postcards, billheads, etc. All members should use them; price eightpence per hundred, post free. Smaller quantities at the hundred rate, but with one penny extra for postage.

In ordering a supply of these seals, Mr. Bigland writes: "I have received several postcards from friends bearing the LEAGUE seals, and I should like some for myself."

OUR FREE BOOKLETS.

I have still some of each of the sixpenny pamphlets on British Bird Culture and on Canary and Hybrid Culture, and, as long as they last, one of either will be sent gratis to all new members applying for a copy at the time of joining. Old members who have not yet had a copy may receive one on sending a penny stamp for postage. Only one copy of either book can be sent, and when the stock in hand is exhausted, I may not be able to get a fresh supply, so applications (with membership fee) should be sent to me without delay.

SUBSCRIPTION AND BADGES.

The subscription to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE is one shilling annually, and the badges sixpence or one shilling. The sixpenny badges are in three forms: (1) a button for coat lapel, (2) a pendant for watch chain, (3) a brooch for lapel, cycling cap, or for lady's wear. The badges at one shilling each are mounted in 9-carat rolled-gold, and are in two forms only: (1) a pendant for watch chain, (2) a brooch for a lady or for cycling cap or coat lapel. Members should distinctly state which form they prefer.

JUNIOR BRANCH.

The annual subscription to the JUNIOR BRANCH, for members under fourteen years of age at the date of joining, is sixpence. Price of badges as above.

PATRONS.

Ladies or gentlemen who are in sympathy with the objects of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE may give practical expression to that sympathy by becoming PATRONS of the LEAGUE, and either making a lump sum donation to its funds or subscribing an annual amount of a guinea or upwards. One-half of such donation or subscription may be allotted to any individual object of the LEAGUE.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

The qualification for Vice-Presidentship is an annual subscription of not less than half a guinea, and one-half of this subscription may be allotted to either the Literature Fund, the Defence Fund, or towards the purchase of special prizes to be given at any show nominated by the subscriber. Failing any such special allocation, the subscription will be devoted to the development and progressive work of the LEAGUE, to advertising its objects and promoting its ideals.

Two Marked Tit-Mice Caught.

Sir,—It might interest readers of CAGE BIRDS to know that a Blue Tit I found in my room here at Lymington, Hants, and which stunned itself against the window, had on its leg a ring marked "Aberdeen Univ. 576." This shows the distance such a small bird travels. I have written to the Professor of Zoology and told him of it. The birds come into the house here for the food we put for them.

(Miss) D. E. PITHIE.

Sir,—I see a fancier writes to CAGE BIRDS to get information about a ring on a Linnet's leg last week. I may say that a Greater Tit (cock) was caught at Coaltown of Balgonie, Markinch, with a ring on leg marked "Aberdeen Univ., No. 7273." The ring I have sent on to Aberdeen. I hope this will interest some of your readers, so that they, too, may keep a look-out for any such occurrence and report same at once.

My Violet Tanagers.—Continued.

I have gone into the question of soft food here in detail because when I get a poor half-starved bird that has been fed on peameal mixture and crushed hemp, I always give him of my best, much on the same principle as when a man comes in on the West Coast of Africa and says he has been down on native chop, people say, "Good gracious," and open out their best tins on the spot.

When June came with long warm dreamy days, I gave my little friends their liberty in a well-sheltered garden aviary, and like the sister of Moses, waited to see what would happen. I had not long to wait; for the very next morning I found one of the cocks with his head fast in a small fork, and like Absolom of old lifted up between the earth and the heaven. By the way, Absolom was not caught by his hair at all, but by the neck (vide the Bible story). This may come as a surprise to some of my readers, but on reading carefully they will find I am right.

Of course, we must expect failures, and they come to teach us success. Time is the best of all teachers. He will expose our mistakes, but show us how to correct them, and so to learn to bear our disappointments like the Irishman who said that his pig had not weighed so much as he expected, but then he never thought it would.

Hope Deferred.

I knew that two hen Tanagers and one cock would lead to ructions; so I offered one of the hens to a friend. My chances of breeding young Tanagers were now reduced by one half, but still I did not despair. I always hope. Why does a cat waste time sitting at a mouse hole? Because she knows the mouse is there, and hopes it will come out presently. So do I, and hope that my mouse will come out some day. In this particular case, I am feign to confess, I was mistaken. One would like to be able always to record a success in bird breeding; but Truth compels us to speak otherwise. Those Tanagers did nothing but eat and hop about and enjoy life. I, as I watched them day by day, felt as grouty as King Ahab when he turned his face to the wall and would eat no bread, because he could not get hold of Naboth's vineyard. Still, as long as the warm weather lasted, I went on hoping. But hope is a hen that lays more eggs than she ever hatches. In my case she hatched none.

There is one thing to be said for Violet Tanagers; so long as you exercise reasonable care they are wonderfully hardy. They may not be much to look at; but they are strong naturally. In talking of them, I am reminded of a quaint tale of a new curate. He had only just been appointed, and one of the old ladies of the village talked much of his virtues. She esteemed and admired him, though apparently he had not the sound attractions which gilded the eloquence of the former holder of the title. "He ain't," she confessed, "much to look at, and his clothes ain't much neither, but his innards is lovely."

To say that I was provoked with these Tanagers for declining to go to nest is to put it mildly. In my then mind I should have found fault with an Archangel. A friend came to see me, and by way of cheering me, I suppose, told me that no doubt I should do better another year; but I found his remarks about as comforting as an east wind with rain in it. Why, next year anything might happen. I might be dead, Tanagers might be unprocurable, my present friends might be no more. I felt that my best and happiest course would be to sell the culprits, and let somebody else have a try at breeding.

Accordingly I put in a neat little advertisement, and in a very few days I found a new home for my little friends. As I gave them in at the station, I repeated the well-known words:

"To-morrow to fresh fields and pastures new";

still I could not help feeling with Marcus Aurelius that I had wasted—not like him, a day—but a year. I felt like a lad whose mother had just had an increase that morning. "It's come," he said, as he met me. "It's a girl." Then with a burst of righteous indignation "Fancy all that trouble for nothing!"

There is one good thing about Tanagers; they are silent creatures. If they sing at all, their songs are inaudible. I don't like a noisy bird near me. I am in this respect like Kingslake who, after listening for some time to the zither, remarked, "I like that music; it is almost as good as none at all."

FALKIRK (Good Intent) C.B.A.

Meeting held Oddfellows' Hall, September 30. New members were enrolled. A committee was formed for annual show, December 9. President, Mr. J. Muir; treasurer, Mr. J. Marshall; and Messrs. W. Clarkson, G. Condie, W. Robertson, M. Baird, J. Aitken, J. Hunter, W. Laurie, R. Gardner, W. Sutton, A. Gillespie, Bain, and Anderson. A table show of British will be held next meeting, Oddfellows' Hall, Oct. 28. Mr. J. Muir will judge. Our radius is 15 miles (confined to members).—W. Clubb, Sec.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

Meeting held Swan Hotel, Fountain-st., Manchester, September 30. Mr. T. Routledge in chair. There was a good muster of members. The judging standard was thoroughly discussed; decided, that it would be more beneficial to have one judging standard. Therefore it was decided to join hands with the British Roller C.C., and have one standard for all. Mr. Roehl kindly sent two show cages, one unfinished, to show the workmanship and wood they were made of, and the other in a finished state, with the new Velure enamel on. After thoroughly examining these, the members came to the decision that the cages as sent were well made, and that they were good value.—Tom Routledge.

BRIGHTON C.B.A.

General meeting held headquarters, September 27, when the rules and regulations, and also the classes for open annual show were adopted. Two extra classes for non-colour-fed. birds, viz., non-colour-fed Yorkshire, cock or hen, and non-colour-fed Norwich, cock or hen, were added. Mr. Claude offered a special of 5s. for best bird in these classes. Mr. C. A. House is appointed judge. Many specials were offered, and will be placed in open classes. Decided to hold members' annual show at some later date, Messrs. Cadman Bros. offering a cup for competition at that show. Following is the full list of points gained in judging competition:—W. Cadman 230, H. Akeburst 229, A. Goble 221, S. Sparks 210. E. Cadman 196, G. Absalon 156, and F. Dandridge 126.—W. H. Gibb, Hon. Sec.

NATIONAL BRITISH BIRD & M.C.

The following is a list of the shows held under our patronage this season: Clapham C.B.S. (Oct. 11 and 12), 1 gold, 2 silver medals; Newcastle C.B.S. (Oct. 20 and 21), 1 silver, 1 bronze; Manchester and N.C.O.S. (Oct. 27 and 28), 1 silver, 1 bronze; Cheltenham C.B.S. (Nov. 1 and 2), 1 silver; Sheffield O.S. (Nov. 3, 4), 1 silver; Swansea C.B.A. (Nov. 8 and 9), 2 silver; Nottingham and Notts. O.S. (Nov. 11 and 15), 1 silver; Wimbledon C.B.S. (Nov. 14 and 15), 1 silver; Coventry O.S. (Nov. 18), 1 silver; N.B.B. and M.C. (in conjunction with L.C.B.A.) (Nov. 24 to 27), 3 gold, 6 silver, 3 bronze; Llanelly C.B.S. (Nov. 28), 3 silver; Derby C.B.C. (Dec. 2 and 4), 1 silver; Bradford National (Dec. 8 and 9), 1 silver; Gateshead C.B.S., (Dec. 8 and 9), 2 silver; Crystal Palace (Feb. 2, 3, 5 and 6), 1 gold, 4 silver; and such shows as may be announced in the Press. Members competing for the "Hardhill" Cup at the above shows must nominate their birds as per Rules 16 and 17. At the Club Show to be held in conjunction with the L.C.B.A., the £5 5s. Club Show "Hybrid" Cup will be offered for competition: The conditions under which medals are allotted to above shows will be found in the respective societies' schedules.—Plumbridge and Carr, Secs., 45, Overdale Road, South Ealing, W.

WIMBLEDON C.B.S.

After the vacation of two months, the members met on October 2, at 6, The Broadway, Mr. W. H. Stonkley presiding over a good attendance, including many ladies. Six new members were nominated —two ladies and four gentlemen—and the secretary reported that the society had secured the patronage of the Southern Norwich P.C. (champion and novice sections), the National B.B. and M.C., and the Southern Yorks. C.C. (champ. and novice section and cup competition), for the annual show, Queen's Hall, Nov. 14 and 15. The delegates—Messrs. Carson and Owen—reported the proceedings of the last meeting of the London Federation of C.B.S. The chief business was the arranging of schedule of prizes and classes and the drafting of the rules for the November show, which was satisfactorily completed, the prizes and classification being on a very liberal scale. The Chairman said the committee had, after mature consideration, come to the conclusion that all the members ought to help in the sale of the tickets for the show, instead of leaving it to one or two members as heretofore, and they were very anxious that each member should take or guarantee the sale of four sixpenny tickets. This would practically ensure them against having a deficit on the show. A judging competition, in which 19 took part, was afterwards held. Result:—Mr. Dixon and Mr. Whiting, 11 points each; Mr. Peachey and Mr. Carson, 10; Mr. Shipton, 9; Mr. Whittome, 7; Mrs. Owen, Mr. F. W. Owen, Mr. Plank, Mr. Dell, and Mrs. Whittome, 6 each; Mr. Baker, 5; Miss Peachey and Mrs. Thynne, 4 each; Mr. Dyke, 2; and Mrs. Mulliss, Mr. Tutty, Mr. L. Owen, and Mr. Hamilton, nil. YORK C.B.S.

Meeting held Sept. 11, All Saints Church Schoolrooms, North Street. After the usual business classes were fixed for open show, Nov. 4, Exhibition Buildings. Mr. S. Campling was then called upon to give his lecture on the Yorkshire Canary, which was well received. To commence with, Mr. Campling described the show specimen as it should be, explaining the various points that count on the bench. My advice to beginners, he said, is to get about three pairs, and get the best you can afford from some reliable breeder, as it is much better to have a few good birds than a lot of inferior ones. If you wish you can run two hens with one cock, which would greatly reduce your outlay. In doing so I prefer a medium sized cock of good type and quality; one hen of medium size, and the other a good big hen. From the medium sized hen you get what might be termed show birds on the small side, and from the big hen big stock birds. Then, by pairing the progeny the following year you might reasonably expect to breed a few really typical birds. I am not a believer in forcing birds into breeding condition. If they are fed on good seed during the winter they will come in breeding condition when the right time arrives. I mix my egg-food as follows: Put a fresh egg into a saucepan of cold water, and boil it gently for fifteen minutes; mix it with four Osborne biscuits, half a teaspoonful of sugar, and a pinch of salt; when well mixed together it is ready for use. I supply birds with a little the day before the eggs are due to hatch, and then supply three times a day all the time they are rearing the young. I also give mixed seed as soon as the young are hatched. It is a good plan to have two sets of egg drawers, so that one can be cleaned while the others are in use. I also use a little soaked seed, especially when the young are commencing to pick. I give the young birds a little egg-food, crushed hemp, and a little soaked seed up to the commencement of colour feeding. Numerous questions were asked, which were all satisfactorily answered by Mr. Campling. A vote of thanks by Mr. Wright, seconded by Mr. Sherney, brought an interesting meeting to a close. —H. Thompson, Sec.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Meeting held September 30, Mr. J. Farrer in chair. Schedule for our annual show, January 12 and 13 1912, was the principal business. We have decided to have 29 classes for members, the same as at our last open show. We have been offered 21s. for a Mule and Hybrid class, and 21s. for yellow Border class, from a lady and gentleman, which offer was heartily accepted, and the secretary was instructed to convey our thanks to the donors. It was decided to pay 20s. per class in the open section. Several gentlemen promised birds for the drawing. —J. Jeffrey, Sec.

NEWCASTLE C.B.S.

Meeting held Oct. 5. A pleasant surprise was announced by the chairman; our president (A. J. Haggie, Esq., J.P.), has presented 2 gold medals to go to the winners of the challenge bowl, and the Kate Haggie cup, as a memento of the win. Any member may have an advert. in the catalogue for 1s. by letting the secretary know by Monday. We are on the eve of our show, and have posted a record schedule. One of the largest classifications and a huge list of cups and specials; in fact, one of the biggest of the provincial shows.—J. E. Akinson, Sec.

BANBRIDGE C.B.A.

Annual meeting held Town Hall, Sept. 27, Mr. C. Halliday presiding. The list of patrons was revised and the names of Messrs. J. Chambers and S. M'Ilroy added thereto. The following hon. officers were re-elected:—Mr. C. Halliday, president; Mr. J. Harvey, vice-president; and Mr. A. M'Cammon, treasurer; Mr. A. M'Cagherty was elected hon. sec. in place of Mr. R. J. Hamilton, who resigned the office. The committee who held office last year were re-elected, and the names of Messrs. S. Morrow and T. Jardine added. On revision of the prize list the classification of the last show being 50 classes for cage birds, and 12 classes for pigeons, was adopted with slight variations. It was decided to ask for the patronage of the Yorkshire C.B.S. of Ireland for the show, November 9 and 10.—A. McCagherty, Sec.

MIDLAND COUNTIES Y.C.C.

The undermentioned societies have accepted our patronage for ensuing season: Birmingham (City of) C.B.S., October 18-19, champion and novice section; Wolverhampton C.B.S., Oct. 27 and 28, champion and novice; West Bromwich C.B.S., November 8, champion and novice; Stoke-on-Trent C.B.S., November 16, Champion only; Ludlow (Salop), November 23, champion only; Derby C.B.S., December 2 and 4, champion and Novice. We appeal to all Yorkshire fanciers in these districts to join us at once, as unfortunately at the moment competition for our splendid array of prizes does not promise to be very keen, especially in the novice section, where there is a two guinea (at least) cup to be won outright at the four shows, besides medals. Our entrance fee is only 1s., and annual subs. 2s. 6d., which we feel sure is no great obstacle to fanciers with the welfare of this splendid variety at heart. Further particulars with copy of rules can be had on application to us. Will members kindly remember when entering birds to put M.C.Y.C.C. after each entry?—Beck and Andrews, School House, Rookery Road, Handsworth, Birmingham.

EDINBURGH AND DIST. C.B.S.

Meeting held Cairns Hall, Gorgie Road, Sept. 19th, President Mr. Charleton presiding. It was intimated that the followng judges had been appointed: Nor., Mr. A. Sloan (Glasgow); Border Fancy, Mr. P. McKenzie (Kelso); Scotch Fancy, Mr. J. Ring (Musselthorpe); British and Foreign, Mr. R. Bald (Bathgate). Secretary stated the patronage of the Scottish B.B. and M.C. and Border Fancy C.C. had been granted for annual show on 2nd December. Unanimously decided to hold a table show of Canaries at next monthly meeting confined to novices. Following classes allocated: Bord. 3, Nov. 2, Crest and C.-B. 1, Scot. I, Mules and Hyb. 1. Mr. Dunn (Portobello) agreed to judge. The remainder of business having been gone through, the Chairman introduced Mr. Dunn (Portobello), who had come to give an exhibition of hand washing. Mr. Dunn set to work and washed in his own masterly fashion 3 birds which were very dirty indeed, and looked previous to their "ducking" like a new species of British birds. He only used 2 basins of water, a shaving brush, and white curd soap in the first water, and rinsing with a sponge in the second water. Thereafter the birds were rolled in strips of white linen cloth and placed on a board about a foot distant from the fire, and finally transferred to drying cage. The ordeal having been accomplished in quick time, Mr. D. answered questions in great style. Meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Dunn.—J. I. Mackie, Sec.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

It is to be regretted there was not a larger muster of members to hear Mr. Pounsett's paper on September 20. This is the second time this year the essayist has given us good practical advice, first on wild seeds and now on "British Birds for Exhibition." He had kept British birds, he said, ever since he was a lad, and got more interested in them every year. He advised the novice if possible to get into touch with a catcher, and ask him to pick out two or three of the best of the species he intended keeping. The end of October was the best time to get new stock, as the birds would then be through the moult, and one could see what sort of article he was getting. Having got the birds, supply them with wild seeds such as they ate when at liberty, and gradually get them on to ordinary seed; also steady them, as without being steady they were useless on the show bench. The first bird Mr. Pounsett dealt with was the Goldfinch, following on with the Bullfinch, which he thinks is one of the most difficult birds to moult to perfection, viz., with a really brilliant fiery breast. The next bird described was the Greenfinch—a very common bird, but it was difficult to get a really first rate specimen. The Linnet and Siskin followed, a yellow Siskin being preferred to a buff for show purposes. The lecturer lucidly described the show points of each species, together with the faults to be avoided, and also the proper feeding and treatment. He emphasised the use of the bath every day, to get a bird in trim. Show cages and staging were not forgotten, useful hints being given on this all-important detail. Mr. Hayling proposed a vote of thanks, which was duly seconded and carried.—A. S. Treasure, Hon. Sec.

GLOSSOP, HADFIELD & DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting held 59, Hague Street, Glossop, Sept. 26, Mr. W. Lawton (president) in chair. Annual members' show fixed for December 16, to be held at Victoria Hall, Glossop. Decided, that the election of a judge be deferred to next meeting, Oct. 24. The society is in a flourishing condition, and we keep on making new members; two more were added at last meeting in Messrs. J. H. Senior (one of our "old boys," having returned to the fold again), and E. Edge, a promising new recruit. In concluding, I might add that we are anticipating one of the best shows that this society has ever previously held. All intending fanciers invited to join. Fee 5s. yearly.—E. Thompson, Sec.

LONDON AND COUNTIES A.C.B.

General meeting held Oct. 7, Earl Catchart, Mr. E. Pretty in chair. In the absence of Mr. R. J. Pretty, the secretary, Mr. W. Gilbert acted instead. Mr. G. Harrison has kindly given the society a notice board to hang up in the bar. Mr. E. Pretty moved that a hearty vote of thanks be given Mr. Harrison for his kindness; Mr. Salter seconded. Fourteen birds were staged—Norwich and Yorkshires —for the judging competition. The winner was Mr. Salter; 2, Gilbert; 3, Harrison. Mr. H. Bell acted as final judge. The meeting was well patronised by members, and Mr. Bell brought some visitors from Woolwich. Mr. Gilbert proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. E. Pretty for his interesting lecture on the good and bad points of the birds. Mr. Pretty replied, and said he would give a paper on "Canary Farming" at next meeting, which will be held Oct. 21, 8; fanciers and friends will receive a hearty welcome.—O. Heine, Official Reporter.

HEMSWORTH AND DIST. C.B.S.

Meeting held Oct. 4th, a fair number of members being present, Mr. A. Taylor (Vice-Pres.) in chair. Re the raising of a challenge cup or shield for competition amongst members at their various shows, a surprise was fairly sprung upon us. The President (Mr. T. Tait) offered us a valuable silver challenge cup (valued 10 guineas), the only stipulation being it was not to be won outright, but to remain the property of the society so long as the society kept together. A gold medal suitably inscribed is to be given the winner each year. A silver medal value 15s. is to be given runner-up, also suitably inscribed. Mr. Tait asked that the cup be called the Tait's challenge cup for the society, so we were well set up. Mr. Tait also presented a case of carvers and steel for competition at the next three members' shows, which good and useful special was allotted to the novices. So the next members' show should be well supported by members. Annual open show date was not fixed, as we do not know the whole of the Yorkshire Union show dates, but hope to arrange a date shortly. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Tait for his generosity since its formation last January, and particularly for his splendid gift of the challenge cup and special.—J. W. Gillings, Sec.

BLAYDON-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

After usual routine of business at our last meeting we took the arrangements for annual show into consideration. We have again a splendid array of special prizes, each class being given one each besides the silver cup for best bird in show. We have also received following patronage: N.C.C., N.Y.C.C., N.B.B.M. and F.B.C., N.L.C. and the N.B. and S.F.C.C. We intend having a special meeting of members Oct. 21 in Co-op. Library at 7.30 for the purpose of drawing members' specials, etc.—G. Harver, Sec.

PAISLEY, TANNAHILL, O.S.

Meeting held 2, St. James's Street, October 7th, Mr. R. Neil presiding. Following office bearers re-elected for ensuing year: Pres., Mr. R. Neil; Vice-Pres., Mr. T. Hamilton; treas., Mr. A. Ferguson; sec., Mr. J. Stewart; auditors, Messrs. A. McDonald and R. Fernie; amalgamation delegates, Messrs. T. Hamilton and H. Powell. A special having been returned from our last show, a discussion took place regarding it; ultimately agreed to give it to the novice class at our forthcoming show. The chairman intimated all entries must be in by next meeting, October 21st.—J. Stewart, Sec.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

The society had a splendid send-off to their winter session on Oct. 3, when about 80 members and their wives and friends spent a most enjoyable evening together, and afterwards partook of a substantial supper. Mr. G. White (vice-pres.) in chair. We had a magnificent musical programme. Artistes: Mrs. Rainbow, Miss Goldsborough, Miss Buck, Miss Wooler, and Messrs. Binns and Smith (humorists). Miss A. M. Cruise again acted as accompanist. The sub-committee appointed to make the arrangements consisted of Messrs. J. Wroe, G. R. Rushworth, L. Briggs, J. Rhodes, R. Wilkinson, and C. E. Walker, and to them every credit is due. In addition to obtaining the musical talent they arranged, provided and served the supper. From a social standpoint the affair turned out a complete success, and it augurs well for the future prosperity of the society to see such harmony amongst its members. The present year has seen a large increase in membership, enabling the society to rank as second strongest affiliated to the Yorkshire Union, with a total of 79 members. A number of interesting lectures, competitions, etc., will be arranged for the winter months, and it is hoped members will take advantage of these and turn up in as good numbers as in previous years. The members are enthusiastic re the forthcoming Cinderella Club Show, and some thorough good workers are sure to find themselves placed upon some of the sub-committees. A vote of thanks to the artistes was ably proposed by the president, Mr. E. Suddards; this was seconded by Mr. H. Hill, and carried with enthusiasm. The next members' show is on October 17, birds to be staged by 7.15. Messrs. Thompson, Ogden, and J. Hartley will judge.—H. Hill, Sec.

Under the White Rose.

FANCIERS generally, and particularly those in the district covered by the Yorkshire Union, will regret to hear of the sad calamity that has befallen Mr. H. H. Towers, President of the Y.U., and his wife in the loss of their youngest daughter, about two years of age, as the result of accidental scalding that happened a fortnight before death took place, the end coming as a great shock, being totally unexpected. Mr. and Mrs. Towers are, as can only be expected, very much cut up at their loss. The child was a winning little mite, full of talk, and it is very sad she should be taken from them at such a tender age. I am sure all fanciers will join with me in condoling with them in their time of trouble; and especially those who, like myself, have visited their home and seen their children.

YORKSHIRE County British Bird and Mule Club booklet is also out, and the contents show that things are progressing with this Club (somebody is working hard at the back of it). Also, good news reaches me from the secretary, who states that the membership is going up nicely, and exhibiting members too who will make their presence felt at the shows. At Huddersfield there is given a gold medal for eight classes. They have a good worker in Mr. Archer (the President), who is doing all that he can to make the Club into a strong and representative one. The book supplies all particulars, and should be in the hands of all interested in British birds (any fancier can have one sent him on application to the secretary).

THE year book of the Open Norwich Plainhead Club has now been sent to the members. It contains all particulars in connection with the competitions, list of members' names, competition shows, standard rules, and other interesting matter, and is in handy form for the pocket. It reflects great credit on Mr. Hammond, who took over the work of getting it out in consequence of the severe illness of the secretary, Mr. Mitchell, whom we hope to see amongst us again at the shows.

THE show season of the Yorkshire Union opened at Laisterdyke on Saturday last, and was voted a good turn-out for the first event. The birds were fairly fit; in fact, several were heard to say that they were much more forward than they expected to find. Fanciers turned up in large numbers, and the room presented a very animated appearance, tho fact of the change of venue, perhaps, having something to do with it.

"STRAIGHT 'UN."

ROUND THE SHOWS.

CRAVEN ARMS (Salop).

Craven Arms show held October 11th, when a nice lot of birds were staged. Mr. B. Clare, the Sec., deserves every credit for his able management of affairs. Mr. G. F. Edwards judged, and appeared to give every satisfaction.

NOR. (13): 1, Groom, nice young unflg. Buff cock, cobby bird, good col. and condition, should be heard of again; 2, vhc, Williams, another Buff, similar type, good bird, but a wee bit squatty; 3, Worrall, Buff, wing mkd., nice bird; r, hc, Davies. A good class; not a bad bird in it. YORK. (12): 1, Leadbeater, good cinn. mkd. Buff, typical, nicely fronted, in good condition; 2, Creasey, Cinn. mkd. Yell., good racy bird, stands up well, and has nice pipe tail; 3, Windsor, Yell., a good col., smart little bird, he will grow and come in for another year; r, Davies; vhc, hc, Creasey. There were several good birds in this class unflighted. CREST OR C.B. (2): 1, 2, Muscott, nice birds. A.O.V. (1): No name in catalogue. MULE: 1, 2, Slee, Buff mkd. on head, 2 good varieg. Buff; 3, Leadbeater, nice dark Mule. LINNET, ETC: 1, Groom; 2, Bridges; 3, Slee. BUFFFINCH, BRIT.: 1, 2, Groom, A.O.S. BRIT: 1, Groom, grand Greenfinch; 2, Hughes, another nice Finch, two good, large birds. SELL., 10s.: 1, Creasey; 2, 3, Davies.

EXETER AND DEVON.

Twenty-second annual show held October 11th, Lower Market Hall. Cage Bird entries were not so strong as last year, but they made a grand display notwithstanding. They were staged in what may be termed "cosy corner," the hall being a large one. The red drapings were again in use, and looked effective. Norwich and Yorkshire were the strongest, but special for best went deservedly to Evins Bros., for their well-known Green Crest. Mr. Bealey was in charge of the birds; that good fancier, Mr. Smith, was not able to attend through being unwell. Mr. W. A. Cornish makes an ideal secretary, and everything goes smoothly at this fixture under his guidance. Mr. T. Heath judged and gave general satisfaction.

The Critique.

A marvellous entry at Morpeth Show; all records broken; as many as 48 birds in one class, writes Mr. E. Cowling, sec.

*A Waxbill Story.

I had a pair of dear little St. Helena Waxbills, and not long after I got them the little hen died. The poor little cock seemed so lonely that I got another little partner for him. One morning when I went to feed them as usual I found this poor little hen dead. The cock was very distressed. So I put a hen Twite in beside him, and he was very pleased. Very soon they were feeding each other, and I am wondering if they will nest.—Sent by Molly Rolland (aged 8), 33, Dockwray Square, North Shields.

A Saucy Thrush.

Last year my father hand-reared a little Thrush, and it is so tame that he lets it out in the daytime when fine, and it hops about the garden all day pulling up the worms and insects, and hops in and out of our house. It runs about all around our dog, and they do not take any notice of one another. My father also stands its cage on the garden wall, and it very often gets in it and has a rest when the sun shines on him. It also gets into the cage when its roosting time comes; then my father shuts the door and takes it indoors for the night and lets it out in the morning.—Sent by Florence Hook (age 12), Dairy Farm, Lindfield, Sussex.

*A Successful Operation.

Father keeps his Canaries in a spare room, which he uses as an aviary. One day one of the hens he picked out got its leg caught in the wire door and broke it. Father made two splints out of a match stick, and soaked them in boracic ointment; then he bound them on the Canary's leg with worsted. After a while my father unwrapped the bandages, and found that the leg had set nicely, the only fault being that it was not quite straight. This same hen has had two nests and reared six young ones.—Sent by John Nicks (aged 12 years), 44, Teignmouth Road, Bournbrook, Birmingham.

The Metropolis Leads off with a Remarkable Record Show.

Great Entry at Clapham.

A splendid collection of Norwich and Yorkshires; Heavy Classes of Britishers; Supurb and unique exhibits in the Foreign Bird section.

A record entry of 853 greeted tbe judges at the show of the Clapham C.B.A. on October 11 and 12. This was sixty in excess of last year, when there were about forty entries of cages. On this occasion there were no cages, so that the birds numbered a century more. The show was held in the St. Anne's Hall, which, although better lighted, is not so roomy as the Avondale Hall. Thus there was not space for all the exhibits in the main hall, and some of the British had to be staged in a smaller room. In striking contrast to last year, tbe weatber was delightfully fine, and there was a good attendance during the afternoon and evening of the first day, when the show was opened by the Mayoress of Wandswortb. Tbe show was under tbe patronage of the Southern Yorkshire C.C., and Southern Norwicb C.C. Tbus the entries in these sections were very numerous, and Mr. Robson had a hard day's work. It had been intended hy the executive that Mr. House should judge the Yorkshires, but this the S.Y.C.C. would not agree to, as Mr. House is judging the section at Plymouth, which is also under S.Y.C.C. patronage. The Norwich totalled 172 in thirteen classes, an average of just over thirteen, and the Yorkshires 214 in twelve classes, an average of just under eighteen. Two wonderful sections indeed. Mr. Frostick had 240 British birds, and 39 foreigners to adjudicate upon, and a remarkably fine lot they were. The Hybrids, Crests, Crestbreds, A.O.V., and all members' Canaries, which totalled just 200, were taken hy Mr. House.

The Thick and the Thin.

It was really a good display of Norwich that faced the judge for the first London show, although, as was to be expected, many of the birds were somewhat lacking in finish, and consequently the more forward ones secured the awards. Later on it is probable some of to-day's decisions will be reversed. The classes were well filled, the novices especially coming up well. These gencrally were of good quality with plenty of size and type. Notbing very remarkable showed up among the unfligbted birds, although several good ones were staged; probably one or two stormers are being saved for later events. The principal prize winners were: Messrs. E. Baker (wbo staged some toppers), Spillman (one specially lovely hen mucb admired), Collins, Mortara, Ellis, Taylor, Cole, Law, Pope, Byne, Crawford.

Tbere was a grand gathering of Yorkshires, some of the classes being exceptionally well filled, notably the unflighted novice, which made a grand total of thirty-nine, and among them were some real good ones. For an early show the birds were in fine condition, the old ones being a little bit more forward than the unflighted. There were some grand birds in the latter class, Mr. Elsmore's winner being particularly noticeable. The principal winners in this section were Messrs. Knight, Rorke, Rennie, Hawes Bros., and Easterling and Carson. A grand yell. was staged in the novice class by Mr. T. Vennesa, a bird of lovely type and quality; it should take some heating in this section. Taking them all round, the Yorkshires were a grand lot and things look promising for the admirers of the "long ones" during the season. Big classes should be the ruling order.

Three Fine Sections.

The British birds numbered 240 all told, one class cancelled, and among the birds exhibited were many that are bound to make their mark as the season advances. Goldfluches (8) and Bullfinches (4) were very disappointing in numbers. The best class in the section in point of numbers was that for Siskin, Mealy Redpoll or Twite (27), and among this lot two sets of winners might easily have been found. Lesser Redpolls showed up well, numbering 25, and there were some coming champions among them; it seemed hard lines indeed to leave some of them without an award, but the competition was very keen. It was a great achievement of Mr. Marley's to capture the three leading prizes in a class of this kind, and his birds deserved their honours. Bramhles were very fine; the seed-eating hen class contained some charming specimens, and the small insectivorous class was a treat indeed.

Only 39 foreign birds were on exhibition, but what an exhibition! There was quite embarrassment of first appearances, to say nothing of the birds which, although we have seen them before, are still unique as single specimens of their kinds. Words catirely fail to express the beauty of some of the exquisite birds exhibited, and any cursory report must necessarily be miscrably inadequate.

Tbe show was most excellently managed hy the following committee: Messrs. W. H. Vale (chairman), H. Yeoman (vice-chairman), C. T. Maxwell (treasurer), S. A. Sandy, S. H. Baker, D. T. Barker, G. Brooke, H. Luff, W. J. Honeysett, A. W. Masters, C. L. S. Mazzoni, T. G. Morris, A. Silverthorne, M. Thorpe, G. J. Warley, J. Brighty, F. Clark, W. Francis, T. J. Hose, C. Cooper, A. C. Askew, E. Sexton, and A. J. Wildbore, and these gentlemen are to be most heartily congratulated upon tbe manner in which they performed their duties. Mr. A. L. Priest, the secretary, got through his work with remarkable ease and smoothness, and his tact and courtesy in dealing with the manifold and perplexing duties of his office showed him to be to the manner born. In him the C. and D.C.B.A. have a most efficient officer.

THE BRITISH BIRD SECTION:
Judge: Mr. J. Frostick.

GOLDIE (8): I, Cooper, bonny bird, rich in tan, beautiful polish, nice cut blaze; 2, Raven, fine plumage, paler altogether than winner, crosses wings a little; 3, Wickham, lovely condition, loses only in col. of Blaze; res, Sexton, quite of the Yorks. type, bit too lively; vhc, Vale, charming little chap, but unsteady, fine col., should do much better later; hc, Webb; c, Dicker. BULLIE (4): 1, 3, Walsh, leader a fine Bullie, lovely sheen, beautiful cap, just a little pale in hreast col.; 3rd, larger and hetter in hreast col. than winner, hut trousered somewhat badly; 2, Ford, pretty bird, cage moulted, ran winner very close; res, Raven. LINNET (25) fine class: (1): Botting, perfection of col. and markings, a little gem, all over; 2, Gunnell, fine hird, very even in col., well marked, a hit lively; 3, Brighty, nice buff, larger than the two above him, just loses in distinctness of markings; vhc, Smith; hc, yes, Marley; c, Page; several of the unnoticed birds in this class will be heard of later in the show season. SISKIN, ETC. (27): I, Casenore, real champion Siskin, lovelicst possible thigh markings, beautiful cap, perfection of plumage, faultless all over; 2, Godfrey, beautiful Twite, perfect in col. and markings, wonderfully steady; 3, Raven, charming Mealy Redpoll, nothing could he better, with a cage-moult should make a champion; res, Francis, rich coloured Twite; vhc, Miss Bousfield, good Siskin; vhc, Acland, fine Mealy; hc, Sexton (Twite); c, Maxwell (Siskin). LESSER REDPOLL (25): 1, 2, 3, Marley, three little wonders; nothing better could he imagined; scarcely anything to choose between them, all staged to perfection; res, Belcher; vhc, Ford; hc, Acland; c, Gerrey, all exceedingly good birds, could win almost anywhere. CHAFFINCH (14): 1, Beattie, lovely col., perfect polish, nicely forward in condition, shows himself well; 2, Francis, beautiful bird, larger than winner, but not quite so forward in head colour; 3, Webb, fine quality, well polished, nice breast col., a bit on small side; res, Walsh; vhc, Marley; hc, Godfrey; c, Belcher. BRAMBLE (18): 1, Kitchener, magnificent bird, perfect col., extra good in side lacing, wins well; 2, vhc, Francis, very decent Bramble, rich hreast col., fine polish, many thought the vhc equally as good; 3, Botting, very smart, grand col., especially good in spangling; res, Godfrey, hc, Askew, many thought should have been in the money, a near thing, it was said, between this and the 1st winner; c, Marley. GREENFINCH (11): I, Gunnell, fine pepper fed hird, good plumage, shows well; 2, Lawrence, lovely sheen, nice one indeed; 3, res, Marley, the 3rd a long way the hetter of the two; vhc, Cadman Bros.; hc, Tyson; c, Askew. HAWFINCH (6): I, Raven, one of the very hest, absolutely perfect in coloration, all the tints showing up beautifully, silky as possible in plumage, a fine exhibit; 2, Grahame, larger, but loses in col. to the winner, a very good specimen indeed, unlucky to meet such a stormer; 3, Lawrence, good bird, lovely col., a bit broken in plumage here and there; vhc, Page; hc, Harris; c, Cooper. YELLOWHAMMER (5): 1, Grahame, nice 'Hammer, a little slack in neck feather and a trifle on the small side, otherwise excellent; 2, Raven, very fine hird, larger than winner, not quite so clear in head markings at present, will do hetter later; 3, Botting, another nice one, not yet quite ready; res, Francis. A.O.S. BUNTINGS cancelled. HEN SEED-EATING (21): 1, 3, Marley, very decent Hawfinch, somewhat out of condition, and a lovely Siskin, especially good in side lacing; 2, res, Caunt, leader very hig hen Bullie, nice plumage; the res. very nice Corn Bunting; vhc, Thorpe and Clarke, pretty Bramhle; hc, Chivers; c, Grahame. SONG THRUSH, ETC. (5): (1): Marley, very nice Blackbird, nice polish of plumage, can be made a good one; 2, Askew, heautifully marked Song Thrush, steady as a rock, must have given winner a close run; 3, Collins, extra good Starling, exceedingly fine in spangling, a veteran bearing his age well; res Lott, Starling, another old friend, looking as well as ever; vhc, Oliver, nice Starling. NIGHTINGALE or BLACKCAP (4): 1, Jackson, good Nightingale, uufortunately lacking half the second toe of the right foot; 2, Maxwell, beautiful Blackcap, closely approaching absolute perfection; 3, Raven, Nightingale, loveliest possihle plumage, fine back colour, very beautiful; res, Vale, another nice 'Gale. LARK or PIPIT (7): 1, 2, Lott, perfect Skylark, good size, markings very beautiful, and an equally good Tree Pipit, charming specimen in best possible condition; 3, McVay, beautiful Skylark, pale in col. compared with the first winner, but a good one withal; res, Maxwell, nice Meadow Pipit; vhc, Evans, fine Skylark; hc, Cooper. MAGPIE, ETC. 1 only, Askew, remarkably fine Jackdaw, the hest of his kind we remember seeing. SMALL INSECTIV. (11) a charming class: 1, Evans, Dartford Warbler, nice young bird, should make a good one, very healthy and sprightly, but tail a wee bit frayed; 2, Maxwell, an absolutely perfect Sedge Warbler, not a feather awry, beautifully steady, a picture; 3, Hon. Mrs. Bourke, exceedingly good Dartford Warbler, feather perfect, like the first winner, not yet in adult plumage; res, Raven, Redstart, the most charming specimen of a Redstart that could be imagined, only the word perfection describes it; vhc, Francis (2), beautiful Lesser Whitethroat and a Redstart of a kind we have never before seen on the show hench; in colour it is intermediary between the Summer Redstart and the Black Redstart, and has not the "frosting" of these; it would be interesting to know where it was caught; hc, c, Smyth; c, Maxwell. LARGE (7): 1, Maxwell, perfect Wryneck, nothing better possible; 2, Francis, beautiful Waxwing, lovely condition; 3, Raven, fine Ring Ouzel, good specimen, extra size; res, Ford, extra good Redwing; vbc, Webb, fine Missel Thrush; hc, Lott, well-marked Wryneck in good feather; c, Grahame, exceptionally good Waxwing. PIED ALBINO, ETC. (2): 1, Walsh, Silver Starling, a wonderful old hird, looking as well in plumage as in his younger days, but showing the marks of "Anno Dominl" on his feet; 2, Laidlaw, very decent White Thrush.

LONGTON (Staffs).

Encouraging Commencement in the Pottery District.

Fourth annual exhibition, held October 7th, in the Old Free Library (Town Hall)—a room well adapted for the holding of an exhibition of cage birds; it is of nice size, warm, and absolutely free from draughts, and is situated in the centre of the town, in close proximity to the railway station. Taking into consideration the early date, many birds being held back through not being quite fit, the entry was a splendid one, over a hundred more than last year; while the quality of many of the ticketed birds was simply grand. Several of the old bird classes were rather sparsely filled—in fact, the Clear Buff Yorks class was cancelled—caused, no doubt, by the backward state of the birds, combined with the rather early date. The snap of cold we have experienced recently has doubtless retarded the finish of an otherwise ideal moulting season, as was evidenced by the appearance of some of the exhibits on view, many of them requiring another week or two to fine down. The 8 classes of Norwich which were provided contained some charming specimens for both type and quality, and it was this section that produced the winner of the coveted "special" for best bird in show—a very handsome china rose bowl. This was awarded to the winning unflighted Buff shown by Mr. Mason; it is a bird of magnificent type, grand size, and the best of quality, and won after a very tight tussle with the clear Buff Norwich in the novice section shown by Mr. Bowers, a really fine specimen; indeed, no one could have grumbled had the verdict been given the novice's favour. This bird found a new home, being claimed at catalogue price. The seven classes of Yorkshires were nicely filled, and made a very pleasing display. The raw state of feather was very noticeable in this section, few birds being in really hard feather. Given a little more time some of the birds placed low down in the "tickets" will turn the tables on those placed above them. Time will work wonders in this respect. The entry in the British bird classes was a good one. Several old faces were again well to the front, getting additional honours to their already long list of wins. The novices were catered for on quite a lavish scale, no less than nineteen open novice classes being provided, most of which were well filled. The arrangements were capital, the exhibits being all nicely staged, so that every bird was in full view of the visitors, who thronged the show room. A special word of praise is certainly due to the excellent set of stewards. No society could wish for a better lot of fellows, each one taking a deep interest in his duty, and sticking to it throughout the day. No stone was left unturned to add to the comfort of the exhibits and the visitors. An early start was made with the judging, and was carried on until late in the afternoon; it was rather a heavy day's work for one judge to get through—fifty classes. Catalogues were on sale with the awards printed in the margin within a few minutes after the last slip was handed in. The hon. secretaries (Messrs. Hallam and Lovatt) had everything well in hand, the arrangements being in every way most complete. The awards were promptly affixed to the cages as each class was judged. The secretaries were always to be found at their table, and were most considerate and obliging to all. Mr. J. H. Roe judged.

Yorkshire Union Opens Its Season.

Fine Display at Laisterdyke.

Another novice winner leaves its owner; A dispute about a marked hen: Will the "old stagers" be beaten later on?

Laisterdyke B.F.A. had the honour to open the series of the Yorkshire Union Shows on October 7th, and they were well patronised by the Fancy. The entries in the 24 classes provided numbered 374, an average of over 15 per class, not bad for so early in the season. The birds, taking them all through, were in grand order; certainly they will show a little more of that desirable bloom in another week or two, but they are better than is usual at the first show. Several of the old winners turned up again, and it looks as though they are to hold sway again. This, however, we shall have to leave over untill those come out that we hear are going to beat them. This year the venue has been changed, and it is a good move; the room is a splendid one; in fact, is very similar to the old one, but it is much better to get to, being very near to the trams and trains, much more convenient and central for exhibitors and visitors alike, and on all hands were heard complimentary remarks at the change. Mr. Secretary Hudson and his assistant, Mr. Pownall, had matters well in hand. Cards were up in a few minutes after the completion of the judging, and prize-money paid out during the afternoon (speaking well for the management). The two above were well backed up by such well-known fanciers as Messrs. Padgett, Casey, Taylor, Coates, Hodgson, Foster, Robson, and others as committee. Mr. H. Sutcliffe, the junior member of the well-known firm of exhibitors, Messrs. Sutcliffe and Son, officiated as judge, his awards meeting with the general approval of all fanciers. The winner in the Buff hen class, novice section, was claimed at the catalogue price, £5 5s. Also a little point will have to be thrashed out in regard to the winner of the 4th in the Yellow hen, novice section, this being objected to on account of its being an uneven marked bird (marked on both wings), and the classification read, "Clear or Ticked Yellow Yorkshire Hen," which debars uneven marks, though no class was made for them. The patronage of the Y.C.C. had been given, but as the classification made did not meet the requirements laid down, it had to be withdrawn. Where the Y.C.C. patronage is given, separate classes must be provided for clear birds, and here the clear and ticked birds had been amalgamated.

A Good All-round Display: The Eternal Mule Problem Crops up Again: Are They Canaries?

Second annual show held Oct. 7th, in the Workmen's Club Hall. As this fixture is the first of the Northern shows, the committee naturally expected a good entry, and in this they were not disappointed, the entries totalling well over 400, a slight increase over last year. The show was under the patronage of the Northern Yorkshire C.C., the Northern Border and Scotch Fancy Club, and the Northern B.B.M. and F.B.C., and consequently these sections formed the features of the show, the Yorkshires taking a little preference, perhaps, in point of quality. Many well known winners were staged here. This section contained 96 entries, an average of nearly 14 in seven classes, and although several grand birds stood cardless through being rather wild, it is probable that later on in the season they will change placed with some of those that were above them. Borders were even better in numbers, averaging over 16 per class in six classes, and here again the competition was keen, although several good birds were scarcely tightened up yet. Norwich had five classes, averaging over 12 per class, the pick being the unflighted and hen classes, these containing some real good birds. British and Foreign also came up well, several well known winners again appearing in the British bird classes, and both sections were a source of attraction to many of the visitors. The show hall is well suited for holding a show, there being plenty of room and freedom from draughts, while the arrangements as regards staging, etc., were admirably carried out; the whole was under the able supervision of the show manager, Mr. Joseph Flint, who is one of the most hardworking and energetic officials we have yet come across, and the manner in which he attended to his arduous duties is worthy of the highest comment. In Mr. Joseph Brown the society possess a very able and courteous secretary, one who has a thorough knowledge of his work; and it is rather unfortunate that he cannot devote the whole of his time to the cage bird section of the show, owing to the calls made upon him by the other sections. But he has a very able understudy in Mr. W. H. Christer, the assistant secretary, who appears to have a thorough grasp of the working of a show, and in the unavoidable absence of Mr. Brown, he carried out the secretarial duties in fine style. These officials were well supported by a hardworking committee, headed by the genial and obliging chairman, Mr. W. Carr, and composed of Messrs. J. Brown, W. Tomlinson, G. Charlton, M. Simpson, T. Betton, H. Griffiths, J. Parkin, T. Fletcher, R. Johnson, and F. Dixon. Despite the rather dull day the show was well patronised by visitors, and we think that, financially, the show should be a great success. The judges were:—Canaries, Mr. T. Dixon (Bedlington Station), and for British, Mules, and Foreign, Mr. J. R. Slack (Wallsend).

Mr. T. Dixon's Classes.

YORKS., YELL. AUCKLAND (New Zealand).

First annual show of the North and South Islands was held July 7 and 8. It was the first annual exhibition of Canaries in connection with the newly-formed Auckland C.B.C., and was opened by Mr. A. Myers, M.P. Mr. Myers said he was pleased to see the people of New Zealand taking up such a hobby as bird breeding and exhibiting. The show was a success from every point of view, and was held in the Foresters' Hall, Edinburgh, Newton. It was an ideal show room and a well lighted one. There were no less than 250 entries in the catalogue, which was a big entry considering the fanciers we have in it. The birds were staged in excellent condition. Mr. W. A. Hanson put down a grand team of Crests, winning the Northern and South Islands Championship for best Crest. Championship for North and South Island for Norwich won by Mr. W. H. Jones, with a cl. buff, nat. col., staged in high condition. Mr. Hanson also won the Championship for Yorkshires with a clear yellow. There were only three championship sections. The Secretary, Mr. Vercoe, put down a nice team of Belgians. Mr. T. G. Knight put down a grand team of Scotch Fancies. Eastway Bros. got their share of points in Norwich. Mr. Hanson took most points for Crests and C.-B's, Messrs. Eastway Bros. winning most points in Cinnamons. Mr. Alexandra won most points in Yorks. Novice, Mr. F. King in Norwich Novice, Mr. H. P. Finn in Crests and Crest-breds Novice, and Mr. G. Searle in Goldfinches. Mr. C. Bartley judged Yorkshires, Belgians and Scotch Fancies, and Mr. J. M. Thomson the remainder. Mr. Vercoe proved a willing and earnest secretary. Mr. J. G. McFarland put down a Laughing Jackass, which is called the "Australian snake killer." It is a bird twice the size of a Jay, and of the same family. This bird drew the attention of the majority of the spectators.

EALING AND HANWELL F.S.

Cage birds made a nice display at the young stock show of this society, which was held in the St. John's Hall, West Ealing, on September 30th. The special for the best bird went to a lovely yellow Norwich hen shown by Mr. Sturley, the best of opposite sex being a slim, stylish yellow Yorkshire shown by Mr. Bamber. The birds were nicely staged at the end of the hall, and made quite a feature of the show. Messrs. Bird and Kendall, the hon. secs., had all the arrangements well in hand, and everything passed off smoothly and well. Mr. C. A. House judged.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. It kills all insects. Harmless to everything.

A GOOD START AT BURNLEY.

ENTRIES ARE 100 UP.

Hot Competition in the Champion and Amateur Norwich Sections: Winners Catalogued at Ten Shillings each!

Burnley and Dist. C.B.S. 25th annual exhibition, held Oct. 6th and 7th. The large showroom attached to the Weavers' Institute provided a most suitable venue; it is spacious, lofty, light, and void of draughts; and it is lit up by electricity at night. The entry was a good one, a matter of 100 more than last year, upwards of 420 specimens being nicely staged; every exhibit could be observed at a glance. Specialist clubs patronised the venture, viz., Open Nor. P.H. Club, and Nor. P.H. Club. This being the initial "cup show" most of the "cream" was present; without doubt a very magnificent lot of Norwich, considering the season is so young. Many exhibits had practically completed their moult; in other cases topping specimens required a little more time to make their presence felt. Pride of place must be given to the clear yellow cock (the old warrior looking in fine fettle), the clear yellow unflighted cock (although little damaged in outer feather of each flight)—best youngster we have seen for many a day—both owned by Mr. J. E. Davies (last year's N.P. Cup winner). Again was the clear buff cock the property of that good old fancier, Mr. W. Vardy, quite a treat to gaze upon. Mr. G. Cook once more gained premier honours with his clear yell. hen (not quite in trim, yet a beauty). Messrs. Trengove and Son stood at the head of affairs in the unflighted buff cocks class, with a very fine bird. Mr. J. Thomas won with a lovely 1911 cl. yell. hen, and Mr. A. Humphries captured the leading card in the old buff hen class with a massive mkd. specimen of true shape and carriage. In the unflighted classes the yellow cocks numbered 24, the buffs 37 and the hens 32—truly a trio of very hot classes. Merit ruled very even. Mr. J. C. Barnes had his work cut out in separating "which should be who," and we did not envy him his big task. Yorkshires were neat but not numerous, the Cinnamon mks. having to be cancelled. The Mules and Foreign birds were nice. Special winners: Best in show, Mr. J. E. Davies (unflighted yellow Nor. cock); Hyde's, R. Leonard (buff Nor. cock); Sandiford's, J. Norman (yellow Nor.); Members' "Arbuthnot" rose bowl, F. Cunliffe (buff Norwich hen); runner-up, R. Leonard (clear yell Yorkie hen); best unflighted, A. F. Fulton (lightly mkd. Nor.). The President is Mr. R. Braybrooke; Vice-Pres., Mr. Jnde Hayhurst; Treasurer, Mr. J. Evans; these make a trio of very capable and obliging officials. Mr. R. Towler, the secretary, is the right man in the right place; he works hard, controls ably, and keeps the ball rolling in the proper direction. Mr. F. Cunliffe acts as understudy in a praiseworthy manner, and renders very valuable assistance. The stewards were: Messrs. G. Watson and A. Hargreaves—a brace of magnificent workers. Burnley fanciers one and all are genuine and enthusiastic, and it is a pleasure for one to be amongst them. The Judges were Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) and J. H. Roe (Birmingham), the former, being the official of the N.P.C., taking the Norwich throughout, the latter the remainder.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

CHAMP. SECTION. YELL. NOR. (12): 1, Davies, noted hero, looking almost as well as ever, a marvellous exhibit, will be a hard nut to crack again; 2, Thomas, red hot, lovely feather and shape, good size, not quite so bold fronted, yet a gem, looks like last year's champion unflig.; 3, Oliver, rare substance, shapely, capital carriage, one that should do some winning; 4, Lingard, wonderful col., A1 quality, good type; vhc, Thomas; he, Beswick; c, Dr. McConaghey. BUFF (20): 1, Vardy, magnificent feather, shape and col., rich undercol., neatly frosted, sweet carriage, cobby, true in characteristics; 2, J. and J. Hopkins' "Tariff Reform," full of quality and col., fine shape, moves well, a treat; 3, Leonard, shapely, rich quality and col., neatly moulded head and neck, not so thick through, a capital 3rd; 4, Hirst, massive, warm col., good head, neck and chest; vhc, Beswick; he, Anderton; c, Johnson. TKD. YELL. (11): 1, Davies, var., marvellous substance, rattling fine shape, A1 quality and col., fine carriage, an eye-opener; 2, Hargreaves, lightly variegated, superior in col., equal in head and neck, but not quite so thick through; 3, Shore, mkd. left wing, unbeatable for shape and carriage, A1 quality and col., behind in size only, tight as wax, well worth place; 4, Evans, mkd. wings and head, wonderful substance, rare shape and col., will be heard of later; vhc, he, Lawson; c, Mercer. BUFF (17): 1, Cook, mkd. wings, head and eye, well up in size, lovely col., quality and frosting, fine head, neck and chest, practically completely through moult; 2, Humphries, mkd. wings and head, true shape, superior col. and feather, nice size, not quite fine or might have won; 3, Thomas, red hot variegated, cobby, neat carriage, rich feather, one of the best; 4, Anderton, lightly variegated, rare size, capital shape, nicely staged; vhc, Leeming Bros.; he, Barron; c, Pickering and Wright. YELL. HEN (12): 1, Cook, well known cl., wonderful size, quality and shape, best of "nuts," not quite up to concert pitch; 2, Dormer, mkd. wings and eyes, full of fire, smooth as a bottle, lovely head and neck, quite a "dream"; 3, vhc, Lawson, smart cl., teeming with quality and col., neat carriage, not quite so bold on front; 4, Vardy, well fed cl., A1 quality, capital head, neck and chest; he, Hirst; c, Evans. BUFF (18): 1, Humphries, mkd. wing, head and tail, wonderful substance, magnificent shape, grand quality and frosting, nigh unbeatable; 2, Allen, mkd. head, true shape, beautiful quality and col., capital substance, moves finely, again quite a charmer; 3, Cunliffe, mkd. shoulders, smooth as wax, rattling fine col. and feather, sweetly moulded, clean cut; 4, Trengove and Son, very cobby cl., A1 quality and col., nice shape and carriage, not yet in full dress; vhc, Heap; he, Vardy; c, Leonard. UNFLIG. YELL. CK. (24) warm lot: 1, Davies, cl., marvellous size and shape, ablaze with col., hot enough almost to fire his cage, richly clothed, one of the best youngsters seen for many a day, well deserves spl. for best in show; 2, Hunter, mkd. wing, grand shape, rattling fine quality and col., capital carriage, only catalogued at 15s., David, you will be lucky if he arrives home again; 3, Pepper, mkd. wing, bouncer, A1 head, neck and chest, grand carriage; 4, Marsh, mkd. head, full of col., richly clothed, very shapely; vhc, Humphries; he, Shore; c, Thomas. BUFF (37) magnificent collection: 1, Trengove and Son, mkd. left wing, marvellous quality and col., true Nor. type, rare size and carriage, truly a knock out for a "baby"; 2, Bull, mkd. head, tight as a drum, sweetly cast, rattling fine feather and col., very close up, should make a gem another year; 3, vhc, Hunter, well fed cl., jaunty in carriage, nice shape, col. and lunch, catalogued at 10s. (cong price), a real bargain for someone, is this a mistake in the catalogue? 4, J. and J. Hopkins, mkd. wings and eyes, lovely col. and feather, richly frosted, not quite so deep in chest as these above, still a beauty; he, Thompson; c, Humphries. HEN (32) host of lovely damsels: 1, Thomas, cl. yell., slashing figure, gorgeous in col., graceful stepper, captivating in the extreme; 2, Heap, beautifully feathered cl. buff, correct shape, superbly clothed, A1 col., smooth as wax; 3, Vardy, cl. yell., good in quality and col., nice head, neck and body, neatly carried flights, worth her place; 4, Lawson, bouncing cl. buff, A1 col., nice shape and meaning, vhc, Anderton; he, Mercer; c, Hunter. NAT. COL. CK. (6): 1, J. and J. Hopkins, "John Bull," yell., mkd. neck, fine substance, shape and quality, grand carriage, true Nor.; 2, Davies, buff var., good in feather, tight, nice size and col., moves well, not far away; 3, Aspden, var. buff, shapely and of A1 quality and col., not quite so large, yet one we liked; 4, Anderton, yell. var., good col. and feather, nicely shaped body; vhc, Hargreaves; he, Lawson. HEN (6): 1, Marsh, cl. yell., rare size, cobby, capital feather, nice col., clean cut away; 2, Cook, very bonny Yell. var., lovely quality, shapely, nice substance, close on heels of winner; 3, Ryke, buff tkd., good feather and col., nice size; 4, Braybrook, cl. Buff, very similar to 3rd, little separates them; vhc, Lomax, No. 5, Barwise, absent. AMAT. SECTION: Several very meritorious exhibits were here, birds that had they been shown in the "higher circles" would not have disgraced themselves, and would have given some of the "cracks" a run for their money. YELL. NOR. (15): 1, vhc, Mattison, cap mkd., bouncer, grand shape, quality and col., nice carriage; 2, Innes, red hot cl., fine head, neck and chest, neat wings and tail, close up; 3, Aspinall, cl., well up in size, shapely, moves capitally, just a wee bit harsh in feather; 4, Crossley, fine size, cl., good type and quality; he, Howarth; c, Bell. BUFF (25): Hot lot. 1, Johnson, cl., grandly fed, rich undercolour and frosting, true type, fine size and carriage; 2, Aspinall, var., smooth as box, rich feather and col., grand shape, rare wing carriage, pressed hard; 3, Heap., cl., A1 quality and col., lovely head, neck and chest; 4, Edmondson, cl., lovely shape, feather and colour, neat carriage, not of the biggest but of the best; vhc, Towler; he, Fulton; c, Southworth; No. 13, Small, absent. UNFLIG. (33): Rare class, easily two sets of winners could have been selected. 1, Barton, cl. Yell., full of col. and quality, correct shape, well up in substance, capable of doing the needful in open competition; 2, Johnson, Buff, mkd. wing, A1 quality and col., very shapely, tight as a drum, not far away; 3, c, Fulton, var. Yell., possessing capital shape, quality and substance, jaunty carriage, worth its place; 4, Aspinall, cl. Yell, A1 feather, good shape and size; vhc, Lingard; he, Bell. YELL. HEN (15): 1, Entwistle, mkd. wing, all type, magnificent feather and colour, lovely expression of head, fine throughout; 2, Croston, grizzled tail, rare size, quality and colour, shapely, wee bit slack under, which kept her from winning; 3, 4, Entwistle, brace of neat exhibits, mkd. head and cl. respectively, former, full of col., well clothed, capital head and neck, fails just a little in depth of chest, latter good size and shape, A1 quality; vhc, Hitchen; he, Norman; c, Smalley. BUFF (26): Lovely class. 1, Nelson, ticked neck, short and thick set, teeming with quality and col., capital carriage, sweetly moulded damsel; 2, Heap., cl., soft silky texture of feather, good shape and colour, nice size, not quite so tight under as winner, yet a beauty; 3, Waddington, var., rattling quality and colour, fine shaped body, neat wings and tail; 4, Aspinall, bouncing Cl., A1 quality and col., richly mealed, worth her place; vhc, Johnson; he, Croston; c, Barton.

Mr. J. H. Roe's Classes.

CL. YELL., YORKS (6): 1, Thomas, straight as a rush, tight feathered, fine length, leggy, very promising unflig.; 2, vhc, Allen, another very choice youngster, little removed from winner, with care should make a gem another year; 3, Beaumont, capital feather, very lengthy, good back and wing carriage, beaten just a trifle in style and finish; 4, Kearns, rare length, stands well, good col.; he, Fielden. BUFF (10): 1, Faulkner, fine feather and col., stands like a guardsman, rattling fine back and flights, pipe tail; 2, 4, Lane, straight as a rush, good length, well up on leg, 4, great length, good col. and feather; 3, Hirst, magnificent col. and feather, stands well, clever legs, lengthy, some thought might have gone up one; vhc, Grey; he, Harrison; c, Fielden. TKD. YELL. DALKEITH.

This old-established fixture was held in the Foresters' Hall, on October 7. The entries were a little above the average, but we regretted very much to see the absence of the "Bird o' Circle," the Scotch Fancy. This variety used to be an extending bird in this district, but for a year or two back it has been on the decline. The Border Fancies were the feature of the show. The winning yellow green shown by Messrs. A. and W. Thomson is a bird with a grand sound colour throughout, lovely pencilling, and very typical, and should do some winning for its owners. The B.F.C.C. special was won by Mr. J. Thomson, with a fine clear yellow hen. Mr. J. Hamilton staged a grand team of mevens, which for type and quality would be hard to beat. The Norwich Plainheads were a good lot. Mr. Gardiner had out a splendid team. His yellow cock is a real, typical specimen, grand shape and quality, and we thought it was mimcky to be beaten for the coveted medal by the variegated cock belonging to Mr. Alex. Fleming, which, however, is a big one with some good points. The Mules and British were a nice lot. The winner in the Soft Billed class, a yellow Wagtail, was grandly staged. The hall in which the show was held is an ideal place for such a purpose, being well lighted and free from draughts. The secretarial work was in the hands of two capable officials in Messrs. Ewing and Steel, who deserve great credit for the way they get through their onerous duties. Mr. R. H. Douglas (Loanhead) judged.

PAISLEY.

Paisley and Dist. O.A. held their 19th annual exhibition and competition of Scotch Fancy Canaries, Oct. 7, in the George A. Clark North Minor Hall (one of the finest halls in Scotland). The show was open to all comers, and is designated the best one-day show in Scotland. The President is D. Kennedy, Esq.; Vice President, Wm. Nel, Esq.; Sec. and Treas., Mr. John Kelly; Committee: Messrs. J. Stewart, A. M. Baird, J. Kennedy, H. Powell, A. Livingstone, T. Hamilton, Alex. Baird, J. Paterson, R. Neil, A. Kennedy and J. Hart. Office-bearers and committee alike are all well-known fanciers, and earnest workers on behalf of this Association. It is a pity their combined efforts do not draw a more hearty response from breeders of the "beau ideal of the Canary world" in Scotland. The entries were not quite up to those of former years, being seven down on last year. But this little drawback was amply made up by the quality of the birds staged, which was certainly beyond the average. The cup winner to-day was Mr. Montgomery's (Corkerhill) yellow hen, winner of the Connned Derby Cup, and first at the National Derby. This hen has marked out a course for herself and is sure to gain further honours during the season. The buff hen (a sister) lacks little point for point of being as good. They are a couple par excellence. The runner-up (opposite sex) was Mr. J. Smith's foul cock, a young bird of excellent merit, winner of the silver medal. Mr. Dalglish's (Edinburgh) yellow cock bird won 1st and spl. for best in show—a champion of last year's fame, and looking a picture to-day. It was much admired, and considered by many to-day the best yellow cock seen for years. Mr. Thornton's (Edinburgh) young buff cock, looking in the pink of condition, was 1st in his class to-day; it is a bird of promise, 1st at Glasgow Derby and 1st Edinburgh, and retains its position to-day. There was a fair attendance of breeders and friends, including many ladies. The exhibits were nicely staged and easily got at. Sec. Kelly, who knows his business, had everything in apple-pie order. The judging of the classes throughout was under the care of the following gentlemen: Messrs. G. Fulton (Partick), J. Smith (Howood, R. Prentice (Clydebank), and J. Allison (Paisley), whose awards appeared to give every satisfaction.

The Critique.

YELL. CK. (11): 1, sp, 4, Dalglish, 1st, grand type, large, long-sided yell., sweet head, long reach, splendid shoulders, hard up; 4th, good size, nice depth through and reach, good bird, nice condition; 2, Brown, another good type, nice reach and shoulder, good head, very fine, not quite the depth through of winner; 3, spl, Wm. Gray, nice reach and drive, good shoulder and back, tail well in; 5, Neil; 6, Price; 7, spl, Fernie; 8, King. YELL. PIED CK. (15): 1, Hunter, sweet head, long reach, grand shoulders and depth through, nice pose, tail well under; 2, Dalglish, good type, shoulders nicely filled in, splendid droop and circle; 3, Black, plenty of nerve and style, gains in size to those in front; 4, Fleming, another good bird; 5, Livingstone; 6, Borland; 7, McDonald; 8, Wilson. FOUL CK. (15): 1, Allerdice, nice size and top end, good depth through and length of side, fine reach and droop; 2, sp, 3, Smith, 2nd, winner of silver medal and runner-up for cup, a young bird of promise, in tip-top condition; 3rd, good third, but not quite so well finished as 1st and 2nd; 4, Brown, nice type, in every way, fails in size only to those in front; 5, spl, Black; 6, spl, Ferguson; 7, Gibb; 8, Caldwell; 9, Paterson. GREEN CK. (10): 1, Kennedy, old champion and former cup winner, barely finished in moult, otherwise in grand condition; 2, Stewart, yell. green of fair merit, not quite finished in head moult; 3, Dalglish, nice size and type; 4, Drew, nice buff, plenty of style, very neat type, shade small or would have done better; 5, Wilson; 6, Caldwell; 7, Neil; 8, Burgess; 9, Kern. BUFF (15): 1, Thornton, 1st Glasgow Derby, 1st at Edinburgh, grand length of side, nice depth through, good reach and droop, very typical; 2, Neil, not quite so massive build as winner, but nice reach and top end, nice round back and tail well under; 3, Black, nice size and top end, good depth through, fails only in style to those in front; 4, spl, Montgomery, good type and condition; 5 Caldwell; 6, Wilson; 7, Muirhead; 8, Smith; 9, spl, Price. BUFF PIED (13): 1, Smith, grand size and length of side, splendid depth through, good reach, lovely head and droop, fine pose and condition; 2, spl, Burnside, all right for size, splendid body and reach, wants handling, very close on winner; 3, Dalglish, nice size, good depth through, fine reach and droop, nice pose and condition; 4, Hunter, good top and body, not quite the size of those in front, good bird; 5, 6, Muirhead; 7, Wilson; 8, Caldwell; 9, Borland; 10, Gray. YELL. HEN (10): 1, two spls, Montgomery, cup and gold badge winner; 1st National Derby and winner of medal Confined Glasgow Derby, perfect type of Scots Fancy hen, perfect champion, with a good future; 2, Brown, nice size and quality all through, good second; 3, Jackson, sweet, good all round yellow, not quite the length or size of winner; 4, Simpson, nice reach and top end, plenty of style; 5, 8, Kerr; 6, Burnside; 7, Higgins. PIED (12): 1, Fulton, nice size and style, fine reach and droop, neat circle, good typical bird, barely finished on head; 2, Stewart, not quite the size or style of 1st, good bird; 3, Allerdice, full of style, grand type, some thought should have done better; 4, Dalglish, fine size, nice depth through, neat pose and reach; 5, spl, Fulton; 6, Thornton; 7, Baird; 8, McDonald; 9, Burnside. FOUL (12): 1, Brown, good size and shoulder, nice reach and droop, grand pose, plenty of nerve and style, wins its place; 2, spl, Allerdice, another nice hen of similar merit, barely the size of winner, but little to choose between them; 3, spl, Montgomery, plenty of size, good body and reach, tail nice sweep, shade plainer than 1st and 2nd; 4, Thornton, better for size and style, but not quite so deep through the chest, good bird; 5, Hamilton; 6, Neil; 7, O'Donald; 8, Jackson; 9, spl, Stewart. GREEN (5): 1, Black, nice size and type, good shoulder and reach, fine pose and droop, nice condition; 2, Hunter, presses hard on winner, nice depth through, plenty of nerve and style; 3, 5, Fulton, 3rd, fine bird, shade restless and we could not get a proper look at her; 4, Neil, fails a shade in size to those in front, but an all-round good bird. BUFF HEN (7): 1, Montgomery, sister to the yell. hen and very similar for quality, little between them, grand type, full of quality; 2, Burnside, better for size, fails only in style to winner, good 2nd; 3, Gray, very neat, plenty of nerve, rare action, fails in size only, good bird; 4, Jackson, very close on third, not much between them; 5, Brown; 6, O'Donald; 7, Dalglish. PIED HEN (8): 1, Fulton, grand size, nice and deep through, good reach and droop, tail nicely under, grand pose; 2, Wilson, good second, presses hard, good all round quality, little to choose between them; 3, 4, Wilson, 3rd, grand top end, nice depth through and pose; 4th, good for size, fails only in pose and style; 5, Burgess; 6, Neil; 7, Dalglish; 8, Hunter. SELL. CK. (10): 1, spl, Kennedy; 2, spl, Smith; 3, Gibb; 4, Allerdice; 5, Higgins; 6, Simpson. HEN (9): 1, McDonald; 2, Fleming; 3, spl, Moore; 4, Muirhead; 5, Ralstone; 6, spl, Allerdice.

Does all you eat agree with you?

You know it if it doesn't, anyway!

Wisely fed birds are healthy birds, and healthy birds do you service. Avoid all errors of diet in feeding them, therefore.

"Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants for Cage Birds" will help you to feed them properly. It is especially valuable at this season when wild foods are to be had in such abundance, merely for the gathering.

There are many sketches and a splendid coloured plate of all the best known wild plants.

PERHAPS YOU HAVEN'T

noticed my offer in this column before; I repeat it now. In order to prove to you the supremacy of my goods over all others I invite you to have anything you like on approval from me and a similar article from elsewhere, compare them and test them, and if in your honest opinion mine is not in every way exactly as represented and a better article at lower price than the other, smash or destroy mine in any way you like, and I will refund every penny of your money. You must admit that this is a straightforward offer and one that I could not afford to make unless I was certain that my goods could not be beaten. Clap nets made from genuine thread netting ¾-inch mesh, 3 yards long and 5½ feet deep, 4/- pair; ditto, 4 yards, 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair. All clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated measure, and all fitted up complete with pegs, poles, lines, and latest up-to-date fittings ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting, ¾-inch mesh, as used in above nets, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard, 9 feet deep 4d., 12 feet deep 5d. yard, all post free. Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6, 17 feet poles 6/-, 19 feet poles 6/6 complete. Special strong netting fitted on Sparrow nets, and all fitted with my latest invention, viz., bronzed elbows. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches by 18 inches, 1/- each; ditto, 18 by 14 inches, 9d. each. By far largest and most effective traps on the market, no old-fashioned board arrangements about them. The only trap used by Mr. Jeffrey, England's greatest Nightingale expert. Single trap cages 6d. each, double ditto, 1/- each, treble ditto, 1/3 each, all with separate compartment for call bird in addition to trap as stated. Round or square topped call cages, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. Genuine Japanese Bird Lime, guaranteed absolutely strongest made, stands all weathers, even wet, leaves feathers clean and hold any hawk or rook that flies, ¼-lb. tin 6d., ½-lb. tin 10d., 1-lb. tin 1/6, sample 3d., all post free. Please note, I am only retailer of this particular brand of Lime, so do not confuse it with any other brand of so-called Japanese Lime. Pure hemp pull lines, guaranted hand spun, free from snarl and strong as boat lines, 68 yards long 1/4 each post free. Lark nets and netting, Stave poles, brace swivels, store cages, drinkers, and everything required by catchers always in stock. Send stamp for full list, which also gives hints on netmaking. Notice following unsolicited testimonials:—"Eaton Road, Brynhyfryd, Sept. 26. Sir,—Netting to hand, and is better value than I expected for the money. Yours, D. Steer." "27, Hartley Road, Luton. Sept. 25. Sir,—Please send following Lime, etc. I feel I must recommend your Bird Lime to my friends as it holds anything. Yours A. Crowe." Bigrigg, Cumberland, Sept. 25th. Sir,—Bird Lime received and I am sure it is best I ever used. Whatever gets on twigs has to stay as there is no getting away. Yours, T. Lowery." "92, Frodingham Road, Scunthorpe, Sept. 24. Sir,—Clap nets arrived safe, and I am perfectly satisfied in every way. Yours, C. Chamberlain." "93, Raine Road, Braintree. Sept. 25th. Sir,— Please send 13 yards netting, last lot I had from you 4 years ago gave every satisfaction. Yours, G. Bates." "Milton, near Repton, Sept. 21. Sir,—Received trap cage, and am quite satisfied. Yours, A. Wood." "15, Derby Road, Ripley, Sept. 19. Sir,—Received clap nets safe and am highly satisfied with them. Yours, S. Kerry." "213, King Street, Brynmawr, Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send following netting. I caught a fine lot of birds with your nets last year. Yours, W. Lewis." "14, Castle Place. Scarboro', Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send another pound lime, it gets better every year. I caught over 100 Linnets with last pound. Yours, W. Whitehead." "Newnham St., Ely, Cambs., Sept. 4. Sir,—Please send following. I had a pair clap nets from you last week and am well satisfied with them. Yours, W. Gilbey." Please note, I supply every professional catcher of note throughout England and the Colonies and everyone knows they are men who will have nothing but the best, as their living depends upon their appliances. Everything sent on approval on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor, and money returned in full if not satisfactory in every way. If you want the best and cheapest, patronise the man who really knows what is required for successful catching. No old fishing netting used here. See British bird column for further advt.

WHO'S THE FANCIER

who has not yet given me a trial? He is the man I particularly want to read this advt., as once I get a person's custom I know I can retain it, if sterling value, low prices, and honest dealing mean anything. My conditions of sale are these: Everything is sent on approval at my risk, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of "Cage Birds," on the distinct understanding that unless every satisfaction is given birds have only to be returned and every penny of your money is promptly and cheerfully refunded. In a nutshell it means this: you either get exactly what you want or you get all your money back. I am the originator of this system, and during the whole course of my business career have never traded under any other conditions. (Imitators please copy.) I have an enormous stock of genuine Worcestershire netted cock Goldfinches in perfect health and condition at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 6/6, twelve 12/-, twelve dozen £6. Specially selected large cocks for exhibition or muling, and warranted in song 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, 12 16/-. Few extra special clean moulted cocks in full colour and superb condition, ready for immediate exhibition, 2/6, 3/- and 4/- each. Hen Goldfinches 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-, twelve dozen 48/-. Grand lot cock brown Linnets, every bird guaranteed, with nut-brown back and rose-red breast, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. Specially selected larger cocks, of correct size and beautifully pencilled, for exhibition, 1/- each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 6/-. Selected cocks for contest singing, 1/- each, warranted in song. These Linnets are exactly same as scores of dozens I supply to the North-country dealers and contest singers weekly, and are absolutely unique for time and quality singing. Handsome lot cock Bullfinches in colour, 1/6 and 2/- each; hen Bullfinches 1/- and 1/6 each. Cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; exhibition specimens, real yellows, 1/- each. Cock Chaffinches 8d. each, three 1/6. Redpolls 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-. Magnificent lot clean moulted cock Larks, in superb condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-. Specially selected steady birds for singing, 1/- each, three 2/6. Hand-reared cock Blackbird, perfect specimen, finger tame and in splendid song, 5/-; ditto, Thrush, 5/-. Goldfinch, Linnet, or Lark cages, 6d. each, 4/6 dozen. Round or square topped call cages, all wire tops and wood bottoms, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. Bird lime, attractively packed in penny tins, 3doz. 2/-, or 7/- gross. (For other appliances see appliance column.) Following letters give an idea of what customers may expect:—"York, Sept. 5th. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safe and well. I tried him on calling and he did extra. I am highly satisfied in every way. Yours, G. Simpson." "21, Sleap, Wellington, Sept. 6. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safe, and am very well pleased. I also thank you for your straightforwardness to me, and for the way you packed the bird. Yours, J. Williams." "Hanworth-road, Hounslow, Sept. 6. Sir,—Birds (24 Goldfinches) received all right, and was very well satisfied, as I found sex quite right. I shall want more later. Yours, J. Bates." "26, Everard-st., Barry Dock, Sept. 6. Sir,—Finch arrived in splendid condition, and am well pleased with it. Yours, A. Williams." "21, Sebert-rd., Forest Gate, Essex. Sept. 7. Sir,—Received bird safely. I must thank you for your prompt, kind attention. I shall certainly recommend you to my friends, as I am well pleased with bird. Yours. P. Totman." "Cumbrae, Seymour-st., Bishop Auckland, Sept. 11. Sir,—Please send following birds. I saw one of your Linnets in Leeds the other day, and told the owner he would take a lot of beating. Yours, W. Crowther." "10, Queen-st., Orrel, Lancs., Sept. 10. Sir,—I received the two birds a month ago and have given them a fair trial. The Chaffinch is a beauty, and Greenfinch as tame as a Christian. I could not have got a better pair if I had paid a big price for them. Yours, J. Gibson." "Police Station, Kingscavil, West Lothian, Sept. 14. Sir,—Goldfinch arrived safely and well packed. Thanks for kind attention to such a small order. Yours, E. Dann." "Soldiers' Rest, Annitsford, Northumberland, Sept. 18. Sir,—Birds (12 Linnets) arrived all healthy. I give you every credit for the way you pack your brids, with plenty of room and light. They are the finest lot of birds I ever had from any dealer, and I give you praise against all others. I have had birds from all over the country, and if I had sent to you first I should have saved pounds. Yours, Thomas Gates." Please note all birds are guaranteed properly netted in County of Worcester by expert catchers employed solely by myself; none are sent out until thoroughly on hard seed, and a signed guarantee sent with every bird that they are not recently taken and do not come under the various Bird Acts, and an indemnity given by me in every case taking all risks against prosecution arising therefrom. I am only dealer in this country giving this guarantee and indemnity. I make no idle boasts, but am open to prove at any time that I sell more British birds and have a larger stock always on hand than any other two dealers in Midlands, and that I sell more Worcestershire birds than the whole lot put together (professional copyists note). Visitors are requested to call and see hundreds upon hundreds of Britishers all caged separately. Note name and address; no connection whatever with any other advertiser.

in champion Norwich, wonderful results so far this season, actually leading in five champion classes open to the world in two shows. I am not showing, so you get the winners. It is ridiculous to suppose you can get the best from exhibitors when they want them for their own showing. I can honestly say I have supplied, with a few exceptions, almost every exhibitor of note with show or stock birds. These are facts which can be proved up to the hilt—not idle boast. Have the finest stud of exhibition and stock birds living. Show birds for open, keenest competition and local shows; prices on application. State carefully what you require, whether for open or local shows, and, if possible, what you are prepared to pay. I will guarantee satisfaction; every bird on approval: Judge Silk, Whitstable.

QUEEN MARY'S CANARY AND CAGE.

This is a sketch taken from the original photograph before it was presented to the Queen at Buckingham Palace as a Coronation Gift in June. This Canary was reared and moulted on my Canary Food. I will send a Patent Sanitary Cage, same style as sketch, with a grand Singing Canary, same breed, with a similar song, for the small sum of 10/6. Same cage in all brass, with grand cock Canary, 12/6. Fit for a Palace; on approval. Patronised by every leading judge at Crystal Palace this last 30 years. Order at once. Estbd. 1879.

between the Leipzig Rollers which I import and the ordinary Roller is that, whereas the song of the ordinary Roller usually consists of two or three long drawn out rolls, which soon become monotonous, the Leipzig Roller has a much more varied song, which can never jar upon the ear. I now have 500 pure Leipzig Roller cocks all guaranteed over moult, and now in full song with soft hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, bell, harp, and flute notes, and jug-jug of Nightingale, and warranted entirely free from any chopping or harsh notes whatever, price 6/6, 7/6, and 10/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 1/9 each, 3/- couple. I am the only importer of this strain in the kingdom; all birds are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," without which none are genuine. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on a full week's trial at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or if same is deposited with Editor, and money fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Following letters show that the Leipzig Rollers will continue in song for years. "52, St. Ives Grove, Stanley, Liverpool, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send me following birds. I am sending to you for these birds, knowing you are a straightforward man to strangers. The Leipzig Roller I got from you last year has proved itself a real gem, just got over moult, and started singing again. I shall want another Roller later.—Yours, A. Gerrard." "Hill House, Long Marton, Carlisle, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send following. The Leipzig Roller I got from you 11 months ago is doing first class.—Yours, Chas. Ball." Kindly note I am the only importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers in kingdom, and no other person can sell so much as one feather by this strain unless he first purchases it from me. I care not how hard a man is to please, I know I can do so if it is humanly possible. Dealers supplied. Send trade card for wholesale prices.

CHAMPION Yorkshires.—The oldest and most reliable strain of Yorkshires in the Fancy; see our winnings leading shows for 30 years; also Palace, 1910-11: 4 1sts, 3 2nds, 3rd and 4th, and championship for best Yorkshire in show. Owing to spinal illness, cannot follow the shows, so have for sale some of the best exhibition Yorkshires living, including Palace and other winners, also a wonderful lot of long racy stock birds, full of style and quality, the sort to breed champions. This is a chance seldom met with to secure such gems, as all are for sale, except few pairs for breeders. A real good investment for fanciers wishing to win or breed their own winners. Cocks, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each; hens, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; approval, cash or deposit; satisfaction guaranteed: Messrs. Amblers, 29, Sefton-rd., Morecambe.

POWICK'S CHAMPIONS.

Yorkshires, colour-fed, sure winners, cock or hen, 10/6 each, cheap at 30/- each; cocks, standard length, 7/6; hens, 5/6; same strain as the winners at all the leading shows; ten days' approval at my risk: W. Powick, Dewsbury, Yorkshire.

WINNING YORKSHIRES

are to be obtained. "Yorkshire Canaries: How to Breed, Manage, and Exhibit," tells you how. The book is written by H. W. Battye, a past-president of the Yorkshire Union, and the information he gives is full and practical. Post free, 1/2, from the Publisher, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

A GOOD START

is everything; my unflighted Yorkshire, first at the Coventry Godiva Show, read report; first bird out this season, plenty more at home like him, all for sale, and note, no fancy prices. Received this week from Mr. Smichen: "I am more than pleased with my bird." Mr. Hirst writes: 'Had no difficulty in winning with the two." Mr. Clayton (Manchester) writes: "Birds much admired, foregone conclusion when on the show bench." I offer a bargain this week, two flighted 1910 yellows, both winners last year, in the pink, for 30/-, first P.O.: J. Sheppard, 9, St. Oswalds-rd., Small Heath.

You want the Best!

Then try "DYKES" for Yorkshires. Best blood in the Fancy. LOOK YOU HERE.

If you want genuine reliable birds at the rock bottom prices, you must deal with the genuine reliable breeder and importer, who tests every bird as to its singing qualifications and studies in detail your requirements. My world wide reputation is made on German business lines by supplying high-class sound, healthy, reliable birds at lowest possible prices. Let me send you birds on approval that you may compare them with others that have cost more; you will then be fully convinced that it is utterly impossible to get the same quality elsewhere at anything like the price. I have now ready for immediate disposal, 1,000 grand 1911 youngsters, well moulted, and cocks in song, including my famous German songsters, the German working man's friend; cocks that will sing by day and gaslight, loud, free, continuous songsters; every bird tested before sending out. Cocks, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6, 6/- each; matched pairs for breeding songsters, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/-; high-class long slim typical Yorkshires, in all colours, clean moulted, cocks 5/-, 5/6, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; a few extra good specimens for exhibition, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-; accurately matched pairs for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6; superior quality, lengthy hens, 2/-, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6. Plainhead Norwich, thick-set, cobby, stylish Norwich, in all colours, quality that will astound you, especially at the prices; clean moulted cocks, in song, 5/-, 5/6, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each; grand quality hens, 2/-, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6, 4/- each; matched breeding pairs, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; neat travelling cages, 3d. each; You really must see these birds to be convinced of their value, for it is utterly impossible for small breeders or dealers to sell such quality at the prices; all birds on seven days' approval at my risk, and I pay carriage back if you should not be satisfied: E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

VALUE FOR MONEY!

Where can you get the utmost? That is the interesting and most important point to all intending purchasers. To test it, you must compare the quality according to the price you pay with anything you have had or seen before. This I ask you to do by having any of the following on approval for this comparison, and see for yourself.

Norwich Cocks, 5/-, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 10/6. Hens, 2/6, and 3/6 each. Pairs, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6. Good Muling Hens (Yorkshire or Norwich type), for Muling, 2/6 each. Note.—Some real good cocks, fed, and for show, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. Offered by some (who, by the way, do not possess them at all) at twice and three times the price. Hens to match, 4/6, 5/6, 7/6. Some really exceptional value in these hens. Don't take my word; just send for one as proof.

Note following prices, and have on approval. That will prove more than anything I can say, for quality is the best test of cheapness after all, and I only desire one trial test against all others.

SINGING HARTZ COCKS offered, 5/- and 6/- each; Hens, 1/3 and 2/-; cage, 3d. Good lot of Seiferts arrived; Cocks, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-; Hens, 2/6, 3/6. If you would like to know more about these interesting birds, send for "Profitable Canary Breeding as Practised in Germany," paper cover 9d., cloth gilt and bolder type, 1/3.

YORKSHIRE COCKS, 5/-, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-.
HENS, 2/-, 2/6, 3/6, 4/-, 4/6, three for 5/-.
PAIRS MATCHED for BREEDING, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-.

FOR a good talking Grey, some of the best, or Amazon Parrot, see my list, the Parrot trick exposed; note, if you get a Grey bird with pink breast, it is not a Parrot at all. Of course I get hated for exposing these tricks, but that matters nothing to me. I shall continue to do it as long as such contemptible systems exist. Facts that speak for themselves: "31, Laurel Grove, Penge, London, S.E., 1911.—We received Parrot quite safe, and are very pleased with it.—Mrs. Ward to W. Rudd." "Guernsey, 1911.—Received Parrot quite safe, and I am very pleased with it.—A. Paul to W. Rudd": W. Rudd, The Bird Specialist, Norwich.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

PARROT PROBLEM

solved. For full proofs send postcard at once for my large book, "Parrot Prattle," now containing 168 pages. This is the most wonderful book ever offered free of all charge to all Parrot fanciers. (This "Parrot Prattle" is registered copyright, and all Infringers and Imitators will be proceeded against). It contains hundreds of testimonials from all parts with full names and addresses, many interesting facts, and gives valuable advice and hints to all Parrot buyers. Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

Club Reports.

YORKSHIRE C.B.S. OF IRELAND.

Council meeting held Douglas Hotel, Present: Messrs. Cloke, Fry, Sheridan, Gillen, Birse, McDonnell, Callaghan, Stewart. Mr. Holley in chair. The patronage of the society was granted to Holywood and Banbridge societies respectively. Bills connected with Y.B. show were passed. Specials for open show were allocated, and other business transacted. Schedules will be out this week for forthcoming show.

UNITED KINGDOM BELGIAN C.A.

Result of election of officers for 1911 and 1912: President, Mr. J. D. Horrill; Auditor, Mr. Wm. Hughes. Committee, Messrs. J. F. Dewar, Jas. Robertson, G. S. Baker, Jas. Greig, John Fairley and C. T. Hunt; Treasurer and Secretary, Mr. Wm. B. Cobb, 14, Broomfield Terrace, Headingley, Leeds. Patronage has been granted to the following societies: Plymouth, Glasgow, Barnstaple, L.C.B.A., Edinburgh, and the Scottish National.—W. B. Cobb, Sec.

NORTHERN BRITISH B.M. & F.B.C.

At our last meeting, Sept. 27th, our chairman, Mr. J. McKenzie, informed members present that Mr. J. Maddison would not compete for the British Bird Cup this season. Moved by Mr. Petterson, and seconded hy Mr. Young, that the best thanks of the club be given to Mr. Maddison for the generous thought and genuine fancier spirit expressed by him in thus giving up his chance of winning the cup outright. Will members who have not paid their subs. kindly do so as soon as possible.—Geo. Taylor, Sec.

CUMNOCK AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

General meeting held Co-op. Hall, Auchinleck, September 30, Mr. Kinnear in chair. A poor turnout of members was very disappointing after such a good attendance at last meeting. There was a good bit of discussion on the cup being confined to one section only, but it was left thus. We have accepted the offer of Hydes' special. We went into the business of our show on Dec. 2 in Co-op. Hall, Auchinleck. The usual prices of admission were agreed on. We received a handsome sub. from a friend in London through one of our members, which was thankfully received by all members present. A motion was put on the table for next meeting re the altering of the colours in the Norwich classes (not the number of classes); I hope to see a good turn-out. Next meeting Co-op. Hall, Oct. 28. Members' subs. about due.—J. Nutt, Sec.

WEST LONDON F.A.

Meeting held Bush Hotel, Shepherd's Bush Green, Oct. 5th, Mr. Turner in chair. Schedule for annual show, Nov. 2nd and 3rd, was the principal item. We decided, after some discussion, to split up the hen classes in the Norwich and Yorkshire sections into yellows any variety, and Buffs; otherwise schedule was passed "as read." A very good lot of specials was quickly obtained, but it is not too late for other members to forward their donations to the Secretary. Mr. Gray said a few words regarding the Federation show, reminding members that it is to their advantage to patronise the show on Oct. 27th and 28th, at the Institute Marylebone, and make the venture a success not only by entries but by personal attendance. A vote of thanks to the chair then closed an interesting meeting.—H. H. Gibbons, Correspondence Sec.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

Meeting held Rose and Crown Hotel, October 3rd. The Vice-Charman (Mr. J. Woodall) presided. Mr. J. Bailey (Bradford) was present to entertain us. We had a big turn up of members. Mr. Bailey was down to give us a washing exhibition. He knows how to put a bird down to catch the judge's eye, and that was the tip we were all looking for. I hope some of us found it. "Jim" soon got his coat off, and was in the thick of the fray. He tubbed several birds. He explained as he proceeded. First soap, brushes, number of bowls, heat of waters, etc.; then method of holding bird, twining, rinsing, etc. He was very keenly followed hy his audience. After several birds had been through the ordeal be answered a number of questions. A vote of thanks was proposed, to which he hearthily responded. We afterwards transacted an unusually large amount of business in connection with our all-England show, November 3rd and 4th, ad members' show in December. A good many letters were read from our local supporters, the chief one being from A. Balfour, Esq. (Sheffield's Master Cutler) who has promised to open the exhibition officially at 3 p.m. Several other local gentlemen promised to support him. Mr. J. H. Roe's appointment was approved (as judge for members' show in December). Classifications for this function was also dealt with, consisting of 58 classes. Our friend Mr. T. Simpson (Worksop) gave our British bird fanciers a treat. He came to the meeting specially to bring a big quantity of privet herries, etc. They were soon gone.—J. A. T. Woodall, Press Correspondent.

NORTHERN BORDER AND SCOTCH F.C.

Meeting held Oct. 2nd. An application for patronage was read from Haltwhistle, and patronage was granted. The application of Sunderland was read and gone into; agreed, that we do all we could to support them in their difficulty, and after a good deal of discussion on the guaranteeing of the Green and Cinnamon class, patronage was granted. Mr. Montgomery, in the name of the Green fanciers, kindly guaranteed the class up to 7 entries. Other fanciers present agreed to make up any deficit still outstanding. Discussion took place on the Scotch Fancy class and as the club could not guarantee it, it was allowed to be dropped in the case of Sunderland, who were trying their best to run their open show again. We wish them every success. This completes the shows to which we allot patronage. New members proposed by Mr. Smith and seconded by Mr. Montgomery: Mr. Lowther (Burradon Colliery), Mr. Aitchison (Widespen), and Mr. Parrish (South Shields); admitted members. The paper by that well-known expert, Mr. J. Patterson, of Chirnside, was then read; in it were many valuable hints and much information, the result of a lifetime's experience. It gave food for thought, and there was some discussion on it. Our worthy president (Mr. Crawhall), who was present for the first time, said that he was sorry he had not been able to be with us before, but he was pleased to hear the club was rapidly progressing; if we went on so, we would soon be the premier specialist club of the North. Although a strong Yorkshire breeder, he had in his possession a Border hen which he had just picked up, which he thought was a good one. He gave novices many valuable hints re buying birds, and advised them if they got a bird sent them which did not suit, on no account to keep it, but to send it back. He also made a few remarks re exhibiting. Messrs. Smith, Montgomery and Scott also spoke. Mr. Smith moved and Dr Hemy seconded that the best thanks of the meeting be sent Mr. Patterson. Decided, to have a show at our next meeting, each member to bring a bird (or birds) and every one to judge all birds but his own. Mr. Currah was appointed to give his opinion on the birds, this being about the last meeting he will be able to attend. There will be two classes—clear or ticked yellow, ditto buff.—J. N. F. Scott.

GLASGOW (Confined) SOUTH. O.A.

Meeting held Oct. 2nd. Mr. J. G. Turnbull presided over a good attendance. Arrangements were made for forthcoming show (28th Oct.) in National Halls. Agreed, to have 12 classes with two for amateurs. First, second, third and fourth prizes in each class—Ayrshire blankets as first, Grecian quilts as second, ½-doz. knives and forks as third, ½-doz. dessert spoons as fourth, gold medals for best cock and best hen. Twenty-eight specials were allocated back to the 8th birds. The Rt. Hon. Lord Rowallan has intimated his intention of being present to give away the prizes in the afternoon.—James Fleming, Sec.

COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Special meeting held October 4th, Arcade, Temperance Hotel, Mr. J. Simpson presiding. Secretary intimated we had received 35s. from a friend to purchase a medal to go to the runner-up for the cup. Messrs. A. Simpson and the secretary were instructed to choose same. Secretary received a free hand as to placing show advertisements. Agreed that accounts submitted be paid. The allocation of the remainder of the special prizes was gone on with, and schedule completed for the printer. We decided to send schedules out after Kelty show, October 21. Arrangements were made to appoint a doorkeeper for show. Secretary reported the society is in a sound financial condition; members' subs., donations, etc., amount to £25, and there is still a little to come in.—Joseph R. Reid, Sec.

BUCKHAVEN AND DIST. C.B.S.

Meeting held Free Gardeners' Hall, September 30th. Mr. Henderson in chair. Secretary intimated he had been notified by Dr. Dawson that he intended presenting the club with a handsome silver challenge cup to be competed for amongst members of Wemyss Parish. We have no doubt this cup will cause some enthusiasm amongst the members. The President then presented two gold medals (one open and one confined). The society has the patronage of the B.F.C.C., being successful in getting both medals, open and novice, also full patronage of the S.B.B. and M. C., which means four cups, one trophy, and eight medals. As we are giving good classification along with a big list of open specials, we hope to have a record entry. Schedules will be in the hands of fanciers in due course.—J. Lawrie, Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Meeting held Village Schoolroom, Alexandria, Oct. 3, Mr. A. Lees (hon. vice-president) in chair. In a few well chosen remarks he introduced Mr. A. Wilson (Glasgow), who began by telling us the best soaps and brushes to use; temperature of the water; and, having taken hold of a bird, showed how it should be held during the process. He proceeded to wash the bird, and when finished put it in a cage to dry, following suit with other two. Having shown the working of his patent drier (with which he won the medal at Crystal Palace), a large number of questions were satisfactorily answered. The washed birds were held up to view, when the vast difference made was commented upon; and a hearty vote of thanks was cordially awarded Mr. Wilson. It was then announced that the judges for forthcoming show would be: Scotch Fancies, Mr. R. Wright (Greenock), other classes Mr. W. Connelly (Glasgow). —A. H. McLean, Hon. Sec.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Meeting held Oct. 4, Mr. Burke in chair. Mr. W. Marson was elected a member. Secretary instructed to write all members in arrear with their contributions, pointing out that they will not be able to enter their exhibits at members' rate unless paid up to end of year, neither will they be allowed free admission to the show. It was decided to present a silver medal to Mr. P. Victor Williams to commemorate his gaining most points for this society in the inter-club competition; also, that a silver shield be fixed on cup pedestal, inscribed "Birmingham, most points, 1910." Arrangements were made for a series of table shows and judging competitions to be held during next few months, first to take place next meeting night, Nov. 2. Judges for that show: Messrs. Broadhurst and Wells, whose decision will be final; but Messrs. Hughes and Derry were elected to judge as novices, and their placings are to be the basis for a discussion afterwards. This should be a great help to young fanciers, and we give a cordial invitation to fanciers to attend. Ten classes were arranged: Nor., Cl. Tkd., or Var. Yell.; ditto Buff, and 1 Novice any colour; Yorks., 3 classes as for Nor.; Crests (Champion); Crest (Novice); Mule or Hybrid; and Brit. Hardbill. Exhibits must be staged by 8; entry fee 3d., of which one third will go to club funds. No charge for admission to show. There was a good attendance despite the bad weather, all the members being very enthusiastic.—J. H. de Maillet, for present Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Meeting held October 5, Wentworth Cafe, Penstone Street. In the absence of our president, Mr. F. Jones was elected to the chair. Secretary announced that in addition to Mr. Cowgill's, he had been successful in securing the services of Mr. J. C. Barnes to judge open show, December 9th, Montgomery Hall. Mr. Barnes has kindly promised two silver medals for novice section; other specials also promised. The gift class is adding up. Seven more members in addition to those already given, have promised birds; 25s. is being allocated to this class as prize money. Business re posters, etc., left in secretaries' hands. Ballot papers for election of officers will be given out at Nov. meeting. Decided, that we recommend to annual meeting the election of two vice-presidents instead of one; also decided that in addition to the judging competition at Nov. meeting we have a table show; two classes, viz., Yorks. and Nor. unflig.; prize money already subscribed. No entry fee, and 2s. 6d. special for best novice bird shown. Mr. Champion was elected judge. The washing exhibition by Mr. Browning (Rotherham) was very instructive. Members gathered round the table and noted every point as he described the ways of holding, and the successful washing of a bird. While birds were drying, the members plied him with questions, which he answered very ably. Messrs. Jones and Tomlinson also put a bird each through the water. A discussion on the attitude of the Royal Society for the protection of birds took place, also the attitude of the Sheffield authorities and bird catchers in general was freely discussed. A vote of thanks was given to the chairman, and to Mr. Browning. Mr. J. W. Merrill's was elected a new member. Will members kindly bring in their colour food coupons at next meeting?—J. Woolhouse, Assist. Sec.

Kindly mention that I am not exhibiting any birds this season, writes Mr. A. E. Silk, of Whitstable, as some of my customers have apparently confused me with an exhibitor of the same name who has been showing at various fixtures.

Cage Birds "Guide to the Shows" gives the number of classes for our show, on November 11th as 19; this should be 32, made up as follows; Norwich, 9; Borders, 8; British, etc., 15, writes Mr. J. Robertson, Jun., sec. of the Darvel O.S.

A great number of people living outside the show radius have applied for schedules, writes Mr. F. A. Hunnable, hon. sec. Braintree Show, and I shall esteem it a favour if you will point this out to them, as I cannot write to each one personally.

A printer's error has occurred in our schedule. The novice classes should read "confined to members," writes Mr. John S. Harris, hon. sec. Dysart C.B.S. Will anyone who has been overlooked for schedules kindly write me at Victoria Bar, Dysart?

The Partick and Dis. C.B.C. will hold their annual show on Nov. 4, when Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream) will judge the Canary Section and Mr. J. Morland (Bainsford) the British, Mule, and Foreign Bird Section, writes Mr. Wm. Priest, the sec.

Up to time of writing I have not received a single entry in the Cage Bird Section (12 classes) for our show being held October 26th; consequently we are compelled to extend to Sunday morning's post, writes Mr. A. C. Pilbeam, hon. sec. of the Luton F.S. I cannot understand this dearth of entries, as there are four prizes, viz., 10s., 5s., 3s., and 2s., for a 1s. 9d. fee, in every class Schedules for our members' second annual show, fixed for November 1st next, have been sent to all members, writes Mr. F. W. Capell, sec., Croydon and Dist. F.A. Should any have miscarried will members please communicate at once with me?

A lecture will be given at the Hand and Shuttle Inn, Dudley Hill, on Oct. 24, at 7.30 p.m., by Mr. T. Bennett (of Bradford); subject, "The Exhibition Canary: How it is bred and who breeds it," writes Mr. W. Walker, sec. of the Tong and Dis. C.B.S.

Kindly thank all who have written me for schedules for our coming show, writes Mr. J. Wilson, sec. of the Malton, Norton, and Dis. F.S. I have not received them from the printers yet, but will forward to all last year's exhibitors as soon as possible.

We have secured for our show, writes Mr. G. M. Nelson, sec., Warrington C.B.S., a splendid room, nicely heated, and possessing plenty of light. It is very central, about four minutes from either station. A committee of experienced fanciers will look after the birds.

Mr. Peter Vickers, 6, Ormskirk Road, Newtown, Wigan, writes that he will call a meeting on Oct. 21, to be held at J. T. Bibby's New Inn, Newtown, the chief business being the formation of a Linnet club. All intending members are asked to be present at eight o'clock prompt.

Mr. Cruise is still a member of the Great Horton O.S., although his name is not in the Union book, writes Mr. J. Holroyd, the sec. It has been left out by mistake. The members' show, to be held on October 28th, will be at 8 o'clock, and not at 3 o'clock, as stated in the schedules.

OBITUARY.

I am sorry to inform you of the death of Mrs. J. Harrison, wife of Mr. J. Harrison, better known in the Fancy as "Old Jacky," writes Mr. W. Hopwood, secretary of the Denton and Dis. C.B.S. Mrs. Harrison passed away on October 8th, after a very long and painful illness. Deceased has always been a willing worker for her husband, and she will be greatly missed by him. The sympathy of the members goes out to Mr. Harrison and family in their sad bereavement.

Mr. J. R. Colville, sec. of the Ashton-under-Lyne C.B.S., also writes expressing the heartfelt sympathy of his and other Lancashire and Cheshire societies with Mr. Harrison, whom he refers to as "a special friend of the novice."

Mr. W. APPLETON (West Hartlepool).

It is with deep regret that I have to announce the death of Mr. W. Appleton, one of the most esteemed members of the Hartlepools C.B.S., writes Mr. E. Woodhead, the secretary. Whilst following his employment on the North-Eastern Railway it is surmised that he slipped and was crushed to death by a moving train. He was of a retiring disposition, and most amiable; and it was always a real pleasure to meet him and discuss any birdy topic that came up. He was a real fancier, and he had had this year the most successful season with his stock, and was looking forward with considerable hopes of success to winning at our show on October 28. We are sure that all who knew him will be extremely sorry to hear of his death at such an early age, and will readily extend to his wife and family their unfeigned sympathy.

Owing to circumstances over which we had no control, writes Mr. G. Havver, sec. of the Blaydon-on-Tyne C.B.S., we have had to change the room for our annual show. The place we have secured—the old National Schools—is large and well-lighted, and is within three minutes' walk of the station. We were refused the Drill Hall at the last moment.

Will all who had tickets to sell please return same or send cash, so that I can settle all accounts before next meeting? writes Mr. A. L. Priest, hon. sec. Clapham C.B.A. Show. Allow me to thank Cage Birds for such a fine report of our show; it is the very best we could have. I have every hope of our accounts coming out on the right side.

Our schedules have been sent out, write Messrs. Bishop and Colton, hon. secs. of the Sheffield O.S. Will anyone overlooked please send a postcard to 69, Alexandra Road, Sheffield? The classification is excellent, with 22s. per class prize-money, and money specials for best bird, most points, and 2nd most points in each section; also numerous other specials.

It was a pleasant surprise last week for us to see our photo on the front page of Cage Birds, for which we heartily thank you. We wish Cage Birds great success, as it is the best birdie paper on sale.—McGillivray Bros. (Bo'ness).

The Northern Yorkshire C.C. 1911-12 handbook contains the rules of the Club, a list of the specials for the ensuing show season, and the names and addresses of the members. The sec. (to whom applications for membership should be made) is Mr. R. Tindale, 14, Affleck Street, Gateshead-on-Tyne.

I have received over seventy letters and postcards asking for schedules, writes Mr. W. H. Mugford, sec. of the London C.B.A. Kindly inform the applicants that same will be despatched as soon as they are received from the printers. Envelopes have, I may add, been addressed in readiness.

A very neatly got-up handbook is that of the Open Norwich Plainhead C.C., which contains among other features, the rules of the club, a list of the competitions and specials for the ensuing season, the members' names and addresses, and the 1910-11 balance-sheet. The secretary is Mr. O. Mitchell, 13, Lodge Terrace, Bowling, Bradford.

Owing to the numbers running consecutively throughout the show, writes Mr. H. Boothman, sec., Manchester and Northern Counties O.S., we shall not be sending out class labels until Tuesday next. I have already received several entries, so that the senders will know that we have not forgotten to forward labels Schedules have been posted for the open six British bird classes at our show on Oct. 28, writes Mr. J. Atkinson, sec. of the City of Wakefield O.S. Anyone omitted can be supplied with one on forwarding a card to me at 53, Queen Street, Wakefield. A special of 2s. 6d. has been given for most points gained by the 4th birds, this special having been given since schedules were sent out.

Mr. Fox, sec. of the East Ham C.B.S., writes that Mr. W. Smith, a member, has met with a nasty accident. Seeing the horses attached to a van run away, he went in pursuit, and at great risk successfully checked them, but not before the van had passed over his ankles. He is confined to his bed, and may unfortunately miss the annual show of Nov. 4. His fellow-members and brother fanciers wish him a speedy recovery.

Schedules for our open show on Oct. 28 have been sent out to all known fanciers, writes Mr. J. H. Mitchell, sec. of the Codnor Park and Eastwood C.B.S. Will anyone overlooked, and who would like one, kindly send me a postcard at once? I have not received the applications for schedules I should have liked, seeing we are giving 10s., 5s., 2s. 6d. as prize-money; and have engaged a popular judge.

Applications for schedules have been strong, writes Mr. J. C. Bell, sec., Border City (Carlisle) O.S. Any intending competitor not having received a schedule can send on entries, and I will classify. We have received from that talented young artist, Master Meekley, of Carlisle, a beautiful water-colour of two even-marked Borders for competition; it will be awarded to best bird in even-marked Border class.

Where is the Ardwick C.B.S.?

What has become of the Ardwick and Dist. C.B.S., writes Mr. A. E. Long, for one never sees a report of their meetings now. Have they stuck in the moult and need a tonic? At one time they seemed a promising young society. Buck up, Ardwick!

Changes of Addresses.

Secretaries and others are asked to note the following changes of addresses:—Mr. H. B. Rout (late chairman of the East Ham C.B.S.), from East Ham to 128, St. Mary's Road, Sheffield; Messrs. R. Todd and Son from Lock Street to 19, Westmorland Street, Darlington; Mr. W. Clements, from Stepney to 259, Church Road, Leyton, N.E.; and Mr. H. J. Chittenden from Bolton Woods to 53, Carlisle Street, Manningham, Bradford.

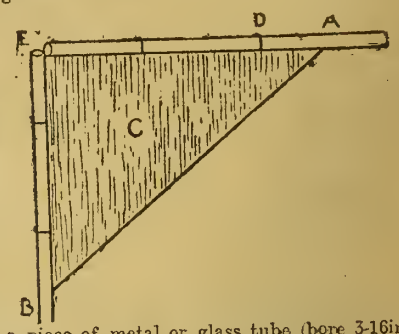
Sending Canaries to India

Last week a correspondent wrote concerning the sending of Roller Canaries to India, and asking for advice. Messrs. Van Oppen and Co., Ltd. (90 and 91, Batholomew Close, London, E.C.), inform us that if he will communicate with them they will be pleased to arrange his shipment. This firm will undertake the consignment of birds to all parts of the world, it should be noted.

The Norwich Plainhead Club.

Mr. T. Sandiford, Preston, is giving for competition at Manchester Show a gold medal, value 25s., for the hottest coloured bird fed on Sandiford's feed belonging to a member of the N.P.C. The annual meeting of the Club is to be held at four o'clock at Manchester Show. I shall be glad to receive notice of any business which members may desire to bring up at the meeting. Members, by the way, competing for the above medal should mark their entries "Sandiford" on entry forms.—Jno. Hopkins, sec., N.P.C.

The Recent Norwich Show.



I am sorry to inform you that Mr. Roll, our secretary, was taken with a sharp attack of influenza just before the show closed, writes Mr. W. W. Freestone, the chairman, and the doctor ordered him to bed for a few days. He asks me to state that if all goes well with him he hopes to pay out all sale and prize money by the end of next week. [We are sure fanciers will join in wishing Mr. Roll, than whom there is no more popular and hard-working a secretary, a speedy restoration to health.—Editor.]

Illustrated Ideas

No. 548.
A Useful Spray.

Sent by Mr. W. Cook, 68, Oakwood Road, Sparkhill, Birmingham.

I send you a sketch of a spray which can be easily and cheaply made, and which will be found useful. The spray blows out a fine cloud of misty vapour from a cup or bottle of salt water, as advised in "Canary Breeding for Beginners" for a hen that will not feed. A is a piece of metal or glass tube (bore 3-16in.); B is a piece of same (bore ⅛in.); C is a corner piece of ½in. wood; and D four staples made of hairpin ends cut off to fix tubes at proper angle. The tube B must come halfway across the mouth of tube A at point E, as shown.—Wm. Cook.

No. 549.
An Easily-made Perch.

Sent by Mr. J. J. Perry, 75, Blundell Street, Caledonian Road, London, N.

I enclose sketch of an easily made perch suitable for drinker and seed holes of breeding and show cages. It is made by bending cage wire similar to those which hold seed glasses, but instead of having the straight piece hanging on the front rail, bend it hook fashion to fit on wire front. Have wire about 2½ins. long. Drill a hole through the perch, and push the straight piece of wire 2½ins. long through the hole. Then bend over similar to staple and drive in flush one at each end. This perch can be made to any length, and is easily taken out for cleaning purposes; it is also very rigid.—J. J. Perry.

Since schedules were printed we have received three extra specials from Mr. W. Hughes (Liverpool), viz., 2s. 6d. for 2nd most points in classes 71 to 73 (Belgians), 2s. for 2nd most points in classes 74 and 75 (Scotch), and 3s. for most points in classes 82 to 86 (Green Borders), writes Mr. H. Boothman, sec. of the Manchester and N.C.O.S. There is also a bound volume of the "Red Magazine" for the best Canary in amateur and novice (members) classes.

A consignment of extremely rare and beautiful Indian birds has just been landed by Messrs. De Von and Co., the well-known importers, of Bethnal Green Road, London, E. Included were 28 Sunbirds (the Purple and the Amethyst-rumped species), and the fine condition of these tiny exotic creatures bore testimony to the great care with which they had been treated en route. The other birds include a rare Red-eyed Barbet, Blue-cheeked Barbets, Shamas, Orioles, Golden-fronted Fruiteuckers, Pied and Hill Mynahs, Parrakeets, etc. All are in fine order, and we expect will soon find quarters in the aviaries of English lovers of these beautiful foreign species.

We anticipate a warm welcome from bird-keepers for the fine specialities now being put upon the market by the world-renowned firm of Molassine, Ltd. (28, Mark Lane, London, E.C.), some of which will be found advertised in this issue of Cage Birds. Molassine, Ltd., have taken over the very old-established business of Welhams, and their "Canarydine" Bread has a reputation extending over many years as an ideal food for Canaries and other birds at all seasons, and during the breeding and moulting seasons in particular, when its restorative properties are peculiarly valuable. Their Parrot Food is another speciality of unquestionable excellence; likewise "Larko" as a food for members of the Lark family to secure health and song. Readers should make a point of applying at once to Molassine, Ltd., at the address above given, for full particulars of these fine foods, and for the address of their nearest local agent. They will be well pleased with the results obtained.

Round the Hardbill Classes.

An Object Lesson Upon Show Points and Show Condition.

Imaginary Conversation between an "Old Hand" and a "Raw Novice"

Peter and I, intent on having a last look at the season's champions before they commence to enjoy a well-earned rest, arrive in London on our way to the Crystal Palace Show. Having safely negotiated the journey to Sydenham Peter leaves me at the door of the show enclosure to have a look at his beloved Yorkshires, while, my own fancy being chiefly British, I make a move in the direction of that section. I have just bent down to admire the Goldies, when I receive a poke in the ribs, and I turn to face the son of an old bird fancier with whom, before he departed this life, I was on very intimate terms—in fact we were "bosom pals" in the exhibition world.

"Good morning! Mr. W——; I see you have managed to get down to the Palace!"

"Good morning, Jack. Yes! I am here again! There are very few Palace shows I fail to get to see; but I didn't think I should meet you here."

"No! Well, you see, I happened to have a couple of days to spare and a shilling or two in my pocket, so I thought I would have a run down for the day."

"But of what interest is a bird show to you? You don't mean to say you have taken the fever?"

"Yes; and I've got it pretty bad, too. I came down, in fact, to see if I could pick either a few birds up or a little knowledge. I have taken quite a fancy to the British, that is, the Seedeaters."

Consider the Classification.

"Well! at that rate, Jack, I could perhaps be of service to you. Of course, you are thinking of exhibiting? Well, then, you will want a team of seedeaters."

"Yes! I suppose I shall want one or two of each variety."

"Yes! But you must study the classification at the various shows. For instance, some societies only have one class for British—softbills and seedeaters mixed. Fancy a Redpoll against a Magpie, or Cornish Chough! It is a farce. And then societies grumble because the classes don't fill. Others provide two classes; one for Hardbills and one for Softbills. What chance has a Linnet, or even a Goldie, against a good Hawfinch? I have seen a Bullie in a mixed class that would simply walk away with first prize in his own class, but he doesn't even get a ticket. He is beaten by a Yellowhammer that is perhaps only third-rate. Mixed classes are not fair to the judges, much less to the exhibitors. But I don't suppose you want to hear me grumble about societies and judges—you want to know something about the birds."

"Oh! I don't in the least mind you blowing a bit of your superfluous steam off; it's all very interesting to me. I know it is a vexed question."

"Yes! Of course, a good few shows provide a decent classification, and here at the Palace you have a very extensive classification. So you have to prepare accordingly. But, Jack, don't have more birds than you can look after comfortably."

"Of course, I don't want too many, although I have a good-sized bird house."

Some Points & Failings of the Goldie.

"Well! Suppose we start at the Goldfinches Now, look at this first prize bird. Isn't he a beauty? Look at his splendid blaze. He is a grand colour, a jonque, and shines like satin. Now, in choosing a Goldie, Jack, get a good big one, but not too big, or he might be taken for a foreigner. See that he has a big square blaze, extending well behind the eyes."

"Excuse me a minute, Mr. W——, but just explain what is meant by square blaze?"

"Let us see if we can find one of the other sort. Here you are. See this one? He's a bonny bird, but you will notice that his blaze looks as if it had had the under corners sandpapered off?"

"Yes! It certainly does, when you compare it closely with the winner."

"In choosing, see also that he has plenty of 'tan' on his sides and good wing bars and moons. Have one that carries himself well, and is a good natural colour. You notice this one? See how he crouches at the back of the cage? That won't do. They must come boldly to the wires."

The Bullfinch's Nationality.

"Now here come the Bullfinches. When choosing a Bullie, Jack, get one fairly large, of good shape, with a broad chest and a big massive head, breast colour as rich as possible, back a nice tinge of grey, rump white, and the cap clear cut and dense black. Be sure not to get one with a cap cut like a dog's hind leg, in and out. The outline must be distinct; what we call 'clean cut.'"

"But, Mr. W., look at this one. To my mind he is the best Bullie in the class, and he doesn't even get a card."

"Yes; He is a beauty, Jack, but I suppose the judge had a suspicion he was a Russian, so he passed him."

"But do you mean to say that they show Russians in the British classes? I don't think it fair."

"Jack, lad, you will get used to it. If you can lay hold of a Russian that is just big enough—mind you, only just big enough—for a Britisher, by all means buy him. I suspect the owner of this one has done the same, only he's just overdone it. Perhaps the bird has grown since he got him."

"Oh! But I don't like the idea."

No; neither do I. We all have scruples when we start, but we all grow out of them. So you may as well make your mind easy.

The Show Linnet.

"Look at the Linnets; here, Jack, you have a greater quantity to choose from than almost any other variety, but you get fewer real good show birds from them in proportion, so it behoves you to keep your weather eye open. First, you must have size; as big a bird as you can get. You needn't be afraid of disqualification here. See that he has a big, massive, round head, like a Norwich. Shape of body similar to the Norwich, only more upright in pose, and he must taper from the shoulders to the tail like a wedge.

"The markings must be clear; that is, there must be a distinction between the body colour and the 'pencilling' or 'ticking.' No light breaks on the breast, the markings to start at the throat and continue right to the root of tail. Also the markings should begin on the head, and continue right down the back. See that he has good whites in his wings and tail—what we call "well struck." Finally, be sure his colour is all right."

The Feathered Bulldog.

"Now come and look at the Greenfinches. The Greenie is my favourite, Jack; so, of course, I advise you to have one. This first prize winner—isn't he a beauty? Look what a massive head he has—a head like a bulldog with a pointed nose. Isn't he in colour a nice grass green, with wing flights as yellow as a Canary? Look at his shape. Now, Jack, here's where you want plenty of chest and body, with nothing behind and nothing underneath—except a yellow tail, well folded. Choose a jonque; although a first-class mealy can always hold his own. Get one with a bold eye, like a Game cock, and don't colour feed him. To my mind the latter spoils a Greenie.

A PROBLEM OF THE HOUR.
Where shall we let our "topper" shine?

My Experiences of Canary Breeding

By R. CHARLESON (Leigh).

A lecture recently given before the Leigh and Dist: C.B.S.

Mr. Chairman and fellow members: Having been asked to give my experience in the breeding and management of Canaries, I thought I would do my best to write a paper dealing with the methods I adopt in my own birdroom. I daresay there may be a few things mentioned that you older fanciers do not approve of, but if so I shall be very glad if you will speak out and so enlighten me and perhaps a few others who use the same methods.

A Futile Attempt.

A friend of mine wanted some glazing and painting done, and for the work he said he would give me two German hens—a price which I thought then a good one; but since knowing their value—well, I think I was badly paid. However, I thought well of the two hens, and although I was told they wouldn't breed till the spring, I was very anxious about it, so I asked my father-in-law (Mr. G. Slater) if he would lend me a cock bird that he had in a hanging cage, the only bird he then had. He lent it me, and then I started; hut alas! I could get no youngsters at Christmas time, so I gave it up, and parted with the hens to Mr. Hart for a hammer. That completed my first attempt.

Trouble Well Repaid.

The next start I had was hy taking a hanging cage to a fancier and getting two common hens for it, worth as I know now—ahout nothing to anyhody. Wishing to start breeding, and as the birds could hardly hreathe for asthma, I took them hack and exchanged them for one, and then I hought another two. I also bought a cock hird for 3s. 6d., but sold it again very soon, as I was told to start with good birds, these needing no more to keep than bad ones. I asked my informant what he would let me have two cock hirds for; of course I thought he was going to put me well on the road. He said, "One 6s. and the other 10s." I hought them, and getting a bit enthusiastic I thought I would visit the first members' show, which I did; hut I could see in a moment that I had been "had" as regards my hirds being of the Norwich type. But heing quite satisfied to stop where I was for a hit, I started to pair up; though I am sorry to say that one of the cocks would not fertilise any eggs. The other did very well, and I hred 27 youngsters from 3 hens. That is what I call being well paid, as regards the trouble.

I took very little notice of the hirds' cages being dirty, or of their water heing green with slime, etc., and although I strongly advocate cleanliness now, I must say I seemed to have far hetter luck then with all the dirt.

I kept on with common birds, getting more and more experience with them, until my father-in-law seemed to get discouraged with his exhibition Yorkshires not having any luck with their breeding; I thought it was owing to the room getting too uneven in temperature. I strongly advise keeping the room at one temperature if possihle, either hy opening the window in summer time or by lighting the gas jet in winter. I say this hecause most of us have gas and no stoves; I don't know which is the hest, because I have only used gas. I asked my father-in-law to let me have his hirds at our house, which he did. That was the time I considered myself Canary hreeding properly.

Starting with the cages—I may say I like good roomy ones. I have two kinds of perches; the one I have here I like the best as the red mites do not collect at the ends. I always limewash my cages twice a year, once hefore commencing to hreed and then after the moult, as I think plenty of lime is good for them.

The Method of Pairing.

I have no stated time for commencing to pair. I always look to my hirds to tell me that. When I see a hen flapping her wings and hopping from one perch to the other, I know she is ready, and when I see a cock singing vigorously every time he spots a hen I know he is ready; and together they have to go, providing they are right in other respects, and the weather and time of year are favourahle.

I have always used one cock with two or even three hens, and have never found anything wrong. But I have often thought that better hirds could be hred (stronger hirds, I mean) by using one cock to one hen, providing we could afford to keep them idle. Another thing about running one cock with three hens is, I think, that it gives the hens a hetter chance of settling down to their duties; also you haven't as many cocks singing away then and therefore making the hens ready to nest again hefore they sit their time out.

I always take the eggs away as they are laid until the hen has laid her third egg; then I put the other two back; and I remove the cock in the evening of the third day. I keep the hen on plain canary seed during the time of incuhating for ten days; then I give a little egg food. I give the hath to her ahout three or four times during that time, as I think it helps to soften the shells. When No. 1 hen has hatched her eggs and the cock is at liberty I always put him hack to help to feed the young, but care must he taken to see that he doesn't pluck them out of the nest or molest the hen; if he does, out he has to come, and jolly quick, too.

For feeding I use a hard-boiled egg to a thick slice of hread; hut sometimes I use thick hiscuits. Green food I give in abundance, such as lettuce, watercress, chickweed, and young dandelion leaves. I never give them old leaves as I think these are too rank for them; and all green food that is not eaten must be pulled out at night, so that it will not be eaten stale in the morning, and then prove detrimental to the young hy causing diarrhœa.

In the Woods.

The Robin and the Hedge Sparrow are practically the only birds of our many species who are at the present time favouring us with song. The unobtrusive hedge bird can be heard at any time in the day, but his little trilling song is particularly noticeable before daylight, and upon foggy mornings he is especially assertive. On the other hand, the Robin is always to the fore at the close of day. It is then we particularly notice him flitting about the garden, now on the fence, then on the branches of a fruit tree, warbling his cheery music, and making his presence felt by a bow and flit of his tail. Most of them by now have settled their differences of proprietorship, and each has taken up his abode upon the special strip of garden or orchard he has fought for, being now ready to bully any feathered being his own size, or a little larger. The woodlands are almost sorrowful in their silence, although the leaves are fast changing from green to gold, and giving us glimpses of sylvan splendour between the stems. We sadly miss the music of the birds. We no longer pause to listen to the flute-like melody of the Blackcap, the gushing song of the Whitethroat, or the peculiar cadence of the graceful Willow Warbler. But although these are missing from their once familiar haunts, the woods are not entirely deserted. The Ring Dove, one might almost say, is ever present, either feeding among the acorns upon the ground, or with noisy flapping hustling away through the branches. Chaffinches are numerous, and when disturbed make for the nearest branch and proceed leisurely to clean the beak, with an air of contentment, after a good meal. A happy party of Long-tailed Tits chase each other from tree to tree; they feed as they go, and are easily followed by the human who is at all curious or interested in their habits. Among the tall pines little troops of Goldcrests can be more frequently heard than seen; so small do they look up in the sky that one feels somehow that they are hardly safe, and should be nearer the earth like other small fry for fear of falling. Occasionally the soft piping note of the handsome Bullfinch can be heard from the thicker branches.

CANARY QUERIES.

Norwich Four-in-Hand.

J. H. Richmond.—(1) It is quite possible for greens and clears, either yellow or buff, to be bred in the same nest, if this is what you mean. But as a rule when greens occur in a nest, clears or lightly ticked birds are in the minority. When breeding greens as a variety, greens, either selfs, or a self and broken, are usually matched together. A green is also occasionally introduced into clears to improve natural colour. (2) Yes, the fundamental types, yellow and buff, occur in greens just the same as in clears. (3) This question is rather vague. If you mean is it usual to mate a clear with a green, or two greens, when breeding greens is the object in view, the answer is in the negative. You will find the usual course given in No. 1. For full detailed information on all these three points you should get Part XIII. of "Our Canaries." (4) Sorry we cannot give addresses here. The best course I can advise you to adopt is to consult the list of prominent breeders and exhibitors in "Cage Birds Annual" and note the addresses of a few breeders within your reach, then you could either write them at once asking for an appointment in case they have stock for disposal, or watch our advert. columns and write them as soon as they begin to offer their surplus stock. There are many breeders in London, and doubtless any of them would make a business-like appointment and show you their stock.

Norwich and Border Songsters (J.M.W.).—I do not consider there is the same necessity for limiting the staple diet of these birds solely to rape, as is the case with pure Rollers. As a matter of fact I never keep Rollers solely on that system, which, in my opinion, applies only in its entirety to highly bred and trained contest singers. Of course, you might try the system on a portion of your stock and note the effect. But for the rest, I would rather advise you not to go beyond a staple of two parts canary to one part summer rape for the Norwich, or equal parts canary and rape for the Borders, with the usual extras frequently named in this column.

Trouble with Eyes (H. Tite).—The treatment mentioned in last reply may still be carried out, as it will tone up the system and may possibly help to do good. If the spot you mention in the eye has a milky-white appearance the bird is practically blind in that eye, and this, of course, would largely account for its listlessness. You might bathe it daily for a few days with a decoction of poppy head, to a teaspoonful of which add half a teaspoonful of boracic acid to relieve any inflammation which seems to be present. After this no treatment will be of further use. If you keep the bird by itself in a fair sized cage, with the perches and seed and water vessels all conveniently arranged for the bird, and easily get-at-able, it will get along quite cleverly in a short time, and will probably suffer no physical pain. Therefore, there is really no necessity to destroy it, as you have an aversion to that course.

CANARY QUERISTS

Much Improved (Miss G.K.).—Glad to hear the hen has so much improved. Keep her fairly warm, in as equable a temperature as possible, to get the moult over as quickly and completely as possible within reason; then I have no doubt she will go on quite well afterwards. Gradually revert to a plainer regimen as soon as she seems quite able to maintain the improvement without the special dietary, and also give a little aperient once a week for a time to prevent her laying on too much fat.

Two Ailing Norwich (J. Gallasher).—Keep the birds in a fairly comfortable temperature, not necessarily very warm, nor yet very cold, but free from draughts or fumes of burning lights. Feed on a staple of plain canary only. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of summer rape separately, and on the alternate days for a fortnight a similar quantity of crushed stale sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed. Three times a week give a spray of green food. In the drinking water give six drops each of dandelion juice and syrup of buckthorn every second day for a week, and in the following week six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day.

How to Feed (Miss A. Pugh).—A free supply of groundsel is not advisable at this season. Feed as follows for a month: Staple diet, plain canary only. In addition give separately every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape. On the intervening days give twice a week the same quantity of crushed sponge cake with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw. Once a week a small teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, inga, millet, and teazle, and four times a week a small spray of chickweed, watercress, or morsel of sweet apple or banana. Bathe legs and feet quite clean in warm water, and if claws are overgrown trim them to a reasonable length. Give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid in the water every second day for a week.

Aviary and Poppy Seed (T. W., Belfast).—(1) When you say you have built an aviary which is airtight, I take it you mean that it is draught-proof. If it were literally airtight it would not be a suitable place for any living creature. It must be properly ventilated, so that the foul air is being constantly discharged and fresh pure air admitted, and this should be done without causing any cold draughts about the cages. If the birds have hitherto been kept in a comfortable place indoors, I would not advise you to place them in the aviary until next spring. But you ought to have described the construction of aviary for anything more definite than this. (2) You certainly overlooked the reply to your previous question about poppy seed. I clearly remember replying to it from the fact that you wrote it before, as now, "Puppy seed," though I cannot lay my hands on issue containing the reply. I have used poppy seed in a small way as a substitute for the maw of commerce without any ill-effect, and do not think it would be at all harmful to use in that way. (3) Give the hen six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence in the water every second day for a week, and then six drops of tincture of gentian and four of aromatic sulphuric acid for two days. Meanwhile feed on a quite plain diet.

Protracted Moulting (L. J. Barber).—Does the cage hang high up near the ceiling, or where the head of the kitchen fire or the gas affects it? If so, this is the chief cause of the trouble. Covering the cage when the gas is lit is useless if it is anywhere near and above the jet, as the fumes will penetrate the cover. Hang it in a nice bright position, not too near the fire, quite away from, and not above level of, the gas jet, where the temperature is equable, and no cold draught can reach it. Give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape. Twice a week a pinch of mixed seeds, and every second day for a fortnight half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver emulsion mixed in it. Give a little green food or fruit three times a week. In the drinking water give the aperient advised to "T. W., Belfast," for three days, then dissolve a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, and give 15 drops of this in the water every second day until the moult is stopped.

Value of Songster (Roller).—This is a matter for yourself to decide. Technically, the bird would be worth what a willing purchaser, having heard its performance, will give. The price you gave for its father is really no guide, because pure Rollers vary a good deal in their aptitude for acquiring a really high class faultless song. If the youngster is really a free singer and free from harsh, choppy notes, I think a fair average price to expect would be somewhere about 7/6 to 10/6.

Breeding for Song (Redcap).—The cross you purpose making—Roller cocks and Yorkshire hens—will certainly be a considerable improvement on the song of the Yorkshires, and the appearance of the Rollers. Still, you must not expect the young crossbreds to be quite up to the standard of pure Rollers for singing. By removing the young cocks to a different room away from the hens, and keeping a good "schoolmaster" among them from the first until you could spare a more liberal supply of tutors from the breeding cages, and strictly isolating the young cocks all through from the sound of any ordinary singing Canary, you will come as near the pure Roller song as it is possible to do in a first cross, and by keeping the most expert singers for breeding and re-crossing on both sides to keep up colour, size, and shape, as well as vocal abilities, the birds will rapidly improve all round each season.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES, AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. Weston.

Hybrid Breeding (Nature).—The best plan of all with regard to the production of hybrids undoubtedly is to provide a small aviary containing shrubs (plenty of shelter) for each couple. Unfortunately not many of us are in a position to erect a series of such aviaries, so we have to be content with the provision of a good, large cage for each pair; and this is unquestionably the second best method. Your cages (26 by 20 by 12 inches) are a fair size, though not quite to my liking in this respect. I would prefer them at least 30 inches long (my own are 36 to 40) and 16 inches wide (front to back). You cannot really "trust" any hen British bird to hatch out and rear the young in a cage. There are a good number of instances on record of them having done so, however. Your couples read alright; I hope they will breed alright.

For Greypates (S.L.B.).—Yes; Greypates (young Goldfinches) should certainly have their seed crushed when first caged. I give crushed seed to my own for a considerable time after they have come into my possession. My stock mixture is teazle two parts, canary and linseed one part each. When about to feed I add an equal bulk of cracked hemp and a good proportion (about a quarter of the bulk) of well crushed safflower. These I crack fresh daily. At first I give a supply of niger seed in a separate dish, gradually reducing it and then leaving it off entirely. The great point is to get really good sound hemp seed. This is not so easy as many people think; and inferior seed will soon kill Goldfinches, which, of course, feed chiefly on hemp. With regard to the Siskin, the absence of a "bib" is not a sexual sign—in fact, very few cocks have a bib. The hen is very pale in colour all over compared to the cock, and generally much more heavily laced on flanks and breast—she is grey, with here and there indications of a yellowish-green tint amongst the plumage.

In a Greenhouse (T.H.B.).—The temperature in a greenhouse usually varies very considerably—extreme heat in the rays of the sun, then very cold by comparison at night. This variation is not conducive to the well-being of birds. Neither is a moist atmosphere; and this generally obtains where plants are also kept in the place. Probably, however, you could make adequate arrangements as regards ventilation, and contrive effective shelter from the heat of the summer sun. An outside flight would be a fine addition to the place. I shouldn't have thought you would have found it necessary to match-board any of the outside; still, you are the best judge, for I do not know what type of greenhouse it is. To wire-net all the glass portion is an absolutely essential precaution.

A Spare Room (Amateur Kippax).—(1) I cannot possibly tell you whether your spare room will accommodate 24 Finches until you tell me the size of the room. It ought to do; but I have seen "spare" rooms which have been very spare indeed in the matter of floor space. They will just hold the servant—if she's a very small servant! (2) Don't give a stock mixture; a very wasteful method. Give each of the principal seeds in a separate dish or hopper—canary, teazle, hemp, summer rape, and sunflower. The other seeds can be given mixed, as a change, now and again; likewise wild seeds. (3) Arrange plenty of small perches round the walls, high up; these will be favourite roosting spots. A bundle of pea-sticks will provide material for the erection of useful and more or less artistic cover and perching places in the corners of the room. Swings and other forms of perches can be fixed in the centre. The best form of bath I have found to be a big, shallow, rough (not glazed) dish or trough, and it should stand on a zinc tray which is considerably larger, the latter keeping the floor dry. Note reply to "Aviary" this week.

About Thrush Food (E.R.C.).—I fancy you have in part misconstrued my remarks. It was the barley meal to which I took exception—excellent stuff for pigs, but I think easily to be bettered as a food for softbilled birds. Try a bag of a good brand of puppy meal or dog food (such as "Melox" or Spratts); this costs but about a shilling for 7lbs. so is very economical. Crush about a dessertspoonful; put it in a cup and add just sufficient boiling water to thoroughly soften it; then mix in (dry) sufficient of the packet Thrush food you mention to bring it to the requisite crumbly moist state for feeding to the bird. The finished food does not want to be "sloppy"—a sticky mass—as no bird will relish it in this state. You will soon find out the right quantity to start to prepare for either one bird or three or four. It should be made fresh daily; in hot weather it must be. Of course, chopped green-food, etc., ripe fruit, and the like can be given as usual.

Fitting Up An Aviary (Aviary).—This is too extensive a matter to deal with adequately in the query columns. You should read an article upon aviary fitting and management which has appeared in one of our back numbers; or get Mr. Norman's book upon the fitting-up and management of bird-rooms and aviaries. The latter is fully illustrated (sketches of fittings, etc.). Note reply to "Amateur, Kippax" this week. In last week's Cage Birds and the previous issue I dealt with the breeding of hybrids by means of more or less birds turned into an aviary. I gave it as my opinion, and stated my reason for thinking so, that this was a very uncertain way of trying to produce hybrids. One very great difficulty lies in the uncertainty of the hens bringing up any young birds which may chance to hatch. You might turn into your place two Goldies, two Linnets, one Bramblefinch, one Lesser Redpoll, one Mealy Redpoll (cocks), and two Bullfinches, one Siskin, one Chaffinch, one Twite, two Greenfinches (hens). I do not know whether you desire to put Canaries in. Wire netting is best for the front (any glass would need to be protected with feeding to the bird. The finished food does not perching places if fixed about the place. Evergreens (box, privet, holly, ivy, etc.) are the best shrubs.

Identity of Berries (Bullfinch Lover).—The berries sent are privet-berries. I recommend them practically every week as a grand thing for Bullfinches.

A Weed (W.H.).—The weed sent is one of the Persicarias. The seeds are eagerly eaten by Linnets and many other of our Finches. If by "Finches," however, you mean, Goldfinches, then you will not find these birds partial to this seed—they prefer thistle and the like, though some will eat a little of it when it is thoroughly ripe.

More Weeds (Cymro A.B.).—(1) This is part of a seed spike of one of the wild mignouettes. Have never tried feeding birds on this seed. (2) This reached me as just a bit of dry stalk (no seed-pods, no leaves), and so impossible of identification. (3) This is one of the cress group, but you do not send sufficient to permit of more precise identification (must have leaves, etc.). The seeds of this group are very good for British seed-eating birds. Try your Linnets, Redpolls, Greenfinches, etc., on some.

Greypates Still (Jim Smith).—There is nothing wrong. The birds will acquire red blazes in due course. They must have been very young when you bought them. There are thousands of young Goldfinches which have not yet acquired the adult coloration. I saw a large number myself last week-end.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., etc.

Budgerigars in Glass Aviary.

Lovebird.—Yes, Budgerigars would breed in your roomy cage—it can hardly be called an aviary. Two pairs will be sufficient, and the young birds must be removed as soon as they can fend for themselves. The popular names, White-headed and Madagascar Lovebird, refer to the same species, a very attractive and handsome one. They are rather shy breeders in captivity under any conditions, but are certainly probable breeders in a roomy cage. Diet: Canary, white millet, spray millet, and a few oats, with green food, grit, cuttlebone, and water. They require leave and strips of thin bark for lining their nest log.

A Shamah's Treatment.

E. M. Horry.—A Shamah is not at all difficult to cater for. Some good soft food mixture, ten or a dozen mealworms, and any other insects you can capture—beetles, smooth caterpillars, spiders, earwigs, wasp grub, flies, etc.—will all be appreciated, and are wholesome. It ejects, like many other birds, the hard undigested portions of its food in the form of pellets. A little lettuce could be finely minced occasionally, and mixed with the greenfood. A good soft-food mixture for this species might have half its bulk ants' eggs, but this makes it more costly. Some individuals appreciate a little fruit, others will not look at it, but they cannot have too much live food, but try and capture them other things; do not depend entirely upon mealworms—this should be easy at Bournemouth. If you suspect indigestion at all, moisten its soft-food with half a teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia, but this must not be given sufficiently often to keep the voidings watery loose. The singing is most continuous in the breeding season. Soft-food mixture: One part each by measure of ants' eggs, dried flies, fine "Melox," and crushed biscuit.

Spectacled Thrush, etc. (Cardinal).—(1) The Spectacled Thrush (Trochalopterum canorum) is a ruddy brown bird, with darker striations; it has a streak above the eye and a patch surrounding the eye of pale ashy grey; bill, legs, and claws yellowish. It is a matter of taste, but I certainly consider it worth keeping. Diet: Soft food, fruit, and live insects. (2) The White-eared Conure is quite rare on the market at the present time, though a few years ago it was almost common. I do not know of any other trivial name. (3) The Blue Tanager and also the Black have been reared to maturity in this country; while young of Scarlet and Palm Tanagers have left the nest fully fledged, but have not lived to be independent of their parents. (4) There are many genera of Doves. Barbary Doves will cross with almost any species if they cannot get a mate of their own kind.

Cockatoo in Poor Plumage (Magrath).—With the exceptions given below, you must persevere with the treatment already advised, as the bird gains strength and condition the plumage will be gradually renewed. Substitute Byno-phosphates for the chemical food. Give boiled maize daily—it only keeps fresh one day—boil till soft, drain off all water, dust with flowers of sulphur, and then supply to the bird. The vegetables, etc., are not important so long as the bird is eating heartily of the other portion of its dietary. I should also continue spraying, except during very severe weather, as it will help to keep the skin soft. Shall be glad to hear how matters progress later.

Madagascar Lovebirds (L.A.K.).—In the first place you must not put birds out at this time of year, which have been kept indoors; they can go out next May and then remain out altogether. They do not need a warm room—artificial heat is not necessary, but they must not be subjected to draught; a cover at night is useful, so that you allow them proper ventilation. Let the Lovebirds fly loose in the room with the Canaries, British Finches, etc., during the winter; I do not think they will do any harm. Put up a couple of husks or small barrels, as roosting quarters for them. Canary, white and spray millet, green food, grit, cuttlehone, and water, will about meet the needs of the Lovebirds, though if they eat them, a few oats can be given as a change two or three times a week. The suggested aviary should answer well, but it is no use planting bushes in an aviary for Lovebirds and Parrakeets.

An Ailing Grey Parrot (H.J.S.).—You can substitute hyno-phosphates for the Chemical Food. Continue the other treatment as advised in our previous reply. Also give once a week, five grains of bromide of potassium dissolved in a little syrup, take away the drinking water overnight, and do not give any on the following morning till the above mixture has been sipped up. During the first week you might give two doses with a day between, but afterwards once weekly should be sufficient, continue for a month, and then report progress. Parrots mostly perch at nights regularly at one end of the perch, and it would be well to place something soft underneath, till the trouble yields to treatment, but whatever is used must be kept clean, and should not be kept in the cage during the daytime. The progress already made would appear to augur well for its recovery.

A Sick Amazon (T.W.).—Give this bird a few doses of Dinneford's Magnesia, say, one teaspoonful in two tablespoonfuls of water, every fourth day for a month, when it should be no longer necessary. A few nuts and pieces of plain biscuit may be added to your dietary, also a pinch of grit (not sand) to the daily supply of seed mixture, and keep a piece of clean cuttlebone in the cage. Note: The boiled maize only keeps fresh one day, boil till soft, drain off all water, then dust with flowers of sulphur and supply to the bird. Keep it in some airy, but not draughty, position, and it should be fit again.

Lovebirds, Weavers, etc. (T.L.B.).—(1) Probably, but see our reply to "Lovebird" in this issue. (2) The Combassou and Whydahs come from Africa, the former may be said to be the connecting link between the Weavers and Whydahs. There are several genera of Whydahs, the scientific name of the Combassou is Hypochœra œnea. (3) About eight pairs, so long as the birds are not larger than Zebra Finches. The following should all do well, and are handsome, showy, and interesting species, and should do well in the suggested indoor aviary:—Zebra Finches, Common Avadavats, Golden-breasted Waxbills, Green Avadavats, St. Helena Waxbills, Silverbills, Bib Finches, Ruficauda Finches, and Spicebirds. All the above should winter without difficulty, but you must arrange ventilation without draught.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 2, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

W. James.—Canary died of a contagious complaint, the milt being tremendously distended, as is common in contagious disease. It is due to a germ within the blood, but its origin is difficult of surmise. Mice are undoubtedly at times carriers of disease, and it is possible your trouble may have originated in this way. I should suggest the administration of quinine to your remaining birds for a week or two, preferably given in the form of crystals of iron and quinine purchasable at any chemist's, and given daily dissolved in water.

A. R. Rumnels-Moss.—Softening of the liver complicated with enteritis of dietetic origin.

T. Robson Charlton.—The symptoms you enumerate were evidently of pain arising from abdominal trouble, in which the digestive stomach was involved. This organ was impacted with solid matter. A suitable aperient given at the commencement might have been followed with beneficial results.

GENERAL.

Answered by The Editor.

Press Cuttings (A. Hopkinson, J. Kind, A. Peel, and others).—We are much obliged to you for sending us the newspaper cuttings.

A Hounslow Appeal (Disgusted).—We cannot entertain the publication of anonymous letters. Why do you withhold your name and address from us?

The Keeping of Snakes (Cardinal).—The contributor you mention informs us that he cannot give the desired information as he has had no experience of the keeping of snakes.

We wish Linnet fanciers not to forget last Saturday in this month. We are adding copper kettle to prize money.—C. Clayton, Hon. Sec.

SALFORD.

Meeting held Boathouse Hotel, Oct. 15. The report was read hy the delegates, who went to Leigh last Saturday, and the business done gave every satisfaction to members present, and the same delegates—Messrs. Green and Wharton—will go to Wigan (The "Colliers' Arms"), on Oct. 28, to settle finally all matches under the affiliated Lancashire Singing Clubs. Meeting for club members at headquarters, Oct. 29, at 7.30 prompt. Will any member not able to be present kindly send postcard?—B. Wharton, Hon. Sec.

LEIGH.

Another club contest held October 14th, when 20 birds entered, but the singing was again poor. We gave three prizes for each class. Winners for quality: 1, T. Statham; 2, R. Holcroft; 3, D. Banks; for time: 1, J. Statham, 49; 2, J. Budsworth, 37; 3, J. Whittle, 27. Judges for quality, Messrs. J. W. Jones and J. McAllister; for time, Messrs. J. Statham and R. Taberner. Time-keeper, Mr. R. Latham. After the contest we had a delegates' meeting re fixing dates, etc., and right well they turned up. Blackburn represented by W. H. Topping and Joe Dobson; Wigan by J. Ashurst, J. Milligan and R. Latham; Salford by B. Warton, J. Green and J. Crestwell; and Tyldsley by F. Kennedy. The whole of the delegates accepted the proposal made by the Globe club, and decided to bave a final meeting in due course. Delegates afterwards passed a vote of confidence in J. McAllister, and elected him sec. As to above business I shall report through this paper where we shall meet next, and any club outside of the above that wishes to send delegates may get all particulars by applying to J. McAllister, 1, Brunswick Street, Leigh.

Correspondence.

The Next Crystal Palace Show.

Sir,—I am in receipt of but very few letters in reply to my letter published in your columns a fortnight since inviting suggestions, etc., for the next Crystal Palace Show. These will be considered by my committee on Thursday, October 26. There is yet time for anyone to offer a suggestion, provided their letter reaches me before the 26th.

Have we a New Variety of Canary?

Encouraging the All Whites.

Sir,—Having read in your issue of Oct. 7 a suggestion to encourage the "All Whites," and being the possessor of a pure white Norwich Plainhead cock, bred by me this season, I may say that I should be pleased to exhibit it at the next Crystal Palace Show in the event of a class being provided for "All Whites."

Wrong Classing of Alleged Mules at Morpeth Show.

Sir,—My Mules having been wrong-classed at Morpeth Show, I wonder what were the judge's grounds for the wrong-classing of these birds? It must have been the report of Chopwell Show that caused him to disqualify them; or has he seen some clear Mules bred from a Mealy Redpoll before? As an exhibitor of Canaries, British birds, and Mules for eighteen years, does the judge for a moment think that I am fool enough to exhibit Canaries in Mule classes for a paltry prize of 8s.? I think, had the judge examined these birds thoroughly, or even set them on one side away from other birds, he should have most certainly seen what they were, as the birds would have spoken for themselves. These birds are open for any exhibitor to examine should they call at my address.

Is the Yorkshire Canary on the Down Grade?

Sir,—When I wrote the article on the Yorkshire Canary I had no idea that I should be the means of setting a house on fire. However, having done so—though quite unintentional on my part—I am quite prepared to take the dire consequences of the terrible conflagration that is raging in the brain of your correspondent. Your correspondent, in referring to a certain sentence in my article, says surely "Longfellow" must have been quaffing Yorkshire stingo when he wrote that sentence. I beg to inform "Six-Three-Quarter" that journalistic padding is not argument, and that I am not in the habit of quaffing either Yorkshire or any other kind of stingo. It is quite on the cards that he has done more of this kind of thing in a single day than I have done in a lifetime; hence his readiness to attribute to others a habit that he himself is perhaps only too well acquainted with. It is quite evident that "Six-Three-Quarter" is labouring under a false impression, and thinks that his identity is quite beyond my ken. I can assure him it did not require the brain of a Sherlock Holmes to solve the problem. I may say that I am always open to accept fair and honest criticism, but when one wilfully twists and misconstrues to suit one's own purpose it is what I may term hitting below the belt, which, to say the least, does not conduce to a healthy and elevating controversy. It would be interesting to know what claim "Six-Three-Quarter" has to a thorough and practical knowledge of the subject at issue. I have yet to learn that he ever bred or exhibited a Yorkshire Canary worthy of the name. Perhaps he will put me right on this point. If so, I shall then know what value to place on his remarks. At present I am under the impression that the knowledge possessed by "Six Three-Quarter" is far more of the superficial order than practical experience as a breeder of the Yorkshire Canary. It is a well-known fact that "Six-Three-Quarter" has always been red-hot on the miniature Yorkshire question, and has on countless occasions pushed it to the utter extreme. In my article I named five and ten years; then why does he try to pervert a plain statement and try to drag me back to fifteen and twenty years ago, when many of the so-called Yorkshires were only half-bred Lancashires? No, "Six-Three-Quarters," don't try to put words into my mouth that I never uttered, in the endeavour to bolster up your own contention. Why should I ask your bosom friend what is or what is not the correct thing in Yorkshires? It is quite evident that by placing your friend on a pedestal as the one and only one who has done anything in Yorkshires during the last ten years that you were intent on giving him a free advertisement at the expense of Cage Birds. However, this playing to the gallery is not always appreciated by intelligent fanciers of the Yorkshire Canary. Now "Six-Three-Quarters" says that "Longfellow" argues as though length was the chief of all points in the Yorkshire. I do nothing of the kind, and I defy "Six-Three-Quarters" to point to a single statement in my article to that effect. Because I suggest to the Y.C.C. to amend matters he presumes—a thing he has no right to do—that I want the standard altered. Who said anything about altering the standard? I certainly did not, nor even hinted at such a thing. Fancy altering the standard to let the big ones come in when we cannot reach the standard already in existence! Surely "Six-Three-Quarters" is letting his perverted brain run riot with his better judgment to talk such twaddle. Then, again, he exclaims: "Great Scot! Quality the ruination of the Yorkshire Canary!" I repeat the statement, and say, "Yes, certainly," when it is pushed to the front at the expense of either of the other three properties—namely, position, length, or type. I should be just as strongly opposed to any other of the four properties being made a fad of and pushed to the extreme at the expense of the rest, no matter whether it be position, length, type, or quality. It is a four-property bird that is wanted at the front, and not the three-and-a-half property bird. Oh, the inconsistency of man! "Six-Three-Quarters" says if "Longfellow" will produce a 6¾ bird which excels everything else in position, type, and quality, he feels sure that Mr. Mundell will place it first at the next Palace Show. I think "Six-Three-Quarters" must have had a lapse of memory when he wrote the above, as I certainly consider a 6¾ bird a good big 'un when possessed of the other three properties that forms a perfect whole. Still, "Six-Three-Quarters," being such a red-hot advocate of the miniatures, I certainly did not expect him to come round to my way of thinking and predict a good big 'un to win at the next Palace Show.

Longfellow.

[Mr. "Longfellow" must not be rash in jumping at conclusions. He broadly hints at the identity of "Six-Three-Quarters," but he may be as far off the mark as "Six-Three-Quarters" may be of correctly identifying "Longfellow." We have deleted a certain statement on the ground that it is unwarrantable and untrue.—Editor.]

A letter on this subject from "Goodfellow" is held over until next week.

Some Show Cages in the Crest Classes.

Sir,—While at several shows I could not help but notice the cages in some of the Crest classes. They appeared to me to be some old Norwich cages cut down at the top and the wire fronts bent over to form bow tops to the cages. Seeing they belong to one of our noted Crest breeders, I do not think it fair to the other members of the Crest Club that he is not compelled to comply with the rules, the same as other members. I trust this letter will have the desired effect.

Does Colour-feeding Cause Liver Disease?

Sir,—I have noticed for several weeks that the cause of death, directly or indirectly, of a large proportion of the birds sent to Mr. Yates for post-mortem examination is due to enlargement of the liver. In your issue of the 14th inst. Mr. Yates writes, under the heading "Post-Mortems": "Death from disease of the liver appears to be on the increase. I have lately encountered quite a large percentage of deaths from this cause, and can only conclude that there is something materially wrong with the food or the method of feeding." I take it that we are using the same seeds now that have been used for years, but there is one food of recent invention, viz., colour food. Is this the cause of the evil? It would be interesting to know if the birds that have died from this disease have been colour-fed or not. Perhaps Mr. Yates will publish the information for the benefit of the Fancy at large.

Prize Money on the Sliding Scale.

Is it a Bugbear to Exhibitors?

Sir,—I notice several show committees are dividing the entrance fees as prize money in classes which contain less than five entries. In my opinion this innovation is a greater bugbear to exhibitors than amalgamating classes. It is all right for the show committee, who make their show at the expense of exhibitors, and the members who enter at a reduced entry fee, and have no railway charges to pay, and also for the pot-hunter; but it is most unsatisfactory to other exhibitors, who have to send long distances at considerable expense, and when they win only receive a trifle more than their entrance fee. Especially is this the case with exhibitors of foreign and the larger varieties of British softbills. In their case it would be much more profitable to keep their birds at home than to send them and win a first prize. Then, again, it is disadvantageous to the novice, because when he has taken three firsts in novice classes he has to show in open competition, and no matter how small the class may be, a win counts against him; and this is not desirable until he has gained the necessary experience to enable him to hold his own. I consider that if show committees cannot guarantee half prize-money in classes that stand they would be better cancelled. I note the novice classes at the recent Longton Show were subject to the sliding scale under five entries. Two classes contained two entries each, and there was one with three, and two with four—not very satisfactory to the successful exhibitors, several of whom will not be able to compete in novice competition again.

Curious Captures.

Sir,—I am much interested in Mr. Swaysland's captures reported in your last issue. Two months ago I had a similar experience in a village in Scotland. A bird flew in at the open window of a drawing room, and was caught; and as the ladies of the house were not quite sure what kind of bird it was, they put it in a basket till I should return home. I easily recognised it as a Water Hen and released it. We thought at the time that it had probably been chased by a cat.

The Packing of Exhibits from the Shows.

Sir,—May I appeal through the columns of your popular journal, Cage Birds, to all those good helpers who so generously give their assistance in packing the exhibits after the shows? On Friday afternoon last, on the arrival of my birds from London, I found my ticked buff 1st Clapham rolled up in a ball on the bottom of the cage, as near dead as possible. The cause of this was his being packed with the front of his cage facing the air hole of the travelling case, instead of the reverse way. Owing to a very heavy fog in the Solent, the boats were delayed for two or three hours; consequently birds were exposed, and did not arrive until late in the afternoon. I am fully aware of the great amount of labour a show entails, and I am confident that it is caused simply for want of thought, and not any unkindness intended either to the birds or exhibitors. In justice to our pets, also the exhibitors, I think it only right to make this appeal. This is not the first time my birds have come home like this, and on more than one occasion I have had good birds drop into soft moult through getting colds in this way. Good show specimens are very difficult to get, hence of great value; not only this, but from a humane point the greatest care should be taken in packing. I am pleased to say that after spending more than half the night with a good fire and the aid of tincture of cayenne I have got my bird round so far, but I am seriously afraid of his dropping into soft moult. I do not cast the slightest reflection on the Clapham committee. They are a good lot of fanciers, and I hope to patronise them again if spared for another year. But as this is the commencement of the show season I cousider it only right to ask the favour of careful packing.

"Wigs on the Green" at Newcastle.

Sir,—I write as one of the members who were not at the committee meeting referred to, but was present at the general meeting when the proof of the schedule was read out. No one was prevented from speaking while I was there, but one gentleman who was a donor of a special made a correction. Certainly I gathered from the manner in which a certain member asked of his companions "when the committee meeting had been held to allot the specials?" that he was not suited. What their reply was I did not hear, but I heard his retort about a bit of "high-handed work." This was the only reference I heard to the disposal of the specials. If any other member was dissatisfied he had ample opportunity to put his question to the meeting. As it is difficult to prevent tongues from wagging and suspicion from alighting, it is but right the aforesaid member should have a chance to disown all knowledge of the letter written on the eve of the show under a nom-de-plume that might go far to mar the harmony of the event. To exhibitors I would say they have Mr. Hutchinson to thank in a very great measure for what is provided at Newcastle Show, and they have not yet paid him too much for his attachment and fidelity to the society under the most trying circumstances.

G. W. MacPartling.

Sir,—In this week's issue a letter appears under the nom de plume "Lover of Fair Play." Let me say, in the first place, I think the letter was dictated by one person and written by another. However, I would ask the "Dictator" one or two questions. What is he grumbling about? His section is well provided for. Has he ever sought, or begged, a special for the N.C.B.S.? No; he will accept them readily, when they are sent to his house, but as for seeking them, that is another thing altogether. He seems to make a point of the committee meeting not being attended by all the members when the question of subscriptions was settled. That may be, but all present, except Mr. J. N. F. Scott, voted in favour of the resolution, including the latter's friend, the writer of his letter. I may say I hold no brief for Mr. Hutchinson. He can take care of himself. I do not agree with all he does, but, under the circumstances, the specials only coming in very slowly at first, what else could you do? Why did not the "Dictator" open his mouth at the general meeting, when the specials were read out? If he did not agree with the allotting of them that was the place at which to speak. I am afraid he is just a greedy fellow; he cannot be a true fancier. It seems as if he is in a society for what he can get; he does not help in any way; in fact, men like him are a hindrance to any society—mischief-makers. How strange fate works! Here are "Lover of Fair Play" and "Lover of Justice" quite agreeing, yet just about twelve months ago they were bitter against each other As regards the Taylor-Lister case, the "Dictator" is not telling the truth. He knows well enough how things stand at present, as he was at the last N.C. meeting. Now, Mr. Scott, just a question for you. Are you the gentleman who was connected with other societies, and who left them because you could not get your own way? But the "upright" committee were too many for you. I think the secretary of N.C.B.S. is an honest, hard-working individual. I would not like his job; what a time he has trying to please everybody! What did you want him to do—send and ask you to withdraw your resignation? I believe you thought your resignation would not be accepted; but it was.

Not a Crest Breeder.

[We have deleted from the above letter one or two remarks which seemed to be of too personal a nature.—Editor.]

Sir,—I was sorry to see the letter signed by "Lover of Fair Play." The writer is surely hurt about the specials not being placed entirely to his liking, and takes this unfancier-like way of venting his spleen. It would be different if Mr. Hutchinson was not such an all-round good fellow, or if any of these charges were true. "Lover of Fair Play" just about hit the mark when he said Newcastle is a one-man society. At any rate, Mr. Hutchinson is the one man we could not do without. He not only fills the positions of chairman and show manager creditably, but whenever there is anything to do in connection with the society—a difficult or a thankless task—Mr. Hutchinson is the man to tackle it. Would that "Lover of Fair Play" did half as much. Mr. Hutchinson is the right man in the right place, and if he treads on "Lover of Fair Play's" corns, it must be because "Lover of Fair Play" does not walk correctly himself. Our chairman is able to satisfy anyone who applies in a proper manner on any business connected with the society.

The "Taylor-Lister Carvers Case."

Mr. J. G. Hutchinson, Newcastle, has drawn our attention to a letter appearing in last week's Cage Birds over the signature of "Lover of Fair Play," and complains that it is of a libellous nature. The particular sentence he objects to is the refereuce to the "Taylor-Lister carvers case," as in his view it implies that he has converted these things to his own personal use. But in our opinion nothing could be further from the point. The writer quite clearly intends that Mr. Hutchinson has retained them in an official capacity. Besides, anyone who knows Mr. Hutchinson knows that his character is far above suspicion of a petty and impossible theft of this description. All through the letter in question the writer tries to show the zeal Mr. Hutchinson has consistently shown on behalf of his club and his special variety, and never at any time is there the slightest adverse or damaging comment on Mr. Hutchinson's personal character. If there is the smallest possibility of any of our readers taking such a wrong-headed and perverse view as Mr. Hutchinson thinks can be taken of this sentence, we unhesitatingly ask that gentleman to accept our sincere and unqualified regrets that such paragraph appeared. It would certainly not have done so had we thought such a view was in the smallest degree possible.—Editor, Cage Birds.

Dalkeith Club and the Scotch Fancy Canary.

Sir,—I thank your reporter for the kind tribute of praise meted to my colleague Mr. Ewing and myself. At the same time, may I appeal for a share of patronage from those fanciers who reside within the necessary ten-mile radius? Your reporter's regret at the absence of the Scotch Fancy from our show is shared by the writer, but their breeders demand for ten classes, a gold medal, a specialist judge, and special prizes which would mean the dissolution of the Club. The fact that the entries in the Scotch section have not for some years averaged two per class made the competition farcical in the classes—a course which the members who kept that variety would not submit to, though the parasitic nature of their demand was demonstrated by the financial report after last year's show. May I call their attention to the following list of donations towards next year's show by fanciers (not financiers), and appeal to them to come to our next meeting and curtail these absurd demands, when I have no doubt the Border and Norwich men will make reasonable concessions. Unsolicited donations towards the show for 1912:—Mr. J. Thomson (Newtongrange), £1 and his services as judge of Border section gratis—a truly generous offer, which remarks apply also to Mr. W. Pearson (Musselburgh), who judges the Norwich, British, and Mules gratis, and gives in addition a handsome special; Mr. Arch. Thomson, Mr. Wm. Thomson, Mr. T. Bickerstaff, Mr. J. Ewing, and Mr. Jas. Hamilton, 5s. each; Mr. A. Rowe, 5s. and special Border prize; Mr. J. Steel, 10s.

Notable Addition to Our List of Patrons.

It is with great pleasure that I am able to announce that Sir Roland J. Corbet, Bart., has expressed his willingness to become a Patron of Cage Birds League. In his letter Sir Roland says: "I consider the hobby of bird-keeping both interesting and humanitarian." So do we all. It is only those who know nothing whatever of the subject who think otherwise.

Mid-Rhondda C.B.S. Nearly All In.

In sending the names of four more members Mr. A. H. C. Legg writes: "I have been promised a few more at our next meeting; we shall only then have one or two more to join and we shall then be all in." Other Societies please copy.

Important to Show Secretaries.

Under our offer that during the show season special prizes would be granted by Cage Birds League to the value of one-half the subscription of the members of any individual society who had become members of the League many societies are entitled to special prizes. I should be glad if the hon. secs. of such societies would send in their claims in good time. If between the time of sending in the claim and the date of the show further members of the society join Cage Birds League the value of the special prize will be increased accordingly.

A "Humanitarian" Lady Joins the League.

Mr. Peck, of Bexley, who is one of the most enthusiastic of all Cage Bird Leaguers, and who has already introduced nearly forty members, writes of an important addition to our ranks in the person of a lady who entirely disapproved of the keeping of birds in cages. It appears that this lady was interested in the movements of some wild birds who were flying about Dartford Heath and asked Mr. Peck, who happened to be near, as to their identity. He told her they were Linnets, and the conversation ultimately resulted in an invitation from Mr. Peck that the lady should accompany him to see his birds and note the way in which they were kept. This being accepted, the lady was so pleased with the appearance of the birds that her opinions were very considerably modified, and she became convinced that she had hitherto known nothing of the subject, and had only been misled by what she had heard and read. In the end Cage Birds League was introduced, and the lady was so impressed with the arguments of Mr. Peck, aided by Mrs. Peck, herself one of our members, that from being an out and out opponent of cage-bird keeping she became a member of Cage Birds League, the main object of which is to defend the hobby of cage-bird keeping from the attacks of those who would see an end put to it once and for all. Every credit is due to Mr. and Mrs. Peck for the enthusiasm they have shown, and I am sure that all members of the League will congratulate them on their latest success.

What the League Has Done for Millom Fanciers.

Mr. Watson writes from Millom that the Millom Town Council had put before them at their last monthly meeting the report of the Medical Officer of Health, and that this gentleman was informed that if he wished any action taken he must report some individual case and prove that the birds were being so kept as to be injurious to health. This may be taken to mean that the Canary fanciers of Millom will be left in peace to pursue their hobby. That they were able to make any stand against the oppressive action of the Health Authorities in serving notices is entirely due to their taking the advice tendered them by Cage Birds League after I had taken counsel of our legal advisers, and the members of Cage Birds League have every reason to be satisfied with the result of the first case which has come within the province of the League. It is apparent from many letters which have reached me that many Canary fanciers think there is no necessity for them to join the League. They console themselves with the idea that it is only the keeping of British birds which is being attacked. The Millom case proves that Canary keeping is in danger, and it also proves that when the authorities find that they have an organisation instead of solitary fanciers against which to fight, they consider twice before attempting to carry out empty threats. Mr. Watson puts the case in a nutshell in saying, "They found out that we were members of Cage Birds League."

For particulars of our seals, badges, and free booklets, and for terms of membership, etc., see last week's issue (p. 229).

ROUND THE SHOWS.

BRADFORD (West).

Grand Birds and a Great Attendance: A Wonderful Hen is Staged.

Bradford West held their annual show October 14th in the Whetley Lane schools, Girlington. The room proved too small for the number of exhibits and for the comfort of the visitors; no doubt this was brought about by the large attendance which we were pleased to see, the room being packed all the afternoon. It was impossible in fact to get near some of the birds. We heard that the society are on the look out for a larger room, but good rooms are hard to find; however, we wish them success. The entries came up well -606 in 49 classes, 172 fanciers entering. The sensation of the show was the winning yellow hen owned by Mr. Chippendale; it was acknowledged by all to be the nicest hen ever put on the show bench. We heard that £15 was refused for her, and she is worth it, as it's only once in a life-time that a hen like her comes along. She is of tremendous length, and has a head as neat and round as a Border's. Fanciers should take particular notice of her wherever she is shown. Another striking bird was the winning clear yellow belonging to Messrs. Ogden Bros. The Novice classes were a treat to see, both in numbers and quality. Amongst the visitors we met Mr. Crawhall (Newcastle), also the Green men from Liverpool. The management is in the hands of exhibitors; fanciers know what this means—the birds off early. All railway birds were off before seven p.m., so that they should have reached home the same night. Particular credit must be given to Messrs. Cowgill, Greaves, Crabtree, Smith, Whitley and A. Bennett, who worked admirably, getting the birds away. The Hon. Sec., Mr. F. Western, is an ideal man for the position. He is very obliging, and has a smile and a good word for everybody. Mr. J. N. Harrison (Belper) had charge of champion Yorkshires, Yorkshire Greens, and British birds, and Mr. Mundell of the Norwich and Novice Yorkshires.

Mr. Harrison's Classes.

YORKS., CL., YELL.: 1, Ogden Bros., long, clean drawn bird, nice shoulders and wedge shape, full of swank, will take some beating; 2, Thomas, another of grand position, nicely filled in, straight as an arrow, beautiful wings and tail; 3, Jas. BUFF (24) another hot lot: 1, Ogden Bros., grizzle wing, broken flight when we were taking notes, rare quality, the type we require, beautifully moulded, wins; 2, Whitley, straight as a rush, showing plenty of daylight, compact wings, and neat tail; 3, Radley, scorcher for type and quality, leggy and full of swank, well up; 4, Bailey, turned out in the pink, a Yorkie, wedge shape body; vhc, Ambler; hc, Helliwell; c, Shaw Bros.. EVEN MKD., ETC., YELL. (15): 1, Shackleton, eye and wing mark, topping shape and feathers, rare wing carriage, and general contour; 2, Townsend, ditto markings, good top end, well tapered away, plenty behind leg, very dressy; 3, Towers, cap. eye and wing mark, shooty and rare, filled in head and neck; 4, Dykes, eyes and wing mark, fine type and glorious feather; vhc, Dewhurst; hc, Ramsden; c, Sutcliffe and Son. BUFF (14): 1, 2, Dykes, 1 eye and wing mark, rare good type, wedge shape, grand pair of legs, stands fearlessly, 2 eye, wing and neck marks, another topper of true Yorks. type, and a good big one; 3, Chippendale, glorious markings, good top and shooting; 4, Hill, wing mark, straight as rush, grand back, nicely filled in; vhc, Croft; hc, could not find; c, Sutcliffe and Sons. YELL. HEN (12): 1, Wilson, variegs., small, neat head and neck, very swanky, nice position; 2, Charlesworth, grizzle marks, long drawn, fine head and neck, good top and very shooty; 3, Shackleton, first real good hen, nicely moulded and rare quality; 4, Stodart, neat lady, topping type and quality, plenty of leg; vhc, Ogden Bros.; hc, Chittenden; c, Sutcliffe and Sons. BUFF (17): 1, Dykes, eye and wing mark, straight as an arrow, round and well filled in neck, wins; 2, Ramsden, variegs., non-fed, glorious feather though, very leggy; 3, Priestley, eye and wing marks, shooty and very clean waist, grand back; 4, Ogden Bros., grizzle mark, very straight, stands on a good pair of legs; vhc, Sutcliffe and Sons; hc, Brown and Son; c, Broadley. CINN., TKD., ETC., YELL. (12): 1, Brown and Son, variegs., hot one, well away for type, feather and position, and a big one; 2, Cooper, smaller, but of excellent type and texture, neat carriage of wings and tail, well up; 3, 4, Bailey, 3 eye and wing, big one, graud position and style, wants another fortnight to get fit, 4 even wing marks, rare quality, good shoulders and back; vhc, Wheldrake; hc, Thorntou; c, Ogden Bros. BUFF (8). 1, Morrison, cheek and wing marks, fine type of a Yorkie, excellent wiug carriage, moulded to perfectiou; 2, Brown and Son, variegs., topper for position, rare good back and neat waist, pipe tail; 3, c, Towers, variegs., rough underneath when we were takiug notes, otherwise grand bird; 4 Ogden Bros., eye and wing marks, slashing, fine bird, shows grand quality; vhc, Metcalfe; hc, Cooper. YELL., HEN (9): 1, Chittenden, eye and wing marks, grand lady, shows herself well, splendid back, front, and general carriage; 2, 4, c, Towers, cap. wing marks, another of the right sort, full of quality aud position, well placed; 3, Thomas, smaller, very fine type and quality, neat pair of legs; 4, Towers, variegs., rare drive from shoulder to rump; vhc, Metcalfe; hc, Bullen; c, Towers. BUFF (16): 1, Morrison, variegs., a gem, all type and quality, well up on legs, clean built, should do something; 2, Bailey, variegs., another topper from this stable, rare thing all through, but just beaten to-day; 3, Cooper, hardly the bloom of winners, but long, racy Buff, showing a nice length of leg; 4, Thomas; vhc, Ogden Bros.; hc, Metcalfe; c, Priestley. STOCK BIRD (6) all clears: 1, Ludbrook, tremendous bird in width, but birds in open were as long, well filled in; 2, Cooper, topping size, fine legs and wing carriage, grand closed-in tail; 3, Goodwin, wedge shape, very shooty, good stock bird; 4, Priestley, grand length, best of wing carriage; vhc, Myers; hc, Towers. YORKS. GREENS, SELF YELL. (17): 1, Bunn, a nice stamp of bird, but frilly in front, and we thought somewhat fortunate to get this position; 2, hc, Rowlands, rare length, good top end, grand waist, magnificent col. and markings; 3, McDermott, bit stouter, slashing fine size, col. and markings, well drawn, not quite ready; 4, vhc, McNulty, wonderful col. and pencilling, long drawn wings; hc, Rowlands, best coloured bird in class; c, Wardle. Mr. Mundell's Classes.

The Norwich Greens had four classes provided for them, but these filled badly. Self-Yellows were cancelled, and the three remaining classes totalled 21 entries. In the open Norwich section some very typical birds were benched. The novice Yorkshires were a nice lot, and we shall hear more about them in a few more weeks. Many of the birds are not quite ready, and lack the bloom which we like to see. Some of them are too fat, and want a week or two off the colour food.

Plymouth Fanciers Score Again.

The Entries Total 788.

Westcountrymen Hold Strong Hands in Norwich and Yorkshires.

With the Southern Yorkshire C.C. and Southern Norwich C.C: both giving their support to Clapham last week it was thought by many that the entry at Plymouth would be adversely affected, but such, we are pleased to state, was not the case, as both sections came up remarkably well, and they gave Mr. House a stiff morning's work, the quality being quite equal to the entry. The show was held on October 17th and 18th, and the Corn Exchange was once more the venue, and a better could not be desired—light, lofty, well ventilated, yet free from draughts it makes a magnificent show room, the exhibits being easily viewed from any point. The entries totalled 788, which is somewhat less than last year, but still is good amidst the multitude of shows being held this week. The opening day was dull and cheerless, yet a fair number of visitors put in an appearance, and we should say the show will once more prove successful.

Yorkshires, as usual, opened the schedule, and a magnificent collection they were. A quality lot right through. The best cock bird was Mr. Rorke's yellow variegated, a slim, beautifully proportioned bird of great style and character, whilst the honour of being the best of the opposite sex fell to Mr. Atkinson's wing ticked buff hen, a most charming, sylph-like little lady, as dainty as she was smart and fascinating. A most pleasing feature was the strong hand held by Western breeders, Devon and Cornwall supplying quite a number of the winners.

Magnificent Norwich.

Plymouth is, and has been for ages, a hot-bed of Norwich, and the breeders of the Three Towns are well able to hold their own with the best that the rest of the country can produce. In one thing the Plymouth birds have always excelled, and that is quality. Although colour and size have not been overlooked, they have never been allowed to dominate type and quality. One very noticeable feature was that many of the birds had not yet fined down, and this made the task of judging exceedingly difficult, especially as the morning was very dull, and those birds were not over lively. One item of interest in the section was the fact that Mr. Spillman won the members' young bird challenge cup for the second year in succession with a yellow hen, and that the birds which produced the winner of 1910 were also the parents of the 1911 bird.

The Crests were of very nice quality, but hardly up to that of last year, when the Northern creeks of Messrs. Taylor and Martin were on view, still some lovely birds were on the benches, and the C.C.C. specials went to most worthy representatives of the breed. Messrs. Evins Bros'. lovely hen, "Bushey Queen" secured that for the best Crest, and Mr. Bale's noted buff secured that for the best crest-bred. In the British section the Coldies and both soft-billed classes had to be scratched. This falling off in recent years of the British section at Plymouth is hard to understand. However, in the classes which filled some magnificent birds were staged, and the winners were all of great beauty.

Of the management there can be but one opinion, it was splendid; and only in one respect can we suggest improvement, and that is that the water should not be removed from the birds other than Crests. The absence of water for a few hours makes a wonderful difference in the appearance of birds, and although it may be said that all are on the same footing, it is hardly so, as some are more adversely affected than others. The committee worked like Trojans, and spared not themselves at all. Plymouth men know how to run a show, and they do it. The committee responsible for this year's event were Messrs. C. Dart (chairman), W. French(vice-chairman), C. Hoar, C. Garland, J. Ryder, W. W. Small, E. Sott, C. Jewell, J. Pridham, G. Haskell, C. Large, F. Wills, J. Bavage, W. Spillman, and C. Reed. Two better officials than Messrs. T. Pope and W. A. Dyer it would be difficult to find, and under their direction everything went as smoothly and cheerfully as a marriage bell.

The judges were Mr. C. A. House, Yorkshires, Norwich, Borders and Belgians; Mr. J. Robson, the remainder.

BIRMINGHAM.

Annual exhibition of the Birmingham C.B.S. held Oct. 18 and 19, in the spacious room attached to the "Crown Hotel," Hill Street, this being centrally situated, in close proximity to the stations. The hall has good light, is well ventilated, and is lighted by electricity at night. No classes were cancelled or amalgamated. The president is Mr. J. A. Eckersley, and a more enthusiastic and genuine official it would be impossible to find. The vice-presidents are Messrs. W. W. Butler, J. Webb, H. C. Wilkins, A. Broadhurst, and J. H. de Maillet; everyone rendered valuable assistance. Chairman Mr. J. Burke, vice Mr. G. E. Niblett, hon. treas. Messrs. J. Harvey and E. J. Ingram—a quartette well above the average of workers. The committee consist of Messrs. Derry, Dipple, Hughes, J. H. Jones, F. Pearce, Walton, and Wright, a band of real workers. The hon. sec., Mr. S. Mole, is heart and soul in his duties; he is a genuine trier, courteous and obliging, and possesses a true fancier spirit. Mr. J. H. de Maillet (late sec.) put his shoulders to the wheel in no mean manner, and between them the work ran smoothly. Staging was of a very neat description, and the birds could be seen at a glance. Birmingham fanciers are true to the core, and time spent amongst them is of a most pleasant nature. The Crimson Wing (Mr. W. Baxby's) stood reserve for sp for best in show, and fully deserved the honour. Special for best in show went to a yellow dark Greenle-Cin., the property of Mr. A. Somerfield. Sandiford's medal, Mr. F. J. Weaver. The stewards were Messrs. J. H. Jones (night duty), Childs, Burke, jun., Crowther, and Raby. All worked with a will, and kept on the top side of their duties. Cards were displayed promptly as each class was adjudicated upon. Judges: Mr. T. Heath (London), Canaries, and Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), British, Hybrids, and Foreign. The awards were well received.

OVER 800 BIRDS AT LOCHGELLY.

GREAT SHOW IN FIFESHIRE.

Well Managed and Well Attended; All Sections Strong; Some Huge British Classes.

Lochgelly C.B.S. 2nd annual held in the Drill Hall, Oct. 14, when the handsome support received by the officials would go far to compensate them for their arduous labours. They are a hard-working lot, from the president, Mr. Thos. Wildridge, down to the humblest committeeman, and right well do they deserve their success. The secretarial duties were in the capable hands of Mr. W. Whiteford, and although these duties proved prodigious, he got through them all smiling. On one point must we compliment him and his committee, and that is on the prompt return of all exhibits; all birds from a distance were in plenty of time for their trains. The entry was grand—826 in all, and in every section the quality was of a very high standard. The birds were nicely staged in as comfortable a hall as the most fastidious could wish for, and the result was that grumblers were conspicuous only by their absence. Mr. Thornton (Edinburgh) judged the Scotch Fancies, and got through his task without great difficulty. The trophy winner in this section proved to be the cl. yell. ck. exhibited by Mr. J. Stenhouse. Borders were out in great numbers, and Mr. G. Hislop (Stirling) had a stiff task set him to find the winners. Mr. G. Bennet won the trophy for best, along with the B.F.C.C. medal. Mr. J. Ford (Kelty) made a very successful debut as a judge of Yorkshires, and his awards were well received. Mr. A. Girvan won the gold medal for best Yorks. with a grand bird. Mr. J. Howie's well-known dark crest. ck. again proved his superiority by running away with the trophy for best in this section, also the cup for best bird in show, a popular win. Mr. G. F. Adamson (Kilmarnock) placed the cards here to the satisfaction of everyone. The Stephen cup for best unflighted Nor. (members) was won by Mr. W. Dull, whose Buff hen is indeed a taking model. Mr. Alan Chalmers (Kirkintilloch) who certainly did not look "henpecked," went through the Norwich with his usual vim, and his awards were well received. Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh) handled the Mules, Brit., and For. birds, and he had something to do before eventually pleasing both exhibitors and himself. Special for best went to Mr. McQuiston's Bullfinch, and he thoroughly deserved it.

PORTSMOUTH.

Portsmouth C.B.S. second annual show held Oct. 18th, Long's Memorial Hall. A better hall for a show of this kind could not be found; the light was grand, and the room nicely heated. The birds looked very comfortable. The entry numbered close on 500, which, taking into consideration the early time of the year, must be considered very good. The secretaries, Messrs. King and Joiner, had everything well in hand, and were very obliging to all. This is a show that should have the support of all bird-keepers in the South of England. The novice classes were a great attraction. The prizes here were kindly given by local tradesmen and collected by Mr. J. A. Newberry. Mr. J. Robson judged.

BROMLEY (Kent).

A record entry was received by the Bromley F.A. for their show, which was held in the Drill Hall, on October 18 and 19; the quality also was good. Messrs. Billinger and Spiller made a capital pair of secretaries, and got through their work well, being assisted by a splendid committee under the direction of Mr. J. Waters, the chairman. The cage birds were in the special charge of Messrs. G. Stevens, J. W. Ford, and J. Barber. Mr. C. A. House judged.

SIX BELLS (Abertillery).

Fourth annual show of the Six Bells F.S. held October 18th, the venue being the Drill Hall, a capital place for a show, being quite free from draughts and well lighted. The cage birds were staged at the end of the ball, and made a nice display, the numbers and quality being well ahead of those of any previous show; and they received every care and attention from a capable committee, Messrs. Cleaves, Mortimer and Parfitt working splendidly. The quality of the exhibits was most excellent, and competition was keen. The five guinea cup for best exhibit throughout the whole show was captured by the winning Goldfinch Canary Mule. The hon. secs., Mr. E. Churchill, makes an admirable officer, having all details at his finger ends; and he was as courteous and obliging as he was energetic. As usual we noticed that old and enthusiastic fancier, Mr. R. Leech, in his capacity of President, taking as lively an interest in the show as ever. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

NORTHAMPTON.

49th annual show Northampton Good Intent O.S. held Corn Exchange, October 18 and 19. We were pleased to meet with a number of the old standard-bearers of the society, including Messrs. J. Nason, J. Mason, G. Hobbs, G. Gayton, G. Cox, and others. Numbers came up fairly well, a slight increase on last year. Mr. Roe made the awards in the open classes, but unfortunately missed the right train and did not arrive until 2 o'cl.; consequently the committee requested Mr. J. C. Wilmot (Bedford), who was present, to make the awards in the members' classes. The secretaries, Messrs. Cox and Barrett, ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee, had everything well in hand, and cards were up promptly.

EASTBOURNE.

Held Oct. 18 and 19. The entry was not quite so good as last year, owing to the birds being late with the moult, and several of the classes had to be cancelled. The quality was excellent, especially in Yorks. The spl and cup for the best non-fed Canary went to Mr. Newman, with a typical Yorks.; spl best members, Mr. Hedges, with a sweet little Blackcap. The committee are an excellent lot of fanciers, and all good workers. Mr. Daly makes an ideal hon. sec., being most courteous and obliging. Mr. W. R. Miles judged, and his awards were well received.

Norwich Lives Up to its Reputation.

Magnificent Record Show.

Splendid Management; Remarkable Entry of the "Home Product"; Keen Competition Amongst the Amateurs.

With a record entry, a glorious opening day, a good gate, and a grand list of sales, the executive of the Norwich Alliance All-England C.B.A. were all smiles on the occasion of their annual show, which was held in the Corn Exchange on October 12th and 13th. The entry of 972 was 153 in advance of that vouchsafed to the association twelve months since, and, taking the quality right through, it was, we think, superior to that gathered at the last show; especially was this so in the champion Plainhead classes, in which Messrs. Morris and Irons each staged some most typical specimens. Mr. Rippon also sent a nice team. Of the local breeders Messrs. Howard, Schulen, Ebbage, Wright and Son, and A. H. Smith each staged some nice quality birds.

Where are the Crests?

Crests with three classes, one of which, that for clear bodies, had to be cancelled, drew nine entries only, and the quality was not super-excellent. When we think of the birds shown in the days which are past by such local men as the Mackleys, Greeves, Glasscock, Barnett, Quinton, Howard, Spelman, Winter, Frost, Fitt, Gowing, and others, we are made to realise how sadly Norwich has fallen from its high estate. If the numbers were poor, quality was not quite out of the picture, as the bird which won for Messrs. Payne and Son is indeed one of which anyone may be proud to be acclaimed the breeder.

Although the eleven classes provided for the champions could only muster 102 entries, the same number in the amateur section drew the nice total of 223, an average of just over twenty per class, and a very high order of merit ran through the section.

There were some grand youngsters. The 1911 Crests were an improvement on the adults, and it was worth a day's journey to the show to see Mr. Woollard's handsome youngster alone. It is a long time since such a densely-feathered young Crest has graced the boards at Norwich.

Encouraging the Youngsters.

The four classes for Plainhead Norwich open to breeders only of the counties of Norfolk and Suffolk drew together the splendid array of 163 cages. The prices in these classes are limited to 25s. for cocks and 15s. for hens. Whilst agreeing with the principle of limiting the price in such classes, we think our Norwich friends put it just a shade too low. Did they double the prices we believe they would find it advantageous in many ways, and the evil which they seek to guard against would still be kept under. At present the price limit is not sufficient to induce the breeders to display their best. In the British section there were to be seen some wonderful Hardbills, the Linnets, Redpolls, Siskins, Twites, Chaffinches, Brambles, and Hawfinches all being good, but Goldies were not fit. The Softbills of Messrs. Johnson and Lowne were just splendid, and amongst a small but interesting collection of Foreigners the exhibits of Messrs. Bliss, Miles, Howe, and Row came in for a lot of attention. The class for ladies' home pets created a great deal of interest, the birds being judged as home pets, and not as exhibition specimens.

The Inter-Club Competition.

The inter-club competition for the Deuchar Challenge Cup resulted in the Hand-in-Hand Society winning the trophy for the third time in succession. The positions and points gained were as follows:—1st, Hand-in-Hand, 181; 2nd, South Heighan, 152; 3rd, Record, 150; 4th, Anchor and Hope, 107; 5th, Westwick, 98; 6th, City of Norwich, 90; 7th, Perseverance, 61; 8th, United, 53; and the one outsider, the Golden Dog, scored 50. The cup now becomes the property of the Hand-in-Hand. The winners' splendid total of 181 was considerably assisted by some 50 points scored by the veteran Stark. The association has lost the Deuchar Cup, but it is to be hoped that they will keep the inter-club competition going, as it promotes a feeling of very healthy rivalry between the different breeders' clubs in the city.

Excellent Management.

Of the management what can one say? Our Norwich friends were past-masters in the art thirty years ago when we first knew them; since then their methods have been copied by many others—equalled they may have been, but excelled by none, and to-day no show in the kingdom can beat that of the Norwich Alliance in attention to detail and completeness of executive working.

Those responsible for the carrying through of this year's venture were Messrs. W. W. Freestone (chairman), J. Parsons (vice-chairman), F. Cullington (treasurer), H. Bales, P. Barrett, H. F. Bartram, Brock, J. Brown, A. O. Bunn, R. Burrows, J. Carlton, T. Chaloner, C. Clarke, J. Cutmore, H. Dunham, A. E. Ebbage, G. W. Fulcher, M. C. Gooding, Kerrison, T. E. Miles, J. E. Nichols, B. Palmer, B. W. Pill, R. Pulford, Revell, S. Roberts, A. W. Russell, A. Shearing, J. Stark, S. Thompson. Needless to say they all did their work as Norwich men know how to, and can, do it. Mr. R. Roll, and his assistants, Messrs. Freeman and Russell, got through the secretarial duties in first-class style, and in this department the Norwich Alliance has never been better served than it is to-day.

The judges were: Mr. W. E. Greeves, Crests and Crest-breds; Mr. J. Robson, Champion Plainheads, Non-Fed, Unflighted, Cinnamons, British and Foreign; and Mr. W. Vardy the remainder.

Mr. Greeves's Classes.

CREST. YELL. (5): 1, Sadd, large spreading grey of nice formation, good length, nice centre; 2, A. COVENTRY (Godiva).

The Coventry Godiva C.B.S. held their 5th annual open show at their headquarters, the Chequers Hotel, Little Park Street, on October 14. The entry, although not up to the usual number, made up somewhat in quality, some very fine specimens putting in an appearance. This will be evident from the fact that the winning Buff unflighted was claimed for £10. The management was all that could be desired, being in such capable hands as Mr. J. Busby (President), Mr. H. Saunders (chairman, and show manager), Mr. E. Roycroft (vice-chairman), Messrs. J. Symonds, J. Blackshaw, A. Symonds, H. Mann, H. Wright, A. J. Lucas, Ingham, W. Rowley, Payne, T. Cooke, H. Ward, Howe, and W. Bray. Much credit is due to Mr. R. Symonds (the capable hon. secretary), and his assistant, Mr. A. Wright. Mr. W. Vardy (Huthwaite) judged, and his awards were well received.

BOLTON.

Annual open show of the Bolton O.S., held on Oct. 13 and 14, under the patronage of the N.P.C. and Y.C.C. in the Co-operative Hall—a magnificent room for the purpose, being lofty and well lighted all round, entirely free from draughts, well ventilated by fans, and lit up by electricity at night. The exhibits were staged a bit too low; another foot higher and it would have been considerably more comfortable to see the birds. About 450 entries turned up, which the executive thought good for the time of the year. Most of the birds could do with another week in the stables. Champion Norwich turned up badly after the great show at Burnley. Why, we cannot understand; there was good prize money, a capital hall and a well-known judge. Surely the birds have not found their level yet? The Champion Yorkshire unfighted class was a topper, containing birds that will win later, but were out of the money here. The attendance was really very good on the opening day, and among the visitors we noticed Dr. McConaghey, from Macclesfield, who is a most ardent fancier. Claims were well up to those of former years; the winning natural coloured hen (also 1st at Burnley) was quickly claimed at £3 10s. —a cheap hen. Special winners: Hyde's, J. and J. Hopkins; Sandiford's J. E. Davies; best unflighted, Cooper; best member N.P.C., S. Cook; best members', Leonard; 2nd ditto, Davies and Langham. The management of the show was in the hands of the assistant secretary, Mr. Cooper, who had an able body of stewards at his back in Messrs. Brierly, Crook, Gosling, Langham, Mitchell and Lawton, who all worked hard; all pulled together to make the show a success. Every bird was well looked after, well fed and watered. We trust the show will turn out a success financially, because Bolton deserves it. Mr. J. H. Roe took the Norwich and Yorkshires, and Mr. Cleminson, of Preston, the Borders, Selling, British and Foreign.

The Critique.

YORKS. CL. YELL. (8): 1, Hurst, long, clean drawn, beautiful wing carriage, stands on grand pair of pins; 2, Hall, better col. and quality, but fails a wee bit in breast to winner; 3, Morrison, straight as a rush, splendid carriage; 4, Durnford, well tapered, grand back, and piped tail; vhc, Dykes; hc, Thomas; c, Barlow. BUFF (8): 1, Hurst, topper for quality, long sided, beautiful wings, rare shoulders; 2, Barlow, round as a bottle, unfortunately crosses wings a shade; 3, Ogden Bros., real good one, exquisite feather and type; 4, Thornton and Bower, high shoulders, rare feather, fails only in legs to above; vhc, Brooks; hc, Faulker; c, Marsden and Norman. TKD., ETC., YELL. (5): 1, Kearns, grizzle neck, well up on legs, wee bit short behind, piped tail; 2, Ogden Bros., longer bird, round back, well filled in neck; 3, Hurst, straight as a pencil, wee bit open at tail; 4, Morrison, cap marked, long, racy and fine carriage; vhc, Binns, might have been in money, but was unsteady. BUFF (8): 1, Linaker, feather like boxwood, good back and neck, neat head, wins well; 2, Kearns, again good feather, shows plenty of leg, both above invisible ticks; 3, Leonard, long drawn-out, racy specimen, rare stock bird; 4, Hirst, cinn. marked, fine stamp of a Yorkie, well filled in; vbc, Thomas; hc, Marsden and Norman; c, Ogden Bros. YELL. HEN (15) a good class: 1, Leonard, grand all round hen, straight as a rush, may possibly fill out too much, look after her; 2, 3, Allen, 2nd, sweet long-sided bird, full of Yorks. properties, well up on leg; 3rd, variegated, rare feather; 4, J. and E. Perry, eye mkd., beautifully moulded, grand legs; vhc, Dykes; hc, Linaker; c, Thornton and Bower. BUFF HEN (17): 1, Dykes, dainty miss, mkd. head and wings, feathered to perfection, not a big one, but all there; 2 Ogden Bros. cl., boxy feather, round as a pencil, runs winner close; 3, Morrison, another of similar stamp, but unsteady; 4, Marsden and Nooman, wing mkd., nicely moulded, neat head; vhc, Thomas; hc, Broughton; c, Faulkner. UNFLIG. (23) topping class: 1, Dykes, cl. yell., long drawn out wings and tail, grand feather, well up on leg; 2, c, Brookes, ticked buff, bothered the winner a bit we are sure, straight as a gun barrel; 3, Broughton, cl. yell., rare back, close compact feather, wee bit broad in tail; 4, Allen, tkd. buff, fine and well filled in neck and back, good one; vbc, Thornton and Bower; hc, Ogden Bros. NOR. CL. (or invisible tick) YELL. (8): 1, hc, Thomas, wonderful type, broad back, well filled in neck, smart carriage, moves very free; 2, Davies, ablaze with col., topper for shape, rare head and neck, a toss up which wins; 3, Oliver, again a good one, bit longer than above, but not disgraced, bold head and neck; 4, Rayner, grand size and quality with it, like fire; vhc, Hargreaves; c, Dr. McConaghey. BUFF (10): 1, Raynes, tremendous size, deep chest, broad head, in rare condition; 2, J. and J. Hopkins, magnificent type, clean cut, teeming with quality, loses only in size; 3, Leonard, again splendid type, bold head and neck, takes perches well; 4, Hurst, a wonder for size, boat shape, broad head; vhc, Turner; hc, Vardy; c, Johnson. TKD., ETC., YELL. (7): 1, Davies, variegated, a wonder, marvellous size, type and head properties, easy win; 2, Hargreaves, another variegated, broad boat shaped, red hot, rather longer than winner; 3, Turner, good one, condition must have kept it back; 4, Vardy, var., deep chest, well cut away, splendid wing carriage; vhc, hc, Simms and Taylor; c, Granger. BUFF (9): 1, vhc, Vardy, variegated, extraordinary type, feathered like a Java, all front, clean away, a bull's eye; 2, Leonard, wing marked, rare depth of chest, bonny head and neck, Norwich all over; 3, Anderton, var., fine size, plenty of front, broad back, well up; 4, Thomas, var., rare stamp again, plenty front and clean behind; hc, c, Cook. YELL. HEN (10): 1, 3, Cook, 1st a marvel, what is wanted in the Norwich, bold head and neck, she is all in front of the perch; 3rd, had been in the fountain, but looks a real good one; 2, Turner, a gem for quality and type, teeming with col., not disgraced; 4, Davies, nice boat shape, beautiful type, rare feather; vhc, Vardy; hc, Marsh; c, Entwistle. BUFF (20) topping class, birds out of money will win later: 1, 2, Allen, 1st, cl., gem for type, plenty of size, mealed to perfection, beautiful wings; 2nd, var., good broad back, round head and hull neck, but loses behind to winner; 3 J. and J. Hopkins, all there for quality and type, should make a good breed hen; 4, Cooper, rare head and neck, a trifle on the long side; vhc, Thomas; hc, Vardy; c, Leonard; No. 14, S. Cook, a topper. UNFLIG. YELL. (3): 1, 2, Davies, 1st, an eye opener, easy work for the judge, from head to tail no fault could be found; 2nd, var., again a rattling fine bird, tremendous width of back, topping bullet head and neck; 3, Marsh, grand bird, not the size of above, but wonderful type and feather, should fill out; 4, Dr. McConaghey, we could not find; vhc, Thomas; hc, Oliver; c, Raynes. BUFF (8): 1, J. and J. Hopkins, var., a wonder for head and neck, good deep chest, cuts away nicely; 2, Thomas, beautifully mealed, short wings and tail, rare front, well across perch; 3, Leonard, hardly the substance of above but nicely frouted; 4, Granger, grizzle cheek, good depth and carriage; vhc, Anderton; hc, Allen; c, Simms and Taylor. NAT. COL. CK. (8): 1, J. and J. Hopkins, Burnley winner, gem of a Nor., all front, neat head and neck, in topping order; 2, Davies, variegated, enormous size, boat shape, good depth of body, clean behind leg; 3, Anderton, variegated, almost a foul green, good back and wings; 4, Hargreaves, variegated, short and cobby, wonderful bull neck and head, looks like a hen; vhc, Raynes; hc, Aspden; c, Bister. HEN (8): 1, Marsh, Burnley winner, grand shape, short wings and tail, well across perch, an ideal hen, quickly claimed £3 10s.; 2, Garbutt, hardly the size of winner, neat head and neck, takes perches nicely, quite proud; 3, Cook, variegated, black cap, spoils its looks, a grand hen though; 4, Allen, variegated, well filled in neck, broad back, clear cut; vhc, Dent; hc, Pyke; c, Tirrell. BORD., YELL. (7): 1, 2, Bayley, 1st jaunty little chap, takes perches freely, sweet head and neat behind; 2nd, again a good one, marked wing, tight as a Java, either could win; 3, hc, Colley, nice feather, well cut away; 4, Hudson, topper for type, well staged; vhc, Harrison; c, Adams. BUFF (5): 1, Hudson, grand type, well filled in, moves well, nice quality and head; 2, Bayley, rare stylish bird, correct size, boxey feather, beautiful behind; 3, Harrison, variegated, bit penny as yet, will improve, very lively; 4, Colley, stylish and free, exquisite feather; vhc, Adams. HEN: Cancelled. A.O.V.: 1, c, Hales, rare good Belgian, grand pair of shoulders, fine drive, shows itself well; 2, vhc, Kelsey, Scotch Fancy, rare circle, takes perches well, and soon gets into position; 3, hc, Hardy, Crest, well radiated from centre, hardly through; 4, Crook, buff Yorks, green, nice pencilling, but on small side. MULE OR HYB. BROUGHTY FERRY.

The seventh annual show, held 14th October, and taken all round the show was a good one. Entries were down a little compared to former years, and there seemed to be two reasons for this, an unfortunate affair for any society. In Scotland this year it has been a very backward season for moulting. Also another show was held in close vicinity with a large classification for British birds and Mules, which would tend to lessen the entries.

The secretarial reins were in the hands of our old friend, Mr. Whitton, and when he undertakes a contract the finish of same is A1. Everything was in apple-pie order, and he was ably assisted by an enthusiastic committee. This show is undoubtedly a shade lucky in this direction, as we were pleased to see two lady fanciers ably assisting the judges. The show was held as usual in the Templar Hall, an ideal place, and was beautifully and artistically set off by a splendid collection of cases of stuffed birds, kindly lent by a patron.

The Scots Fancies were judged by Mr. W. Rodger, assisted by Mr. D. Black, Crests and Plainheads by Mr. Griffiths (who we were pleased to see restored to health), Borders by Mr. J. Smillie, Mules, Brit., and For. by Mr. R. V. Raine, and the placings of these gentlemen seemed to give universal satisfaction, very little grumbling being heard.

The Canary Section.

Morpeth's Great Record Show.

Over 50 Norwich in a Class!

The Management all Smiles! Their Finest Fixture. Two alleged Clear Mules "Wrong-classed" as being Canaries.

Annual fixture held October 14th. The Northern Counties N. and C.C.C. patronised the event. The Town Hall, which is well lighted, spacious, free from draughts and suitably situated, provided suitable accommodation for the staging of the exhibits, same being carried out in a very praiseworthy manner; every bird was seen at a glance. The chairman is Mr. H. Seeley; treas., Mr. J. B. Creighton, a couple of excellent and enthusiastic officials. The committee, Messrs. Summers, G. Seeley, Rowell, Graham, Griffiths, Clark, Rigg and Richardson, are a band of willing workers, each and everyone assisting very materially towards the success of the exhibition. Mr. E. Cowling, the worthy hon. sec., has a happy knack of doing the right thing at the right time; he is most courteous and obliging, knows every detail of his duties, and proves himself a very valuable official. Mr. T. Mitford ably assists, and makes a capital understudy.

The Norwich one must put down as a choice collection—231 in 9 classes, averaging practically 26 per class. One unfortunate and regrettable incident occurred; a magnificent Buff cock owned by Mr. W. Dormer arrived lame; by appearances its leg was broken. Yorkshires made a nice display, stylish creatures being benched by Messrs. M. Wigglesworth and O'Hagan. Mr. W. Marshall took premier honours in the variety class with a magnificent Buff heavy marked dark Crest. Mules included one or two right good 'uns, and one or two alleged wrong 'uns. The winner, a buff marked Goldie Can., was a topper. A couple of exhibits, Mr. Barnes' wrong-classed, having no hesitation, he said, in declaring them to be Canaries. We were given to understand these were the two birds that created the controversy at Chopwell show (co. Durham) the previous week. Specials: Best member's bird in show, Mr. E. Cowling; Sandiford's. Mr. T. Dixon; best unflighted Yellow hen, Mr. R. Rowell; best Buff, Mr. F. Scott; others, Messrs. Holden, Richardson, McGinn, Marshall, Godley, Dormer, Smith, J. Rose, Smart, Purvis, Wigglesworth, O'Hagan, Seeley Bros., Morley, Dunn and Davidson. The members' classes were a pleasure to view. Several really grand birds graced the benches. They seem to have a capital idea around this locality as to the proper production of the "short and thick 'uns." The judges were: Messrs. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield) and A. Hay (Tweedmouth). Both commenced work soon after 9 a.m. and finished in capital time, their selections appearing to give alround satisfaction. The cards were displayed quickly by the stewards, Messrs. Griffiths H. Seeley, G. Seeley, Dickson, Clarke, Greene, Riggs, Roell, Hope, and F. Laidlow. The show opened in good time, and the management throughout was excellent. The Morpeth fanciers are to be heartily congratulated upon their record show, in every sense the finest they have experienced. The unflighted Norwich hen class secured the huge number of 52 entries, and it was decided to divide it into two, one for the yellows and one for the buffs. This show is now undoubtedly entitled to pose as about the best one-day fixture in the Northern counties.

Mr. J. C. Barnes's Classes.

NOR. YELL. (22): 1, Holden, cl., well up in substance, rare shape, beautifully feathered, capital carriage, neatly cut away; 2, c, Cowling, marked eyes, true shape, smooth as wax, A1 col., moves finely, beaten in size only; 3, Creighton, mkd. wings and eyes, grand quality and col., nice shape and size, not far away; 4, Butler, fine-sized cl., very shapely, good feather, hardly col. enough; vhc, Seeley Bros.; hc, Dixon. BUFF (35): Rare class: 1, 3, spl, Cowling, brace of gems, former mkd. wings and head, delightfully clothed, beautiful type, rich colour, covered with dainty frosting, 3rd mkd. wings and head, even hotter, equal in shape and substance, hardly so characteristically cut away behind; 2, c, Holden, very cobby cl., full of colour, teeming with quality, good substance, capable of doing a lot of winning; 4, Richardson, heavy varieg., thick-set, rare shape, col., and feather, bit penny as yet; vhc, Forster, many worse birds have won in open competition; hc, Lowther. YELL. HEN (16): 1, Creighton, cl., slashing shape and feather, rare size and carriage, quite a lady, wins well; 2, 3, Rowell, both lovely clears, former of rather better colour than winner, but not quite so full in head and neck character, 3rd A1 quality, nice head, neck, and chest, but wee bit longer in barrel, but well worthy of position; 4, Forster, grand col. cl., A1 type, nice size and carriage; vhc, Hope; hc, Hay Bros.; c, Butler. BUFF (21): 1, Richardson, giantess, lovely shape, capitally clothed, nice colour and mealing, good carriage, beauty; 2, Curry, mkd. head, wonderful substance, very shapely, good carriage, nice col and mealing, wee bit coarse in feather; 3, Lackey, cl., true shape, smooth as a bottle, rich quality, capital undercolour, not one of the biggest, but one of the best; 4, Holden, large and of good texture of feather, beautiful head, neck, and chest; vhc, Lowther; hc, Pierson; c, Cowling. YELL. UNFLIG. (19): 1, McGinn, cl., lovely feather and colour, grand shape and size, capital wing carriage, clean cut, very promising; 2, Dobinson, red hot col., smooth as wax, slashing fine feather, lovely body, wings and tail, beaten in head character; 3, Lackey, cl., true type, rare size, nice colour and carriage, very neat; 4, Mc Kay, varieg., size, colour and quality all these, shone like satin; vbc, Dixon; hc, Coltman; c, Rowell. BUFF (32): Rare class: 1, 4, Holden, both a credit to their breeder, mkd. wings and eyes, fine shape and substance, superb quality and colour, richly mealed, topper, 4th mkd. wings and head, well up in size, capital colour and quality, grand head, neck, and chest; 2, Lowther, cl., ablaze with colour, A1 shape and size, jaunty carriage, lovely feather, very close up; 3, Rowell, mkd. eyes, superior feather, magnificent shape, good size and carriage; vhc, Scott; hc, Cowling; c, Butler. HEN. UNFLIG. (52): What a collection of "rattlers"! This class contained yells. and buffs. The committee generously agreed to split the colour into yells. and buffs, and make a couple of classes instead of one—a very commendable idea. YELL. (24): 1, Holden, cl., short and thick-set, rare size, colour, and feather, delightful carriage, tight as a Java; 2, Rowell, grandly clothed, rich col., fine head and neck, not quite so deep-chested, yet a beauty; 3, Wellsbury, cl., still hotter in colour, A1 quality, moves nicely, not quite so cobby; 4, Cowling, short and thick, rattling colour and carriage, smooth as glass; vhc, Smith; hc, Hope; c, Richardson; No. 16, absent. BUFF (28): 1, Richardson, cl., warm texture of feather, magnificent shape, size, and carriage, capital undercolour, exceedingly promising "baby"; 2, Scott, lightly varieg., teeming with quality, full of colour, nice shape, neatly frosted, should come out well another year; 3, Butler, cl., A1 quality and col., grand carriage, lovely shaped body, good 3rd; 4, Rowell, mkd. wing and eye, superior feather and colour, nice wing carriage; vhc, Cowling; hc, Rigg; c, Creighton. NOR. NAT. COL. (9): 1, Marshall, cl. buff, cobby, tight as a Java, A1 quality, good carriage; 2, Hermeston, buff, ticked neck, more substance, good shape, fails only in quality; 3, Lowther, cl. buff, sweetly moulded close and compact, jaunty carriage; 4, McKay, varieg. yell., rich quality and col., neat head and neck; vhc, Cowling; hc, Macdonald; c, Milford. NOVICE (29): Good lot: 1, Dixon, lightly varieg. Nor., well clothed, shapely, nice size and col., neatly frosted; 2, Long, cl. buff Yorks., good length and position, boxcy, nice col., capital back flights and tail; 3, Topping, cl. yell. Nor., fine substance and col., good feather, nice head, long; 4, Hall, buff Nor., mkd. tail, A1 quality and col., rare head, neck, and chest; vhc, Leightly; hc, Woollet; c, McGinn; No. 27, Moir, absent. CINN. (13): 1, vhc, Godley, yell., magnificent quality, beautifully bronzed, rattling fine shape and substance; 2, Griffiths, bouncing buff, very shapely, superior feather and colour, will do some winning; 3, bc, Bentley, yell., fine size and shape, good colour, not quite so tight in feather; 4, Smailes, yell., well up in size, good shape and carriage; c, Dixon; No. 12, Dormer, damaged, or would have been in the money. UNFLIG. (9): 1, 2, Dormer, yell. and buff respectively, both of lovely quality, fine substance, rich bronze colour; 3, 4, Godley, yell. and buff, former beaten by winner in shape slightly, 4th not quite the substance of 2nd, yet very promising; vhc, Bentley; hc, Griffiths; c, Dobinson. HEN (10): 1, 4, Dormer, both yells., rare size and shape, shone like burnished copper, truly a magnificent damsel, 4th well up in size, capital colour, shapely, but a bit loose in feather; 2, 3, Godley, former grand sized buff, A1 colour, feather, and carriage, shown in the pink, 3rd yell., rich in colour and quality, neat head and neck, not quite so deep fronted; vhc, Bentley; hc, Seeley Bros.; c, Richardson. YORKS. YELL. (30): Rare class: 1, Wigglesworth, cl., straight as a gun barrel, rare length, best of backs, flights, and tail; 2, Parker, cl., full of breed, lengthy and leggy, A1 colour and quality, not quite ready or might have won; 3, Moore, cl., good length and stand, superior quality and colour, pulls a wee bit thin in neck; 4, Mather, cl., stands like a soldier, well clothed, not one of longest, but of the smartest; vhc, Gray and Gilhome; hc, Rutherford and Bright; Nos. 3, 4, 5, Hetherington, all absent. BUFF (22): 1, O'Hagan, mkd. wing and eye, smooth as a bottle, straight as a rush, rare length, staged to the moment, a gem; 2, Parker, mkd. check, about equal to winner, little separates them; 3, Hodgson, cl., again of true character, put down well, very close up; 4, Dixon, cl., lovely salmon tinged col., very lengthy, nice bird; vhc, Moore; hc, Messenger; c, Metcalfe; No. 12, Gray and Gilhome; w.c., a yellow. A.O.V. (18): 1, Marshall, buff, heavy mkd. D.C., abundance of rich quality feather, rare substance, crest large, dense, and as round as a hoop, delightful droop 2, Bewick, buff mkd. D.C., capital veiny feather, very shapely, crest leafy, nice radiation and droop, a beauty; 3, Summers, buff Nor., 4-pointed, rare shape, colour, quality, and frosting, nice size; 4, no name in catalogue, green D.C., superb feather, nice build, crest of neat frontal; vhc, Barnes, very typical Gold broken cap Lizard; bc, Craig; c, Jeffries and Husband. MULE (9): 1, Seeley Bros., buff Goldie-Can., bordering on six-pointed, fine substance and shape, lovely col. and quality, tight as a drum; 2, Allison, Chaff-Bramble, nice shape, good col. and quality, in the pink; 3, Butler, buff Goldie Can., mkd. wings, tail and head, rattling fine substance, A1 col. and feather, grand shape, well worth place; 4, Moir, yell. dark Goldie-Can., neat shape, A1 col. and quality, nice size, good face; vhc, Woollett; No. 6, 7, Sokell, both w.c.

Mr. A. Hay's Classes.

BORD. YELL. CL., ETC. (25): 1, W. Smith, tkd. on left wing, best of type, rare head, grand wings and tail; 2, Watson, cl., in grand condition, lovely chest, nicely tapered away behind; 3, Morley, another cl., grand quality, if anything inclines to cross wings at times; 4, vbc, Graham, close up, cl. leading, neat head, beaten only in colour; hc, Gilchrist, very unsteady; c, Ross; wc., Marshall, a buff marked. BUFF (28) two sets of winners here: 1, Ross, cl, topper for style, compact body carried under a pair of grand tight-fitting wings; 2, Gray and Gilhome, head tkd., rare order, lovely silky feather, neat head, well put down; 3, Smart, another good one, nice position, scarcely ready yet; 4, vhc, Whittaker, pair close up, leading with a sweet cl.; hc, Gilchrist; c, Graham; No. 18, Watson, good one but left side of tail to grow in. YELL. HEN (19): 1, Smart, cl., sweet and gay lady, a gem for type and quality, best of heads, grand wing carriage, closely followed by 2nd, A. Smith, jun., shown in the pink, rich col., like wax; 3, Graham, even mkd., topper for condition, crosses wings a little or might have won; 4, Gray and Gilhome, left cheek tick, sweet hen, rare wings and nice pipe tail, close up; vhc, Ross; hc, W. Smith; c, Gilchrist. BUFF (22): 1, Purvis, a gem, condition like velvet, ideal head and body, rare wings well carried, neat tail; 2, Smart, another good one, equal throughout, save wants filling in at cheeks; 3, Graham, rare varieg. cinn. mkd., slashing fine hen for feather, stands too straight on perch or would have pressed winner hard; 4, MacDonald, cl., correct type, nicely shaped body, tightly drawn wings, fails only in col; vhc, A. Smith, jun.; hc, Gilchrist; c, Gray and Gilhome. SELL. (12s. 6d.) (21): 1, Morley; 2, Marshall; 3, Miller; 4, Richardson; vhc, Barnes; hc, Middleton and King; c, Dixon. BRIT., ETC.: LINNET (12): 1, Dunn, rare size, bold head and eye, rich nut col., very steady; 2, Thompson, very similar, scarcely so steady or so rich in breast colouring; 3, Davidson, very taking exhibit, close on winners, nicely pencilled, not such a dense nut-brown body; 4, c, Atkinson, two good ones, close up; vhc, Stewart and Morgan; hc, Douglas; No. 3, Fail, almost pure white, quite an interesting exhibit, yet had to be passed by, hard lines, Mr. Fail, you won't fail if you try him in a rare-feathered class. A.O.S. SMALL (15), what an interesting class, hard and soft-billed all stormers: 1, Mrs. Woodhouse, Wryneck, lovely condition, like the Chopwell winner, better than ever, rich feather, nice sheen, well staged; 2, 3, Davidson, leading with a superb-conditioned Waxwing, grandly pointed wings, in the pink of feather, 3rd monster Bramblefinch, hot col., grandly laced, can win anywhere among its own species, hard lines; 4, Wilcock, well staged Hawfinch, nice bib and crown, very steady; vhc, Atkinson, very taking Lark, company too good to-day; hc, Stewart and Morgan; c, Gardiner; No. 13, Waterson, lovely cream-coloured Blackbird, like the Linnet, had to be passed by. An Albino class might do here. FOR. (3): 1, 2, Christer and Son, leading with a Zebra Finch, neatly staged, grand markings, an easy 1st, 2nd Senegal Parrakeet, in nice condition. MEMBERS'. These classes contained some tip-top exhibits fit to win in open competition, in fact many of them did. NOR. YELL. LEEDS.

A Fine All-round Display.

Leeds C.B.S. 21st Annual Exhibition held Oct. 14 St. George's Schools, and it was very well patronised by the Fancy, a total of 503 birds being staged in the 32 classes provided, an average of nearly 16 per class. Yorkshires came up very strong, especially in the Novice section; and the Norwich were fairly well up, the latter being exceptionally good in quality. British birds though not very large in numbers were a very nice lot and in particular the Linnet class, some beauties being staged here. The show is under distinguished patronage, and the fixture was opened by Mr. Malcolm Kitchen with a few well chosen remarks; and he is to be presented with a bird and cage by the society. Mr. F. Somers, M.R.C.V.S. introduced Mr. Kitchen, and he was supported by the secretary and the committee. Mr. W. A. Wilson, the energetic secretary, had all arrangements well in hand, being assisted by Mr. L. Smith (asst. sec.), Mr. J. P. Moir (vice-pres.), Mr. E. Norton (treas.), and Messrs. Chambers, Mennard, Rhodes W. H. Norton, Beckwith and others as stewards. Messrs. Bailey and Roe officiated as Judges, the former taking all Yorkshire classes, A.O.V. and Selling and the latter the Norwich, British birds etc. In the Open Section Messrs. C. E. Hall, Wilkinson & Elliot and Wilkinson Bros., scored very freely in Yorkshires, and in the Norwich Messrs. McMillan and Humphries came out on top; in the selling and variety classes Mr. Radley secured most points. In the British birds etc., Mr. Owen was easily first for most points, followed by Messrs. Jones, Marley and Bond. In Novice classes, Yorkshire section Mr. E. Norton was easy winner, and in the Norwich, Messrs. G. Wilson and J. P. Moir took the leading honours in the order named.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchaee (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS.

WILLIAM RUDD,
The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

noticed my offer in this column before; I repeat it now. In order to prove to you the supremacy of my goods over all others I invite you to have anything you like on approval from me and a similar article from elsewhere, compare them and test them, and if in your honest opinion mine is not in every way exactly as represented and a better article at lower price than the other, smash or destroy mine in any way you like, and I will refund every penny of your money. You must admit that this is a straightforward offer and one that I could not afford to make unless I was certain that my goods could not be beaten. Clap nets made from genuine thread netting ¾-inch mesh, 3 yards long and 5½ feet deep, 4/- pair; ditto, 4 yards, 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair. ANGELS' VISITS

are certainly a rarity, but they can be no more rare than a fancier who has not yet heard of "Gore of Birmingham." Still, there may still be a few of them about, and it is for those few that this advertisement is specially written. To my old customers I need never say a word, as I know I am always certain of their custom, as once I can induce a man to give me one trial, I know he will come again. Everything I sell is accurately described without superfluous adjectives, and sent on approval at my risk on receipt of cash or deposit system of this paper, and unless it gives entire satisfaction in every way, only has to be returned, and the whole of your money is promptly and cheerfully refunded. These are my only conditions, and nothing would be more straightforward. I have an enormous stock of genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 6/6, twelve 12/-; specially selected larger cocks, for singing and muling, warranted now in song, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, twelve 16/-; few extra special real exhibition cocks, with broad skulls, deep, square blazes, well tanned and mooned and superb condition, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-; selected hens, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-; handsome lot cock Bullfinches, in pink of health, 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each; grand lot cock Siskins, in full colour, 2/- each, three 5/-; specially picked exhibition specimens, real yellows, with full bib, good size and lacings, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-; splendid lot cock brown Linnets, every bird with nut-brown back, and rose-red breast, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked larger cocks for muling or contest singing, and warranted now in song, 1/- each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; exhibition specimens of correct type and exquisite pencilling, 1/6, 2/-, and 2/6 each. Please note, I send scores of dozens to north-country Linnet singers every week alone, as my birds are known to have correct song for contest singing, and I have frequently published letters saying that my birds have beaten Linnets which cost more pounds than mine did pence. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; yellow exhibition specimens, with right quality of feather, 1/-, 1/6, 2/- each; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each; Redpolls, cocks or hens, 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each; English hand-reared cock Nightingales, in perfect feather and guaranteed in loud free song, 15/- each; hand-reared cock Thrush, full song day and gaslight, 7/6; you will notice by dates on following letters that they were not written in days of Adam, but are quite recent, and, what is more, are unsolicited and genuine. "29, Astor Street, Bramley, Leeds, Oct. 9.—Sir,—Two Goldfinches and four Linnets arrived safe and well packed. Thanks for attention to so small an order.—Yours, J. Pratt." "4, Wellington Terrace, Grimsby, Oct. 7.—Sir,—Birds arrived in splendid condition, and I am very pleased with them.—Yours, J. King." "St. Ives, Ringwood, Oct. 10.—Sir,—Birds to hand; I am very pleased with them, and consider them exceptionally good value.—Yours, W. Child." "Allithwaite, Lancs., Oct. 1.—Sir,—Please send following. I have eight of your Linnets in my birdroom, and all singing grand.—Yours, J. Thompson." "4, Margaret Street, Pentre, Sept. 24.—Sir,—Please send following. The Goldfinch I got from you last year took first and special only time shown.—Yours, T. Nicholas." "King Edward Street, Alexandria, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Goldfinch I had from you last year took second at our show, and I think it will do better this year by a long way.—Yours, T. Liles." "Chapel Fold, Royston, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Bullfinch arrived safe, and am well pleased with him, for he is a gem. The party I got it for says he is best bird in Royston.—Yours, W. Boucher." "School, Llangollen, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Linnet to hand. Am very pleased with it. It has already given evidence of being a good songster. Thanking you very much for the very 'English' way you have treated me.—Yours, J. Jenkins." "104, Wood Street, Grimsby, Oct. 17.—Sir,—Please send exhibition Goldfinch. My friend got one from you last year for muling, and bred 23 youngsters from him. He took 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th last year at our show.—Yours, A. Oliver." "Best's Yard, Front Street, Witton, Gilbert, Sept. 30.—Sir,—Please send two contest Linnets. I have heard your birds sing, and they are good.—Yours, G. Proudlock." "Soldiers' Rest, Annitsford, Oct. 1.—Sir,—Birds arrived all right, everyone fat and healthy, and well on seed. We are highly satisfied, as we have never had such a grand lot of birds from any other dealer. You are the best man to rely upon for sending all cocks—not half hens, as some dealers do. I advise all fanciers to deal with you, for you are a reasonable man to deal with.—Yours, T. Gates." Exhibitors, please note I handle more real English birds than any man alive, and although I do not get hundreds of winners weekly, I get a few, and as I do not exhibit them myself, all are for sale; but please don't expect to get them at my bottom prices. Local fanciers please note that despite the statements of some of the Birmingham "Dr. Cook's," the first prize British Goldfinch, first prize Siberian Goldfinch, and 2nd prize Siberian Bullfinch at recent Birmingham open show were all supplied by me, and cost their owners very few shillings each. If you want birds as good as they are advertised to be, send to me and you will have them. Signed to be, send to me and you will have them. Signed guarantee with every bird that they are well on seed, and do not come under Wild Birds Protection Act. See appliances and Roller Canary columns for further advts.

WHITSTABLE LEADING

in champion Norwich, wonderful results so far this season, actually leading in five champion classes open to the world in two shows. I am not showing, so you get the winners. It is ridiculous to suppose you can get the best from exhibitors when they want them for their own showing. I can honestly say I have supplied, with a few exceptions, almost every exhibitor of note with show or stock birds. These are facts which can be proved up to the hilt—not idle boast. Have the finest stud of exhibition and stock birds living. Show birds for open, keenest competition and local shows; prices on application. State carefully what you require, whether for open or local shows, and, if possible, what you are prepared to pay. I will guarantee satisfaction; every bird on approval: Judge Silk, Whitstable.

J. HODDER

between the Leipzig Rollers which I import and the ordinary Roller is that, whereas the song of the ordinary Roller usually consists of two or three long drawn out rolls, which soon become monotonous, the Leipzig Roller has a much more varied song, which can never jar upon the ear. I now have 500 pure Leipzig Roller cocks all guaranteed over moult, and now in full song with soft hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, bell, harp, and flute notes, and jug-jug of Nightingale, and warranted entirely free from any chopping or harsh notes whatever, price 6/6, 7/6, and 10/- each. Leipzig Roller hens, 1/9 each, 3/- couple. I am the only importer of this strain in the kingdom; all birds are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," without which none are genuine. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages, with seed and water to last 48 hours, free of extra charge, and sent on a full week's trial at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or if same is deposited with Editor, and money fully refunded if entire satisfaction not given. Following letters show that the Leipzig Rollers will continue in song for years. "52, St. Ives Grove, Stanley, Liverpool, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send me following birds. I am sending to you for these birds, knowing you are a straightforward man to strangers. The Leipzig Roller I got from you last year has proved itself a real gem, just got over moult, and started singing again. I shall want another Roller later.—Yours, A. Gerrard." "Hill House, Long Marton, Carlisle, Oct. 9, 1911.—Sir,—Please send following. The Leipzig Roller I got from you 11 months ago is doing first class.—Yours, Chas. Ball." Kindly note I am the only importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers in kingdom, and no other person can sell so much as one feather by this strain unless he first purchases it from me. I care not how hard a man is to please, I know I can do so if it is humanly possible. Dealers supplied. Send trade card for wholesale prices.

W. GORE, Direct Importer, GOOCH-ST., BIRMINGHAM.

LOOK YOU HERE.

If you want genuine reliable birds at the rock bottom prices, you must deal with the genuine reliable breeder and importer, who tests every bird as to its singing qualifications and studies in detail your requirements. My world wide reputation is made on German business lines by supplying high-class sound, health, reliable birds at lowest possible prices. Let me send you birds on approval that you may compare them with others that have cost more: you will then be fully convinced that it is utterly impossible to get the same quality elsewhere at anything like the price. I have now ready for immediate disposal, 1,000 grand 1911 youngsters, well moulted, and cocks in song, including my famous German songsters, the German working man's friend; cocks that will sing by day and gaslight, loud, free, continuous songsters; every bird tested before sending out. Cocks, 4/6, 5/-, 5/6, 6/- each; matched pairs for breeding songsters, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/-. German trained St. Andreasburg Rollers, with full change of song by day and artificial light, bred and trained by leading contest winners in their home land, with full volume of song, free from harsh or choppy notes, cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each; hens, 2/-, 2/6, 3/- each. High-class long slim typical Yorkshires, in all colours, clean moulted, cocks 5/-, 5/6, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; a few extra good specimens for exhibition, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-; accurately matched pairs for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6; superior quality, lengthy hens, 2/-, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6. Plainhead Norwich, thick-set, cobby, stylish Norwich, in all colours, quality that will astound you, especially at the prices; clean moulted cocks, in song, 5/-, 5/6, 6/-, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6 each; grand quality hens, 2/-, 2/6, 3/-, 3/6, 4/- each; matched breeding pairs, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6; neat travelling cages, 3d. each. You really must see these birds to be convinced of their value, for it is utterly impossible for small breeders or dealers to sell such quality at the prices; all birds on seven days' approval at my risk, and I pay carriage back if you should not be satisfied: E. L. Storey, Practical Bird Specialist, Crowle, Doncaster.

Finest Talking Parrots. I only deal in Parrots that will make first-class talkers; no rubbish. I am willing at all time to send my Parrots on four week's trial and three months' talking guarantee. Why? Because all my Parrots are young, strong, and reliable. My lifetime has been spent among Grey Parrots, both at home and abroad. I guarantee every customer every satisfaction. Grey Parrots are my special fancy. I have trained them, know their wants, and can give every purchaser a bird that will please him in every way. I can supply grey talkers, not thinkers, that will say almost anything, at reasonable prices. Before you purchase a grey or green Parrot, send for my Booklet, entitled "Talking Parrots." All my birds are sent on four weeks' trial, at my risk. Send postcard for catalogue.—Mrs. Forster, Princes Park Aviaries, Violet Street, Liverpool.

Club Reports.

PORTOBELLO C.B.S.

General meeting held 17th Oct., president in chair. Arrangements for show gone into. Agreed to amalgamate 14 classes owing to insufficient entries. Agreed to get gold medals for the best birds in Nor., Scot. Fcy., Crest, and British house-moulted sections. Members please return payment for all sold books of tickets at this meeting.—J. Bell, Sec.

METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

Interesting washing exhibition and competition held headquarters, Oct. 21st, a good number of members being present. Mr. Martin was unanimously elected to judge, a duty which he carried out to perfection. After the washing Mr. Martin carefully criticised each competitor, pointing out many of our faults. Result: 1st, King; 2nd, Macgregor; 3rd, Moore; 4th, Walker.—J. W. Burgess, Assist.-Sec.

GLASGOW (Queen's Park) C.B.S.

Committee meeting held Oct. 23rd, Mr. R. Thomson presiding. The allocation of specials was drawn up for annual club show, to be held this year in the Victoria Rooms, 476, Victoria-road, 28th Oct. Over 130 specials, including cup, gold and silver medals, etc., are to be competed for. Show officials were appointed, and all business relative to show generally adjusted. Monthly meeting postponed till 2nd Nov., when Mr. F. Bowman will deliver a lecture on wild seeds, etc. Any member wishing to bring a friend may do so.—R. Heggie, Sec.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL C.B.S

Washing competition for members held Oct. 19th, when Mr. Oldaker judged in the absence of Mr. Heath. The competitors were Messrs. Day, Gilbert, Bamber, and Salter. Mr. Oldaker made all the competitors retire from the room, and called each one in separately, asking him questions before washing, such as: What water do you prefer? What soap do you use? How should the birds be dried? How long before showing do you consider a bird should be washed? and many others. Mr. Oldaker made notes of the answers, awarding each competitor so many points for each answer, also so many points for the washing of the birds, awarding the prize to Mr. Salter, who, he considered, had answered the questions satisfactory, and also made the best show at washing, thus winning the L. and P.O.S. silver medal. Mr. Oldaker spoke at some considerable length on the faults of the competitors; he also gave his ideas and methods of washing birds for exhibition. Several members, including Messrs. Crabb, Mortlock, Matthes, Couzens, and Lathleiff, asked Mr. Oldaker numerous questions, which were the means of opening a very animated debate on the question of washing generally. Mr. Crabb, in proposing a vote of thanks to Mr. Oldaker, said this was one of the most interesting and instructive washing competitions he had attended, being quite different to anything they had had before. Mr. Mortlock seconded the proposition.—C. W. Law, Hon. Sec.

LEIGH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Washing competition held Oct. 11th at Railway Hotel, when we had a good muster of members, eight of them joining in the competition. We had quite a lively time, all trying to get round the fire at once to dry our birds. Mr. J. Lomas judged and his awards gave every satisfaction; they were as follows: 1st, W. Ordish; 2, H. Taylor; 3, G. Smith.—R. Charleson, Hon. Sec.

HALIFAX O.S.

Meeting held Plummit Line Hotel, Oct. 7, Mr. Roes (president) in chair. A good turn-up of members and friends witnessed a washing exhibition by Mr. R. E. Helliwell (Halifax). He put four birds through in good style to the satisfaction of all present. His drying cage (of his own construction) was much admired. Questions asked and answered, after which the usual business was gone through, and a new member enrolled.—F. Burdekin, Assist. Sec.

WEST OF SCOTLAND O.S.

Meeting held Oct. 7, Nelson's Temp. Hotel. Mr. G. Smart presided, in the absence of Mr. P. Thorn through illness. Touching reference was made to the sad death of Mr. J. Sanderson, and it was agreed to "minute" the sympathy of the members towards the family in their sad bereavement. Mr. F. Bowman treated the meeting to a lengthy discourse on wild seeds and plants. He treated all the various varieties on view, and at the close was awarded a hearty vote of thanks. A vote of thanks was given the chairman.—W. Hutchinson, Sec.

CHESTER C.B.F.A.

Meeting held Nag's Head Cocoa House, October 3rd—a capital attendance. Mr. Parker in chair. Letter read from secretary of the Liverpool B.B.A. intimating that six classes (open to a radius of 20 miles) had been added to their schedule to be held 25th Nov. Mr. Swindley was appointed delegate to the Cage Bird Union. A bird-washing exhibition was given by Messrs. Bracegirdle and Gardner. Both gentlemen are adepts at this, and undertook their respective tasks in a workmanlike and clever manner. The interest displayed must have well repaid the two exponents for their trouble. Mr. Guy (Helsby) kindly provided a soap of his own manufacture, and the results obtained were eminently satisfactory. A very hearty vote of thanks was accorded both gentlemen, and hope was expressed that they would favour us again.—J. Swindley, Hon. Sec.

DULWICH AND PECKHAM C.B.S.

A most interesting and enjoyable meeting was held at headquarters, October 3, when some 50 members were present. Mr. F. J. Martin gave an exhibition of washing birds in preparation for the show bench. He had gone to considerable trouble in the matter, bringing with him his own drying cage, in which the birds were placed direct from the wash, without the usual rolling in cloths, etc. Mr. Martin, in a very clear and able manner, demonstrated what he considered the quickest and best manner to put the bird through its tubbing, and although some present had their own ideas, Mr. Martin's method was much appreciated. A competition followed, for which Mr. Martin had offered prizes to the value of 10s. 6d. Six competitors took part, each washing his bird in his own way, the whole meeting acting as judge by vote. Upon the votes being counted, it was found that Mr. Richardson had secured first prize, Mr. Hocking 2nd, Mr. Tomsett 3rd and Mr. Carpenter 4th. Mr. F. Cole, who occupied the chair, conducted the meeting in a very able manner. Mr. Reeks proposed, and Mr. Richardson seconded, a vote of thanks to Mr. Martin, who briefly replied.—W. Hodson, Hon. Sec.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

Meeting held Barton Road Boys' School, Dover, Oct. 11, Mr. E. C. Rayner presiding. Patronage was allotted Dover P.P. and C.B.S., and Canterbury F.S. shows. A list of members' names and addresses will be provided to secretaries concerned, so that schedules may be forwarded as early as possible. The new trophies offered for competition this year are solid silver, in compliance with suggestions from several members; and the procuring of them has been a heavy drain on the resources of the association, but it is hoped the increased expenditure will be compensated for by keener competition in the various sections. Following is a list of cups and bowls for competition: (1) Solid silver challenge cup, Borders 1911, bred, first year of competition; (2) solid silver challenge cup, Norwich 1911 bred, first year of competition; (3) an 8-in. challenge bowl, Yorkshires, 1911 bred, holder Mr. C. Lockett, Dover; (4) challenge cup, Lizards, 1911 bred, holder Mr. E. C. Wood, Hythe; (5) solid silver challenge cup, British, any age, first year of competition; (6) silver challenge cup, presented by Rev. H. A. Soames, Bromley, Mules and Hybrids, any age, bred by exhibitor or not, first year of competition; (7) an E.P. tankard, presented by Mr. W. Ashley, the City Tailoring Co., Dover, for best bird in Dover show, exhibited by a member of the K.C.C. B.A., holder Mr. C. Lockett, Dover. Subs. to cup fund received.—Dr. J. A. Bowes, Herne Bay, 10s. 6d.; Mr. F. J. Gibbs (Canterbury), £1 1s.; Rev. H. A. Soames, Bromley), £1 1s.; Mr. F. J. Wickham (Chatham), 5s.—A. Hendry, Hon. Sec.

SCOTTISH METROPOLITAN (Open Derby) O.A.

Annual general meeting held Buchanan's Hotel, Edinburgh, Oct. 7th. We had the largest turnout for some considerable time. Mr. C. R. Drysdale (hon. president) occupied the chair. Secretary submitted financial statement, showing income £35 8s. 10½d., expenditure (including prize money) £34 14s., leaving a balance in hand of 14s. 10½d. Some discussion took place as to the cost of erecting screens in hall; the outcome was that "estimates be taken for this work in future." The auditors, Messrs. McLennan and Whitefield, certifying that the books of the society were correct, the balance-sheet was approved. Agreed, to hold another show next year, and that the same hall be secured. Office-bearers elected: Hon president, Mr. D. R. Drysdale; hon. vice-pres., Mr. W. Thornton; sec. and treas., J. R. Meikle, 51, Lothian Road, Edinburgh; acting committee, Messrs. Hendry, West, Dalgleish, Hope, Menzies, and Paterson; auditors, Messrs. McLennan and Kerr. The rules as at present in use were re-adopted. Rule 2 reads (part): "That the object of the association is to hold an open Derby show for young Scotch Fancy and Belgians on the last Saturday of September each year, and that each member, by paying the sum of three shillings annually will be entitled to show ten birds, namely, Scotch Fancy classes, 1 to 8, maximum ten birds, must not exceed two in any of these classes; Belgian classes, 9 and 10, maximum eight birds, must not exceed four in each class, and two birds in classes 1 to 8." Rule 4 (part): "The funds left after meeting expenses to be divided into forty cash prizes, namely, for the ten first birds, the ten second birds, the ten third birds, the ten fourth birds, in the proportion of 4, 3, 2, and 1, the fifths to receive prize cards. The best Scotch Fancy bird to receive a gold medal additional to the value of 20s., with the cup, also cup for best Belgian. Both cups must be won three times, not necessarily in succession, before becoming absolute property." New printed copies of rules will be in members' hands early next year, and fanciers who are not members, but with a view to becoming so, will, on making application to the the secretary, have a copy (when ready) sent for their perusal. The secretary's salary was again fixed at £3; an amendment by the secretary that it be £1 10s. was lost on a vote. The Executive return their sincere thanks to the members for the splendid support they gave, and hope to merit a continuance of this next year; and also to Cage Birds for the good report of our last show.—J. R. Meikle.

HALTWHISTLE AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting held October 9th, Mr. W. Pape in chair. The principal business was the fixing up of classes for Open Show, November 10th, the following classes being fixed on: Borders, 9 (1 Novice); Norwich, 8 (1 Novice); Yorkshire, 2; Scot., 1; Brit., 3; Mules and Hyb., 2; For., 1; Sell., 10s., 1; 6 mile radius, 2; members, 5. Mr. Carruthers again gives a ham for most points in Open classes, and we have a lot of valuable specials for each section and each class, which have all to be won by most points. We have now received the patronage of the B.F.C.C., N.B. and S.F.C. and N.C.N.C.C., and all we need now is a bumping entry. Will exhibitors note that our membership is open; fee 2/6. Nicholson and Tallantyre, Hon. Secs.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Meeting held Oct. 11th, Lockhart's Cafe, High-st., Mr. Tindle presiding. Mr. J. Pearson elected a member. Correspondence read re specialist clubs. We have now to add to our list of patronages the following: Crest C.C. (with their numerous specials: the Roberts £25 silver challenge cup, 63/- special for most points scored at one of 8 shows, which may be Gateshead); Northern Lizard Club. We are giving a good classification, and hope to have another record show. Rules were gone into, and one or two altered so as to remedy past mistakes. Selling classes are to be altered to same lines as Scottish National and Palace show. We have again secured the Burt Terrace Drill Hall for our show, this being one of the finest halls in the North. At next meeting we hope to have a good turn up of members, and as many specials as it is possible to get.—A. Holden, Secretary.

GLASGOW (West End) C.B.C.

Meeting held Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, October 13th, Mr. H. Jamieson presiding over a large attendance. Before beginning the usual business the members were treated to a washing exhibition by Mr. A. Wilson. Mr. Wilson explained and illustrated the proper way to hold a bird when washing it so that it could be held easy and secure without any pressure. He then explained the different brands of soaps and the best brushes to use, and also at what temperature to have the water. He proceeded to wash two birds. This operation over, the birds were put into a cage and dried before the fire. Mr. Wilson washed two others in the usual way, and when their "dip" was finished, these were put into his patent drying cage (which was exhibited with success at the Crystal Palace) thus showing the two methods of drying. Mr. Wilson explained very minutely the working of his patent drying cage. Several questions were asked and answered. Many thanks are due to Mr. Wilson for this very interesting and instructive exhibition. Thereafter the meeting was adjourned, a special meeting to be called at a later date.—W. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas.

READING AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

A crowded meeting was held Oct. 4th, Palmer Hall, to arrange schedule for November show. Two new members were elected, Messrs. F. J. L. Avis and D. W. Smee. After some correspondence, a good discussion ensued as to the proposed open classes. It was finally agreed to have 2 Norwich, 2 Yorks, 1 Crest or Crest-bred, 1 A.O.V., and 4 British, making 10 in all. The question was raised as to whether we should stick to our 30-mile radius for open classes, but it was agreed to leave them entirely open to any district. The members' classes it was decided to allow to remain as last year, with extra classes added for amateur cock novices, and Parrakeets, making 32 members' classes. Secretary intimated he had collected a splendid list of specials and during the meeting Mr. G. H. Aeton, as usual, gave us 5s. each for 3 classes, and offered to guarantee a Canary class; this was very heartily received. Several more specials are required to complete the schedule. It is hoped to get the two silver cups presented by a local gentleman. Judging by the enthusiasm displayed by members we are in for a jolly good show. Birds exhibited in members' classes are limited to £3.—W. H. Pyke, Hon. Sec.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Meeting held Sydenham Hotel, Small Heath, Oct. 11th. A washing exhibition was given by that well-known expert, Mr. G. Russell, before an excellent attendance. The chair was occupied by Mr. Willmot, supported by the vice-chairman, Mr. Hughes. The secretary reported that the well-known Dr. Taylor, of Small Heath had consented to stand as our first president. He is a good fancier and a true sportsman. Secretary was asked to write and thank Dr. Taylor for standing as president and also for his very useful special for the coming members' show. Now, fanciers, join, and have a go for the many useful prizes promised. After other items of business had been disposed of, Mr. Russell first dealt with the many ways fanciers had of washing the Canary or other bird for show. The man who had large hands very seldom excelled as a washer. Some preferred soap, others sponge and soap; he himself stood by the beauti fier, which had never been excelled for giving a finish and excellent tone to the birds. Many used a sponge, while some preferred the brush. Taking a bird with badly crossed flights, he demonstrated how this could be altered with a correct wash. His skilful handling of the bird and others he washed brought forth loud applause. Every detail was gone into, and the lecturer answered questions to the general satisfaction. Messrs. Burke, Swinden and Wright also showed their skill as washers, and the birds were a credit to the washers, but they did not come up to those washed by the master hand. The birds were much admired when dry, and the bird with the badly crossed flights was vastly improved, and looked a picture. The Chairman, in a neat speech, thanked Mr. Russell for his able demonstration, and Mr. Russell suitably responded, remarking that he was the first to introduce the present mode of washing in the City of Birmingham. The chairman makes a special appeal to all to attend the November meeting—business re coming members' show. We have a splendid lot of specials promised, and it is yet time for fanciers to join. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Roe for so kindly offering to judge the whole show on Dec. 20th.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

LEADGATE AND DISTRICT C.B.S

First monthly table show held Oct. 7, Church Square Hall, when there was a good turn-up of members. Mr. J. Rowell (Medomsley) judged, giving every satisfaction. YORKS.: 1, Reed; 2, S. Westthorp. NOR.: 1, 2, Williams; 3, Walton. BORD.: 1, 3, Walton; 2, Quigley. BRIT.: 1, 3, Thompson; 2, Wilson. After show we held our usual meeting, Mr. E. Westthorp presiding. Nomination of birds and judge for next table show, Nov. 4, gone into. Several birds were nominated, when following came out of the hat: Green cinnamon or heavy varieg. Yorks.; Crest or C.B.; Yorks. yell., ci., tkd., or varieg.; Nor., for Walton's special; and Brit. All present members' names were put into the hat. Mr. J. Williams (Annfield Plain) came out first, and he was elected judge.—J. A. Turnbull, Sec.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand) C.B.S.

Meeting held White Swan Hotel, Market Place. Mr. W. A. Gibbins presiding. A large number of members were present. Mr. Charles and Mr. A. Merrick were elected members. Forthcoming all-England show fully discussed and schedules distributed. Members commented on the grand classification and the splendid lot of cash specials. A cash special was allotted to the member of Leicester C.B.S. gaining most points at our annual show. The society was proud to receive a munificent gift of a grand silver cup kindly presented by Mr. Shirley North, to be known as the "North Challenge Cup." Thanks were accorded Mr. North. This cup is to be won by the best bird shown by a member. We now hold four trophies to be competed for annually, and never was the Hand-in-Hand in such a flourishing condition as present time.—A. Freestone, Sec.

LLANELLY AND DIST. C.B.S.

The prospect for our coming show and arrangements of our schedule are well in hand, and the society will have no less than 7 cups to be competed for at our show. Our president (Jos. Holmes, Esq.) takes so much interest in the society at the present time that he attends our meetings and presides; he has also come generously forward this year again. The challenge cup which he presented to the society five years ago having been won outright by Mr. D. S. A. Longden at our last show, Mr. Holmes has presented the society with another to be won outright at our next show, and has headed the list of subscribers. Will members note that their subs. are now due? Should they not pay up by Nov. 7th they will not be able to enjoy the benefits, and compete for the society's specials. We have the patronage of the N.B.B. and M.C. and the E. and W.B.F.C.C. The show is also affiliated to the Cage Bird Union.—Daniel John, Sec.

INVERNESS O.A.

On Oct. 11, Crown Mission Hall, at a meeting of the Executive, special reference was made to the loss the Society recently sustained by the death of three of its most prominent members, viz., Mr. Mackenzie (late president), Mr. W. Duncan and Mr. Paterson. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. Smith (president) owing to indisposition, the chair was occupied by Mr. E. Chisholm (vice-president), who at the outset said that by the death of the gentlemen named the Association had suffered great and irreparable loss. Mr. Mackenzie had been for many years one of their number, and had done much to further the interests of the Association. He was a man of many parts, esteemed and admired by all for his manly straightforwardness. He was a genuine fancier and a naturalist in every sense of the word. Mr. Duncan and Mr. Paterson they would also miss. He therefore moved that the secretaries be instructed to send letters of condolence to the surviving relatives. Mr. Sanderson (ex-president), in seconding, said the late Mr. Mackenzie was a man of outstanding ability, and possessed of much versatility. Mr. Duncan and Mr. Paterson were good and loyal citizens and respected members. As an exhibitor Mr. Duncan had won over a hundred prizes; he was also one of the original members.—Urquhart and Sutherland, Secs.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

Meeting held Old Boar's Head, Manchester, Oct. 14th, but there was only a moderate attendance. Regret was expressed at the Sheffield Society being unable to take our classes on this time, but hopes were expressed for the near future. Decided that we again exchange medals with the Toronto C.B.S. A letter was read from the Blackburn C.B.S., who offered to give us three classes for Lizards, on which some of our members promised to guarantee a fourth class, or stand a fourth loss on the four classes, if the society could give them, and to give them our full patronage in that event. Unanimously decided, to give Blackburn all the support possible to make them have no regret in treating the L. and L.F.A. in so generous a manner. Confirmed, that Mr. E. Fuller be judge for Nottingham Show, for which Mr. Vickers promised 2s. 6d. best Lancashire, Mr. Rukin 2s. 6d. 3rd most points (donors not competing). Next meeting, Wellington Hotel, Hyde, November 4th, 6 p.m. It is proposed that we go into fixing dates for our two club shows at Hyde and Shaw respectively. Will all members having used Ramsden's pepper kindly forward me on as early as possible the coupons attached to the tins, so that I can forward same and make arrangements as to nature of special given by Mr. Ramsden.—John Rukin, Hon. Sec.

ANFIELD, EVERTON AND DIST.

Preliminary meeting held Oct. 16th at Walton Buck Roads, there being a good attendance. Mr. W. Bell was unanimously elected first chairman; vice-chairman, Mr. C. Rumsby; treasurer, Mr. Frankham. Committee appointed represents all varieties of birds, gentlemen that are determined to prove their ability to govern the above society. Mr. Wright proposed a gentleman who knew the ins and outs of society work as secretary, and after considerable discussion the meeting decided unanimously that the best interests of the society would be served by electing Mr. R. B. Wright as their first secretary. Having consented, he intimated that he had succeeded in arranging for future meetings to be held in the large room of the Sandow Hotel, Oakfield-road, this room having no connection with the bar of the hotel. A very good response to his appeal for members has come, and it is expected that upwards of 80 will be enrolled by the next meeting, which will be held 8 p.m. Monday evening, Nov. 6th. Business: Syllabus 1911 and 1912, and schedule for night show to be held Dec. 4th, non colour-fed classes to be specially catered for. Also greens, cleans, marks, and British and Hybrids. Intending members apply to me; 2s. 6d. per annum, to be paid any time before January 1912. Distance no object.—R. B. Wright, Hon. Sec., 95, Hornsey-road, Anfield.

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

*He Didn't Mind Girls.

A friend brought a Parrot from South Africa to his village home not far from here. The village children loved to hear Polly talk, but when too many gathered around she would scream aloud: "Please send away the boys; I don't mind the girls."—Sent by Mabel Hodge (aged 10), 1, Waterloo Terrace, Clovelly Road, Bideford.

*Sentinel and Entertainer.

Close to our school there is a Thrush's nest containing four eggs. While the hen bird sits on the nest the cock perches himself on the branch of a tree close by (always in the same place) and sings his best, meaning, without a doubt, to entertain his partner while she does her duty. When anyone goes near the nest while the hen is sitting the cock immediately stops singing, flies from his perch, and sets up an awful screeching, the reason of which, I suppose, is to warn the other bird of her danger from the intruders.—W. S. Mills (aged 15), Eversleigh, Millstone Lane, Nautwich.

A Cunning Bird.

Two years ago my father had a young Magpie given to him, and we called him "Jack." As he grew older he became very mischievous, and learnt many little tricks. When anyone was writing he would be perched somewhere near at hand, and when the pen or pencil was laid down Jack would immediately pick it up and fly off and hide it. One evening, as I was setting some seeds in the garden, Jack was perched on the wall watching the proceedings with great interest, and as fast as one seed was put in Jack would rake it out again and think himself very clever for doing this. Although he was so very mischievous, we were very sorry when he died about six months later.—Sent by Mabel Dunn (aged 14), 17, Stanley Street, Darlington.

Some Recent Arrivals from Abroad.

The Interesting Finch-larks.

The Finch-larks form an interesting group. As the popular name implies, they possess some of the characteristics of the Finches and some of the Larks, though approaching more closely both in structure and habits to the latter. In the Finches the lower part of the leg (tarsus) has scales only on the front part, the hinder part being somewhat pinched in and forming a kind of ridge. In the Larks on the other hand the tarsus is rounded and has scales on the back as well as on the front part; the Finch-larks have the same characteristic. Like the Larks they are ground birds, never (as far as my experience goes) perching on trees and nesting on the ground. In the short hind toe and claw, however, they resemble the Finches, and, like the latter also, they shell all seeds before swallowing them.

In the matter of diet they seem to be exactly intermediate between the two groups, for, although they live almost entirely on small seeds and show no liking for soft-food, yet they are exceedingly fond of mealworms. There are three African and several Indian species, my own experience being restricted to one African species (P. verticalis), which was imported some years since by Mr. Thorpe and subsequently by Major Horsburgh, and one Indian—the Grey-crowned Finch-lark (P. grisea), imported recently by Mr. Brook. The scheme of colouring is much the same in the case of both the Indian and African species; hens are soberly clad in grey, mottled with light brown, and in some cases a little black on the underparts, but the males are very stylish little birds, showing pleasing contrasts of jet black, white and light grey or chestnut, in which respect they form a marked contrast to our English Larks. The fact is that our Larks, though they are as saucy conceited fellows as you please, simply dare not go in for fancy waistcoats and ties; they know very well that on the open stubbles and grass-fields of this country any bright colours would at once catch the eye of the passing Merlin. But in a tropical country, where a glowing sun casts the most vivid shadows and turns the landscape into a sketch in black and white, black and white garments, so far from attracting the eye, would probably be protective.

Finch-larks take very kindly to an aviary; they are exceedingly tame and do not take to wing until one almost treads on them when they spring into the air and circle round and round, and on a breezy day they will, when they feel the wind lifting them, remain on the wing for several minutes at a time. No matter how large the aviary, when they are not feeding or scuffling in the dust, they will always be found crouching on one particular spot. When disturbed from their favourite haunt they will often alight on a shelf or other flat surface, even though the latter be at some considerable height from the ground, but I have never seen them perch on a tree or shrub. They never bathe. The song of the two above-mentioned species is a sweet, sustained warbling, which cannot be heard very far, but the Zoo some years since had a Finch-lark (I omitted to make a note of the species) which was a fine songster.

Haagner tells us that the African species flock in the winter, but separate in pairs in the spring and lay three or four eggs under a tuft of grass or a small bush, but Evans states that Pyrrhulauda lays only two eggs. I hope that this question will be settled next summer, for in the recent consignment there was quite a nice series of these charming little birds, and there is no reason why they should not be bred.

The Scissor-tailed Tyrant Flycatcher.

Some notes on this species appeared in this column at the time it was imported; it occurs to me that some further notes from an avicultural point of view may not be out of place because, having had it under observation during the whole of the past summer, one ought to know a little more about it.

I purchased three specimens, one of which had been caged too long before I acquired it and was never very fit, but the other two have never ailed and have confirmed my impression that the species is quite hardy. When I received them some had a white patch on the crown and some an orange patch; the former cast the white tips of the feathers on the crown in the spring by the process known as abrasion. They are quite easily kept on the very coarsest grade of soft-food with a few gentles, and are very far from being entirely insectivorous, as may be inferred from the fact that they entirely stripped some red-currant bushes of their fruit. They proved great adepts at catching mealworms, the only drawback to this sporting event being that two would frequently go for the same mealworm and collide most violently. They did themselves well on flies of all sorts, and would even catch bees on the wing, though how they managed to swallow the latter without being stung is not obvious. Unfortunately, their long and graceful tail feathers were continually being broken, and seem much more brittle than those of other long-tailed birds, such for instance as the Whydahs. Apropos of these same tail feathers I may mention that a doctor (a very good sort, I may add), who came to have a look at the aviary, informed me gravely that this species captures insects by grasping them between the stiff outer feathers and then transfers them to its beak, and seemed much surprised when I laughed. Of course, as we all know, the doctors are frightfully clever people, and it is only natural that, when they take up birds as a hobby, they should be able to tell us much that we did not know before. Though the Flycatchers used to amuse themselves by swooping at other birds, in no case was the damage worse than the loss of a few feathers.

I kept them for the greater part of the time in a rather lofty aviary, containing a large peartree, and thereby hangs a tale. Quite a month after I had parted with the Tyrants I climbed up this tree to gather the pears. Last spring I topped the tree, and at the highest point, where the stem had been sawn off, was an open nest containing one egg. The only other birds in that aviary had been Creepers and Long-tailed Tits, so this nest must presumably have been constructed by the Flycatchers.

A FINE CINEMATOGRAPH DISPLAY.

Mr. Kearton Lectures before the L. and P.O.S.

The London and Provincial O.S., on Oct. 14, invited all who might be interested to come to a lecture, illustrated by both "still pictures" and the cinematograph, by the world-renowned naturalist and lecturer, Mr. Richard Kearton. Those who were present at the first lecture of the sort two years ago will remember the treat given them, but on that occasion, if I recollect rightly, all the films and slides shown were taken in Britain; but on Oct. 14 ono had the unwonted pleasure of seeing slides and films taken in Norway, and not in Norway only, for the lecturer divided his address into two parts, the second of which dealt with his brother's (Mr. Cherry Kearton's) adventures—and misadventures one may say—in Africa. The courage and enterprise of Mr. Kearton is shown by the fact that although, as he tells us, he could not speak Norse, he made his way amongst the Norwegians, finding here and there people who could speak English—or who thought they could. As an instanee, on enquiring for a certain bird, he was told, "Ah, you are too late; I saw two of them next year!"

On the Dovre Fjeld, Mr. Kearton came across the Snow Bunting breeding at a height of about 8,000 feet, the results of his patience and skill being shown by a beautiful slide of the bird near its nesting cairn. Still pictures of the Brambling, Fieldfare, Redwing, Blue-throated Warbler, and many others were thrown on the screen.

When the moving pictures were projected on the screen we saw an amusing film of the Blue-headed Wagtail, which continually alighted on a spray of jummer, and only kept its perch with difficulty owing to a high wind blowing. Another film showed a splendid Golden Eagle dining on what might have been either a Ptarmigan or a "Ryper" (Willow Grouse). The nervousness some birds felt at even the subdued rattle of the cinematograph was shown by a film of a Redwing, which kept leaving its nest and coming back again, while the film was being taken. One very interesting film was of a viper emerging from a hole; it was offered a glove stuffed to make it like a hand, to strike. The rapidity of its strike was well shown in the moving picture.

When the African subjects, taken by Mr. Cherry Kearton, were shown, we saw the results of travelling to a strange and distant land where wild beasts of the largest and the fiercest kind were found. A badly set "view-finder" on his cinematograph cost Mr. Cherry Kearton the loss of what would probably have been a splendid film of a lion in its native haunts; and on a subsequent occasion, when he was waiting up a tree at night to discharge his flashlight apparatus and "take" a lion, a bullet whistled past his head, having been fired in the camp to scare away some beast that was prowling about. Numerous mishaps were survived, and a remarkable photograph of a lion in a stato of nature was the result of his intrepidity. Among other interesting views was one of tho extraordinary Jackson's Dancing Bird or Whydah (a specimen of which was shown at the recent Clapham exhibition by Mr. Maxwell) in its native grass-jungle, going through its grotesque antics.

Mr. Crabb, the President of the L. and P. O.S., most ably expressed to the lecturer the appreciation of the audienee of the very entertaining and instructive evening he had provided. Those present, too, were loud in their praise of the enterprise and generosity of the L. and P.O.S. in making it possible for them to meet Mr. Kearton and see his famous pictures.—H. Goodchild.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

A Week's Membership Roll.

The roll for the past week covers most parts of Great Britain, as will be seen from the following representative extracts:—Messrs. Jefferies, Southwark; Rowley, Islington; Wills, Ealing; Ashcroft, St. Helens; Bigland, Woodhouse; Curtis, Broughty Ferry; Saul and Eddy, Camborne; Roast, Pearson, Chaude, and Gibb, Brighton; Dixon, Bedlington; Dixon, Choppington; Harris and Jones, Winton; Kirkby, H. Matthews, and F. Matthews, Parkstone; Cook, Howard, and Hill, Bournemouth; Williams, Edmonton; Dauncey, Nailsworth; Dyett, Darnall; Miss Rice, Sudbury; Lumsden, Cardenden; Stubbs and Gale, Worthing; Jelly and Thomas, Penygraig; Player, Llwynypia; Draisey, Trelaw; Holliday, Southampton; Royce, Nottingham; Culshaw, Maghall; Boldy, Somerfield, T. Bishop, H. Bishop, Woodall, Rydal, Marshall, Fletcher, Colton, and Robinson, Sheffield; Marshall and Bagnall, Rotherham; Kennedy, Larkhall; Coakham, Newport; Wills, Stone; Miss Pithie, Lymington; Turner, Tinsley; Dawn, Wadsley Bridge.

Our Special Prizes.

Show Secretaries will oblige by replying to my notice of last week that application must be made in good time for the Special Prizes to which their respective Societies have become entitled by the allocation of one-half of the subscription of their members to The League. A great many Societies are entitled to these Prizes, but up to the present only Worthing Great Harwood and Dist., and Newsham and Dist. have made applications, and, so far as I know, only Worthing and Harrogate, have announced the League prizes in their schedules. Applications as received will be kept under notice, and if between the time of sending in the claim and the date of the show further members of any individual Society join Cage Birds League the value of the Special Prize will be increased accordingly.

In connection with the Special Prize for Worthing, Mrs. Partridge, a Vice-President of Cage Birds League and a member of Worthing C.B.S. writes as follows:—

Sir,—I enclose our schedule with a slip inside advertising our new competition, and also announcing your kindness in giving the special prize. Will you send a quantity of Cage Birds League papers for distribution at our show either to the hon. sec. or to me, as we very mueh want to advocate Cage Birds League at that time, when so many fanciers assemble? I am quite sure that Cage Birds League fulfils a long-felt need, and is valuable alike to dealers and private fanciers and all bird lovers. Wishing the League every success.

(Mrs.) M. B. Partridge.

Worthing.

More Set-backs for the R.S.P.C.A.

In another column appears a full report of the abortive prosecution of a Sheffield bird-fancier, and I hope all bird keepers will at last appreciate that a most violent campaign is in progression against our hobby. Another report this week published is of a charge against a bird-catcher who was able to prove that the proper braeing of a bird for a temporarary purpose did not involve any cruelty, and he was so successful in his proof, notwithstanding the exaggerations and misrepresentations of the prosecuting counsel and the supporting country policemen, that the police magistrates stopped the case and dismissed the summons. Our opponents and oppressors have again been beaten, but these defeats will not stop them in their persecution. So long as they think they have the slightest possible chance of success in any individual case they will go on; the costs of defeat are paid by the subscribers to the Society, and the officials must earn their salaries somehow. When we can show them that there is an organisation of many thousands of bird-lovers determined to stand united in defence of the hobby of bird-keeping they will ultimately devote the funds of their society to their legitimate objects and leave us alone to inculcate the principles of kindness and proper attention to the wants of our pets, the promotion of good-fellowship among bird keepers generally, and the many other objects which are open to us, instead of perpetually pestering us with their petty persecutions. The individual bird-keeper never knows that it may not be his turn next, and it behoves each separate reader of these notes to join Cage Birds League without further delay. One of our members, Mr. H. Smith, of Sheffield, in forwarding the report of the case, concludes his letter by writing "I think this should make all bird-keepers join us." There can be no two opinions about this. A shilling a year (a farthing a week) meets the subscription to Cage Birds League, and it is unthinkable that any bird-keeper should be content to wait until he himself is personally threatened before joining the great body of fanciers who are already banded together as members of Cage Birds League.

OUR NEW SEALS.

These pretty seals are printed in gold and colours in exact fascimile of our Badges, and are an ornament to envelopes, notepaper, postcards, billheads, etc. All members should use them; price eightpence per hundred, post free. Smaller quantities at the hundred rate, but with one penny extra for postage.

In ordering a supply of these seals, Mr. Bigland writes: "I have received several postcards from friends bearing the League seals, and I should like some for myself."

OUR FREE BOOKLETS.

I have still some of each of the sixpenny pamphlets on British Bird Culture and on Canary and Hybrid Culture, and, as long as they last, one of either will be sent gratis to all new members applying for a copy at the time of joining. Old members who have not yet had a copy may receive one on sending a penny stamp for postage. Only one copy of either book can be sent, and when the stock in hand is exhausted, I may not be able to get a fresh supply, so applications (with membership fee) should be sent to me without delay.

SUBSCRIPTION AND BADGES.

The subscription to Cage Birds League is one shilling annually, and the badges sixpence or one shilling. The sixpenny badges are in three forms: (1) a buttan for coat lapel, (2) a pendant for watch chain, (3) a broach for lapel, cycling cap, or for lady's wear. The badges at one shilling each are mounted in 9-carat rolled-gald, and ure in two farms only: (1) a pendant for watch chain, (2) a broach for a lady ar for cycling cap or coat lapel. Members should distinctly state which form they prefer.

JUNIOR BRANCH.

The annual subscription to the Junior Branch, for members under fourteen years of age at the date of joining, is sixpence. Price of badges as above.

PATRONS.

Ladies ar gentlemen who are in sympathy with the objects of Cage Birds League may give practical expression to that sympathy by becaming Patrons of the League, and either making a lump sum donation to its funds or subscribing an annual amount of a guinea or upwards. One-half of such donation or subscription may be allotted to any individual object of the League.

VICE-PRESIDENTS.

The qualification for Vice-Presidentship is an annual subscription of not less than half a guinea, and one-half of this subscription may be allotted to either the Literature Fund, the Defence Fund, ar towards the purchase of special prizes to be given at any show nominated by the subscriber. Failing any such special allocation, the subscription will be devoted to the development and progressive wark of the League, to advertising its objects und promoting its ideals.

ROUND THE SHOWS.

NOTTINGHAM P.O.S.

Nottingham and District Permanent O.S. annual open show, held Oct. 21st. Entries came up splendidly, and through advertising in CAGE BIRDS the show was a record for this society. Many really fine birds were staged, especially in the Norwich section, which headed the list of classes. Crests, too, were a capital lot, together with the British birds. The management was all that could be desired, and the society have a fine Secretary in J. Bunn, who carried out his work in A1 style. We think the Society would be well advised to go in for a few catalogues another year. Mr. F. Beardall judged.

EAST LOTHIAN (Haddington).

First show of the East Lothian C.B.S., held Corn Exchange, October 21st. This is one of the best halls that could be found for a cage bird show; it is lofty, well lighted from the top, and free from any draughts. This society has been formed, we believe, for the purpose of furthering the interests of cage bird fanciers in the district. Going back some twenty years or so, the Haddington Show was looked up to as one of the finest exhibitions of cage birds in Scotland, and we trust the management will be successful in trying to bring their show to its old standard; and from what we saw they are on the right lines. It was a pity they clashed with so many other shows; otherwise they would have had a much larger entry. But to get over 230 entries was not bad, and the executive seemed to be pleased. The office bearers take a keen interest in the show, likewise all members of committee, and in their secretary, Mr. J. McHolme, they have one who weighs all items thoroughly, and leaves nothing to chance. The judges were: Mr. J. Patterson (Chirnside), Scotch and Border Fancies, and Mr. Mackie (Edinburgh) the remainder; and their awards all over were well received.

Jones; res, Price; hc, Bowen and Poyer, Lewis.

MUMBLES.

Show held October 12th, in the New Pavilion, a hall admirably adapted for a show; in fact, one of the most suitable places it has been our lot to see. The members are a most enthusiastic set of fanciers, and it was most unfortunate that this fixture clashed with Pentre, which somewhat spoiled the entry. The Secretary (Mr. E. G. Bevan) and his assistant (Mr. W. Eley) were very obliging, and we trust their efforts were crowned with success. Mr. J. N. Harrison judged.

CREST OR C.B.: 1, spl, 2, Muscott, pair of very nice varieg., good type and quality. NOR.: 1, Price, buff, good size, very shapely; 2, Davies, yell., nice quality, good size and shape; 3, Lewis, lovely type, good quality, some thought might have won. YORKS: 1, 2, Jones, varieg. buff, leading, good length, nicely drawn, latter cl. yell., good position, not quite so forward as winner. BORD. FCY. CL.: 1, D. Jenkins, good shapely buff, feathered like wax, shown to perfection; 2, vhc, Morris, another good buff, nice type, not quite the condition of winner; 3, vhc, Lewis, yell., nice type, lovely quality. A.O.C.: 1, Smith, varieg. yell., nice type, good shape; 2, 3, vhc, Hocking, former topping yell. cinn., grand quality, lovely col., 3rd yell. green, beautiful colour and quality, rare couple that should do well; vhc, D. Jenkins; unnoticed, No. 318, even marked, wants a little time; vhc, W. J. Jenkins. MULE: 1, Davies, well known E.M. Goldie, not quite ready yet; 2, Evans, D.R. Goldie, nice size and shape. GOLDIE, ETC.: 1, Nicholas, nice colour and quality, wee bit weak in head; 2, Evans, Goldie, nice blaze, wants time; 3, Rees, Bullie, a whopper, must have come over to learn English. SITTINGBOURNE.

Twelfth annual show of the Sittingbourne and Dis. F. and F.S. held in the Town Hall, a most suitable place, on Oct. 25 and 26, when a capital lot of birds were benched in the cage-bird section. The show was open to the county of Kent only, considering which the quality of the exhibits was all the more creditable. Mr. T. J. Monday, the steward in this section, acquitted himself well, and the management throughout, with Mr. G. Arnold (the hon. sec.) at the head of affairs, was excellent. Mr. G. Gardner judged, and his awards appeared to please all.

LOCAL CLASSES: NOR. UNFLIG. (3): 1, Tidy; 2, Monday; 3, Apps. YORKS. (4): 1, 2, vhc, Olive; 3, Monday. YORKS., TKD., ETC. (4): 1, 2, Olive; 3, Monday; vhc, Tidy. HAYLE.

Annual exhibition of the Hayle F.A. held Oct. 25 and 26, Public Hall, a spacious room, well lighted and free from draught. The staging of the exhibits was carried out in a praiseworthy manner, every bird being observable at a glance. The secretarial duties were in the capable hands of Mr. H. Ware, and although these duties proved arduous, he got through them all smiling. He was ably assisted by a splendid committee of fanciers in Messrs. Oatey, Maddern Richards, Angwin, Ellis, Pool, Hill, Rowe, Richards, Hancock, Symons, Bagg, Cock, Jordon, and A. Coombes (assist. sec.), under the direction of Mr. John Roskrow (chairman). In the Norwich section some very typical birds were staged; many of the birds are not quite ready, and lack the bloom which we like to see, but we shall hear more about them in a few weeks. Yorkshires as usual were very good, especially the non-flighted birds. The Goldies and Bullies were a nice lot, the winning Goldie being a gem with good all-round properties; the winning Bullie was a cage-moulted specimen, and a champion. Crests and C.B.'s were put together; the winner was a clear body D.C. The Hybrid classes were small, but some big winners put in their appearance, which made up for the small entry. In the British bird section one class was cancelled; in the classes which filled, some magnificent birds were staged, and the winners were of great beauty. The day opened rather dull, but by noon the rain cleared and the sun shone, which made everything look bright and gay. Mr. C. H. Toy (Truro) judged, and his awards appeared to give satisfaction. Cup for three best birds (for a member) was won by Mr. W. Neal, with Yorkshires, and the points cup (for a member), by Messrs. Rowe and Richards, this being their third, it now becomes their own property.

Mr. Alf. Pattison (Gravesend) writes: I have pleasure in saying that my advt. in "Cage Birds" has been attended with good results, and I wish it to continue for another 6 months.

Please thank all who replied to my advt. in "Cage Birds"; too many to reply to all. Smart work—exchange effected Saturday morning.—H. James (Kirton, Lindsey).

I had splendid results from my last advertisement in "CAGE BIRDS," as I sold every bird I wished to sell and could have sold more. In fact, I received an order two months after the advertisement appeared.—W. H. Blythe (Bacup).

Kilmarnock, Nov. 18!! See next week's issue for full particulars. Grand prize-money. 31 classes.—Advt.

Derwent Valley Show, Church Hall, Hamsterley, to-day (Saturday). Fine array. Fanciers please support us.—Advt.

The Linnet, Siskin, etc., class at Bradford West Show should not have read 3rd Lane, but 2nd and 3rd Inman, with a Siskin and Mealy Redpoll, writes Mr. T. H. Inman.

We have decided to hold an open show of twenty-two classes in the Mechanics' Institute, Jarrow, on Saturday, Dec. 16, writes Mr. Robt. Elore, sec of Jarrow and Dis. C.B.S.

Schedules have been posted to all last year's exhibitors and to all S.Y.C.C. members, writes Mr. W. C. Lockwood, hon. sec., Southend and S.C.O.S. Will any other exhibitor requiring one please apply at once?

Mr. Jas. E. Davies, of Stockport, writes to say he will be pleased to meet his numerous enquirers at Belle Vue Show, Manchester, on Friday and Saturday, between the hours of two and six.

The "Nutshell" booklet on the Skylark (No. 3) is being reprinted. Will customers kindly accept this explanation of any delay in the execution of orders for same that we have received during the past few days?

Ramsden's Peppers.—Customers who are members of a Cage Bird Society holding an open show should hand their coupons to their secretary, so that he may enclose them with his application for a special prize.—Advt.

We are glad to hear that Mr. T. J. King, of Cheltenham, is making good progress towards recovery after a painful operation, and hopes to be well enough to attend Cheltenham Show and meet many of his old friends.

Arrangements have made with the railway companies, writes Mr. T. Bishop, sec., Sheffield Show, to have all exhibits delivered at the Cutler's Hall up to eleven Thursday night, Nov. 2. All birds so sent will be properly cared for. Exhibitors, kindly note!

Will fanciers kindly note that I have been elected hon. sec. of Eccles C.B.S., writes Mr. J. Hall, hon. sec., 199, Liverpool Road, Patricroft, Manchester. Members can be nominated on receipt of 1s. and name and address.

Entries being very slack, we have had to extend to Oct. 28, writes Mr. H. Jones Robins, hon. sec. of the Liskeard Show. We do not average two per class. Do help us; we have every accommodation for your exhibits. Send and I will classify.

All long-distance exhibits will be forwarded by the midnight mail trains on Thursday at the latest, and will reach their owners early Friday morning (not Monday, as stated in the schedule), writes Mr. S. H. George, sec. of the Swansea C.B.A.

Schedules for Bethesda C.B. open show have been sent out to all known fanciers, writes Mr. Owen Thomas, hon. sec. Will anyone overlooked kindly send me a postcard to 9, Station Road, Bethesda, N. Wales. We have engaged Mr. H. W. Battye (Huddersfield) as judge.

Members of the Bankfoot and Dis. C.B.S. should make an effort to attend next Tuesday's meeting, at which Mr. J. Smith has promised to give a washing and staging exhibition, which I am sure will prove both interesting and instructive, writes Mr. F. Gelder, the sec.

We would like to thank those exhibitors who responded to our appeal for giving us a record entry, write Messrs. J. and J. Jeffery, secs. of the Torbay O.S. "Better late than never" was true in this case, as the outlook at first was disappointing. Of course, we also thank those who sent early.

Metropolitan bird-lovers should not overlook the show being held this Friday and Saturday (Oct. 27th and 28th) by the London Federation of Cage Bird Societies at the Church Institute, Paddington Street, off High Street, Marylebone (near Baker Street Station). We understand there will be a very fine display of birds.

I beg to make an appeal on behalf of myself and several other southern members of the Border Fancy Canary Club for secretaries of societies in the Midlands, South of England, and Wales giving four or more classes in the Border Section to kindly endeavour to get the patronage of this club.—D. Jenkins (Swansea).

Writing with respect to the provision of two classes for Lesser Redpolls at their show on Nov. 8 and 9, Mr. S. H. George, the sec. of the Swansea C.B.A., says: We are the first society to do this, and we hope our efforts will be appreciated. The cup (value £2 2s.) for Norwich and Yorkshire exhibitors (for most points by six nominated birds) is, I may add, open to all.

At the Bromley show, in the A.O.S. Finch class, 2nd prize was won by my cage-bred cock Greenfinch, not Mr. Acland's Redpoll, writes Mr. Jack Shiers (Swanley Village).

Messrs. A. S. Treasure and W. Pounsett, hon. secs. of the Cheltenham C.B.S. Show, write:—Will exhibitors and others kindly note that class 8 in the schedule should read "Buff Crested Bred, bred 1911," and Class 47 "Hybrid Dark Linnet or Goldfinch-Canary."

I beg to thank you for the excellent report of our recent successful show, writes Mr. E. Cowling, sec., Morpeth and Dis. C.B.S. Also your reporter for the many kind things said about its management. No doubt the success achieved was due largely to the wide circulation of Cage Birds, as I was fairly besieged with applications for schedules.

We hear that one of our most prominent breeders of Belgians—Mr. Fairley (Coatbridge)—takes his departure in the early spring for Canada. His decision to seek pastures new and join some of the members of his family already there should provide a fine opportunity for those desirous of obtaining some specimens of the old-time "King of the Fancy."

I have posted 850 schedules for our first annual C.B. show on Nov. 18, writes Mr. J. R. Reid, sec. of the Cowdenbeath C.B.S. Will anyone overlooked please apply for one? As we are now a cage bird society entirely, and having issued a schedule which will compare favourably with that of any show in Scotland, we are looking forward to receiving a very large entry.

Owing to the writers not enclosing a stamp for reply when answering my advertisement I have been compelled to pass their correspondence over, writes Mr. A. J. A. Marley (Leyton), as if I had to stamp all of their letters I should have a fine old postage account at the end of the season. I also beg to thank the secretaries of Clapham, Plymouth, Leeds, and Portsmouth for their promptness in paying out prize-monies.

Next Week. 2d.

Great Autumn Double Number

with a

Magnificent Coloured Plate.

Special Articles. Special Illustrations.

Our next issue will be a bumping double number, full of good things for every bird-keeper. The demand for Cage Birds exceeds all records this season, and it behoves readers to order this great special number at once, or they may find it difficult to obtain a copy. The plate is a charmingly artistic and life-like production and the articles and special features will be both varied and practical.

ADVERTISERS.

The season is a brisk and promising one for sales of all kinds of birds and appliances, and advertisers in next week's Great Autumn Special will very greatly oblige by sending in their announcements promptly on the Monday, to reach us by Tuesday certain. The selling power of our double numbers is acknowledged to be wonderful, so get out your advertisements at once.

Readers who care to contribute little interesting news items, helpful letters, photographs, etc., may be sure of receiving every consideration.

Don't Miss Next Week's "Cage Birds."

Leeds C.B.S. will present a Canary and a cage to the holders of tickets bearing the numbers, 30, 588, 211, 137; tickets to be had on application to me, writes Mr. W. A. Wilson, the sec., 75, Bayswater Mount, Roundhay, Leeds.

I was at Portsmouth Show last Thursday, and found it in an ideal hall, and if the pains taken by the hard-working committee count for anything, then I should say this is one of the shows of the future, writes Mr. E. Holliday (Shirley). Am pleased to say I had my prize-money two days after.

Keith Show is to be held on Dec. 13, writes Mr. C. Ralley, the sec. I am glad to say the committee has made up some good classes for Canaries and British birds, and a singing class. Some grand specials are offered—rose bowls, silver plate, etc. I have a good hard-working committee, and I am sure this points to a great success.

No one was more proud than "your humble" when arriving home on Oct. 13 to see my 1st prize Yorkshire, that I exhibited at Clapham, depicted on the front page of my favourite paper, Cage Birds. I must say I owe most of my success to your splendid paper, which I shall always recommend to my friends.—Thos. Veness (Hastings).

The October number of "Bird Notes"—the journal of the Foreign Bird Club—contains several interesting articles, among them being "Visits to Members' Aviaries," by Mr. W. T. Page, F.Z.S.; "The Nesting of the Dickcissel, or Black-throated Bunting," by Mr. W. E. Teschemaker, B.A.; "The Breeding of the Guira Cuckoo," by Lord Poltimore; "The Nesting of the Rufous-throated Blue Sugar Bird," by Miss E. F. Chawner; "Aviary Notes for 1911," by Mr. C. H. Row; and "Breeding the Tree-Creeper in Confinement," by Mr. W. R. Temple. There is also a large number of illustrations.

R.S.P.C.A. Failures

Two Prosecutions Result in Important Decisions Favourable to Bird-keepers.

It is gratifying to be able to report that the officials of the R.S.P.C.A. have failed in their two latest attempts to harass bird-dealers, and—through the latter—the hobby of bird-keeping. At Sheffield they brought what a local paper describes as a "test case" with a "view to warning Sheffield bird-dealers against illegal traffic in wild birds . . . and to show that they could not buy freshly-caught birds outside the city and sell them in Sheffield." But they were met with a sound defence, and the case was dismissed. At Leicester they prosecuted a faucier for alleged cruelty to a "brace" bird. But the defendant's solicitor said that the injuries alleged to have been due to the use of the brace were actually inflicted by the prosecution in their efforts to remove it, and he showed that the brace could be put on and removed by an experienced person without any possibility of injury to the bird. The magistrates dismissed the case without even hearing the witnesses for the defence. We will give a report of this latter case in our next issue.

The Sheffield Case.

With a view to warning Sheffield bird dealers against illegal traffic in wild birds, a test case was brought before the Sheffield Police Court on October 23rd. The defendant was Benjamin Boldy, Manor Oaks, bird dealer, and he was summoned for having in his possession twelve Linnets and thirty Larks, "recently taken."

Mr. A. Howe, who prosecuted, stated that under the Wild Birds' Protection Act it was an offence to have in one's possession between March 1st and August 1st wild birds that had been "recently taken." In Sheffield an order had been obtained so extending the Act that it made it illegal to have any time during the year birds that had been "recently taken." The case was brought with a view to showing what the law on this point was in regard to Sheffield, and to demonstrate to dealers that they could not buy freshly caught Larks and other birds in districts outside the city and sell them in Sheffield.

Inspector Smith, of the R.S.P.C.A., said that he visited the Sheffield market and saw a number of Larks and Linnets in the possession of defendant. The birds were very wild, and he formed the opinion that they had been "recently taken." In fact, the Larks fluttered about so much and were so wild that it was impossible to count them.

Mr. R. F. Payne, who appeared for the wild bird dealers of Sheffield, contended that the birds exposed for sale had not been "recently taken" within the meaning of the Act.

A Lincolnshire market gardener, named William Sly, said that he did a large business in wild birds. His premises could accommodate as many as 6,000 at a time. He always kept birds for at least a month before offering them for sale, so that they should become accustomed to captivity and regain their appetites. If he sold them as soon as caught they would die.

Defendant had bought the birds from a bird dealer named Edward Moore, living at Rotherham, who had had them from the Lincolnshire man. Moore said that the birds had probably been in his (Moore's) possession for fourteen days or three weeks before he sold them to defendant.

The magistrates (Mr. S. E. Howell and Mr. J. C. Clegg) held that the birds had not been "recently taken." It had been held that birds which had been in captivity for fourteen days were not "recently taken" within the meaning of the Act. The case would be dismissed.—"Telegraph and Star."

We hear from Mr. Whitton, the sec. of the Broughty Ferry Show, that two birds (a variegated Green Crest cock and a yellow variegated unflighted Norwich cock) mysteriously disappeared from the show, and that he will be glad to reward anyone giving information that will lead to the recovery of same.

The result of the first show held at Birmingham on Oct. 18 and 19, in connection with the inter-club cup competition between Birmingham, West Bromwich, and Wolverhampton C.B. societies (twenty highest awards only by each society at the three shows), writes Mr. J. H. de Maillet, the competition secretary, is as follows:—Birmingham, 123 points; West Bromwich, 73; and Wolverhampton, 58.

We hear that at the Palace there will be a separate class for Skylarks and another for Wagtails. The latter is an innovation, and is due to the suggestion of Mr. Lott, who has guaranteed the class. The "Greyhounds of the British Bird Fancy" should make a charming class in themselves, and it is to be hoped that the support accorded will be sufficient to warrant that the new class will become a permanent feature of the Palace classification.

Changes of Address.

The attention of secretaries and others is drawn to the following changes of addresses:—Mr. E. B. Hooper, from Nile Terrace to Wrekenton, Springfield Avenue, Gateshead; and Mr. A. Dawson, from Staffa Street, to 30, Dunehatton Street, Dennistoun.

Cinnamon Canary Club.

The half-yearly meeting of the Cinnamon C.C. will be held at Manchester Show, Belle Vue, time and place to be announced on winning Yellow Cinnamon cock's cage. Extraordinary business. All members please attend if possible.—J. W. Metcalfe, hon. sec.

W.C.O.S. Norwich Challenge Cup

Through a printer's error Mr. Spillman's exhibit in Class 23 was nominated for the Norwich Challenge Cup, and was adjudged the winner, writes Mr. T. Pope, hon. sec., Plymouth Show. This bird not being eligible, Mr. F. A. Redwood, of Newton Abbot, becomes the holder for this year, with his exhibit in Class 22, which was reserve. I thank Cage Birds for its report of our show.

Y.C.C. Competitions.

Will members please note that the Yorkshire Canary Club's patronage has been withdrawn from Cheltenham Show, Nov. 1 and 2; also from the L.C.B.A., Nov. 24; these societies having failed to provide the required classification. At Liverpool O.S. on Nov. 3 and 4 (judge, Mr. W. Mundell), the Bailey Trophy, Ramsden Cup and money specials, Open Novice, etc., will be all in competition.—J. Greaves, secretary.

Liverpool Open Show.

We have just been allotted the Ramsden Cup, money specials, and open novice competitions in addition to the Bailey Trophy of the Y.C.C., write Messrs. Metcalfe and Hillmen, secs. Liverpool O.S. Will members of the Y.C.C. kindly note? We are informed by Mr. Greaves (sec. of the Y.C.C.) that we are the only society to which the whole of the competitions have been granted outside the Palace Show.

Welsh Cage Bird Club.

A committee meeting of the Welsh C.B.C. will be held at Nantybwch on Nov. 6 next, to make final arrangements for the Club Show, etc. If any members have anything to suggest, will they please let me know as early as possible? There are several members who have not yet paid their subs., and as the shows held under the patronage of the Club are all to be held in November, I should like to remind members in arrears that they cannot compete for the Club's specials unless they pay their subs. at least six clear days prior to the show at which they intend to exhibit. I shall be pleased to send particulars to any fancier wishing to join.—A. E. Brown, hon. sec.

I have sent out all prize-money, writes Mr. R. Whitton, sec. of the Broughty Ferry C.B.S. Show.

A white Blackbird has been captured alive near Scarborough by Mr. A. Morley, of Scarborough. The bird is reported to be doing well in captivity.

Kindly thank all those who wrote commending us on our care and prompt despatch of their show specimens, writes Mr. W. Elliott, sec. of the Burton-on-Trent C.B.S.

Schedules for Hull Show, Nov. 17 and 18, writes Mr. E. R. Ridley, the hon. sec., will be posted to all applicants immediately on receipt of them from the printer.

The recent City of Glasgow Show is the first I have missed seeing since 1882, writes Mr. Thomas Smith. I am getting round to health again, I am pleased to say.

Mr. J. Houghton, of Gloucester, is, we hear, appointed to judge the cage bird section at Bath and Dist. Fanciers' Show on Nov. 30, and Kingswood Show on Dec. 2.

OBITUARY.

Mr. J. ROY (Partick).

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. W. Priest, sec. of the Partick and Dis. C.B.C., that I have to announce the death of Mr. Jack Roy, one of our most esteemed members of the club. Whilst following his trade as a plumber he fell off a seven-foot pair of steps and broke his neck. Our lamented friend was a real fancier, and a willing worker at all our shows. We are sure that all who knew him will readily extend their sympathy to his wife and family.

Broughty Ferry Show.—Variegated Green Crest cock, Class 11, 2; Yellow Variegated unflighted Plainhead cock, Class 26, 9. Any information of above birds will be rewarded.—Robt. Whitton, sec., 2, Churchill Place.—Advt.

We have sent schedules out to all fanciers we know of, writes Mr. J. H. Elwell, sec. of the Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S. If any missed will forward me their addresses, they will receive one by return of post.

Owing to the East Reading Show falling on Nov. 1, we have postponed our meeting night until Nov. 8, when all members are requested to attend to settle show business, writes Mr. W. H. Pyke, sec. Reading and Dist. C.B.S.

WATCHES FOR READERS OF "CAGE BIRDS."

On Page 281 will be found an offer of the greatest interest to our readers. It is an offer of something everyone can do with, viz., a good reliable watch (fully guaranteed by the makers for one year) at a sensationally low price. A Cage Birds Watch can be obtained post free in box in return for a 5s. postal order or cash. But to everyone who will help us to increase the circulation of our journal it will be noted that we make a highly advantageous offer, i.e., we reduce the purchase price as low as one-half (2s. 6d.) in return for eighteen coupons cut from the current issue of Cage Birds. Send these coupons, and you have only to forward 2s. 6d. cash as well in order at once to receive a watch. Or a less number of coupons can be sent (see details of the scheme in the advertisement). Readers should have no difficulty in persuading visitors to the shows—or their neighbours interested in birds—to purchase this week's issue and to hand over the watch coupons therein. These coupons can then be used as part of the purchase price of a Cage Birds Watch. This watch is of really good modern make, finish, and appearance; and is not disfigured by any advertisement device. Better cannot be obtained at double the price. Remember, all coupons sent must be cut out of the current issue.

A Londoner and His Norwich Plainhead Canaries.

By T. D. Jackson (West Green.)

Meeting of the Poplar and Dist. C.B.S. held 12th Oct., Mr. T. G. Hunt in the chair. Correspondence from various sources was read, but nothing of importance arose out of same. One new member was nominated and accepted subject to the committee's final approval. The chairman then introduced Mr. T. D. Jackson, who had come to give us the following lecture on "The Norwich Canary." The lecture was listened to with keen attention, and was heartily appreciated by all present.—H. W. Cook, Hon. Sec.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: In response to your worthy Secretary's request I have written you a paper on the Norwich Plainhead. It is not my intention to weary you with a preface beyond saying that what I have written is the result of many years' practical experience and close observation.

I would like to impress upon those of you who are interested in, or are about to take up the breeding of, the Norwich Plainhead, the importance of first studying well the characteristics that go to make up a high-class specimen. Though this in itself is no guarantee of success it is at least one step in the right direction, for unless you are thoroughly conversant with both good and bad points, you cannot hope to achieve success. It may not be out of place at this stage of my paper if I give you a description of what constitutes an ideal Norwich Plainhead, or as near the ideal as we have been able to get, for I am aware that for some reason, withheld by Nature from "mere man," the ideal has yet to be bred.

The Ideal Bird Described.

Firstly, the bird must have a good head, for no matter how it may excel in other respects, if it has a bad head it is bound to be put back in anything like keen competition. The head should be broad and full, wide at the entrance, rising at the base of the beak forming a cushion; looking at it side-ways it should be rather oval in shape; the face must also be full, set with clear, bold eyes. The neck should be short and thick, with a nice curve running on to a broad, well-filled-in back; there must be no gutter running down the centre. The shoulders should be broad without being prominent; the chest deep, full and round—there must be no flat or angular appearance, but a beautiful curve from the throat to the waist which should be clean cut and nicely tapered. The wings and tail should also be short, and neatly folded. The feather should be short and of a soft silky texture, the colour rich and even, with plenty of meal in the buffs. The bird should show just a little "thigh," and should stand well up and forward on the perch with as little behind him as possible; there is nothing that to my mind looks worse than a bird crouching or hugging the perch. The carriage should be bold and fearless.

Such a bird in the flesh, I am well aware, is not at all easy to breed, and it is as well that it is not, for if such birds were as plentiful as blackberries in autumn then the game of breeding them would not be worth the candle.

How to Build Up a Strain.

In building up a strain of birds I should not advise your starting by purchasing the ready-made article, for the old theory that "like breeds like" holds good only in so far as that when you pair Canaries you may reasonably expect to breed Canaries; the mating of two birds that are perfect in all points will not ensure young birds their equal, owing to the tendency that exists in all fancy stock to deteriorate. Neither is the merit of the young determined by the price of the parents, for in choosing the stock birds brains should play a far more important part than money, though I do not wish to infer that good stock birds are to be got for an old song.

I should commence with, say, three pairs, or two cocks and four hens; not one of them would be a show bird, but each should possess in a marked degree certain of the characteristics that go to make up the right thing; then with skilful pairing, study and perseverance each of those characteristics may be grafted on to their descendants.

Whence Type Comes.

As we look to the hen for type in the young, see that the hens are good in this respect. Get them as short in body and as deep-chested as you can; avoid all hens that are at all long either in flights or tail. Personally I have no objection to hens that are a shade small, for you will invariably find such hens are better in type, more compact than their larger sisters, and when they are paired to good-sized cocks the results are mostly satisfactory. I like the cocks to be of good size, but I never sacrifice type for it. They must have good bold heads and short, thick necks; also sound colour, as you will invariably find with this goes quality of feather. I should not mind if they were a shade long in flights or tail or just a little loose in feather, as I have had the best results from such birds when they are often considered too small. Also get the cocks with as much substance in them as possible.

The question has often been asked me: Which do I consider the best way of pairing—buff cock to yellow hen, or vice versa? Good results are, of course, obtained both ways, and I think it is merely a matter of fancy; personally I have a leaning to yellow cock and buff hen, one reason being that it is much easier to get really good buff hens than yellows.

Supposing the beginner has been fortunate enough to secure the right stock to commence with, the progress he makes will, of course, depend upon himself. He should ever have in his mind the ideal bird he is striving to breed, and by giving his hobby that careful study that is always essential to success, there is no reason why he should not eventually reach the goal of his ambition. But before he does reach it he must be prepared to meet a few, or may be many, obstacles, which, however, will not prove insurmountable provided he possesses the grit and determination to succeed. It will not be accomplished in a single season; neither should it be expected or desired, for success so easily achieved has invariably but a brief existence.

Faults and How to Deal with Them.

From time to time it will be necessary to introduce fresh blood. In doing so, any fault that may have developed in our own stock must be carefully noted, and counterbalanced in the new purchases.

Should the fault lay in head properties, that is, narrowness of skull, I should introduce a cock, preferably a buff, as I have found that the buff has a greater tendency to transmit this particular point than the yellow. It is not only necessary that that bird itself should excel in head properties, but it should have been bred from stock that has continually produced birds good in that respect. This remark, in fact, applies in all such cases; otherwise it is more than probable that they would defeat the very purpose for which they were intended. In the case of flat heads, however, I should use a yellow hen that had a nice rise in the centre of the head.

A Sensation of the Show!

Wild-Bird Life.

The Coming of the Wild Fowl.

England stands almost alone in its peculiar attractions for wild birds, as a home for many and a refuge during the winter months for a host of wildfowl and others fleeing from the cold, inhospitable North. As the spring migrants leave us, a whole army of noisy wanderers descend on our coasts. Along the wide stretches of marsh land bordering the rivers, the muddy flats left bare by the receding tides, the invaders crowd and hunt for food. Unlike the birds that come in the spring, these autumn visitors do not proceed far inland, but keep within sound and sight of the sea. Even the hundreds of Rooks and Crows that come each year with the wild fowl only haunt the marshes and fields that extend but a few miles from the coast. In some seasons this invading army of noisy wanderers is exceedingly heavy. They come from the fields and forests of Norway, from the wide plains of Siberia, and some even from near the Pole itself, for winter there is different to ours, the fields, forests, and plains being deep in snow, and wild birds must seek other countries. Thus for a time they wonder south, and crossing the wild North Sea, descend on our Eastern coasts—flocks of Geese, flying in the peculiar orderly wedge-shape so familiar to Wildfowlers; long strings of Teal and Widgeon; vast crowds of Snipe, Plovers, Dotterels, and many others. To be among them is an education and a delight to the naturalists and sportsman. Ducks of all kinds haunt the shores frozen out of their Arctic home; clouds of Sandpipers gather into flocks that sail up and down the marshy shores with mournful, yet musical cries. The big Curlew comes down from his breeding grounds on the moorlands and joins the noisy throng, his loud clear whistle being heard plainly above all others. A flock of Sandpipers, wheeling with the precision of cavalry, is a sight of absorbing interest. As silvery dots they stand out clearly against the wintry sky, now lost as they turn and then settling; then they run here and there probing the yielding surface with their long bills in search of food.

Long-lived.

It was at one time thought that the Raven lived longer than any other species, and no doubt many of them attained a great age, but there is a record of a Golden Eagle which died at the age of one hundred and eighteen years, whereas the longest record of the Raven is seventy years.

Should Birds be Kept in Cages?

By J. R. COLVILLE
(Ashton-under-Lyne).

To class all bird catchers, dealers, and fanciers on the same level because of the faults of the very few is, to say the least about it, unfair. The bird catcher and the dealer, if only in their own interests, are compelled to look after the welfare of their stock, otherwise they stand to lose by it. Again, fanciers or owners of cage pets can only derive the full enjoyment from their birds by keeping them under the best of conditions and in perfect health. To do so it is necessary for them to see to the correct feeding, proper caging, and all other attentions necessary to their welfare.

Those who are working against us have in a great many cases no actual knowledge of the keeping of birds, or some of the assertions made by them would never have been uttered. That such is the case will be made evident by a consideratiou of a pamphlet issued by the Humanitarian League, and entitled "The Other Sido of the Bars: The Case of the Caged Bird," in which they state it is their intention to put a stop to the keeping of any birds, large or small, Canaries or wild birds, in cages.

Pictorial Exaggerations.

It is a difficult matter to use mild language in dealing with the studied exaggerations in this production. On the outside cover are shown some birds flying, which appear to be ravens. Now, no one wants to keep ravens in a cage. Inset in the corner is the picture of an all-wire cage, which, by the way, is not so handsome as the cage with a Norwich Canary so recently presented to her Majesty Queen Mary by the fanciers of Norwich. In this cage, on the cover of the pamphlet, is shown what is evidently intended to convey the impression of a sick Canary. Judged by the size of the cage, the Canary is in proportion about 12 inches long and the same measurement round the body, the idea being to fill the cage with what looks like a poor, miserable, dejected object.

Other illustrations are of a like nature, and very misleading. One, entitled "Starved to Death," shows a nest of young birds apparently left orphans, and the impression which it is meant to convey is that the bird catcher is responsible for this, though the author, who has a sufficient knowledge of wild birds and their habits, ought to know different. What about stoats and other "natural enemies" to which at this season all wild birds are liable? Add to this the fact that during the nesting season there is no bird catching, the catching season being closed.

The Text as Bad as the Pictures.

When we come to consider the text of this pamphlet we have a still greater grievance. Statements are made which may be called half-truths, and nothing is so mischievous or so difficult to explain away as these whitewashed lies, in which the whole system of birdkeeping is condemned because of the faults of a very few. The writer of the pamphlet is well known for his knowledge of wild bird life, but he is evidently very far wrong regarding the conditions under which these same birds are kept in captivity.

By calling bird caging of any kind an "acted blasphemy" he gives us an inkling of what we may expect as we proceed with the text of the pamphlet. Some of the arguments used are so far outside the truth as not to require any answer. For example, "Until yesterday the birdkeeper enjoyed the right to blind his little captives by thrusting red-hot needles in their eyes"; "Eighty per cent. of birds taken pine in captivity, and perish miserably"; "For every bird one sees in a private house, scores have been caught and have succumbed," etc., etc.

The writer of the pamphlet challenges a statement made in Cage Birds that many birds kept in cages or aviaries prefer their new homes to their former freedom, and calls this a "monstrous perversion of the truth," whereas, as a matter of fact, instances innumerable have been, and can be, given where birds which have either intentionally or accidentally been set at liberty have returned to cage-life, and the kind and proper attention they receive from their owner.

[Mr. Colville then endorses and repeats much of my own answer, as published in Cage Birds of June 3 last, a copy of which, or of the reprint of that reply in leaflet form, will be sent post-free to any new reader on application, and concludes as follows.—H.J.F.]

The Vicissitudes of Nature.

What appears to be the foundation of the arguments used is that it is not natural to keep birds in cages. Can the author say how much is natural in this artificial world of ours? He says that caging of birds is opposed to all that is uatural, and therefore must be wrong. It is natural for birds to perish from cold and hunger and from the assaults of their natural enemies. It is natural for birds to peck their weaker brothers and sisters of different species to death. It is natural for many to kill and devour insect life. Does all these being natural make their arguments right? Is it not more in keeping with the order of things to have a bird in a cage where it is well looked after, free from danger, and assured of its daily bread? Man's whole life is a constant fight against Nature, and in the intelligent keeping of birds in cages he is obeying one of the best instincts of his nature in having something to look after and care for.

What we have to do.

The best answer we can give to our opponents is to show them how comfortable, contented, happy, and well fed our pets are when they are not exposed to the ruthless attacks of Dame Nature, of which they make so much. Do not let them attack the principle of bird-keeping, but let them look out for the few cases which require condemnation and prosecution, and they will have the hearty assistance of all bird lovers and true fanciers.

Bird lovers and fanciers must be prepared to protect themselves against such attacks. Join Cage Birds League, or some society such as the local cage bird society, and look after your interests and your hobby, otherwise the cry may be "Too late!"

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS.

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist, or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems) will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Children's Dinner Fund (London).

(9).—All queries must be addressed the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

An Aviary.

"Aviary."—I have several times dealt with this subject in other parts of the paper, and also in Part III. of "Our Canaries." It is too large a matter to deal with properly here. Briefly, you should cover three of four feet of the length with roofing felt to keep off rain, etc., and put up all nesting sites either under this covered part or in the inner portion. Inside fix a few small leafless branches at intervals around the walls, and a variety of other perches in suitable positions. For nesting sites nothing beats German travelling cages with the short bars, seed-box, and water-pot removed. Put up a good supply of these, or partly these and cigar-boxes (100 size) with a third of the lid cut off, the nest tacked down tight, and the box hung up sideways. Have more nesting sites than there are hens. A couple of inches of clean gravelly sand on the wood floor will be best. The flight is rather low to have sbrubs, but a few bushy box-plants, mallows, very small firs, or privet, would make a great improvement on a bare waste. A shallow batb in the open flight, and self-supplying seed-hopper and fountain will be all the fittings you really need. A seed-hopper divided in separate compartments to keep seeds separately is best. Give an unlimited supply of canary and rape, and a limited supply of a mixture of bemp, inga, millet, linseed, broken groats and maw. Do not put in an equal number of sexes—one cock to three hens will be enough. For fuller details I must refer you to the above named work; if there remains any point you want further information upon, write me again.

Troublesome Yorkshires.

Pit Laddie.—(1) He is undoubtedly badly affected with chronic so-called astbma, and I seriously doubt your doing any good with him. One thing is quite clear—he is a most unsuitable subject for breeding, and will only reprodnce a race of physically unfit progeny. Have you moved him to a fairly warm, equable place? The persistent moulting is practically certain to be due to one of three things—cold draughts, damp, or extreme fluctuations, notwithstanding that you think these causes are absent. Continue same staple diet—plain canary, rape every second day. In addition, give alternately with the rape a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut with two drops of a mixture of equal parts syrup of hypophosphites and syrup of iodide of iron on it, then sprinkled with maw. Give this every second day in each alternate week for two months. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a pinch of Epsom salts every second day for a week, and on the alternate days tbe tonic advised to "H. R." After this give the mixture as advised to "J. B. S." for three weeks. Then report result. (2) It is useless looking on the birds for red mites. These harbour in cracks or joints about the cage. If you find none in these places adopt measures indicated above as regards prevention. Then give the birds the above-named salts and rhubarb aperient for two days and afterwards the tonic advised to "H. R." every second day until moult ceases. Keep them on plain diet.

Heating a Birdroom (L.B.W.).—I think your best course would be to have a small slow combustion stove placed in the centre of the room, and a pipe therefrom leading into the chimney to carry off the fumes. A good make of oil stove might form the next best substitute, which should be placed in a similar position, and provided with a block tin or sheet iron cover, well ventilated around tbe bottom, and with a smoke pipe at the top (again carried into the chimney) to carry off smoke and fumes. In either case do not omit a "cap" over the end of the stove pipe to prevent a down draught, and close the bottom of the chimney by carefully pasting strong brown paper over, which may finally be painted or papered to match the walls in the room. Either of these methods will be better than having a grate put in to hurn fuel. You must see tbat the ventilation is ample when using heat.

Purchasing Bird (H. Hall).—A trained Roller is the bird you want for singing pure and simple. The price varies greatly according to proficiency, hut you should be able to get a decent pair for the sum you name—a cock at, say, 12s. 6d., and a hen of the same strain for 2s. 6d. I cannot give addresses of dealers for obvious reasons. Any large dealer advertising with us would try to give satisfaction. If you have any doubt, use tbe Deposit system.

Injured Wing (A. J. R.).—The swellings are undoubtedly the result of pecks. If they are rapidly disappearing with the iodine painting continue this once a day until quite cured. But if there is no improvement cease painting, and next day carefully prick the skin with a clean needle just over the "ripe" head of matter, and gently press out contents. Then wash clean in a warm solution of boracic acid, and anoint with Lanocyllin for a day or two until place is nicely healed.

Moulting and Eating Feathers (Mrs. Etheridge).—See the bird is kept in a comfortable—not necessarily very warm—place quite free from draughts, great fluctuations, or fumes of burning lights. Give a staple of plain canary only. Every second day give half a teaspoonful of summer rape separately, and on the alternate days a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed. Twice a week give a pinch of mixed seed, and two or three times a morsel of bauana, apple, or watercress. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and a pinch of Epsom salts for two days, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulpburic acid every second day for a week.

Tonic After Moulting (H. R.).—You must remember that healthy conditions generally and proper feeding are better than all the tonics in the world. Without these essentials it is simply folly to depend upon drugs to "tune the birds up." You will find the following an excellent tonic if such is really needed. Dissolve a dram of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in two tablespoonfuls of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give six drops of the mixture in each tablespoonful of drinking water for a few days. Before giving this tonic give a pinch of Epsom salts in the water for two days. You would find a mealworm a day for a short time an excellent pick-me-up for birds that are rather listless, without appearing really ill, after finishing the moult.

A Norwich Duet (Greenhorn).—(1) Give a staple of plain canary. Every second day give separately a pinch of summer rape, and once a week on the alternating days a small teaspoonful of either egg-food, crushed sponge cage, or the equivalent in bread and milk, and on two other days a pinch of the seed mixture frequently mentioned in this column. Give a morsel of sweet fruit or watercress twice a week. (2) Yes, you can breed clears from this bird, but you will get some ticked young as well; more or less according to the amount of green blood in the parents, even though the green does not show itself on the surface. The best hen to mate with for breeding clears is a clear buff bred from a clear and lightly ticked pair. Use a 1911 bred hen for preference.

Gasps for Breath (J. B. S.).—You are treating bird wrongly, and should not he giving it soaked seed. Keep it in a fairly warm place—not necessarily overheated, but yet not cold, and where the warmth is as equable as possible at all times, and the atmosphere pure and free from the fumes of burning lights. Give a staple of plain canary only, and in addition a supply of bread and milk sprinkled with maw daily, to which add two drops of cod liver oil emulsion every second day. Give also a little banana. Limit diet to this until bird is able to take seed freely again. In the drinking water give 15 drops of the following mixture daily for a week, and every second day after until a marked improvement is seen. Mixture: two drams each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, 1 dram each of chlorodyne and ipecacuanha wine, and 8 grains of iodide of potassium. If bird is very weak and low, mix together a little of equal parts brandy and glycerine and give two drops of this in the beak every two or three hours for one day.

Concerning Sang. (Avis).—(1) Most young cocks come into song soon after the moult is finished, and gradually improve, and get louder and stronger until about February when they reach their best and fullest song. Some cocks, however, are late in beginning in earnest, and may do very little before the end of January. (2) To bring him forward cage him alone away from the hen. Give a staple of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. Twice a week give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake; on two other days a pinch of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure; occasionally a few grains of hemp and inga, and three or four times a week a spray of watercress, or morsel of banana. (3) In running two cocks with one hen it is best to let him remain with one until she commences sitting; then place him with the other, and when she commences to sit cage him alone until number one is again ready for him for the second round.

A Tame Border (M.G.D.).—There is nothing whatever wrong with the health of the bird. Its behaviour is simply due to tameness, and it shows its confidence in you by wanting to play with your finger when you put it near the cage. Certainly it is too tame to stand much chance in decent company at a show, as its behaviour obliterates rather than improves any good typical points it may possess. You can only break the habit by studiously ignoring his advances and not taking any particular notice of him. Hanging him in a place where he will not see people continually passing near him, with a few companions of his own kind, or a week or two in a large flight with other Canaries will also do much towards shattering his confidence in human nature. But why make such a breach? It is easier to do so by far than it is to break the ice of natural reserve in the first place. Keeping him in a fairly warm equable temperature will help to hasten on the moult if it appears to drag unnaturally. Some birds, however, moult much more gradually than others, and may be none the worse for it.

About Norwich (J. H., Richmond).—(1) Your query still leaves me somewhat in the dark. If the two parents were both clear birds it would be a little uncommon for a self green to come from them, hut still not by any means very rare. On the other hand, if they are both more or less marked or variegated the chances of greens are vastly increased. If the youngster in question is a dark colour all over, including all tail and flight feathers, it is undoubtedly a self green. If it has light feathers in wings or tail, more or less, it is a foul or broken green, and if it has in addition any light patches of colour about breast, shoulders, neck, or back, it is a variegated. (2) If the bird is variegated, you can tell yellow from buff by the light patches of colour the same as though it were a clear. If a self or broken green, there will be about the same difference in tone between yellow and buff as there is in the colour of the upper and under surface of a rose leaf—the yellow represented by upper and the buff the under surface. (3) If the bird is a yellow-green, mate him next season with a huff green, and vice versa. You will find all these points fully dealt with in Part XIII. of "Our Canaries."

Source of Infection (A.M.R.).—A second-hand cage, unless one is quite aware of its history, is always to be regarded with suspicion, and should invariably be thoroughly disinfected before being added to one's own stock. Still, I do not think your cage could have been responsible for the bird's death. Although I cannot turn up the reply to which you refer I have no doubt the infection meant is that which is conveyed through the medium of food, but even in that case it is rather strange, though not inexplicable, that all the other birds in the same cage were unaffected, as I take it was the fact. Have you examined the kernel of the hemp you used? and was the bird in question a recently acquired one? The replies to these questions may possibly throw some light on the source of infection, which, at present, seems very obscure. If you well wash out the cage with warm water, to a pint of which you have added four teaspoonfuls of Jeyes' Fluid, I think you may quite safely bring it into use again. But as a precautionary measure I advise you to keep a common worthless hen or two in it for a month, and note results before introducing valuable specimens. Glad to hear the other bird has recovered so well under treatment advised.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A Weed (P. Weldon).—Yes; the weed you send is shepherds purse.

A Hybrid Breeding Problem (Medico).—(1) As the hen Bullie is inclined to be nasty tempered with her mates, I should advise you to pair her with a steady cock Greenfinch, and run them together through the winter (as recommended in Mr. Houlton's book). (2) I feel sure your Redpoll is a cock. The vent would be an infallible sign.

Bullie Hen "Wheezy" (Forth View).—You want to take tbe bird indoors, for cold, damp weather is very adverse to birds inclined to be "touched in the wind." Try a course of the following medicine: Aromatic spirits of ammonia 2 drachms, tincture of squills 3 drachms, infusion of gentian 1 drachm, syrup of prunes half-ounce, water to 3 ounces. Any chemist will dispense this. Mix 20 drops in two tablespoonfuls of drinking water, fresh morning and evening.

Identity of Bird (A. Cole).—The body you send is that of a Song Thrush, and not a Redwing. The Redwing is readily distinguishable hy its white eye-stripe and the deep red patches on its flanks (sides of the breast), which are partly hidden by the wings. All Song Thrushes are of a golden-orange colour on the under-side of the wings, near the shoulders, some being a very deep orange bereabouts.

Siskin Unwell (W.E.S.).—The best medicine you can try is that recommended "Forth View" this week. By-the-way, I do not altogether approve of your feeding, if, that is, you give niger seed amongst the bird's stock mixture. Siskins are better without niger, except as a very occasional change; and the same remark aplies to hemp. Canary, teazle, and summer rape are all that are required as a regular thing. The other seeds, and wild seed mixture, are for use now and again only, as a change.

A Siskin-Redpoll Hybrid (Eagle).—It is absolutely essential tbat you should keep this bird in an indoor room and out of draughts. The best medicine you can try is that recommended to "Forth View" this week. I am afraid, however, that you really cannot hope to do any good with a bird which, as you put it, has had "a bad cold ever since it was bred." Its lungs must surely be badly affected, judging by the symptoms you describe.

Larks not Moulting (Well Wisher).—Take the birds into a heated living room, and put their cages on a shelf fairly high up on the wall, and in a not too well-lighted position. This should result in their dropping into moult in a few days' time. Don't afterwards take them suddenly into a cold room. Meadow saffron is said to be a useful thing to put into the water of birds backward in moulting. Place a few shreds in the drinking vessel, fresh daily—not too much of it.

A Stock Mixture (A.E.H.R.).—You will always have a percentage of waste when using a stock mixture. As you have noticed, one bird prefers one kind of seed, another bird another kind; and when they go down to feed they knock the mixture about searching for the seed they like best. Try the following: Canary and teazle 3 parts each, summer rape and linseed one part each, by measure. In a separate dish give a daily supply (not too much, but according to the number of birds being catered for) of the following: Sunflower 3 parts, hemp 1 part, by measure. The sunflower can be either white or grey, or a mixture of the two. The grey (not black, but a kind of striped seed) is more easily cracked than the white.

The Nightingale (Grateful).—The caged Nightingale has no particular song season—when, that is, he has been house-moulted. He will sing at all seasons; though, of course, the spring and summer are his best periods. The sample of food sent seems to me to be excellent; good value for the money. Cut down the mealworms to six daily, at most—I am assuming that your bird is well used to captive life. As regards tbe cage, I presume you are not thinking of making your own (a far from easy matter if you have never tackled cage making) and all you need do is to tell the party from whom you order it that you want a stock cage for a Nigbtingale (large size), when a suitable pattern will be sent you. Any of the large cage-makers advertising in our columns will supply the correct kind of thing. Our "Nutshell" booklet dealing with small insectivorous birds will be published very soon, and you should make a point of obtaining it. A cage will be illustrated therein. An illustration will be found, too, in most of the catalogues issued by the various firms of fanciers' providers.

Breeding Goldfinches in Aviary, etc. (An Old Reader).—Yes; Goldfinches have been bred frequently in outdoor aviaries. You will find particulars as to tbeir treatment in the "Nutshell" booklet on the Goldfinch (post free 2½d.). Shall be pleased to advise upon any points as to which you are in doubt if you will describe the aviary and state its size.

A Yellowhammer's Moult (Wag).—You can't do it, I am afraid. A month is far too small a space of time in which to moult a bird and get him into show form. It takes 5 to 6 weeks, for instance, for wing and tail feathers to grow to their full length. And your bird will not, of course, cast the whole of these feathers at the same time; they are shed one or two at a time. Keep the Hammer in a heated room (not too hot, of course), give him a few mealworms daily and a large teaspoonful of a good insectile food (about 1/6 per lh.) and mix into the latter 5 or 6 drops of Parrish's chemical food (obtainable from any good chemist). This will pull him through the moult as quickly as is possible. If he has not been used to soft food, and is shy at eating it, mix up his canary seed amongst it.

Linnets for Muling (C.M.).—Very large Linnets are not peculiar to any particular country or county—that is, they may be met with anywhere in limited numbers. To put it another way: tbere are small and average-sized Linnets everywhere, and amongst them can always be found a few extra big ones. Thus you will see that the obtaining of extra large Linnets is a matter of selection, and not merely a matter of ordering them from some particular district. In other words, any man who handles large quantities of Linnets can pick out big birds for his customers. With regard to foreign Linnet, I have seen many lots which have come from Germany and Russia ("Siberia"), and have never found the English Linnets suffer by comparison.

Eye Trouble (Bald Eye).—Ask a chemist to supply you with a small quantity of boracic eye lotion and bathe the bird's eye twice daily with this. I prefer to use it warm. This will subdue any inflammation and result in the part returning to a healthy condition. Lime will most certainly cause serious eye trouble. But as a rule these "runnings" have their beginnings in very trivial things, such as a little dirt adhering to the eye, or the bird rubbing its eye on a dirty perch after having washed (during the process of drying its feathers); they may, too, be symptomatic of a cold. The bird, of course, rubs and scratches its eye all the more when it feels something is wrong in that quarter, and unless the trouble is dealt with at once, a very serious state of affairs quickly develops, and the skin surrounding the eye (or eyes) becomes involved. You must isolate the patient and wash its perches daily in disinfectant.

Bad Wing-Feathering (H.D.).—I have had one or two cases of birds in flight cages where the secondary flight feathers have failed to arrange themselves properly (so to speak) after the moult. On catching up those affected I have invariably found them to be birds which did not bathe, and after having sprayed them freely every day for a time, the trouble has come to an end—the flights have fallen into the correct position and the plumage has lost its former dry, harsh appearance. On one or two occasions I have thought that the feathers were not fully grown—had, in fact, "stuck." Now from your letter it looks as though your bird was in a similar plight. Does he bathe freely; and, if not, do you spray him? The root of the trouble may be here. Of course, I cannot give an opinion as to whether the flight-feathers have moulted or not without seeing the bird. The cage-bottom ought to have yielded you reliable evidence on this score. Did you not notice the flights being shed? You say that the feather you tried was "very stiff to pull." Well, old feathers usually come out very easily indeed at this time of the year. If you want to try a "tonic-food," mix daily a small half-teaspoonful of combined cod liver oil and hypophosphates (from every good-class chemist) amongst the Hybrids' egg-food—or give it on a piece of stale dry sponge-cake if you are not now using egg-food. I wish you luck with him.

Identity of Bird (Novice, Carr's Hill).—It seems incredible to me that "some of the local birdmen" should tell you that the bird you have is a Twite, and others that it is a Siskin! A coloured plate was published not so very long ago by CAGE BIRDS upon which the Twite and Siskin figured; while with our last Birthday Number was given a coloured plate on which appeared the Siskin and the Redpoll. So there is no excuse for "bird-men" not knowing the difference 'twixt these species. It is a very wide one, too, for the Siskin is short and chubby, and chiefly yellowish-green in colour, while the Twite is long and slim and chiefly a warm dark-brown in colour. So you will see that your bird cannot be a Siskin. If it has a yellowish beak, it is undoubtedly a Twite (call note sounds like "Tweet," or "Twite"). The cock has a reddish patch of plumage on the rump; this is absent in the hen. The song is hardly worthy of the name; just a pleasant "jabber" of notes. The value of a newly-caught Twite is only a few pence (unless, of course, it excels in show points). By the way, look in at the Gateshead and neighbouring bird shows when they are being held. You will see some good exhibition Twites then.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., etc.

Stocking an Aviary.

M.A.W.—1st Division: Here you could add pairs each of Rosella and Ring-necked Parrakeets, Black-checked Lovebirds, Virginian and Pope Cardinals, and two species of Foreign Doves or Pigeons. Middle Division: Here you could put pairs of Grey-winged Ouzels, Orange-headed, Ground Thrushes, or other similar species obtainable, Green Cardinals, Red-crested Cardinals, Madagascar Lovebirds, Passerine Parrakeets, and Glossy, Andaman, or other Starlings. Third Division: Cockatiels, Cowbirds, Marsh Birds, Troupials, Malabar Mynah, Streaked Laughing Thrushes, Red-vented Bulbul, Chinese Spectacled Thrushes, Mocking Birds, and Shamahs would agree with the birds at present in this enclosure. If you are contemplating an aviary for small birds, it should be prepared, so that it may be planted and furnished by mid-April, and thus may be ready for turning in the birds about May, according to state of the weather.

What Bird is it?

A. M. B.—You do not appear to realise the difficulty of naming birds from a written query, especially when the locality from which it comes is so uncertain. I did put in a request for further information, and I presume it appeared. I will do my best to give you full particulars next week, but you would help me greatly to a satisfactory solution if you would send me a rough pencil sketch of the bird, getting shape of beak and eye streak as correct as possible, and also length from tip of beak to end of tail. The same difficulty exists with the small birds, they would appear to be Common or Grey Waxbills, but in the absence of any information as to their habit, one cannot give a definite reply; but I think the above name is correct. However, if you know the above species, and know they are not these, kindly repeat query.

Birds for Exhibition.

Micky.—The following would all be suitable for the class: "Waxbills and certain named species," Cordon Bleus (5/-), St. Helena Waxbills (5/-), Golden-breasted Waxbills (5/- to 7/6), Spice-birds (3/6), Orange-cheek Waxbills (4/6), Common and Green Avadavats (3/6 to 5/-). For other classes, and also for "species smaller than a Cardinal," Long-tailed Grassfinch (15/- to 20/-), Rufous-tailed Greenfinch (15/- to 20/-), White Java Sparrows (10/6), Saffron Finches (7/6), Green Singing Finches (5/- to 7/6), Orange Weaver (7/6), Madagascar Weaver (7/6), Paradise Whydah (7/6), Lavender Finches (7/6). Excepting the Weavers and Whydahs, which are priced for single cocks, all the prices given above are per pair. All are brilliant or handsome species. It is impossible to give colours in the scope of this reply. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1/1½d. from our Manager, would help you. Seeds: Canary, white millet, and spray millet, with a little rape, oats and paddy rice for certain species.

Birds Out of Doors.

C. B. Marricks.—All these species are hardy in a roomy aviary, with a well-lighted shelter, but in the latter there must be no crevices through which the wind can blow and create a draught. If either of your birds is showing more discomfort at the weather than our native Finches, etc., do., then they most certainly are not fit to stand the winter, and must be taken indoors. These species have proved hardy as far north as you are, but a bird that is not in best condition at the beginning of cold weather needs some protection to help it through, just the same as an ailing individual. Your birds are, I expect, in colour now, and will probably go out of colour in December or early part of next year. It all depends on the size of the shelter, sometimes the Cardinals are inclined to bully a bit where space is limited, but Cockatiels I have found to be quite amiable. Re flask-shaped nush nests, write the large foreign bird dealers advertising in "C.B.," and if this does not get you what you want, then send me a stamped addressed envelope per Editor, and I will help you out of the difficulty

Value of Parrots ("Query").—I do not care to commit myself definitely on this point. I have heard of prices ranging from £30 to £50, and I think higher, but £10 to £15 is the more general—a good bird can be got for £10 if you bide your time; but it should be heard and seen before purchase.

Saffron Finch, etc. (H. Sharp).—Next time you go to N. H. Mus., go to the birdroom and ask the attendant to show you a skin of Sycalis flaveola (Saffron Finch), and Serinus icterus (Green Singing Finch), they have plenty of skins, though there may be none set up in the case. Popular names are seldom used at the museum.

A Grey Parrot with White Beak (Novice).—This bird is the Australian Roseate Cockatoo, a much cheaper and hardier bird than the Grey Parrot. Though I have heard quite talented birds of this species, the majority of those imported to this country do not make great talkers, and some scream; they also take more teaching than the Grey Parrot. Nevertheless, it is a handsome species, becomes tame and chummy, and is an accomplished acrobat, and each individual should talk a little.

Birds for Aviary (Drury).—You could keep with the British Finches about nine pairs of the small foreign Finches, the following would make a nice series: Common and Green Avadavats, Golden-breasted and St. Helena Waxbills, Zebra and Ruficauda Finches, Grey and Green Singing Finches, and Long-tailed Greenfinches, Saffron Finches, and White Java Sparrows. You must contrive a cover to the front of this cage, which will keep them snug during winter's nights and yet allow light and ventilation without draught.

Saffron Finch and Canary (D.P.H.).—It has crossed on more than one occasion with the Canary, but as a rule it is a difficult cross to obtain, and many fail with it. The genus Sycalis replaces Serinus in South America. There are several species of Sycalis, viz., the Saffron Finch, Pelzelu's Saffron Finch, and Yellow Finch, all of which have inter-bred in captivity. As regards the definite question—is there a reasonable chance?—what others have done, you may succeed in doing again. In restricted quarters some individuals of this species are very pugnacious and they should be kept under strict observation till their temperament is ascertained.

Grey Parrot not Talking (Regular Reader).—I do not think the bird is dumb, though a Parrot not uttering is indeed an anomaly! Your treatment is very satisfactory, and the bird should do well. You must try to draw it out, talk to it, fuss about with it generally, keep it in your midst, where it will hear plenty of conversation and other sounds, and report result about a month or six weeks hence. At present I cannot be more definite, though I can scarcely bring myself to believe in a voiceless Parrot!

Nests for Cockatiels (L.W.).—In "Foreign Birds for Beginners," page 4 (see advert. in this column), is figured a suitable nest for this species, and similar nests are often advertised in our columns. A small barrel about nine inches diameter and twelve inches deep, hung up lengthwise, is as good a nest receptacle as can be offered. If you cannot procure these, write me per Editor of this paper, and I will help you out of the difficulty. A nest-box for this species should be about 8 by 12 inches on the bottom, which must be concave, and be about 9 inches high; it must have a waterproof top if hung up in the outer flight.

Silverbill and Zebra Finch Hybrids (G. I. T.).—I cannot at the moment (relying on memory alone) recall an instance of these two species crossing, but the Zebra Finch is so eager to reproduce its kind that it has already crossed with at least half a dozen species, in cases where a mate of its own kind was not available. It would be worth while exhibiting them at the forthcoming L.C.B.A. show next month. A class is provided for hybrids and the birds would stand a good chance of recognition.

What Bird? (Belle Vue).—It is the Australian Roseate Cockatoo, also known as Australian Grey Parrot and Rose-breasted Cuckatoo. Its value as a talker is not great in this country, as the majority are not very teachable, but they mostly turn out accomplished acrobats and become very chummy. I have, however, had personal acquaintance with several really talented Roseates, so persevere with your training. The first step is to get it thoroughly tame and steady, then talk to it, keep it in your living room, and make a pet of it generally and it will soon begin to respond. Diet: Seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, plain biscuit, greenfood, grit, cuttlebone and water. See other replies in this issue.

FOREIGN BIRD QUERISTS should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Waxbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

Show Cages (Forth View).—A creamy white for the interior would suit both birds well and show them off distinctly, and I advise this colour, with the wire front and exterior of cage painted black. An interior of deep sage green suits many species better than any other, and is a good standby as a stock cage. Some type of box cage 12in. long, 9in. deep and about 12in. high would be a good size, with the perches so arranged that they could get at food hoppers easily, and yet being in such a position that would be least likely for them to damage their tails or heads against sides and tops of cage.

What Bird?—In the absence of any rough sketch of the form of this bird, I cannot be definite. Your bird is either the Spectacled Thrush, which was described in this column last week, or the Rusty-cheeked Babbler. In either case, insect food, live insects and fruit, if they will take the latter, will about meet their requirements. If you could send me a sketch of the bird—no matter how rough—showing the shape of beak and general approx. form of the bird, I think I could definitely name it for you. As it is, there are quite a number of species your description comes very close to.

Senegal Parrot (Sengus).—(1) Your bird is correctly named, it is a Senegal. Continue to give a little of the general mixture, but also keep a full tin of canary and white millet seed in its cage, and I think you will find it will partly subsist upon the latter. Also supply ripe fruit daily, such as it most fancies, according to season. It can also have nuts and plain biscuit, but do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food. It is good practice to add a pinch of grit (not sand) to the daily supply of seed, and water must either be kept in the cage or offered to the bird several times daily. (2) The price you paid is about fair value for the bird, but when talking more freely, thoroughly established, and in perfect feather, its value should be doubled.

Roseate Cockatoo (Galax).—Your bird is not a Parrot, but a Cockatoo; it is also known as Rose-breasted Cockatoo and Australian Grey Parrot, as well as the name at head of this reply. It certainly has a high repute in Australia as a talking species, and one occasionally comes across a talented bird in this country, so most certainly they do talk, and your bird should do so a little at any rate. The first thing is to get it quite tame and to avoid scaring it in any way—keep it in your midst, where it will see and hear conversation and other things, and be kept from moping; talk to, make a pet of it generally, and there will ultimately be some response for your care and trouble. They are quaint acrobatic birds, mimic sounds and calls, and usually become very chummy.

Beach.—Spray the bird with quassia solution twice weekly for a time, it will not only clear off parasites if there are any, but make the bird's plumage distasteful. Confine its diet to seed mixture, ripe fruit, nuts, and plain biscuits, with water continually, or allow it to quench its thirst at intervals during the day. Add a pinch of grit to the daily supply of seed, keep a piece of cuttlebone in the cage, and do not give any sops, table scraps, or animal food. You might also anoint the bare parts lightly with Spratt's "Pennakura." A Grey is the better for ripe fruit daily. Keep its bowels moving freely by a dose of Dinneford's Magnesia—one teaspoonful in the drinking water—every fourth day for say a month, and on other day the same quantity of byno-phosphates. It is most difficult to cure a Parrot of this annoying habit, once it is taken up, and the treatment must be persisted in and the bird kept as much occupied as possible—not left alone much; and pieces of wood, cotton reels, etc., to play with. You had better report progress in a month or six weeks. Our Nutshell booklet "The Grey Parrot," 2½d. post free, from our Manager, would be helpful.

GENERAL.

Answered by The Editor.

Cuttings (T. Bell, D. J. Noyes, H. Smith, T. Bishop, J. Mace, and others).—We thank you for your kindness in sending us the newspaper cuttings.

An Opinion on a Show (Good Intent).—We fail to see that any useful purpose would be served by the publication of your letter. Surely it would be better to sympathise with Societies unlucky enough to have a bad time at their shows.

A Photograph and Letter (H. E. Smith).—Many thanks. We will publish both in our next issue.

Sending Birds Abroad (W. R. Everett).—We hear that satisfactory arrangements have now been made.

Club Notice (J. Waugh).—Your notice of meeting was posted too late to secure insertion in our last issue.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 2, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

S. Sutton.—Death occurred from dropsy following on organic disease of the liver. The body was very emaciated, anaemic, and the muscles wasted, whilst the interior of the body contained a quantity of fluid. The disease appears to have been of some lengthy existence considering the nature of the post-mortem lesions.

J. S. Burgess.—I am obliged for your descriptive letter; it is most helpful, not only in arriving at a diagnosis, but in assisting you to prevent the disease. Upon removing the plumage the body was found to be very much swollen and reddened; on opening the body the bowels were found to be unduly distended owing to fermentation, and were most badly inflamed along their entire course. The milt and the liver were badly diseased, the whole trouble arising, in my opinion, not from any infection, but to the intaking, probably with the food, of some powerful irritant poison, although it must be remembered that paint under favourable circumstances is capable of causing similar trouble. I am afraid there is very little hope of recovery of the affected, although you might try the following treatment, viz., to give to those troubled with diarrhœa one half grain of bismuth subnitrate dusted on bread and milk, night and morning, until symptoms abate, and to give in the drinking water twice daily thirty drops of chloroform water. Discontinue for a time any colour-food, sulphate or iron or cod liver oil food, and to get an entirely fresh supply of seed, and feed rather sparingly for a time. It is a characteristic feature of this disease that the affected birds have an inordinate appetite.

I have had numerous applications for schedules for show on Nov. 14 and 15, writes Mr. H. Smith, sec. Wimbledon C.B.S. They are now in printers' hands, and I hope to be able to post off to all applicants in the course of next week. Allow me to congratulate you on your "Guide to the Shows," which I find most convenient. This year we have (including members') 84 classes and four judges, viz., Messrs. H. Knight, F. A. Lester, H. Norman, and J. Robson. The Roller classes are a new feature with us, and will, I feel sure, be a great attraction. Promises of support being numerous, we hope for a record entry.

We have 27 classes, open to all exhibitors, writes Mr. J. H. Elwell, Sec. of the Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S. Show, November 10th and 11th. Will those who have not received a schedule please send on their name to me?

Attercliffe and Dis. C.B.S are holding their sixth annual show on Nov. 18, in the Attercliffe Vestry Hall, and the judges are Messrs. Turner (Parkgate), for Norwich; Mr. Howarth (Halifax), for Yorkshires; and Mr. Milnes (Sheffield), for British birds; and we have 54 classes in our schedule, writes Mr. W. Richinson, sec.

Please accept my best thanks for the portrayal of my Yellow Norwich 1st Clapham in a recent issue of Cage Birds, writes Mr. E. Baker (Cowes). For a bird to be shown on Wednesday and appear in your popular journal on Friday is a masterpiece. No wonder Cage Birds has become so popular. The detailed reports of the shows given in the same are much appreciated by fanciers generally. Every good wish for its continued success.

As chairman of the East Ham C.B.S., writes Mr. H. B. Rout, I am sorry to inform you that I have taken up fresh duties in Sheffield. I say sorry because I was proud, as a fancier, to be with such a splendid body of men, sportsmen every inch of them, and always ready to support their secretary and show manager, and to further the interests of a society which will before long become one of the foremost in the kingdom. My address is now 128, St. Mary's Road, Sheffield.

The classification for our show on Dec. 2 has now been finally arranged, writes Mr. W. Irvine, sec of the Blairgowrie (East Perthshire) Society. There are 25 classes for cage birds. Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh) will judge. A gold medal is given by Capt. Rice for best foreign bird, and also a silver medal for best British bird. There is also a points special, and numerous good specials, all of which are open.

Since the schedule for our members' young stock show was issued, writes Mr. W. Maxey, hon. sec. of the Stratford and E. London F.S., Messrs. Fulton, Wiggins, and Basset have promised specials. Mr. J. Reed has promised a challenge cup (to be won three times, for most points in any one section at young stock and monthly shows combined; but this year it will be competed for at young stock show only—most points in any one section). New members: Mr. A Francis, Poplar (Cage Bird Section).

Has the Mating Been Successful?

Sir,—Can any of your numerous readers kindly let me know whether it is possible to breed with a cock Bullfinch and hen Canary with any chance of success?

Birds Caught Wearing Rings.

Sir,—Last week I caught a Chaffinch hen with a ring on its leg No. 22. I should be interested to know where it came from.

W. Steanes.

Birmingham.

Sir,—A friend of mine at Brighton caught a Linnet last Friday with a ring on its foot marked "Witherby, High Holborn, London." Do you know if it is of any value?

—. Pullen.

[Communicate with Messrs. Witherby, publishers, at the address given on the ring. We do not know that any value attaches to the Linnet, but the ring is put on so that the bird's movements (after leaving the nest, and so on) may be traced.—Editor.]

Where Shall the Canary-Bullfinch Go?

A Protest.

Sir,—One of the most interesting classes at a cage bird show is the class for Hybrids between two British birds. This year quite a number of important shows have added "including Canary-Bullfinch." Why the Canary-Bullie should be included with Hybrids between two British birds passes my comprehension. The result will be (in fact, has been, according to your reports) the loss of entries. Surely Hybrids between British birds deserve a class to themselves at any show where a fair classification is provided?

The W.C.O.S. (Plymouth) Norwich Cup.

Sir,—In the report of the W.C.O.S. Show last week the reporter states that the young bird which was awarded the cup was bred from the same parents as last year's winner. But during the afternoon it was found that an old bird had been awarded the cup. It appears that the judge could not have examined all the birds very closely when giving his final awards, as the rules of the society distinctly state that all young birds competing for cup must be non-flighted. The truth of the above statement is verified by the fact that Mr. Redwood now holds the cup with his non-flighted hen which the judge selected as second best. Unless the judging is carried out with a greater degree of care, I fear the receipts for entrance fees will diminish, as competitors will not enter their birds.

Is the Yorkshire Canary on the Down Grade?

Sir,—I read with more than a passing degree of interest the article under the above significant title. Whilst I cannot but admit that the writer raises points and arguments that are well worth considering by every thought and intelligent admirer of the Yorkshire Canary, yet some of his points call for criticism and enquiry. In the first place the writer assumes that the Yorkshire Canary has begun descent on the down grade, and that we are drifting far below the recognised standard. The writer then proceeds to assign a reason for this serious decadence, and goes on to remark that "our judges are mainly at fault in this matter"—and why? Simply because they have placed quality of feather before every other consideration, and have therefore dragged down the once beautiful Yorkshire to the level of the Border Fancy in their endeavour to make this bird into a one-property variety—yes, all quality." The reading of this naturally raised in my mind not one question, but two, one being: Are the majority of Yorkshires exhibited to-day inferior in length (generally speaking) by comparison with those exhibited in former years, and, if so, when did this alleged decadence set in? The second question that suggested itself was: Have our judges, generally speaking, been guilty of ignoring length—or, to repeat the words of the writer, simply given their verdicts in favour of "all quality—yes, all quality?" I feel bound to express the opinion that had "Longfellow" trusted more to facts and less to what I believe to be imaginary sentiment, he would not have erred to the extent of making such extraordinary statements against present-day winning exhibits and present-day judges. After an experience extending over a quarter of a century of Yorkshire Canaries, as well as being a close observer of such in the exhibition world generally, I am forced to the conclusion that at no time in the whole history of the Yorkshire Canary, as I have known it, has the property of length played a more pronounced and prominent part than it does to-day. I might even go further and say that my opinion is also that of most of the Yorkshire fanciers and exhibitors I meet in our northern districts, who, if appealed to on this question, would in the great majority of cases favour the idea that the judges do give, and have been giving, not too little prominence to length, but, if anything, have erred on the other side. As to the judges and "Longfellow's" tilt at them—well, I hold no brief for them as to their conduct in making their awards in the manner suggested by the writer, as I think they know how to clear themselves from the charges levelled at them without any interference on my part. Again, "Longfellow," in his fervour and enthusiasm for length, levels a shot at the Y.C.C. for its apparent past and present apathy towards this one question and he is not slow in censuring that body for such alleged negligence and apathy. He portrays the Y.C.C. as being an institution practically established for the sole object and purpose of extending the classification and protecting the interests of Yorkshire fanciers and significantly proceeds to add a reminder that it ought to have gone further by also being an institution "to protect and advance the properties of the Yorkshire Canary to the highest state of perfection." This may be taken as implying that the founders' and present promoters' chief concern was, and is, for its members' £ s. d. interest only, and that this august institution, notwithstanding all the good things it has accomplished, and is accomplishing, has been apathetic and negligent to the extent of disregarding the highest property of the bird. As an old member of the Y.C.C. practically from its commencement, down to the present time, I think the gravity of these charges cannot be over-estimated, and that they ought not to be allowed to pass unchallenged and unanswered. Have these charges been made after due reference to the true facts of the case, or are they only the product of a too enthusiastic imagination? I would remind "Longfellow" that he has only to see, read, and inwardly digest the Y.C.C.'s standard in its entirety (if he has not already done so), after which I think he will surely be thoroughly convinced that this institution has already done, and done well, too, that very particular thing he so fervently enjoins them to proceed to do, viz.: "To protect and advance the properties of the Yorkshire Canary to the highest state of perfection." In view of what the Y.C.C. has accomplished in the past, I am forcibly reminded of some words that were written a long time ago by another Longfellow. I give the couplet, with slight alterations to suit the occasion, thus: "Something attempted, something done, has earned —well, more than it's gotten." This may not rhyme, but it's true, nevertheless. In conclusion, "Longfellow" seems to desire some alteration to suit the convenience of what he is pleased to term "the various offshoots of the parent body." Might I suggest that if it be true that the Yorkshire Canary is on the down grade there may be other agencies at work, in addition to the judges and the Y.C.C. executive, that are contributing to its decline? Who knows? What about the various offshoots referred to? Are these to get off scot free, or have they to share in their parent's guilt? It may be that "Longfellow" thought that a castigation of the parent might teach the children a lesson that would be good for them when fully matured and grown up. Who knows?

Goodfellow.

Sir,—There is not much in "Longfellow's" reply to my letter which touched the question at issue, and I am not going to take up your space by controverting his erroneous statements on bye issues. One statement I take exception to, and that is about giving my "friend" a free advertisement. I mentioned the names of six or seven gentlemen, all of whom are acquaintances of mine so far as the Fancy goes. I gave no friend a free advertisement. "Longfellow" defies me to point to one single statement of his that length is the chief point in his article. I may be mistaken, but it seemed to me as I read his article that from beginning to end it was an argument in favour of length as the great and chief consideration in a Yorkshire. He spoke of "the beautiful length of side boasted by birds of former years," "the desired length was obtained," "this most valuable and essential property," "the Yorkshire Canary was not now possessed of that beautiful length of flights and tail which the birds of years ago could boast." He also speaks of the judges having dragged the Yorkshire down almost to the level of the Border. He speaks of Mr. Bexson keeping up "the standard length." He also says: "there is nothing more satisfactory than a little extra length." In his final sentence he spoke of "a mere miniature usurping . . . ." Surely this all proves that his argument was an argument on the question of length as the all-essential property in a Yorkshire? "Longfellow" ignores the fact that last year and the year before birds won which were over seven inches in length, and says we cannot reach the standard of 6¾. He further says a 6¾ bird is a good big 'un. If he really thinks so, then he has wasted a lot of time, ink, and paper in writing his article, to say nothing of your valuable space. There are hundreds of birds winning this season which are 6¾ins.; therefore "Longfellow's" effusion is waste of effort. As to my identity, I think "Longfellow" has made a big mistake, and has jumped at a most rash conclusion. I bred and exhibited Yorkshires over thirty years ago, so know something about the variety, and am not quite such a novice as "Longfellow" assumes. I am pleased to see from his letter that he does not advocate anything over 6¾ins. If he is content with 6¾ as a maximum, so am I; and there is no need for that amending of matters by the Y.C.C. of which "Longfellow" spoke in his article.

The Y.C.B.S. of Ireland.

Sir,—Would the hon. sec. of the Y.C.B.S. of Ireland be so kind as to reply to the following question: Has Mr. Birse resigned from the Council? Or is it a printer's error which is accountable for the omission of his name from the schedule?

A Recipe Wanted for Staining Clap Nets

Sir,—Would some kind fancier let me know a recipe for staining clap nets, as I have a large pair which I made myself, but I do not know the proper way and colour with which to stain them. The nets are 15ft. by 4ft. each side.

Crest Classes at Cheltenham Show.

Sir,—We find that a misunderstanding has arisen with regard to the prize-money in the Crest Section of Cheltenham Show, and that the Crested Canary Club does not guarantee full prize-money. Under the circumstances the Cheltenham Society will guarantee full money in Classes 1 to 8, as stated in the schedule. We trust that by so doing we shall have the liberal support of Crest breeders.

Specials from Australia for the Crystal Palace Show.

Sir,—I am asked by Mr. F. White, of the Victorian Canary Society (Australia), to acknowledge through your columns the receipt of a cheque for £3 13s. 6d., being seven specials of 10s. 6d. each for best Norwich, Norwich unflighted, Yorkshire, Crest, Crest-bred, Cinnamon, and Lizard Canaries exhibited at the next (1912) Palace Show. The thanks of all exhibitors are due to Mr. White and the Victorian Canary Society for their kindly interest and generosity.

Rare-feathered Birds at the Shows.

Sir,—On perusing the excellent report of Morpeth Show, in your last issue, I see that what are described as an almost pure white Linnet and a lovely cream-coloured Blackbird were passed by the judge, Mr. A. Hay. Now I would like to ask Mr. Hay what were his reasons for passing, or wrong classing, these exhibits? According to Mr. Hay, your Mr. Weston was wrong for acting in a similar manner when he judged at Gateshead Show a couple of years or so ago, and wrong classed a slate-coloured Greenfinch belonging to Mr. Hay. He (Mr. Hay) was not slow to raise a controversy through your columns against the judge, and also the committee of the Gateshead Club, for allowing the judge to exercise his discretion in the matter. Now these two cases are exactly on a parallel, and what I should like to ask is, how comes Mr. Hay to act like Mr. Weston after expounding his views through your columns as he did on that occasion? Did he learn a lesson through your valuable paper? I do not remember his having the courtesy to admit it. I do not wish to injure Mr. Hay's prospects in any way, and I bear him no ill-feeling, but at the aforementioned time it seemed an utter impossibility to convince him that only normal-plumaged birds ought to win in their respective classes.

More Interesting Records of a Scottish Bird-lover.

Sir,—I heard the Missel Thrush singing on June 3rd and 10th. I have never heard it singing in that month before. It generally stops about the end of May, but it occasionally sings in the autumn. About a dozen years ago there was a discussion in the "Glasgow Evening Times" as to whether the Missel Thrush sang or not. There can be no doubt that it sings. The song somewhat resembles that of the Blackbird, but it is louder, clearer, and the notes are uttered more rapidly. The Missel Thrush is widely known in Scotland as the "Felty." It has had that name about Beith ever since I remember, which is for more than fifty years. This species generally builds in the fork of a tree, but I saw a Felty's nest in an overgrown whin bush, and one on the ground, although there were plenty of trees in the vicinity, and my friend, Mr. Barr, saw one in a hedge. I also saw a Missel Thrush's nest which was principally composed of wool, but I had no difficulty in recognising it. Some ornithologists maintain that birds build by imitation. Birds build instinctively, but they also use their reasoning powers when building. It can hardly be argued they do not. This satisfactorily accounts for the descendants of each species building their nests similarly, or somewhat similarly, to their parents under similar prevailing conditions. With regard to imitation, how on earth could birds build their first nests by imitation, when there were no nests to imitate? Moreover, many House Sparrows occupy the nests of House Martins, but the offspring of these House Sparrows do not build a nest like that of the House Martin, which completely upsets the imitation theory. I saw a House Sparrow's nest in a tree which was only partly domed, with two holes in it for the birds to enter and leave. At Caldwell, a pair of Robins built a domed nest on the top of a yew hedge. There can be little doubt that when these birds built their nest they had in view the protection of their eggs and young ones from their natural enemies, which accounts satisfactorily for their departure from the normal type. Since you published my article on the Sedge Warbler and the two photographs of a Sedge Warbler's nest suspended from reed stems (which were taken by Mr. Malloch, and appeared in your issue of August 19th), I have seen another Sedge Warbler's nest suspended on three reed stems, one of which was crosswise.

Is Linseed Harmful to Goldfinches?

Sir,—Could any of your readers let me know if linseed is harmful to Goldfinches? Last week I gave a Greypate about two tablespoonfuls of canary-seed and about a teaspoonful each of inga and linseed. The day after he was rolled up like a ball, and died early the following morning. Should like to know if any other fancier has had a like experience.

An Exhibitor's Protest Against Early Closing of Entries.

Sir,—Allow me a space in your valuable paper to express my views with regard to the early closing of entries at some of the open shows. Some of them close the books for entries on the Saturday before their show. This, in my opinion, does not suit the exhibitors very well, especially those who have not many birds to "come and go" on. You do not know what condition your birds will be in when returned from a show; they might have lost some of their feathers, which often happens; so that the birds are not in a state for exhibition the following Saturday. Also, you might have a bird in a selling class at a show, and you do not know whether to enter that bird or not, for fear of its being bought at the previous show. Therefore I think show secretaries should extend the time for closing entries to the Monday or the Tuesday; and then exhibitors would know whether to make entries for the following Saturday or not.

A Colour Problem.

Should Birds be "Wrong-classed?"

Sir,—I think it is a great pity that birds should be marked "wrong class" at the shows, especially for colour, as it often happens that a novice has an exceptionally good bird which he would like to exhibit, but is doubtful of its colour. Some fanciers tell him it is a light yellow, others say that it is a rich buff. So the chances are that after paying entry money, carriage, etc., for his exhibit, he finds it marked "wrong class." I think it would be but just to the Fancy if such exhibits were transferred by the judges to their proper classes and judged on their proper merit. I have even known judges make mistakes in wrong-classing birds for colour. I remember an instance which happened four years ago. A novice entered a bird in a class for yellows, and got a wrong-class ticket. The judge admitted that it was the best young bird in the show had it been in its proper class (amongst the buffs). The bird was then shown a fortnight later in a buff section, but only received the same award—"wrong class." And again the novice had the pleasure of knowing that his bird would have been well in had it been shown in its proper class (amongst the yellows!). This was enough to choke off any ordinary novice, but my friend was determined to find out the colour of his bird. He showed it again, as a yellow this time, securing 1st and special and medal for best young bird in the show! I should like to hear other fanciers' opinions on this question.

Exhibits and Water.

Should it be Withheld from Birds Until Judging is Over?

Sir,—Your reporter at Plymouth Show suggests that it would have been better if the water had not been taken away from the birds so soon. Our method is to remove the water as early as possible to avoid the birds bathing before judging, and this was done, as at previous shows, by 7.30, in the expectancy that judging would commence at eight o'clock, the judges having been advised by letter, in which was included a marked schedule giving number of birds in each class, to enable them to have some idea of what they would have to do. This, in my opinion, is none too early, tho only thing that could make it so being the want of punctuality on the part of the judges. I was congratulating myself this year, on arrival at the hall at seven o'clock, that not a single bird had spoilt his chance by having a bathe. I should very much like the opinion of exhibitors on this question, as our committee do not get home on the night before the show until 2 a.m., and would certainly appreciate another hour in bed next day if it were not for getting early to the hall for the express purpose of removing the water. One prominent exhibitor, in fact, asked me this year to remove water overnight, and not to give it again until after judging. I hardly think in any case that your reporter's remarks apply, because we always have two of the committee on the look-out for birds needing water while judging is going on, who fill the tins and empty them again as soon as the bird has drunk.

A Chortle from an Anti-Colourfoodite.

Sir,—I am sorry to have to discourage Mr. G. Pye in his endeavour to produce and popularise the White Canary. He must not do it; really he must not—at least, until I or some other confrere has invented and placed upon the market a white-wash (or some other filth) to mix with its egg food. I hope and trust from the bottom of my heart that I shall see no more letters like that written by "Interested," and published in Cage Birds issue of Oct. 21. Does colour-feeding cause liver disease? The idea! If "Interested" had the slightest knowledge whatever of birds in their natural state he would know that all birds will leave any kind of food whatever for a good feed of cayenne pepper. When I say "any food whatever" I except, of course, mixed mustard pickles, which, as we all know, have a great attraction for birds of all species, and are at the same time so healthful, grateful, and comforting to their little insides! Let "Interested" give his birds a little more pepper and less of the injurious watercress, dandelion, groundsel, shepherd's purse, lettuce, etc.; and he will not have to complain of his birds suffering from "liver." I was also astounded by reading the following statement made by T. Johnson in his article headed "Round the Hardbill Classes." He says: "Don't colour-feed; to my mind the latter spoils a Greenie." Mr. Editor, Mr. St. John, Mr. Weston—where on earth were you? How on earth did this come to pass the blue pencil? Were you all watching Willonyx win, with the office boy left in charge, that this paralysing statement was allowed to creep into the columns of Cage Birds? Surely, Mr. Editor, everybody knows that a show "Greenie" should not be green at all, but bronze; and that the proper way to prepare a Greenie for show is to feed it on "hot feed" with a teaspoonful of mixed seed every three weeks. To Hades with these new-fangled would-be reformers and their unnatural "unfed" ideas! Odds bodkins, the Fancy is coming to a pretty pass, I ween!

The Fancy in Liverpool.

The New Society for Anfield, Everton, and District; and other Topics.

Sir,—In the first sentence of Mr. W. C. Robinson's letter he frankly admits that I have alleged the truth, as my letter was just what he expected. Your readers will no doubt take note that he and those who will not associate with me are in possession of my allegations and know them to be absolutely correct. Your correspondent is no doubt quite able to conduct this correspondence to suit his own case, providing he splits himself up into three distinct parties—namely, waster merchant, and the charmed circle. Your readers will note that he does admit there is a "charmed circle." With reference to the City societies, "the Breeders" has dwindled down in membership about 80 per cent.; the Open Society is also on the down grade; and the Green Canary Association is now limited to the "charmed circle" and the few stragglers hanging on to this wreck. Hence the appeal for the missing dollars—for the "nuts" to rake in. What do I think of these societies now? Well, with the assistance of the waster merchant and a little of the G.C.A. secretary's colour-feed, one might rake in sufficient to purchase a £10 pot for 10s. 6d. Your correspondent informs me that I am mistaken if I think it was only this charmed circle" that rejected me as a member. My views on the borrowing and lending of birds having become known to them, I can only conclude that I was a most undesirable associate, and I prefer to remain so. Have you not attempted to square Mr. R. Algie to allow your allegations to stand? Now, Mr. W. C. Robinson, you know these statements to be deliberate falsehoods, and are invented by you to damage me personally in the eyes of the Fancy. Mr. Algie denies all knowledge of them. The value of truth seems to be an unknown quantity with you. You ask me to prove my allegations relative to the borrowing and lending of birds as practised by the charmed circle" and other societies. I can prove them up to the hilt. Moreover, birds were shown at exhibitions outside Liverpool, also at the G.C.A. show last season, and at the amalgamated show, that were not the property of the exhibitor, the owners being known to me; and the points counted for the G.C.A. Cup. Now, Mr. W. C. Robinson, I am telling you something you know, and you profess to be ignorant of this matter. Not being a member of the G.C.A., fortunately, I will leave the "charmed circle" to settle this amongst themselves, and the outside members will still be in the dark. You say that the gentleman who suddenly stopped showing and resigned his membership will not thank me for my interference. I can assure you I have the best thanks of this gentleman and the few outside members of the G.C.A. for having the courage to expose this fraud. You would like a full disclosure. Well, I think I could place your cards. My reference to you as a "pot hunter" is the judgment of the Fancy; at least, of those few who have heard of you; and I think you can claim to be an inventor. Mr. Wright, the 22 years' breeder and exhibitor, does not associate with the forties and fifties; they claim the acquaintance of your correspondent. You would like to know if I still breed with one cock bird and five hens? Yes; that is just exactly the stock of fowls in my yard. I had only had 63 Canaries when Mr. Cutts visited my room. You make these statements and put them in cold print, and you know them to be deliberate falsehoods, and on a par with the rest of your correspondence. Have you the manliness to apologise for having made these statements; and what would you give to make the Fancy believe them to be true? Have you not attempted to square Mr. Cutts? You would make a good hand at writing fiction. Can the "waster merchant" fight his own battles? He can fight any way to gain notoriety. Talking Canaries are now in the moult, and are to be had very cheap. You will hear them singing when those missing dollars come in! You speak of the Birkenhead, Wallasey, and Bootle fanciers. Are you representing these societies now? I should be sorry to offend any of these fanciers, excepting, of course, those of them who practise what you try to defend—namely, the borrowing and lending of birds for show. And I believe there are a few. I am not quite sure if they are not in the majority in the Birkenhead Society. At all events, I am not a desirable associate for some of them—according to your theory. You have asked me a number of questions on the actions of the Birkenhead C.F.A. But I ask you one question: Would your association allow me—an outsider—to address the members on any remarks made by a member at any of your meetings? Do not twist this. Answer Yes or No. (I should like the opinions of any other fancier on this question.) What were the serious statements I made at a meeting of the B.C.F.A.? Was it that I stated this Liverpool fancier, who occupied the position of judge at the nest feather show, had endeavoured to have inserted in this Journal a report of his own judging in preference to the one which the Editor had from me [If this statement was made, it would be incorrect.—Editor, "C.B."], and which, I am informed, was already in type? What was his object? Was it that he was afraid of adverse criticism on his judging appearing in print, as there were so many complaints amongst the exhibitors? I spoke about his action at the next meeting, and the members agreed with me that this Liverpool fancier had exceeded his authority on behalf of the B.C.F.A. But there was a "twister" at the meeting who straight away informed this Liverpool fancier what had happened, and a little more. Result: This specialist judge writes a confidential letter to the chairman. He also visited several members and wrote to others asking them to attend the next meeting and support his request to address the members on what I had or had not said. Readers, take note: he was not a member, and I maintain had not paid for the privilege of speaking, and had no right to attend and question what I had said. I refused to attend to debate the matter with an outsider, and straightway wrote to the secretary, chairman, and assistant secretary to that effect, stating at the same time that if he addressed the members I should hand in my resignation and withdraw my patronage from the society. This judge having squared several of the members wrote to others, and took with him several G.C.A. men, and together with the able assistance of the chairman, packed the meeting. He addressed the members, and my resignation went through. Is there another society in the country that would have done this? I challenge any man to prove that I wrote or said I would give the picture if this Liverpool fancier was not allowed a hearing. Prove your statements now. As your correspondent was not present at any of these meetings, has he not written and twisted this hearsay evidence to suit his own case? I am perfectly satisfied and glad to turn my back on such washerwomen, and the B.C.F.A. are quite welcome to their bargain. They are now at liberty to borrow or lend birds as much as they like without any fear of being bowled out. The gentleman who ran off with the glad news to the Liverpool fancier is the man who stole a bird out of a fellow-fancier's room, and had the audacity to put it on the show bench. This information is supplied to me by several members who were not present at the meeting, and some who were. Any other society would kick him out. Your correspondent speaks of "janglers." Janglers do not associate with me; another invention. Is your correspondent aware that a certain Liverpool fancier showed birds at an exhibition in Liverpool last season and took away a big share of the prize money with birds that were the property of the judge? This fancier is one of the "charmed circle." Now, sir, this is straight from the judge's mouth, in the presence of a third party. I also saw those same birds on the show bench in the said judge's name a few days previously outside Liverpool. Then, again, a certain Liverpool fancier offered to sell a fancier certain birds, saying at the same time: "If you put them out at a certain show they will win." Did he overlook the fact that he was judging that show. These are your correspondent's associates; these are the men who question me on starting a new society. We are not having such men; we are going on very well without them. Three G.C.A. men joined us recently who said they had had enough of this "charmed circle." You will have an opportunity to address our members shortly, Mr. R., on the deleted paragraph, and can take the answer back home with you. A special room is being set apart for the purpose. Your correspondent might give me his reasons for stabbing me in his first letter.

R. B. Wright.

[We publish Mr. Wright's letter and the correspondence from the secretary of the Birkenhead Society, but, having gone so far, we really cannot permit any further local "dirty linen" of this description to be washed in our columns. These extremely personal letters scarcely conduce to preserve the status of our hobby in the eyes of outsiders.—Editor.]

Sir,—Re Birkenhead Canary Fanciers' Association meeting held October 17, 1911. Our society would like you to publish these two letters, as we think it will be very interesting to the various societies in the North-Western District.

A. E. Lloyd, Sec.

Oct. 5, 1911.

Sir,—Meeting held Sept. 19, at Ablett's Cafe Room. Proposed and seconded and carried unanimously, that your resignation be accepted. Also the meeting desires me to say that they would prefer to do without your patronage. So from that you may understand there will be no need for you to bother about the pictures for the above association. —I remain, yours etc., A. E. Lloyd, Sec., B.C.F.A.

95, Hornsey Road,
Anfield, Liverpool.

Sir,—Your letter to hand and returned with thanks. The members of the B.C.F.A. have only done what they were instructed to do, namely, accept my resignation. The whole thing has worked out entirely to my satisfaction, and they are quite welcome to their bargain. It did not take me long to discover that there was as black a sheep in the society as the one they have just added to their list, which is more suitable to their company than me. You need not worry about the pictures. They are painted and presented to a society, every member of which is highly delighted. Had I known sooner what class of men there was in the B.C.F.A., I should never have joined, and I am told there are members too disgusted to attend their meetings. From the beginning to the end you know the whole of the dirty business was conducted by the chairman and his hand-rags, who stop at nothing, not even to breaking into a man's house and taking his birds for show purposes. These individuals are most undesirable acquaintances, and the B.C.F.A. are about the only society I know of that allows such men to rule them. This correspondence is now closed.

R. B. Wright.

Sir,—The birds shown by Mr. R. B. Wright at the Bootle and Birkenhead nest feather shows were bred by me and purchased by Mr. R. B. Wright in the nest, and paid for at the time of purchase.

Notes on the Recent City of Glasgow Show.

Sir,—Entries all over were down, compared with last year's, the chief reason, no doubt, being the sensation in showing which was recently courageously disposed of by the officials. Taken in a proper light, that should have helped the entries, confidence being strengthened in the management. A good effect will, however, be felt in after years. Never in the history of the society has there been such a decline in the turnout of Scotch Fancy Canaries; they only numbered 300, and the Belgians were no better—only 30. Every fancier and bird-lover deplores this state of things; but who is helping to mend matters? It is well nigh impossible to account for the decline, for the prizes were evenly divided, so that this favourite plea could be no longer upheld. Birds, too, were catalogued at reasonable prices, which dispels the bogey of high prices. It is evident that there is a distinct lack of interest in both the Scotch Fancy and Belgian Canaries. What are required are public-spirited men to join the hobby—plenty of scope, and they may depend upon a cordial reception. The quality of the Scotch and Belgians, however, was gratifying, and there were surprises in the judging—new men, new ideas in placing. The Norwich had a fair average, and there seems a growing liking for the Norwich—for one thing, the price is more within the reach of the average fancier. The Border Fancy had the most encouraging average in the Canary Section. Dr. Galloway, of Aberdeen, exhibited a pure white Canary, which is said to be the second of its kind shown in Glasgow. The British were choice, and quite a number were claimed at the catalogue prices. All over, but for the depleted entries, the show was a success, and Messrs. Black, MacDonald, and the committee deserve the thanks of the Fancy for their devoted labours.

GRIMSBY.

Fifth annual show of the Grimsby C.B.S. held Oct. 25 and 26. The Foresters' Hall, in which the show was held, has a nice light, is spacious and lofty, and fitted up with radiators (used when necessary); the place is void of draughts, and is of a very cosy description. The schedule was a capital one, and prize money was guaranteed. The entry we are sorry to say, was only of a very moderate description, totalling 269 birds, against 330 last year. The chairman is Mr. W. Clews; he is one of the right stamp, being both enthusiastic and obliging; vice-chairman, Mr. A. Townsend; and show manager, Mr. A. Oliver; these three are a trio of excellent officials, and work admirably. The committee are a band of rare workers, praise being due to Messrs. Cartwright, sen., Cartwright, jun., Dowie, Townsend, Yearing, Harding, Cotterill, and Watkin. The secretaries, Messrs. Towl Bros., controlled affairs in a masterly manner, and are without doubt grand secretaries. Norwich made a nice collection, and the Yorkshires were neat. British birds were good, while the foreign birds lent a pleasing tone to the show. Novice members staged one or two exceptionally nice specimens. Sp for best Hardbill, Messrs. Stuart and Dalling, with a grand Greenie; sp. for Softbill, Mr. J. Milne, with his Wryneck; for best Redpoll by a member, Mr. A. Cartwright, jun.; Sandiford's medal, Mr. W. Way. The stewards were Messrs. Cartwright, sen., Cartwright, jun., Lowe, Oliver, and Senior, who all worked with a will. Mr. W. Vardy judged, and his awards were well received. Before a capital attendance, Mayor of Grimsby (Counc. T. Whiteley Wilkin) opened the show with a very appropriate and encouraging speech. Mr. H. E. Stubbs proposed a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. A. Towl. When we left the show room a fair number of visitors were present. The management throughout was most excellent.

TAVISTOCK.

The Tavistock and Dist. F.S. held their first annual exhibition in the Market Hall on Oct. 25th. Cage birds numbered just on 90, several classes having to be cancelled owing to an insufficient entry. This was especially noticeable in the Norwich section, the three classes provided all going by the board. The competition of such old-established shows as Paignton and Hayle no doubt accounted for this, but the committee would be well advised another year to revise their Norwich classification, and then they no doubt will do better. The cage birds were housed at the extreme end of hall and were free from draught and in a splendid light. The exhibits were well looked after by the following members of the committee, Messrs. W. N. Barkell, T. Brown, W. Martin, and W. Wilmot, whilst Mr. T. D. Ratcliffe, jun., made a most efficient and painstaking steward of the section. The show arrangements, in the able hands of the hon. sec., Mr. John Young, left nothing to be desired. In the unavoidable absence of Mr. R. B. Tope, Mr. Thos. Pope, of Plymouth, judged, and the awards were received with general satisfaction.

PAIGNTON.

A Record Show.

Fifth annual show of the Torbay O.S., held Oct. 25th at the Badminton Hall. It proved a great success, the entry being a record, and the quality reaching high-water mark. Norwich were particularly good, many gems being staged, type, size, quality and colour being combined. The winning unflighted yellow captured special for best Nor. or Yorks., also several more specials, a credit to the novice owner and breeder. This exhibitor also staged the winning unflighted buff, the Plymouth winner. Amongst the Yorks. were birds of much merit, and hard to separate. Some capital Mules and Hybrids were staged, the competition here being very keen. In the members' classes some capital Norwich were staged. The hall is a grand one for a bird show, the light being excellent; the place, too, is absolutely free from draughts. As usual, the centre was tastefully set off with groups of plants and foliage kindly lent by the President, H. Whitely, Esq. The birds were nicely staged all round the hall in tiers, and they were well looked after by a capable committee of genuine fanciers, headed by their popular chairman, Mr. A. N. Turner. Mr. J. N. Jeffrey, the hon. sec., had everything working as smoothly as clockwork, and was most obliging and courteous; and in his son he has a capable assistant. Catalogues with marginal awards were on sale soon after the completion of judging. The awards were made by Mr. J. H. Payne.

PORTSMOUTH.

The old-established Portsmouth Poultry, etc., Society suffered severely in the Cage Bird section of its show, which was held in the Engineers' Drill Hall on Oct. 25th and 26th. The show of the Portsmouth C.B.S., held the week previous, evidently affected the old show, and a large number of classes had to be cancelled. This is to be regretted, because for twenty-five years has the Society catered well for Cage Bird fanciers. Admirable, indeed, were the arrangements made by the committee, which has as its chairman that old-time Crest fancier, Mr. Councillor F. G. Foster. Mr. Hipwell, the secretary, is a most earnest worker and obliging official, and he got through his work well. Mr. C. A. House judged.

The Critique.

The City of Glasgow 58th Annual.

Fine Management Ill Rewarded.

Entries at this very old-established Scottish fixture were not good this year.

The City of Glasgow O.A. brought off their 58th annual show on the 20th and 21st October, in the Drill Hall, Stirling-road, a most excellent and commodious rendezvous. The hall was kept at a very even temperature all the time, which made it very comfortable both for the exhibits and sightseers. It is capitally lighted from the roof, which makes it a pleasure to scrutinise the birds and easier work for the judges to arrive at their awards. The staging was perfect and everything in the proverbial apple-pie order for the opening. All concerned are true fanciers (exhibitors will appreciate what that means), and everything was gone about in a most businesslike manner—no bustle or flurry, but just as things should. Mr. Black, the president, at the helm, and Mr. Martin, the "first mate," with the stewards and committeemen, admirably got through their task of unpacking and seeing to the comfort of every bird addressed to their care. The same care and attention were bestowed in the packing and despatch of the birds to the stations: all were put on rail in good time to arrive home on Saturday night, unless, of course, where desired to be kept over till the Monday. Unfortunately, from one cause and another, the entries did not come up to expectation, being, we believe, over 200 short of last year.

First-class Management.

Probably the mild, dry season had a good deal to do with this, the birds, we think, being quite deceived as to when they should commence to put on their winter "garments." In point of merit, also, we have seen better specimens collected together here, although many birds of real outstanding merit were on view. We rather liked the idea adopted by the managers at the close of the show in clearing out exhibitors and spectators alike before a single bird was allowed to be removed from the benches, the former, of course, being allowed to re-enter on showing his pen slip, when he could superintend the packing of his own exhibits. This is a rule that might be copied by other societies with advantage.

Than Mr. Alex. McDonald, the respected secretary, we know of no harder worker or better leader, and the amount of work he got through, and the number of questions he pleasantly answered, must have been enormous. He had the best of assistance from a hard-working and painstaking committee, of whom we might mention: Messrs. J. J. McIlwain, E. Bullions, A. Jardine, Wm. Jackson, Wm. Hutchieson, Geo. Fulton, Wm. Gray, F. Taylor, T. Erskine, Jas. Phillips, Wm. Bennett, P. Thaw, J. M'Lay, A. M'Millan, M. Craig, A. Sloan, D. Johnstone.

Some extra good Norwich Plainheads were staged. The medal for the best cock was won by a splendid non-fed buff exhibited by Mr. Martin. We were pleased to see a non-fed securing this coveted award. The other medal went to Mr. Cameron's lovely unhighted yellow hen, a regular gem. This variety was judged by Mr. Cant, of Hamilton, who took the odd numbers—a young judge, but well-known west country breeder, who did honour to himself in his selection. The other classes were judged by the ever-genial Mr. A. Chalmers (Kirkintilloch), and he seemed happy in his awards. The McLean challenge cup found a resting place among the Crests, being awarded to Mr. Hector's splendid Crest hen, a real high-class exhibit. The cup now becomes the property of this gentleman, and we heard he has offered to replace it with another, a true sportsman's action. This section was judged by Mr. G. Arnott (Kirkcaldy), and no complaints were heard.

The quality of the Borders was the feature of the show. The B.F. Club's medal winner was a grand foul buff, splendidly put down by Messrs. Smith Bros. The novice medal was secured by the fine yell Cinn. hen shown by Mr. Wilson. These classes were judged by Mr. J. W. Bruce (Coldstream) who took the odd numbers, and Mr. W. D. Clarke (Irvine), and their selections were well received.

A Grand Goldie-Bullie Bred.

In the Scotch Fancy classes the entries were down a shade, but a considerable number of out-standing birds were staged. The G.W.S.O.A. silver cup for best young Piebald or Green cock, was won by Mr. John McLennan (Edinburgh) with his typical buff Green, and the Paterson cup for best young Scotch or Belgian in the hall was won by Mr. James Smith with a yellow foul hen of fine merit. That well-known breeder, Mr. J. Fairley, has gained most points up to date for the Belgian memorial shield and gold medal. Scotch Fancy judges, Messrs. J. Higgins (Hamilton), Hannay (Dumfries), J. Watson (Glasgow), D. Law, A. McLachlan (Govan), and J. Fleming (Glasgow); Belgians and Yorkshires, Mr. J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh). Their awards seemed on the whole very well received.

Coming to the Mule, British, and Foreign Bird sections, we are sorry to note the entries showed a considerable decrease compared with last year. Mr. McQuiston (Ayr) was forward with a good team, and carried off the red ribbon with his dark yellow Linnet Mule, a bird of rare size and colour. Mrs. A. McLennan (Edinburgh) has bred a very large bird from the Goldfinch-Bullfinch (Foreign parents), and this is sure to have a very successful future. He is of great size and lovely blended colours. In the British section the quality was extra strong, some rare specimens being on view. The judging of these sections was in the capable hands of Messrs. James Mason (Peebles) and J. F. Dewar (Edinburgh), which is a criterion that there was little room left for grumbling, each handling his classes in masterly style.

The Scotch Fancies and Belgians.

HANLEY.

Hanley and Dist. C.B.S. annual exhibition held Oct. 19th, at the Albion Hotel. The room is well lighted all round, and the secretary (Mr. B. Peake) had the birds benched in good time and carried through his work in capital style. A few of the classes had to be cancelled owing to short entries. The Norwich were a nice lot of birds. Yorks turned up well and a few good birds were benched. Mr. Trengove judged the Norwich and Mr. Mundell the Yorks.

MIDDLESBROUGH.

Show held St. Michael's Hall, Waterloo Road, on October 21st, when a fine entry of some 450 came before the judges, Messrs. G. Harland (Canaries) and C. Houlton (Hybrids, British and Foreign birds). Yorkshires were excellent in both quantity and quality, and they gave the judge a stiff task. Norwich came up remarkably well, and some of the leaders were birds of the very top class. Crests and Crest breds were fairly good. Members' Canaries were a very nice lot, and some keen competition took place. Hybrids were very nice, and some noted birds once more were seen well to the fore. British birds were led by a really good class of 25 Linnets, and all the winners were of very high merit. Goldfinches were good, although some of these are hardly ready yet. Later on a few of these will be gems when all the colours are up. Bullfinches were very good, and some really fine birds led the way. Greenfinches were very nice, and a very fine bird led this class. The class of the day was the Siskin, Redpoll or Twite class—32 really fine birds were staged. Thrushes were a treat, and the winner is up to champion form. The A.O.S. Softbills saw a splendid Tree Creeper leading the way. The Fancy birds were up to the mark, and a perfectly conditioned Scarlet Tanager won well from a very fine Siberian cage-moulted Goldfinch, which secured 2nd honours. Taken all through it was a very fine show, and for the number of classes provided it quite averaged equal to its greater rival of the day (Newcastle). Great credit is due to Mr. A. Wake, the hon. sec., who has had some 20 years' practical experience in show management, and he knows how it should be done, and does his work in a very successful manner. His committee and stewards gave good help. Messrs. Cook and Hood won most points in Yorks.; Mr. E. Freeman in Norwich; Messrs. Nicholson and Son in Hybrids, British and Foreign. The judging was got through in good time as the light was very good, and we think on the whole the awards were well received.

The North of England's Best.

GLORIOUS DISPLAY AT NEWCASTLE.

Entry Beats All Records: Eighteen Hundred Birds!

The sixth annual show of the Newcastle C.B.S. was held Oct. 20th and 21st, and may be regarded as the finest display ever seen in the North of England. The venue on this occasion was the Engineer's Drill Hall, Sandyford-road, a place splendidly adapted for the purpose, being even larger, and perhaps even better lighted, than the famous Cambridge Drill Hall, where so many of the Newcastle Society's triumphs have been achieved. A splendid schedule was issued by the committee, and their efforts were rewarded by the magnificent entry of 1,800—truly a splendid tribute to the Newcastle management. This wonderful entry easily constitutes a record, and beats by 200 the society's previous best.

The vast array of exhibits was displayed in a manner almost perfect, upon staging arranged on similar lines to last year, loug rows of staging running from one end of the hall to the other, with breaks here and there to enable visitors to cross from one section to the other without having to travel the whole length of the rows. Yorkshires were all arranged down one side, the Border Fancy and Scotch Fancy sections occupying the other side, the other birds, with their box cages, being placed on the middle rows, the Foreign and large British running crosswise at the bottom end of the hall. The staging being all three tiers high, the whole made a perfect picture, visitors being enabled to feast their eyes on the wondrous display before them to the best advantage.

A Fine Managerial Achievement.

Mr. J. G. Hutchinson, the popular secretary of the Northern Crest Club, again had charge of all the arrangements, and as a show manager he will be very difficult to beat. The amount of hard work he puts in on behalf of the Newcastle Society, and the manner in which he gets through it, cannot be over-estimated or over-appreciated. The clerical work was absolutely perfect, and Mr. J. E. Atkinson, the popular secretary of the society, is deserving of the highest praise. The society appears to be exceptionally fortunate in its choice of secretaries, and though great was the work done by those who have preceded him, Mr. Atkinson is not one whit behind them in ability, and he will probably become the most accomplished secretary the society has yet possessed. He got through his duties spleudidly, and his courteous manner, and willingness to oblige anyone and everybody, lightened to a great extent the work of those under him. The result was that everything was carried out with clockwork precision, not a single hitch occurring—a fine achievement. The assistant secretary, Mr. R. Tindale, is also deserving of a special word of praise, he getting through his duties in a splendid manner. The above officials were grandly supported by a splendid body of fanciers, composed of Messrs. J. Sheppard, W. Scott, J. Milne, G. Allinson, J. Bertram, J. Coutts, Coxou, Coltman, T. Chapman, T. C. Crawhall, W. Curry, T. Dowson, G. Eilis, A. Holden, J. Little, J. Maddison, J. Mackenzie, G. W. MacPartling, C. G. Petterson, M. C. Potts, T. Robson, J. W. Reed, A. Storey, T. Taylor, Geo. Taylor, T. B. Tomlinson, Currah, jun., E. White, and R. Young, with the late chairman, Mr. John Currah, again giving a hand.

The Quality Really High-Class.

The exhibits themselves were splendid, every section containing some real toppers. Norwich filled well, averaging nearly 14 per class, and although this number is slightly down compared to last year we thought that, taken all through, the birds were a more level lot. This section provided the bowl winner for best young bird in show, Mr. R. Lowther capturing the honour with a very nice clear buff cock. The two novice Norwich classes were stormers, 39 cocks, and 18 hens, the cock class being especially good, necessitating the awarding of extra 3rd and 4th prizes. Crests averaged the same as last year, just over 10 per class, and some stormers were staged by Messrs. Dobson and Son, Evins Brothers, T. Taylor, H. Fenwick, and W. Marshall. Borders were a grand collection, averaging over 18 per class, the quality also being superb. Green Borders were simply marvellous, four classes containing 80 birds. Scotch Fancies were a fine lot, 47 in four classes, the winners being really typical. Novice Borders were well supported, 52 in two classes, with many high-class birds amongst them, the winning birds being a credit to their owners. Lizards, too, were well represented, and the winning clear cap silver was greatly admired.

The Cinnamon section held some fine birds. Mr. Dormer's yellow won special for best Cinn. or Green. Mrs. F. E. Deacon won in the hens with a beauty. The dark-eyed Yorkshires were a fine lot. Mr. Cooper (Bradford) put down a very smart unflighted buff, which won the specials for best Yorks., also the specials for best exhibit in show. Some fine birds were benched in the Cinn. marks. Mr. Morrison's two winning hens were put down in the pink of condition. In the Greens, Mr. Rowlands won in both cock classes with two real good birds. We like his buff very much, and it will take a good bird to beat him. Mr. Handley put down a nice yellow hen which won easily. Mr. Nimmo's buff hen won with something in hand. The novice section came up well in number, but the birds failed a little in quality to what we should like to see them.

The Finest Ever.

There was a remarkably fine entry in the Hyhrid, British and Foreign Classes, some 420 birds facing Mr. Houlton, and a splendid show they made. In the Hybrids were to be seen some very smart birds, notably the clear Linnet-Canary which took special for best in this section. Four birds were passed as being simply Canaries, 3 of them being entered as clear Redpoll-Canary Mules. The judge found a dark Goldfinch-Canary with a peculiar peach-like colour on the blaze and one cheek, the other cheek being quite grey and free from this colour. Mr. Houlton disqualified this bird for alleged colour stain being present. British birds were excellent, and it is safe to say there never was a finer collection in Newcastle. All the finches were well up in condition for the time of the year. The feature in Hardbills was the grand display of Linnets. There was, too, a fine show of Siskins, Redpolls and Twites. Some extraordinary good Softbills were shown, both large and small, and the small class contained more species than there were tickets to give out. Great credit is due to the exhibitors for the manner in which the birds were shown. A splendid Wryneck took special for best British. The foreign birds were the most numerous, varied, and excellent lot ever got together at this show. A most exquisite Yellow-winged Sugar Bird won special for best. The members' classes were very good for quality. The officials were delighted with such a grand entry and such excellent quality in these sections. The judge had a very stiff task indeed.

Special prize winners were:—Challenge bowl best young bird, R. Lowther; Kate Haggie challenge cup, best bird shown by member, W. Marshall; Hiudhaugh's special (£1 1s. for best bird), A. Cooper; best Nor., R. Lowther; best green or cinn., W. Dormer; best Crest, Evins Brothers, "Dusky Queen"; second best, T. Taylor; best Scotch, A. Steel; best Border, A. Gilchrist; best green Border, Thos. Parker; Mr. Gilchrist also took the Border Fancy Club medal for best Border, the novice medal going to Mr. T. Chapman; the Northern Border Club special for best current year bird was secured by Mr. T. Smith. Northern Crest specials went to Mr. T. Taylor for best old Crestbred; Dobson and Son, best young Crest and best young Crestbred. Special best Hybrid, Martin and Archer; best Hardbill, P. Wilcock; Softbill, Mrs. Woodhouse; Foreign, T. Taylor; N.B.B.M. and F.B.C. medal, T. Robson; members' foreign, T. Taylor; novice members, J. J. Storey.

Sales were good, nearly £30 worth of birds changing hands, and the officials were kept pretty busy in this direction. Despite the dismal, wet weather, on the Saturday, the show was well patronised, the attendance in the afternoon being simply splendid, the large hall being packed with visitors from far and near, everybody who is anybody at all in the Fancy being present. There was one alteration in the judges, Mr. J. S. Clarke, who was to have judged the Crest section, being unable to come, and Mr. T. Heath took his place.

The judges were, Messrs. W. Vardy, Norwich; Mr. T. Heath, Crests and C.B.; Mr. W. Mundell, Cinnamon and Yorks.; Mr. J. Robson, Borders, Scotch, and Liz.; and Mr. C. Houlton Mules, British and Foreign. They all had plenty to do, and they did it well.

Mr. W. Vardy's Classes.

HYSON GREEN (Notts.)

Annual open show, held Oct. 14th, Cricket Players' Hotel, Lindsey Street. This is a splendid room for a show, being well lighted from each side, and very warm. The birds were staged in A1 style, and well looked after by a hard-working committee. We were very sorry to see that exhibitors did not support this well-managed show better than they did; several classes had to be cancelled. The committee are such well known fanciers as Messrs. R. Rhodes (president), G. C. Ley, T. Shipstone, E. Quinney (vice-presidents), E. Wolfe, T. Birch, W. Elsey, G. Sharpe, H. Willis, A. Branes, W. H. Raven, G. Hill, A. Birch, G. Deveril, and the able secretary, Mr. W. Cottingham, who had things well carried out. The novice section was well filled, and one or two of the classes contained some fine birds. British and mule classes hardly filled up to expectations, but a fine team was staged by Mr. W. A. Hayter, who carried away nearly all the prizes in the classes in which he competed. The awards were promptly affixed to the cages, as each slip was handed in. An early start was made, and judging was got through early, and the awards appeared to please every one. The judges were Messrs. G. Marshall and A. Cooper.

Rochdale's Gallant Struggle.

A CHANGE OF VENUE.

The 31st Show receives a comparatively low entry, but the financial result may be better.

Times change, men and customs change with them. For thirty-one years has the show of the Rochdale Ornithological Club been held, and only on one occasion previously has it taken place outside the Town Hall. As the Town Hall show it has long been known. That one break was twenty years since, and the event proved the most disastrous in the records of the club. Once more our Rochdale friends have broken away from the Town Hall, and this year's show on October 20 and 21 was held in the Ambulance Drill Hall, in Molesworth Road. It is away from the centre of the town, but only some ten minutes' walk from the station. It is a well lighted building, and in every way is more suitable for the holding of a show than is the Town Hall. Financial reasons have caused the change. Town Hall shows have always been a loss, and last year the loss was nearly £25. These heavy losses have impaired and hindered the work of the club in other directions, and have been a sore tax upon the members, who are one and all working men. This year the schedule was somewhat curtailed, and the entry naturally expected to be less, but we were hardly prepared for the big drop. Two Lancashire classes, two Yorks., one C.B., one Nor., two For., and the one great feature of Rochdale shows, the stuffed specimens, were cancelled, whilst no less than thirty-three classes were "Half prize money only." This means that only fourteen classes out of the fifty-six filled. Two reasons, and good ones, may be advanced for this state of affairs. Birds in the district are very late in moulting, some fanciers not having one fit to show, and the other that the rule referring to late entries was enforced more rigidly than heretofore. Notwithstanding these adverse circumstances the committee feel confident that this year's show will yield a better financial result than those of recent years. Much depended upon Saturday's gate; we hope to hear it was a good one, and that our Rochdale friends will have no cause to regret their removal from the Town Hall.

Splendid Lancashires and Lizards.

If the entries were down the quality was not, and taking the show right through, Rochdale well maintained its reputation as a classic event. In the Lancashires, the lateness of the moult was very apparent, scarcely one of the birds being really fit. Mr. Barrass put down a grand team, and once more proved that the veteran is hard to beat. His winning coppy hen, and tkd. yell. cock were beauties indeed. Messrs. Naden, Fitton, Green, Oldham, Lowe, and Garner, all well-known devotees of the giant of the Fancy, staged some grand birds, as did Messrs. Hordern and Beattie of the younger stock. Lizards as a whole were splendid, and good as they were made the achievement of Mr. J. Dewsnap the more noteworthy. This well-known fancier won five out of the six classes with a magnificent lot of birds, of which we think his winning silver hen was as good as any. We heard one noted Northern judge say she was the best he had ever seen, and she was not alone, for this class was the best in the section. Mr. Hamer took the one solitary first which Mr. Dewsnap missed. Hamer! What a host of recollections concerning Lancashires and Lizards does this name arouse. It is pleasing to see it still in the van.

What a Fall Was There!

Truly may these words of Shakespeare be applied to the Yorkshire section, which was but a shadow of what we have seen at Rochdale. In the years that are past Yorkshire exhibitors were very keen to win at Rochdale. Alas! 'Tis no longer so. The quality of the exhibits was good, but not super-excellent. The unflighted yellow class was the best in numbers and also in quality, some of the smaller classes not being so level in merit. Further, it was the only class in the section which filled. We much admired the winners in this class, and the tkd. buffs, Crests were not at all sensational, just a nice average lot. Norwich Plainheads were decidedly better, and a really grand lot they were, quite as good as usual, and there are usually some toppers shown at Rochdale. Mr. Davies was much the most successful exhibitor, and he well deserved his honours. Some very choice specimens were also staged by Messrs. Marlor, Johnson, Leonard, Howe, Wilson, and Faulkner. Mules were few in numbers, but the quality was there, and the same may be said of the British and Foreign sections.

The birds were very nicely arranged on staging three tiers high—a great improvement on the old style, as they could be readily seen, which they could not be in the Town Hall. Everything was all in order and ready for the judges at 8.30 on Friday morning, and judging was through in good time. All the arrangements were most ably carried out by the committee, and Mr. R. Blincoe, fortified by last year's experience, proved himself a remarkably good secretary, and he spared not himself in any way to promote the success of the show. The Ladies' Committee had a stall in the hall for light refreshments, and a tea-room upstairs, and were as usual indefatigable in their efforts to make money for the R.O.C. Those engaged in the good work were Mesdames Blincoe, Siddle, Naden, Bainford, Ashworth, Cowen, Entwisle, Lawton, Leach, Faulkner, and McKinn.

Mr. C. A. House's Classes.

COPPY BUFF (7): 1, Barrass, great length of body with plenty of substance, large heavy coppy, well centred; 2, Fitton, grand shape, length, and carriage of body, neat, well centred coppy, capital quality, not so stout; 3, Naden, large body, of good length, tremendous body feather, not so large, or so neat in coppy; 4, Garner, capital shape and style, plenty of body feather, loses in size of coppy; vhc, Whitehead; absent, Green, Laycock. TKD. YELL. (10): 1, 4, vhc, Naden, rattling good team, 1st very long stout body, grand feather, broad, massive, well lashed skull, 4th stouter and wider in skull, plenty of feather, not so stylish, and loses in length of body; 2, Garner, splendidly shaped skull, well lashed, plenty of feather, shorter in legs; 3, Hordern, not so massive in skull, nicely lashed, rare length, shape, and carriage of body; hc, Braccgirdle; c, Barrass; wrong class, Braccgirdle, magnificent bird, but grizzled on throat. BUFF (8): 1, vhc, Barrass, splendid substance of skull, great width of neck and back, abundance of feather, capital length of body and good style; 2, Fitton, very long and stylish, nice shaped skull, well lashed, not so stout in neck, lovely quality of feather; 3, hc, Whitehead, splendid length and carriage, good quality of feather, not so massive in head, well lashed; 4, Oldham, stylish, well feathered body, not so much substance of skull; absent, Bracegirdle (2).

TKD. YELL. COPPY (8): 1, hc, Barrass, capital centre, nice length and spread of coppy, long stylish body of nice substance; 2, Green, grand shaped coppy, but not so wide, capital length and carriage of body; 3, c, Butterworth, well formed coppy, stout, but shorter body, good style; 4, Garner, good, stylish, shapely, well feathered body, bit nipped in front of coppy; vhc, Hampshire; wrong class, No. 5, Hordern, presumably a clr., as the tick could not be seen. TKD. BUFF (8): 1, 3, Barrass, 1st a gem, tremendous length and substance of body, and well carried, heavy, massive, well formed coppy, 3rd grand front and spread, not so neat in centre, very heavy feather, but not so well finished; 2, Oldham, capital length and spread of coppy, grand body, length and substance, hardly ready; 4, Whitehead, very wide front, large, shapely body, carries a wealth of feather, coppy all penny; vhc, Beattie; hc, Stansfield; c, Garner. PHD. TKD. YELL. (6): 1, Barrass, a youngster and a real champion, tremendous length and substance of body, rare shape and carriage, and a grandly lashed skull; 2, Green, grand shape and length, large well lashed skull, plenty of feather, not so smart in carriage; 3, Fitton, wonderful legs for a Lancashire, yet curiously enough was rather short in body, splendid skull and grand feather, a bit more length of body and he would be a nonesuch; 4, Collinge, grand length, substance, and carriage of body, plenty of feather, fails in frontal; vhc, Lowe; hc, Whitehead. HEN COPPY (8): 1, local spl., best in show, Barrass, grand length and substance of body, stands well up, large well centred, heavily feathered coppy, a magnificent hen, and not yet at her best; 2, Hordern, capital shape and style, not so massive as leader, but a rare good alround hen; 3, Lowe, great length of body, nice carriage and feather, good shape and spread of coppy, not so massive; 4, Collinge, good shape and style, nicely formed coppy, needs more length of body and feather; vhc, hc, Whitehead; c, Garner. PHD. (7): 1, Barrass, splendid yell., wonderful shape and substance, rare skull and neck, grandly lashed; 2, Hordern, slashing buff, big, massive skull, plenty of lash, capital shape, length and feather; 3, Stansfield, long, shapely bodied yell., well feathered, not so broad in frontal; 4, Beattie, very stout, heavy feathered buff, shorter in body; vhc, hc, c, Entwisle. BRED 1911., COPPY (8): 1, Collinge, tkd. buff, rare shape and substance both of body and coppy, well centred and nicely spread, plenty of feather; 2, Lowe, shorter in body, grand shaped coppy, good carriage and feather; 3, Fitton, hardly so stout, but grand shape and spread of coppy, shorter body; 4, hc, Whitehead, very long raking bodied yell., plenty of feather, but coppy not yet finished; vhc, Ridyard; c, Beattie. PHD. (8): 1, Garner, one of the best skulls we have seen on a yell., great width and lashing, shows the true Lancashire scowling expression, stout body; 2, 4, Beattie, longer body, grand style and feather, well feathered skull, not so well lashed; 4, plenty of body feather, great length and style, not so wide in entrance; 3, Bracegirdle, good scowling buff, plenty of feather, massive and good length, a most promising bird; vhc, Fitton; hc, Butterworth; c, Whitehead. LIZARDS, GOLD (8): 1, 4, Dewsnap, both of rare shape, colour, and spangle, but slightly over-capped; 2, Fitton, better shaped cap, very clear rowing, hardly so good on shoulders and breast; 3, Hamer, wider back, and carries more spangle, but not quite so distinct, rather jagged at finish of cap; vhc, hc, Ollerenshaw; c, Hampshire; No. 7, Hamer, a grandly spangled bird, but cap runs up over right eye, should have been in Broken Caps. SILVER (8): 1, Dewsnap, rather over-capped, but grand black spangling and plenty of it, capital shoulders and breast; 2, Oliver, neater in cap, plenty of spangling, not quite so regular; 3, hc, Ollerenshaw, not so large in body, beautiful colour and frosting, a good old-fashioned silver, well spangled, rather small cap; 4, Hampshire, nice shape and feather, grandly spangled, but rather hard in colour; vhc, c, Hamer; No. 8, Oliver, ticked in front of cap, and could not be let in as a Clear Cap. BROKEN GOLD (8): 1, sp, Dewsnap, wonderful col. and spangle, grand shape and feather, takes Ramsden sp.; 2, Martin, grand shape and carries a wealth of spangling, not so sound in wing coverts; 3, Lawton, another beautiful bird for col., shape, and spangle, some of its flights slightly mooned; 4, Ollerenshaw, very smart, grand col. and spangle, smaller in body; vhc, Barnes; hc, Fitton; c, Hampshire. SILVER (11): 1, Dewsnap, large and shapely, capital col. and frosting, plenty of bold clr. spangling; 2, Hamer, magnificent spangling, bold, clr., distinct and regular, but lacks the silvery frosting of 1st; 3, Lawton, a little gem, rare col., frosting, and shape, very wide back for so small a bird, and it is beautifully worked on back and breast, given a bit more size it would be a stormer; 4, Hampshire, shapely and nice col., carries a lot of spangle, but it is not so well displayed; vhc, Butterworth; hc, c, Martin. HEN, GOLD (14): 1, 2, Hamer, two grand hens, lovely col., capital shape and size, splendid backs, 1st has the best breast and shoulders; 3, 4, hc, Oliver, a good team, 3rd lovely col., nice shape, very showy and smart, lovely back, very clr. and regular, not so good on breast, 4th a lovely broken cap, but a bit grey in flights, lovely back; vhc, Dewsnap; c, Barnes. SILVER (14): 1, 3, Dewsnap, two very smart clr. caps, lovely col. and frosting, capital shape and size, very clr. and regular in spangling, 1st a real gem, 3rd not quite so good on breast and shoulders; 2, Rukin, broken cap, lovely col. and spangle, full of quality, very regular and distinct, well frosted; 4, Butterworth, a lovely hen, full of col., quality, and spangle, but very shy, and would not stand still when handled; vhc, Bosworth; hc, Hamer; c, Martin.

CRESTS (11): 1, 2, Guy, nearly clr. body, and a heavily mkd., well feathered, neat centres, nice droop, 2nd not so heavy in feather; 3, Lomax, capital shape and feather, well centred, runs in left side; 4, hc, Hesketh, big, heavy feathered varieg., not so wide in front, nice droop; vhc, Harrison; c, Maitland. TORQUAY.

The Cage bird section at the show of the Torquay F.F.S. on October 19 was limited to the district, thus the entry was not great. The quality of the exhibits was good, some very nice specimens being staged, especially in the Norwich and Yorkshires. All the arrangements were excellently carried out by the committee, and Mr. A. Walker, the hon. sec., proved himself a most capable, painstaking, and courteous official. Mr. C. A. House judged. C.B. JOHNSTONE, N.B.

Held Oct. 21st, Town Hall; and taking into consideration the fact that other shows were held on same date did fairly well.

BORD., CK.: 1, Campbell, good quality, best of well shown, with a little deeper col., would be hard wing carriage, tight and close as wax; 2, Montgomery, another beauty, close up, just a little unsteady; 3, Hume, good head and carriage, not much behind; 4, 5, Fraser, two good birds. HEN: 1, spl for best Bord., Montgomery, perfect picture, evenly marked, a gem; 2, Briggs, teeming with quality, good carriage; 3, Hume, full of col., A1 condition; 4, 5, Fraser. NOR. CK.: 1, Cowan, mkd. buff, stunner for size, good head and body, trifle faulty in wing carriage; 2, Laidlaw, good all round, not quite finished or might have won; 3, spl, Barr, good stamp of Nor., in fine condition; 4, Maxwell; 5, Godber. HEN: 1, Maxwell, ideal head, good body, tight and compact; 2, Briggs, very taking hen, good body and wings, fails a bit owing to looseness of thigh feathers; 3, Wilson, good typical unfed hird; 4, Godber; 5, Barr. CAN. MULE OR HYB.: 1, Macfarlane, Goldie Bullie, well defined markings, good front and skull and blaze; 2, Cowan, Goldie-Can., nearly even mkd., gem, in perfect condition; 3, Morrison, another good lightly mkd. Goldie-Can., fails only in markings; 4, spl, and confined medal, Pirrie, Greenfinch and Can., hot fed, a clinker; 5, Small. This class created a record for Johnstone for quality. LINNET, ETC.: 1, spl, Small, grand Greenie, lovely col. and condition, easy win; 2, Menzies, Linnet, good col. and lacing; 3, Ralston, Greenfinch, grand hird, fails in col. just a trifle; 4, Cowan; 5, Paterson. BRIT. SOFTBILL: 1, 2, Morrison, 1st Pipit, there is only one word for it—perfect; 2nd, Thrush, distinct in markings, in tip-top condition; 3, 5, spl, Pirrie, nice Fieldfare; 4, Jeffrey. HARDBILL (Linnets and Greenfinches deharred): 1, Morrison, Hawfinch, in lovely condition, good carriage, well shown with a little deeper colour, would be hard to beat; 2, Stevenson, Goldfinch, well huilt, good blaze, fails only in distinctness of markings; 3, spl, Cowan, Yellowhammer, good solid col., very fine in markings, should do well in a Yellowhammer class; 4, Macfarlane; 5, Pirrie.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE O.S.

On Oct. 14, members held the final table show of a series carried on during the season, for points special prizes, and were favoured with a record entry for any table show in the history of the society. The respectable total of 95 birds was received, and these were much admired by many visitors. The genial president of the Oldham C.B.S., Mr. J. Sharples, picked out the winners, and the awards were favourably received.

Another Success in Fifeshire.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM SOCIETY SCORES.

A Record Entry: Over 200 in excess of last year: Best bird selected by spinning a coin.

Following on the successful venture of last week at Lochgelly, the Kelty and Blairadam Society's annual show, held 21st Oct., in the Co-operative Hall, Kelty, went far to prove that the Fifers know how to cater for the wants of the cage bird world. On entering the hall one was at once struck with the imposing array of cups and trophies tastefully displayed on the platform, amongst which we noticed the four cups belonging to the Scottish British Bird and Mule Club, which were down for competition for the first time. In addition to the above the society had the patronage of several of the specialist clubs of Scotland, and no doubt this fact accounted for the record entry of 590 exhibits, being fully 200 in advance of last year. Competition ruled keen in all sections, notably the British, and although the awards in two of the sections came in for a deal of criticism, the large army of fanciers present seemed to enjoy themselves to the utmost.

Scotch Fancies turned out very well, and reached a high standard of perfection. Border Fancies were out in their usual strength, and must have proved a source of trouble to the judge, Mr. Mossie, as in several classes the quality was so equal as to make it very difficult to decide which was the best. The B.F.C.C. medal was again carried off by the Lochgelly winner, a clear buff cock staged by Mr. G. Bennet (Kelso), who also won the cup for most points in Borders. We heard a very heated discussion in this section, a good few fanciers maintaining that some of the best birds had been colour-fed. Mr. Gibb, from Ibrox, had a good following in the Yorkshire section, and we noted with pleasure the increase of popularity of the "Gentleman of the Fancy." Crests and Crest-breds were judged by Mr. Paul (Uphall), and his awards gave general satisfaction. The special for best went to the Dark Crest cock staged by Mr. J. Howie, while the cup for best young bird was awarded to that grand Dark Crested cock bred and exhibited by Mr. Jas. Brown. Norwich Plainheads did not come up to expectations in point of numbers, and unfortunately Mr. Hampton did not seem altogether happy in his choice of the winners, some grumbling being the result. Mules and British turned out well, and Mr. A. W. Watson had a good forenoon's work to get through them all. For once in a while the British section provided the winner of the trophy for best bird in show, and although it had to be finally decided by the spin of a coin, it proved a very popular verdict. The winner, a charming Redstart, staged in perfect order by Mr. E. Taylor, Clasgow, was constantly surrounded by an admiring crowd. Mr. Thos. Bell won the cup for most points over the section.

The society is blessed with a strong committee of enthusiastic fanciers who proved themselves equal to every emergency, being ably led by Mr. Jas. Stenhouse, while the secretarial duties were well attended to by Mr. A. Dickson, to whom nothing came amiss, while this successful show was fittingly brought to a conclusion with an exceedingly prompt dispatch of all exhibits.

Other special winners were: Cup most points in Scotch Fancy section (members), Mr. J. Fotheringham; cup most points Norwich Plainheads (members), Mr. Thos. Wildridge; F. and K.P.C. medal for best cock, Mr. Spence; ditto hen, Mr. Mathieson; S.C.C. medal, Crest or C.B., Mr. J. Veitch; Hyde's, Mr. J. Stenhouse.

ATTERCLIFFE AND DIST. C.B.S.

Second table show for points specials held Oct. 12, headquarters. Mr. Havenhand in chair; and he presided over one of the largest meetings we have had this year, 21 members being present. This society seems to have taken a new lease of life, and the club room was quite full of birds and members, 42 birds being staged. There were classes for Norwich, Yorkshires, and British birds, and it was admitted the best table show ever held by this society. Mr. J. Perry placed the cards, and spoke very highly on the quality of some of the exhibits. He warmly congratulated the members with respect to the Norwich classes. It was very gratifying to him to find 9 birds in one class, and good ones at that. He said he would be pleased to explain and stand by his judgment. The ordinary business was expeditiously got through, and after pulling up the secretary for not having in the minutes that we are having a cottagers' class at our annual show (this was put right), the members examined the exhibits, and everyone seemed perfectly satisfied. MEMBERS' CL., ETC., NOR.: 1, 2, c, Smith; 3, hc, Havenhand; r, vhc, Grainger. MKD., ETC.: 1, 3, Grainger; 2, Smith. NOVICE CL., ETC.: 1, 2, r, Ridler; 3, Blunt. PENTRE.

Pentre C.B.S. show held Billiard Hall, Queen's Hotel, the headquarters of the society, on October 11th. Many of the classes had no entries, and others were poorly filled. Nearly 100 classes are far too many for the district. We feel sure if the society another year have about a third of the classes they will have a larger entry. They are an enthusiastic lot of fanciers and thoroughly deserve success. The room is a capital one for a bird show, being well lighted and quite free from all draughts. Amongst the exhibits were many of the highest merit, and the members' classes contained some excellent specimens. Mr. G. Lingard, the hon. sec., worked like a Trojan, and was most courteous and obliging; and he was well backed up by a capital committee. The show manager, Mr. Haddrell, worked hard, and was a host in himself. Mr. J. H. Payne made the awards.

ADMIRAL DUNCAN O.S. (Nottingham).

Annual Goose Fair show held October 7th. It was the best show we have had for 17 years. The most pleasing feature was the vast improvement in numbers and quality in the Crest and C.B. section. The Norwich were a grand lot throughout, and the Britishers were a treat to look upon. The exhibits of Messrs. W. Raven and T. Hayter were admired by everyone. They were put down in splendid form. Mr. W. Raven won the points spl; Mr. H. Marshall won spl. for best unflighted Norwich with a grand heavy marked buff; Messrs. Adnitt and Driver spl for most points in the Norwich section; Mr. J. Wood spl. in young crests and C.B.'s; Mr. J. Cowpertwait spl for best crest in show; and Messrs. J. Goode and R. Holmes tied for points spl. throughout Crest and C.B. section. The Yorkshire classes did not come up to expectation. Mr. W. Vardy appeared to satisfy all in placing the awards, and we finished up a very successful show and a record gate.

PARKGATE & RAWMARSH C.B.S.

Very successful table show held Sportsman Inn, October 14th. Total entry 21 birds; which speaks well for this young society, it being our first table show for the winter. Some good birds were staged. The Linnet of Mr. J. Woolhouse was a grand one. He also staged a fine Bramble, winning the A.O.S. class with it, but run very close by the second, a grand Thrush, which will be heard of again. The Norwich were a fine lot, the winner being a lovely clear Buff; the second also being a good one. YORKS.: 1, 2, r, Smith; 3, 4, Woolhouse. NOR.: 1, 3, 4, hc, Watson; 2, Woolhouse; vhc, R. Smith. OLDHAM.

Annual show Oldham and Dis. C.B.A., held Oct. 14th, Trades Hall, Bow street. The judge was Mr. Battye (Huddersfield). Entries totalled 135. A number of the members were unable to show on account of their birds not being through the moult. Four nominated birds are chosen from each competitor to compete for the five-guinea cup, winner also taking a gold medal presented by the society. Messrs. Steeple, Wagstaffe, and Fitton tied with 26 each, the former winning the trophy on account of his having the strongest opposition. Section specials were won by Messrs. Hampshire (Liz.), Hordern (Lancs.), Sharples (Nor.), Baxter (Yorks.), Harrison (Crests), Fitton (Selling). Messrs. Fitton (92), Sharples (74), and Hampshire (54) won points specials. The Lancashire exhibitors showed signs of a revival in the giant bird. Mr. Fitton won special for best bird with a buff Plainhead. Lizards were a little below the usual standard., Norwich were again well represented, and Mr. Steeple's unflighted buff took special for best hen.

Practical Handbooks for Bird Lovers.

Brief particulars of some of "Cage Birds" SPECIAL PUBLICATIONS for keepers of birds, with post free prices.

CANARY BREEDING FOR BEGINNERS, 7d.—By Claude St. John. A Practical, up-to-date guide to Canary breeding, designed specially for the use of the beginner. Deals very fully with the choice, sexing, and mating of the birds, feeding for condition, the cages and their fittings, the bird-room, egg-food, nest-building, rearing and moulting the young, colour-feeding, training for show, and all the difficulties likely to confront the breeder.

PARROTS FOR PLEASURE AND PROFIT, 7d.—By C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Orey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills.

SEEDS, FOODS, AND WILD PLANTS FOR CAGE BIRDS, 1/2. — By various leading authors. Full information on the seeds suitable for all cage birds, their food values, uses, etc., with descriptions and illustrations of the wild plants indispensable to the successful keeping of British and other birds.

HOUSE'S CANARY MANUAL, 1/2.—By C. A. House. A thorough, practical guide to the general management and breeding of Canaries, dealing fully with the breeding, etc., of every member of the Canary family, including the Roller (or Singing) Canary. An illustration of each bird, by the master Canary artist, Mr. H. Norman; exhaustive chapters on aviaries and cages, breeding procedure, moulting, exhibiting, diseases, and seeds—a compendium of knowledge.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATEELS, 6d.—By C. P. Arthur. The breeding of Budgerigars and Cockateels is recognised as one of the most profitable and pleasure-giving sides of foreign bird-keeping. This eminent authority gives very full details upon how to keep, feed, breed, tame, and teach them to talk.

FOREIGN BIRDS FOR BEGINNERS, 1/1½.—By W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive Manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign Birds. Replete with useful hints.

BRITISH BIRD MANUAL, 2/3 (cloth bound).—By H. Norman; or may be had in two parts. Part 1: "Hardbills," and Part 2: "Softbills." Either Part, price 1/1, post free. Each part contains a beautiful and life-like coloured plate and numerous illustrations of birds and cages. Up-to-date information on the keeping of British Birds; full of extremely valuable hints.

COLOUR FEEDING OF CANARIES AND OTHER BIRDS, 3½d.—By J. W. Ramsden. Tells you how to mix the colour-food, and how to moult the birds to get the richest possible colour.

THE STOCK BOOK, 7d.—By G. E. Weston. Of our invaluable "Breeding Room Register" a well-known fancier has said:—"It makes bird-breeding easy." No breeder of birds can possibly afford to be without it. It simplifies the operations in the bird-room and makes it possible for everyone, even the veriest novice, to breed his birds as they should be bred. Contains both Pedigree, Breeding, Young Bird, and Show Registers of simple and unique character, in addition to useful account pages, and many invaluable "Hints for Emergencies."

AVIARIES, BIRD-ROOMS, AND CAGES, 2/3 (cloth gilt).—By H. Norman. Contains ten lovely full-page photographic plates. A practical guide which deals thoroughly with the proper Building, Fitting, and Management of Aviaries and Bird-rooms, and the making of Cages.

YORKSHIRE CANARIES, 1/1½.—By H. W. Battye (Past President of the Yorkshire Union). Absolutely the very best Handbook dealing with the Yorkshire and its sub-varieties. Contains complete instructions upon Pairing, Breeding, Moulting, and successful Exhibiting, also how to treat in both health and disease.

NORWICH CANARIES, 1/1.—By C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over.

BIRDS OF THE COUNTRYSIDE, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. A handbook to the wild life of all our familiar British birds; their appearance and habits accurately described. With 12 beautiful coloured plates, and 118 photographic illustrations. A charming gift book.

PETS, AND HOW TO KEEP THEM, 5/4.—By Frank Finn, B.A., F.Z.S. Gives the correct method of housing, feeding, and managing every kind of pet; all sorts of animals are dealt with—monkeys, dogs, cats, lizards, tortoises, also gold and other fancy fish, while there is a large section devoted to birds. Contains many coloured plates and photographs. Another charming gift book.

FANCIERS' PRINTING.—Fanciers requiring business notepaper, postcards, trade envelopes, etc., should write us for a quotation. We are now in a position to supply these at specially low rates combined with first-class work. Artistic memos., with block of any desired bird, and fancier's name, address, and 12 words of description, 250 2/-, 500 2/6. carriage paid.

THE SECRETS OF HYBRID BREEDING REVEALED AND EXPLAINED.—By many notable Mule and Hybrid Breeders. Among the contributors are such well-known breeders as Messrs. R. Colton, W. H. Vale, C. Houlton, C. J. Ward, J. Beswick, G. Lander, T. H. Kinch, T. Smith, etc. This Handbook, which contains 72 pages, 7 inches by 5, is brimful of the most practical information on the highly interesting subject of Hybrid Breeding. Price 1/-, post free 1/2.

CAGE-BIRD HYBRIDS.—Published in 8 Monthly Parts at 6d. each, post free 7d. Complete bound in cloth, 7/6 carriage paid. This great work is written by Charles Houlton, an authority with a reputation extending over 25 years as a leading exhibitor and a leading expert and judge; (associate editors, O. E. Weston and C. A. House). Magnificently illustrated by that great bird artist, H. Norman. There are no less than sixteen coloured and sixteen art plates in this work. Each plate is a perfect study of an individual Hybrid. Every plate shows the correct colour, the correct shape, the present day type and general characteristics of a modern Hybrid. The practical and comprehensive work for which all Hybrid breeders have been waiting.

SELKIRK (N.B.).

23rd annual show held 21st Oct. Taken all over the entry was very fair, especially considering the large number of shows being held in Scotland on this date. Borders were the feature of the show, and classes were keenly contested, Mr. A. Voy winning the medal. Mules and British birds were a shade down in numbers, but some graud birds were staged. Norwich were good, some very fine specimens being shown. The judging was in the capable hands of Mr. H. Bennet (Kelso), and his selections left little to be desired. The show was well arranged. Mr. Robertson, the secretary, had everything in apple-pie order. There was a large number of Border breeders present.

The Critique.

BORD. YELL. CK. (6): 1, Voy, nicely drawn, good front and head, inclined to cross wings at times; 2, Tait, sweet body, not quite so well finished in bloom as winner; 3, 4, Blackhall, two nice birds, leader best in body and carriage; vhc, McKenzie; hc, Smith. HEN (8): 1, vhc, McKenzie, neat one, finely moulded, in good order, well proportioned; 2, Tait, close up, fine style, sharper cut than winner; 3, Jorrie, good style, wee shade narrow on head, but grand feather; 4, Lamb, nicely drawn, good balanced; vhc, McKenzie; hc, Blackie; c, Holt. BUFF CK. (12): 1, Tait, good stamp, fine weight, very neatly drawn, scarcely finished in bloom yet, but wins; 2, McKenzie, sweet shape, on small side, grand head and front, stylish; 3, vhc, Bell, good one, fine front and taper, well balanced all over, takiug bird; 4, Smith, beaten only in feather, good type; hc, Jorrie; c, Stewart. HEN (11): 1, B.F.C.C. medal, Voy, neat hen, fine weight, well rounded in front, good head, nicely drawn, rare action, in fine order; 2, McKenzie, grand trim, falls a wee shade in weight, a gem for finish; 3, Halliday, good style, well tapered; 4, Jorrie, close up, good one; vhc, Smith Bros.; hc, Connochie; c, Philip. SUNBURY.

First annual show at which cage birds were included, held Pretoria Hall, October 18th and 19th. The hall is spacious, light, and free from draughts, and is just the place in which to hold a show. The hon. show manager is Mr. Harry Abbott, whose practical ability and uniform courtesy was recognisable in the smoothness with which everything worked. A feature of the show was that prize money was paid on the first night. Cage birds were, unfortunately, almost a failure, but when it becomes generally knowu how punctual the committee are in the matter of prize money, etc., success should attend their efforts in this section as well as in the others. Mr. G. Gardner judged.

NOR.: 1, 2, Wheeler, both beautifully fed, leader tkd. wing yell., neat head, good wing carriage, level back, well across perch, 2nd buff, fine silky feather, both well staged; 3, Miss D. Jeppeson, varieg. yell., larger, a trifle slack in feather. YORKS.: 1, 2, Wheeler, very sweet yell. leading, one of those smart birds, full of character and "go," up in an instant, 2 also yell., rich col. and quality, very pretty; 3, Miss Burnett, upstanding, lengthy bird, little less lady-like at waist than winner, but good for all that.

LEAMINGTON.

The Royal Leamington Spa F.A. held their 8th annual show in the Royal Assembly Rooms, Bath Street, on October 19th. The show was a mixed one, and we are very sorry to say that our section did not come up to the usual numbers in entries. This may be accounted for to some extent by the fact that Birmingham and Northampton shows were held on the same day. There is nothing more certain than that three shows within such a short distance must cause suffering to some, and Leamington on this occasion suffered. The room in which the show was held was an admirable one for the occasion, and the exhibits were well cared for by the following well-known fanciers: Messrs. G. W. Hassell, G. A. Moss, G. and E. Wildsmith, G. Hall, E. Powell, A. J. Soden, F. W. Maeon, E. Thacker, H. Friend, F. Hopkins, W. Bayliss, A. and C. Bull. The Secretary (Mr. C. Brooks), although young to the work, this being his first venture, had things well in hand and looks like making an ideal secretary. Mr. Treadwell judged. The first four classes in schedule were cancelled.

NOR. HEN (10): 1, Lewin, tick yell., thick-set, good head and neck, nice fitting wings and tail, very even in col.; 2, Brown, large buff, good thick-set bird, fine wing carriage; 3, Hall, unflig. yell., tick eye, nice even col, good wing carriage; vhc, Leng; hc, A. Bull; c, Niblett. AMAT. NOR. (30s.) (12): 1, 2, Brown, leader cl. yell., nice even col., good wing carriage, followed by typical cl. buff, good head and neck, nice short wings and tail; 3, c, Feasey, varieg. buff, good col., crosses wings badly; vhc, Edwards; hc, c, Bull. SELL. (30s.) (11): 1, 2, c, A. Bull; 3, vhc, Hall; hc, c, Leng. (10s.) (11): 1, 3, G. Hall; 2, A. Bull; vhc, Brown; hc, C, Bull; c, Soden. BRIT. HARDBILL (8): 1, 2, hc, Poole, Hawfinch, grand col., nice bib, very steady, well shown, followed by Bullfinch, good col., nice cap, steady; 3, Brown, Goldfinch, hardly up in colour of face, nice nutty brown, good bars; vbc, Mannerings; c, Capeson. SOFTBILL (7): 1, Tyler, Nightingale, nice col., very steady, well shown; 2, A. Bull, Thrush, very steady, a trifle indistinctly marked; 3, c, C. Bull, Magpie, well marked, don't show him in that cage again, Mr. Bull, it would be more suitable for a Bramble; vhc, Miss Sparrow; hc, Chambers; Sandiford's special, A. J. Soden.

KILBARCHAN.

Show held October 14th, just one week before the event of the season—the Glasgow show. This year it was held in the large new school, the most suitable place for a show of the kind. The cage birds were arranged at the end of the main hall, and could be seen with perfect ease, the light being perfect; and not being staged too high the exhibits had a good effect. We cannot pass without special notice a very fine Goldie Bullie Mule, the property of Mr. McFarlane (Paisley), which attracted great attention. The hard-billed class brought out a good entry, and the Goldfinch which carried off the red licket was indeed a rare bird for quality. It was teeming all over, and it was singing gaily when being judged, a thing we don't often see. Borders brought out some good birds. The winner was a real beauty, just like a ball of wax, every feather fitting perfectly. The soft bills were a nice class, a very fine bearded Tit taking the leading place. It was in the pink of condition. The Norwich section contained some good birds, the winner being a nice marked bird, well deserving his red ticket. Scotch Fancies (some of the oldest veterans belong here) had a poor entry, not like in the old days. The arrangements were carried out with perfect order, and the tickets put up quickly, reflecting great credit on the committee, and especially the secretary, Mr. Finnie, who discharged his duties in a very efficient manner. After the judging all sat down to dinner in the large hall, which was tastefully arranged. Mr. A. McMeeking, Glasgow, judged.

The Critique.

SCOT. F.: 1, Clark, fine Buff ck., plenty of feather, good neck and shoulders. NOR.: 1, 3, Barr, 1 large buff wing and eye marked, nice head, fine wing carriage, large bold chest, short wings and tail, well carried; 3rd, very hot col. for a hen, good head and neck, nicely mealed; 2, vhc, Maxwell; 2nd, nice yell., fine feather, good wing carriage, fine head and neck, grand size and shape, pressed hard; vbc, another nice buff, not quite ready yet. BORD. FCY.: 1, Smith, yell., good head, bold eye, well carried wings and tail, grand col., as tight as wax; 2, 3, Fraser; 2nd, buff, beauty for style, wing marked, smart little bird, closely folded wings and tail, splendid col.; 3rd, yell., neat round head, fine hold front, good feather; vhc, Briggs, similar stamp, fine moulded body. HARDBILL: 1, Stevenson, Goldfinch, grand square face, blaze all that could be desired, good bars and buttons, nicely tanned chest, one of the best we have seen for a long time; 2, Morrison, Hawfinch, nice size, splendid col., large, well shaped bib, not a feather out of place; 3, vhc, Pirrie; 3rd, Bramblefinch, very nice bird, rich breast, grand size, good spangling, and thigh marks, beautifully marked head; vhc, Yellowhammer, really good one, beautiful col. and marking, one of the best we have seen; hc, Paterson. SOFTBILL: 1, Morrison, Bearded Tit, a beauty, shown in the pink of condition, well placed; 2, 3, Pirrie; 2nd, Meadow Pipit, looking well, and in the best of form, well shown, pressed winner hard; 3rd, Fieldfare, real good one, splendid exhibit, in the best of form, well staged. BRIT. HEN: 1, McFarland, Bullfinch, fine size, dense, well-polished cap, splendid breast, good back and wing carriage, typical bird; 2, Morrison, Meadow Pipit, a real pet, and in the pink of condition, well shown; 3, Pirrie, Bramble, real good one, bold chest, fine fights, steady as a rock, hard lines here in meeting the old stagers; vhc, Brown, another Bullfinch, good bird; c, Small. MULE OR HYB.: 1, McFarlane, Goldie-Bullie, grand bird, showing both parents well, in the pink of condition, also secured special for best bird in show; 2, Morrison, Goldie-Canary, nice wing and eye marked, good bird, but had to take second place here; 3, hc, Pirrie; 3rd, fine dark Greenie-Canary, good one, beautiful col., well shown; vhc, Small, Greenie-Canary, nicely var; c, Paterson, Can.-Goldie. FOR.: 1, 3, Morrison; 1st, very fine marked Swainson Parrakeet, beautiful bird, grand col., well shown; 3rd, Crimson-crested Cardinals, nice col., good crests, not just ready yet; 2, vhc, Pirrie; 2nd, nice cock Lovebird, good col., and markings.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Another poor entry in the Midlands: What can the matter be?

Burton-on-Trent 5th annual open show held Oct. 21, in the Victoria Hall, adjoining the "White Hart" Hotel. The hall has a good light, is spacious, and void of draughts; it is a very suitable venue for such a show. The entry numbered barely 300, a decided decrease, we are sorry to say, on last year's total. Pride of place must be given the Norwich, which made a capital display, symmetry, quality, and colour being well in evidence. Yorkshires also pleased us, several birds of true characteristics being on view. Special mention might be made of the yell. mkd. hen shown by Mr. L. Dykes. British birds were a fine assortment. Hybrids were good. Mr. A. Somerfield once again took premier honours in the darks, with his wonderful Greenie-Can.; and in the A.O.V. Hyb., Mr. G. Lawrence took the largest plum with his Can.-Bullie, a bird of great merit. The members' novice classes contained one or two really smart exhibits. The society's challenge howl (nest feather and annual show) was spoken for by Mr. H. Hathaway, who staged grand teams to enable him to do the trick. He also gained spl for best shown by a member, with a very fine mkd. buff cock, unflighted; take care of him, Mr. H., he will do you good. Spl for 2nd best went to Mr. W. Elliott (well done, Mr. Secretary). Best Nor. in show, Mr. T. Judd. The best Brit. was a magnificent Bramble owned by Mr. A. C. Brotherhood—truly a knock-out. The committee of management is comprised of the following well-known and practical fanciers: Dr. Docherty (chair), Messrs. H. Hathaway (vice-chair), A. Wood (treasurer), A. Ford, H. Howkins, J. England, W. Mason, C. Ames, J. Oldham, H. Bond, and J. Lee; all did their utmost, and are worthy of being complimented. The secretary is Mr. W. Elliott—the right man in the right place. A more enthusiastic and hard working official it would be certainly hard to find. A word of praise must not by any means be overlooked for Mrs. Elliott, who did capital work, assisting her husband all the time we had the pleasure of being at the show. Mr. J. Robson judged.

CHIRNSIDE.

Fourteenth annual show, held Small Hall, Oct. 14th. The Hall is a nice size, but as the day was dull the light was not of the best. The entry was a record, being 20 in advance of any previous show, and the quality superb. To win here is no child's play, the competition being exceptionally keen. The Secretaries, Messrs. Patterson and Shiell, had everything well in hand, being backed up by a host of willing helpers. Mr. J. Brockie (Earlston) judged.

CL. YELL. BORD. CK. (10): 1, Patterson, little beauty, splendid col., in tip top order; 2, sp, Cormack, shade stronger, fine col., good wing; 3, Davie, much the same col. and quality, better set on legs; 4, Skeldon; vhc, Denholm; hc, Russell; c, Glass. HEN (14): 1, c, Service, good one, lovely taper, nice head, fine back and wing carriage; 2, Cormack, similar built, shade more level in col.; 3, Young, we liked, fine weight, good action, col. and quality; 4, Spence; vhc, Brown; hc, Davie. BUFF CK. (13): 1, Dickinson, good taper, fine style, col. and quality; 2, Service, similar in build, fine action; 3, hc, Patterson, better col., but unsteady; 4, sp, Young; vhc, Russell; c, Skeldon. HEN (9): 1, sp best cl., hc, Patterson, grand one, fine head and neck, well filled back, nice col., quality and finish; 2, c, Denholm, not quite so good in col., fine feather and condition; 3, sp, Brown, another charmer, fine jaunty carriage, style and action; 4, Young; vhc, Russell. YELL. MKD. LOANHEAD.

Loanhead and Dist. held their fifth annual show October 14th, and, taken all over, it was one of the finest exhibitions ever held by the society. The numbers were much in excess of last year's, and the quality was well above the standard, especially the Border Fancy classes, some stormers being staged in every class, and many good ones being left cardless. The yellow green belonging to Messrs. A. and W. Thomson, which was first in its class at Dalkeith, carried off premier honours, winning the society's gold medal and also B.F.C.C. medal. The win was a very popular one, and was well deserved. Scotch Fancies, although not numerous, made up for this in quality, some real good birds being staged. The yellow cock belonging to Mr. J. King, which won special for best Scotch Fancy, although not of great size, was well worthy of the honour. The Norwich section contained some very typical birds, and here Mr. Gardiner gained highest honours, winning the society's gold medal besides having a good share of the spoils that were going. Special for best British bird went to a Goldie belonging to the worthy secretary, Mr. Smart, which was caught in the district and is a bird of big proportions for a Britisher. This society is well favoured in the matter of having a grand lot of worthy patrons who subscribe liberally towards the funds, which is the one thing wanted to make the show a financial success. The society possess in Mr. Alex. Jardine a president of whom any society might be proud. The genial Mr. Smart, who holds the secretarial reins, is an official of the first class, and manages to be always there when wanted. Long may he keep in office. The exhibits were nicely staged around three sides of the hall, and were shown to great advantage. The light was perfect. The judges officiating were: For Scotch Fancies and Norwich, Mr. J. Carson (Easthouses), and for Borders Mr. J. Watson (Selkirk), and their awards pleased everybody. At the close of the show ex-Provost Kerr and his good lady were in attendance, and presented the cups and medals to the successful winners.

EDINBURGH (Southern).

Edinburgh Southern O.S. 20th annual show, held in the Buccleuch Parish Church Halls, Oct. 21st. The entries were above the average, and the quality showed a decided advance on previous years. The strongest class in the Scotch Fancy section was that for yellow hens—18 in number—and a fine level lot they were. Mr. A. Bell's yellow pied hen, which took cup for best Scotch Fancy, although not of great substance, is a bird of good points, and the win was very popular. Mr. A. Thomson secured special for best in the variegated section with his yellow cock. Borders were a nice level lot, some very typical birds being staged. The management was in the hands of two very capable officials, Messrs. C. Drysdale (President) and S. Hewit (Secretary) and they were ably supported by the Vice-President, Mr. J. Baxter, and a good working committee, viz., Messrs. C. Luke, W. Thomson and J. Clark. Mr. W. Rogers (Slateford) judged Scotch Fancies, the remainder being taken by Mr. J. Holmes (Edinburgh) and their awards left no room for criticism.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

HUDDERSFIELD.

Huddersfield O.S. annual open show, held October 21, in the Primitive Methodist School Room, under the rules of the York Union and the patronage of the Y.C.C., the O.N.P.C. and the Y.C.B.B. and M.C. The room is close to the station, and is a very nice one. Entries came up moderately, 136 exhibitors sending 431 birds—an average of 14 per class. Mr. F. J. Sykes (secretary) had charge of affairs, and everything passed off smoothly. Prize-money was paid out during the afternoon. The secretary was assisted by a strong band of fanciers, including Mr. H. W. Battye (president), Mr. R. Rhodes (vice-president), Mr. W. Gledhill (treasurer), Mr. A. Lawford (assistant secretary), Messrs. Sykes, Jackson, Morris, Moss, Cawtheray and Son, Archer, and others as stewards. In the Yorks. section Messrs. W. H. Shackleton and J. Bailey tied for most points, and in the Norwich Mr. Humphries was first and Mr. J. Thomas second. In British, etc., Messrs. Martin and Archer easily secured the gold medal for top score, Messrs. Inman and Lane having a hard race for second place, coming out equal in points. In the novice Yorks. section we had still another tie, Messrs. Cooper and Jebson, while in the novice Norwich, Mr. Simonett had an easy win. Mr. Chippendale's Yellow hen scored another first, and it is the general opinion that, given good condition, it will be impossible to beat it. Messrs. W. A. Cowgill and J. Trengove judged, the former taking all Yorks. and the latter Norwich and British. The birds of Messrs. Brown and Son were absent, they being delivered back to the owner's house about 10.30 on Saturday morning—another blunder of the railway company's, as the birds were sent in the usual course, and were properly labelled.

WELLINGTON (N.Z.).

The 29th annual show of the Wellington P.P. and Canary Society, held June 15, 16 and 17, when it was considered the best yet held by the Society, the Canarics being a special feature. Some 240 odd out of a total of 530 exhibits were Canaries. Mr. T. H. Jones judged the cage birds. In sending us this newspaper report, Mr. W. H. Lindley writes that he did not visit the town himself, but was told that there was a cage of white Canaries exhibited by a lady.

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon.

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained hy us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS.

PERHAPS YOU HAVEN'T

noticed my offer in this column before; I repeat it now. In order to prove to you the supremacy of my goods over all others I invite you to have anything you like on approval from me and a similar article from elsewhere, compare them and test them, and if in your honest opinion mine is not in every way exactly as represented and a better article at lower price than the other, smash or destroy mine in any way you like, and I will refund every penny of your money. You must admit that this is a straightforward offer and one that I could not afford to make unless I was certain that my goods could not be beaten. Clap nets made from genuine thread netting ¾-inch mesh, 3 yards long and 5½ feet deep, 4/- pair; ditto, 4 yards, 5/-, 5 yards 6/-, 6 yards 7/-, 7 yards 8/-, 8 yards 9/-, 9 yards 10/-, 10 yards 11/- per pair. All clap nets consist of two nets to the pair, each net guaranteed of above stated measure, and all fitted up complete with pegs, poles, lines, and latest up-to-date fittings ready for immediate use. Loose thread netting, ¾-inch mesh, as used in above nets, 7 feet deep, 3d. yard, 9 feet deep 4d., 12 feet deep 5d. yard, all post free. Sparrow nets, fitted on 15 feet bamboo poles, 5/6, 17 feet poles 6/-, 19 feet poles 6/6 complete. Special strong netting fitted on Sparrow nets, and all fitted with my latest invention, viz., bronzed elbows. Self-acting spring net traps, 24 inches by 18 inches, 1/- each; ditto, 18 by 14 inches, 9d. each. By far largest and most effective traps on the market, no old-fashioned board arrangements about them. The only trap used by Mr. Jeffrey, England's greatest Nightingale expert. Single trap cages 6d. each, double ditto, 1/- each, treble ditto, 1/3 each, all with separate compartment for call bird in addition to trap as stated. Round or square topped call cages, 4d. each, 3/- dozen. Please note, I am only retailer of this particular brand of Lime, so do not confuse it with any other brand of so-called Japanese Lime. Pure hemp pull lines, guaranted hand spun, free from snarl and strong as boat lines, 68 yards long 1/4 each post free. Lark nets and netting, Stave poles, brace swivels, store cages, drinkers, and everything required by catchers always in stock. Send stamp for full list, which also gives hints on netmaking. Notice following unsolicited testimonials:—"Eaton Road, Brynhyfryd, Sept. 26. Sir,—Netting to hand, and is better value than I expected for the money. Yours, D. Steer." "27, Hartley Road, Luton. Sept. 25. Sir,—Please send following Lime, etc. I feel I must recommend your Bird Lime to my friends as it holds anything. Yours A. Crowe." Bigrigg, Cumberland, Sept. 25th. Sir,—Bird Lime received and I am sure it is best I ever used. Whatever gets on twigs has to stay as there is no getting away. Yours, T. Lowery." "92, Frodingham Road, Scunthorpe, Sept. 24. Sir,—Clap nets arrived safe, and I am perfectly satisfied in every way. Yours, C. Chamberlain." "93, Raine Road, Braintree. Sept. 25th. Sir,— Please send 13 yards netting, last lot I had from you 4 years ago gave every satisfaction. Yours, G. Bates." "Milton, near Repton, Sept. 21. Sir,—Received trap cage, and am quite satisfied. Yours, A. Wood." "15, Derby Road, Ripley, Sept. 19. Sir,—Received clap nets safe and am highly satisfied with them. Yours, S. Kerry." "213, King Street, Brynmawr, Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send following netting. I caught a fine lot of birds with your nets last year. Yours, W. Lewis." "14, Castle Place Scarboro', Sept. 19. Sir,—Please send another pound lime, it gets better every year. I caught over 100 Linnets with last pound. Yours, W. Whitehead." "Newnham St., Ely, Cambs., Sept. 4. Sir,—Please send following. I had a pair clap nets from you last week and am well satisfied with them. Yours, W. Gilbey." Please note, I supply every professional catcher of note throughout England and the Colonies and everyone knows they are men who will have nothing but the best, as their living depends upon their appliances. Everything sent on approval on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor, and money returned in full if not satisfactory in every way. If you want the best and cheapest, patronise the man who really knows what is required for successful catching. No old fishing netting used here. See British bird column for further advt.

are certainly a rarity, but they can be no more rare than a fancier who has not yet heard of "Gore of Birmingham." Still, there may still be a few of them about, and it is for those few that this advertisement is specially written. To my old customers I need never say a word, as I know I am always certain of their custom, as once I can induce a man to give me one trial, I know he will come again. Everything I sell is accurately described without superfluous adjectives, and sent on approval at my risk on receipt of cash or deposit system of this paper, and unless it gives entire satisfaction in every way, only has to be returned, and the whole of your money is promptly and cheerfully refunded. These are my only conditions, and nothing would be more straightforward. I have an enormous stock of genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in perfect health and condition, at 1/6 each, three 4/-, six 6/6, twelve 12/-; specially selected larger cocks, for singing and muling, warranted now in song, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 8/6, twelve 16/-; few extra special real exhibition cocks, with broad skulls, deep, square blazes, well tanned and mooned and superb condition, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Goldfinches, 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-; selected hens, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-; handsome lot cock Bullfinches, in pink of health, 2/- each; exhibition specimens, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each; grand lot cock Siskins, in full colour, 2/- each, three 5/-; specially picked exhibition specimens, real yellows, with full bib, good size and lacings, 3/-, 4/-, and 5/- each; hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-; splendid lot cock brown Linnets, every bird with nut-brown back, and rose-red breast, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked larger cocks for muling or contest singing, and warranted now in song, 1/- each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 6/-; exhibition specimens of correct type and exquisite pencilling, 1/6, 2/-, and 2/6 each. Please note, I send scores of dozens to north-country Linnet singers every week alone, as my birds are known to have correct song for contest singing, and I have frequently published letters saying that my birds have beaten Linnets which cost more pounds than mine did pence. Cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; yellow exhibition specimens, with right quality of feather, 1/-, 1/6, 2/- each; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each; Redpolls, cocks or hens, 6d. each, three 1/3, six 2/-; exhibition specimens, 1/- each; English hand-reared cock Nightingales, in perfect feather and guaranteed in loud free song, 15/- each; hand-reared cock Thrush, full song day and gaolight, 7/6; you will notice by dates on following letters that they were not written in days of Adam, but are quite recent, and, what is more, are unsolicited and genuine. "29, Astor Street, Bramley, Leeds, Oct. 9.—Sir,—Two Goldfinches and four Linnets arrived safe and well packed. Thanks for attention to so small an order.—Yours, J. Pratt." "4, Wellington Terrace, Grimsby, Oct. 7.—Sir,—Birds arrived in splendid condition, and I am very pleased with them.—Yours, J. King." "St. Ives, Ringwood, Oct. 10.—Sir,—Birds to hand; I am very pleased with them, and consider them exceptionally good value.—Yours, W. Child." "Allithwaite, Lancs., Oct. 1.—Sir,—Please send following. I have eight of your Linnets in my birdroom, and all singing grand.—Yours, J. Thompson." "4, Margaret Street, Pentre, Sept. 24.—Sir,—Please send following. The Goldfinch I got from you last year took first and special only time shown.—Yours, T. Nicholas." "King Edward Street, Alexandria, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Goldfinch I had from you last year took second at our show, and I think it will do better this year by a long way.—Yours, T. Liles." "Chapel Fold, Royston, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Bullfinch arrived safe, and am well pleased with him, for he is a gem. The party I got it for says he is best bird in Royston.—Yours, W. Boucher." "School, Llangollen, Oct. 14.—Sir,—Linnet to hand. Am very pleased with it. It has already given evidence of being a good songster. Thanking you very much for the very 'English' way you have treated me.—Yours, J. Jenkins." "104, Wood Street, Grimsby, Oct. 17.—Sir,—Please send exhibition Goldfinch. My friend got one from you last year for muling, and bred 23 youngsters from him. He took 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th last year at our show.—Yours, A. Oliver." "Best's Yard, Front Street, Witton, Gilbert, Sept. 30.—Sir,—Please send two contest Linnets. I have heard your birds sing, and they are good.—Yours, G. Proudlock." "Soldiers' Rest, Annitsford, Oct. 1.—Sir,—Birds arrived all right, everyone fat and healthy, and well on seed. We are highly satisfied, as we have never had such a grand lot of birds from any other dealer. You are the best man to rely upon for sending all cocks—not half hens, as some dealers do. I advise all fanciers to deal with you, for you are a reasonable man to deal with.—Yours, T. Gates." Exhibitors, please note I handle more real English birds than any man alive, and although I do not get hundreds of winners weekly, I get a few, and as I do not exhibit them myself, all are for sale; but please don't expect to get them at my bottom prices. Local fanciers please note that despite the statements of some of the Birmingham "Dr. Cook's," the first prize British Goldfinch, first prize Siberian Goldfinch, and 2nd prize Siberian Bullfinch at recent Birmingham open show were all supplied by me, and cost their owners very few shillings each. If you want birds as good as they are advertised to be, send to me and you will have them. Signed guarantee with every bird that they are well on seed, and do not come under Wild Birds Protection Act. See Appliances and Roller Canary columns for further advts.
